On a number of electric railroads interpole motors have been installed, and these motors have proved to be very reliable and can stand hard usage. As manufactured by one of the large companies, the following features should be noted: sparkless commutation under all loads and voltages in normal service; lubrication by oil and waste with separate gauging oil reservoir, and effective protection and insulation of the armature coils.

An auto car run by the new Edison storage battery was built at the Edison factory, Orange, N. J. The car has a seating capacity for thirty people, weighs only half as much as the average trolley car, is heated by hot water and lighted by electricity. Moreover, it is of the pay-as-you-enter type and is suitable for both suburban and city use.

On April 28, 1911, an international exposition will be opened in St. Petersburg, Russia, devoted largely to the application of electricity to railroad service. On the same day the railroads of Russia will pass under the control of the Imperial Russian Technical Society.

The possibility of laying rails close together in street railway track construction has led to the welding of the joints, making practically a continuous and unbroken rail. The process, patented by the Lorain Steel Company and employed in the reconstruction of the tracks of the Chicago street railways, consisted of three distinct operations: (1) cleaning the metal by a sand blast, (2) welding bars to the rails and (3) grinding the running surface of the rail heads at the joint.

Electric railroad equipment is developing along lines similar to those of steam. Already all steel cars have been ordered (as well as sleepers, parlor and dining cars) by some of the electric railroads operating over a large area. Moreover, there has been considerable discussion on the building of cars with an arched roof.

U. S. Volunteer Life-Saving Corps.

Officers—James R. Howe, President; Ernest H. Luebbers, Jr., Secretary; K. F. Mehrtens, Assistant Secretary; Wm. P. Jackson, Treasurer. W. E. Longfellow, General Superintendent.

The United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps has 2,000 patroled stations and 22,000 enrolled members, all expert swimmers, yachtsmen and boatmen, with about 6,000 boats, from dories to expensive sail, steam, naphtha and gasoline launches. (It has saved in the Greater City, approximately, 268 lives; rendered "First Aid" in 747 cases; assisted 423 people on the water, and assisted 195 boats in distress.)

The corps is well organized in New York State, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and other States as far West as California. It has been giving free instruction in swimming in both male and female departments of all the Public Free Baths of Greater New York—1,700 persons having been taught during the season of 1909, and has built 14 life-saving stations, one dock, and placed 45 lifeboats throughout the Greater City.

The corps furnishes its various crews, free of charge, according to the funds available for the various districts and departments, ring life preservers, metallic life preservers, ice balls, medicine chests, flags, signs, charts and boats, and builds life-saving stations at the most dangerous points. It is supported wholly by voluntary contributions, with the exception of the Departments of Greater New York and Rhode Island, which are aided by appropriations from the cities and States, respectively.

The Department of Greater New York is particularly well organized, and is divided into sixteen commodores' and forty-eight vice-commodores' districts, containing 700 patroled stations, with 7,200 members and 1,200 boats devoted to its life-saving work.

LIFE-SAVING STATIONS IN GREATER NEW YORK.

Officers in command of the Greater New York Districts are as follows:

BOROUGH OF THE BRONX.

BOROUGH OF QUEENS.

District No. 13—Jamaica Bay, east side of trestle to City Line, Rockaway shore excepted. Under command of Vice-Commodore Chas. Renz, Jamaica, L. I.

District No. 14—The Rockaways, from Hammels on the trestle, along shore Jamaica Bay side to Rockaway Point, around Rockaway Point, along ocean side to point opposite Hammels on trestle. Under temporary command of Commodore Charles F. Watkins, 619 Boulevard.

District No. 15—Both shores of Rockaway, east from Hammels to Far Rockaway or City Line, including Arverne, Edgemere, etc. Vice-Commodore W. W. Minnis, 36 Kane Avenue, Hammels, Rockaway.

BOROUGH OF RICHMOND.

District No. 16—Staten Island in its entirety. Commodore, John J. McGuinness.

Important Tunnels of the World.

Alberg—Under the Alps at the Arl Mountain and extends from Langen to St. Anton, 6¾ miles; opened 1884.
Andes Mountains—See "Trans-Andine."
Big Bend—Drains the Feather River in California, 2 miles; opened 1886.
Bitter Root Mountains (Montana and Idaho)—10,100 feet long.
Blackwell—Under River Thames, England, 1½ miles; opened 1897.
Detroit (Michigan Central Ry.)—Under Detroit River.
Gunnison—Southwestern Colorado, 6 miles; opened 1909.
Hoosac—Through Hoosac Mountains, Mass., 4¾ miles; opened 1873.
Khojak Pass—India, from Quetta to Kandahar, 2 miles.
Mont Cenis—Italy to France, under the Col de Frejus, 8 miles; opened 1871.
New Croton—Supplies water to New York City, 33 1-8 miles; opened 1888.
Rothschonberg—Drains the Felberg mines Saxony, 31½ miles; opened 1877.
St. Clair—Under St. Clair River from Sarnia, Ont., to Port Huron, Mich., 2 miles; opened 1891.
St. Gothard—Through the Alps, connects Goschenen with Airolo, in Switzerland, 9 1-3 miles; opened 1881.
Severn—From Monmouthshire to Gloucestershire, England, 4½ miles; opened 1886.
Simplon—Through the Alps, 12½ miles; opened 1905.
Sutro—Drains the Comstock Lode in Nevada, 4½ miles; opened 1879.
Trans-Andine Ry. tunnel—5 miles long, 12,000 feet above sea level and affords direct communication between Valparaiso and Buenos Ayres; opened April 5, 1910.
Wasserfluh—In the Alps, between Bunnaderr and Lichtensteig, Switzerland, 2 miles; opened 1909.
Woodhead—Between Manchester and Sheffield, England, 3 miles.

TUNNELS IN AND ABOUT NEW YORK CITY.

(For Subways in and about New York City, see Index).

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD SYSTEM—Tunnels under Hudson River connecting Weehawken, N. J., with the Pennsylvania Railroad Station at Seventh Ave., between 31st and 33d Sts., New York. Work started April 1, 1904; completed in 1910. Two tubes of cast iron rings, 23 feet outside diameter and 21 feet 2 inches inside diameter; subaqueous portion 6,118 feet long.

Manhattan Cross-Town Tunnels from the Pennsylvania Railroad station, mentioned above, across New York under 32d and 33d Sts. to First Ave. Started July, 1905, completed in 1910. There are two tunnels, each with two tracks. The tunnels are built of concrete with the crown about 60 feet below the surface of the street.

East River Tunnels connect with the Cross-Town Tunnels and extend under the East River to Long Island City. Started September, 1904; completed in 1910. Four separate tubes with rings 23 feet outside diameter, each tube from the Manhattan shaft to the Long Island City shaft, 3,900 feet long.

HUDSON AND MANHATTAN RAILROAD SYSTEM—North tunnels under the Hudson River from Jersey City to Morton St., New York. Started November, 1874; the first in New York, officially opened February 25, 1908. Two single track tubes, with a minimum inside diameter of 15 feet 3 inches, and approximately 5,700 feet long.

Up-town tunnels connect with north tunnels at Morton St. and extend to Christopher St. thence to Sixth Ave. and up Sixth Ave. to 33d St. Started March, 1904, completed in 1910. Section from Morton to 12th Sts. shield construction, remainder cut and cover.

Forty-second Street Subway Extension from 33d St. and 6th Ave. to Grand Central on 42d St. Work will be started in 1911.

South tunnels under Hudson River from Jersey City to the Church St. Terminal Buildings (Cortlandt, Church and Fulton Sts.), New York. Started May, 1905; opened for traffic July, 1909. Two tubes about 5,950 feet long with cast iron rings, 16 feet 7 inches outside diameter and 15 feet 3 inches inside diameter.

Tunnels (consisting of two single track tubes) extend from the Hoboken terminal of the Lackawanna Railroad to Washington St., Jersey City, with connections to the north tunnels and to the Erie Railroad station. At Washington St. a branch runs to the Pennsylvania Railroad station at Jersey City, where connections are made with the south tunnels. West from Washington St. to a point just east of Summit Ave. will be a double track concrete tunnel (now under construction) with a centre wall dividing the tracks. Work started March, 1906; will be completed in 1911.

BELMONT TUNNEL under the East River from 42d St., New York, to Long Island City. Subaqueous portion two single track tubes with cast-iron ring 16 feet 10 inches outside diameter, and a clear inside diameter of 15 feet 6 inches. Through rock and a horseshoe shaped concrete section is used and in other places a rectangular double track cross section with reinforced concrete lining. Construction started by New York and Long Island Railroad, July 12, 1905; practically completed January 1, 1908.

RAPID TRANSIT TUNNEL under the East River from the Battery, New York, to Joralemon St., Brooklyn, connecting the New York and Brooklyn Subways. Started April, 1903; trains running January 9, 1908. Two tubes, 6,784 feet long, with a finished inside diameter of 15 feet 6 inches.

BERGEN CUT of Erie Railroad through Bergen Hill Jersey City, parallel to the present tunnel, which is 4,700 feet long. The Bergen cut was started March, 1906, and completed July 1, 1910. It has five four-track tunnels, with open cuts between the tunnels, making a total length of 4,300 feet. Tunnel sections 58 feet wide at the bottom and 21 feet high.

LACKAWANNA RAILROAD TUNNEL through Bergen Hill, Jersey City. Started February 28, 1906; completed February 14, 1909. Parallel to and 24 feet away from old tunnel and of the same length, viz., 4,283 feet. New tunnel is double tracked, lined with concrete, having inside dimensions 23 feet high by 30 feet wide. Bush track construction used.

Wheat Harvest Calendar.

January—Australia, New Zealand, Chile, Argentine Republic.
February and March—Upper Egypt, India.
April—Lower Egypt, India, Syria, Cyprus, Persia, Asia Minor, Mexico, Cuba.
May—Texas, Algeria, Central Asia, China, Japan, Morocco.
June—California, Oregon, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Kentucky, Kansas, Arkansas, Utah, Colorado, Missouri, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Spain, Portugal, South of France.
July—New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Southern Minnesota, Nebraska, Upper Canada, Roumania, Bulgaria, Austria, Hungary, South of Russia, Germany, Switzerland, South of England.
August—Central and Northern Minnesota, Dakotas, Manitoba, Lower Canada, British Columbia, Belgium, Holland, Great Britain, Denmark, Poland, Central Russia.
September and October—Scotland, Sweden, Norway, North of Russia.
November—Peru, South Africa.
December—Burmah, New South Wales.

Statistics of Manufactures in the United States.

(CENSUS OF 1905.)

THE census of manufactures of 1905, which covered the calendar year 1904 and included continental United States and Alaska, was the first in which the canvass was confined to establishments conducted under what is known as the factory system, thus excluding the neighborhood industries and hand trades. The statistics for these mechanical trades have been a confusing element in the census of manufactures, and their omission confines the data to a presentation of the true manufacturing industries of the country. To secure comparable figures for 1900, which included neighboring industries, hand trades, and educational, eleemosynary, and penal institutions, it was therefore necessary to revise the published reports of the Twelfth Census. In comparing the results of the present census with those of former censuses, the different methods should be considered.

The revision of the published statistics for 1900, necessary for purposes of comparison, involved considerable difficulty. Certain industries, such as custom millinery, custom tailoring, dressmaking, taxidermy, cobbling, carpentering, and custom grist and saw mills were wholly omitted. But the only available information on which to base the elimination of nonfactory establishments for industries, which included factories as well as local establishments, was that contained in the original reports from these establishments, and those reports were not collected with such segregation in view. It was found that some establishments, which in 1900 did little real manufacturing, had in the five years developed into true factories. On the other hand, in certain establishments the strictly manufacturing operations conducted in 1900 had later been discontinued, although the establishments were still in business doing custom or repair work only. The latter class, however, was composed mainly of small establishments, and, except as to the number reported, their inclusion or omission has little effect on the statistics.

Reports were not secured from small establishments in which manufacturing was incidental to mercantile or other business; or from establishments in which the value of the products for the year amounted to less than $500; or from educational, eleemosynary and penal institutions; or from governmental establishments. The census of 1905, however, was not confined to an enumeration of large factories.

General statistics of manufactures later than those of 1905, had not been announced by the Census Office when the ALMANAC was printed.

The statistics for the manufacturing industries of the country under the revised conditions, for the censuses of 1900 and 1905 are summarized in the following table:

For 1910, automobiles and parts of automobiles exported was $11 190 220; paraffin and paraffin wax, $7,886,359; manufactures of tobacco, $4,803,101; manufactures of wool, $2,369,283.

THE SALT INDUSTRY.

The quantity of salt produced in this country in 1908, according to statistics compiled by the United States Geological Survey, amounted to $28.822,062 barrels of 280 pounds valued at $7.553 - 632. Expressed on a tonnage basis these quantities represent an output of 4 035 089 short tons. The average net value of the product in 1908 was 26.2 cents per barrel, or $1 87 per short ton. The States producing the greatest quantity were as follows: Michigan, 10.194,279 barrels; New York, 9 076,743 barrels; Ohio, 3. 427,478 barrels; Kansas, 2,588 814 barrels. In both quantity and value of output the United States stands at the head of the salt-producing countries of the world.

Sugar Production.

Beet sugar production in the United States in 1908-09, by States, in tons of 2,240 pounds: Wisconsin, 16,964; Michigan, 79,597; Colorado, 103,159; Utah, 40,828; Idaho, 23,353; California, 88,347; all others, 31,762. Total, 384,010.

CONSUMPTION OF SUGAR.

Licht's estimate of consumption of sugar of all kinds in various countries in 1908 per capita in pounds was: Germany, 42; Austria, 25; France, 36; Spain, 11; England, 92; Switzerland, 55; United States (W&G), 81; Russia, 20; Netherlands, 41; Denmark, 76; Italy, 8; Belgium, 32; Turkey, 13.

The consumption of sugar in the United States in the calendar year 1908, estimated by Willett & Gray, of New York, was:

Imported (including 453,250 tons Hawaiian, 185,085 Porto Rican, and 45,089 Philippine sugar)	2,284,791
Domestic, manufactured from imported molasses	5,910
Domestic Cane	390,888
Domestic Maple	11,000
Domestic Beet	493,200
Domestic Total	900,998
Total product consumed in the U. S.	3,185,789

or 81.17 pounds per capita.

Tea, Coffee and Cocoa.

(From Report of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor.)

Coffee.—Sources of supply in 1908. Exports from coffee-growing countries in pounds.

Germany	396,205,000	Holland	28,930,000
France	167,552,000	Great Britain and Ireland	28,783,000
Belgium	125,411,000	Canada	6,188,000

Imports of coffee in the United States, year ending June 30, 1910, were: From Brazil, 699,242,000 pounds, value $52,917,023. Other South America, 97,079,110 pounds; value $8,197,841. Central America, 30,051,877 pounds; value $3,032,536. The remainder in smaller quantities from other countries.

Tea.—Sources of supply in 1906: Exports from principal tea-growing countries in pounds.

British India	231,084,617	Japan	35,269,050
China	210,151,467	Java	36,580,230
Ceylon	177,960,962

Figures of total production in each of these countries exceed total exports, except China, about whose consumption there are no available statistics.

Consumption of leading countries in 1904, in pounds.

Great Britain and Ireland	256,660,000	Canada (1903)	23,969,000
Russia	120,829,000	Netherlands	8,778,000
United States	109,623,000	Germany	6,903,000
Australia (1900)	29,266,000	France	2,440,000

The number of pounds of tea consumed per capita was: Great Britain and Ireland, 6.09; United States, 1.34; Russia, 0.95; Australia, 6.93; Canada, 5.60; France, 0.06; Germany, 0.12.

The imports of tea in the United States in the fiscal year 1910 were 85,626,370 pounds, valued at $13,671,946. Of this 38,187,229 pounds were imported from Japan and 28,043,171 pounds from China.

Cocoa.—World's production of cocoa, 1903, in pounds: Ecuador, 46,500,000; San Thomé (Portuguese Africa), 45,000,000; Brazil, 43,000,000; Trinidad, 29,000,000; Venezuela, 25,000,000; Santo Domingo, 15,000,000; Grenada, 13,000,000; all others, 37,500,000. Total production, 260,000,000.

World's consumption of cocoa, 1903, in pounds: United States, 63,000,000; Germany, 43,000,000; France, 41,000,000; Great Britain, 35,000,000; Netherlands, 33,000,000; Spain, 12,500,000; all others, 33,000,000.

The importation of raw cocoa into the United States in the fiscal year 1909 was 108,688,070 pounds, and of chocolate 1,294,300 pounds. There has been an immense increase in the importation of cocoa in the past ten years.

Production of Coal.

AREA OF THE WORLD'S COAL-FIELDS, IN SQUARE MILES.

China and Japan, 200,000; United States, 194,000; India, 35,000; Russia, 27,000; Great Britain, 9,000; Germany, 3,600; France, 1,800; Belgium, Spain, and other countries, 1,400. Total, 471,800.

The coal-fields of China, Japan, Great Britain, Germany, Russia, and India contain apparently 303,000,000,000 tons, which is enough for 450 years at present rate of consumption. If to the above be added the coal-fields in the United States, Canada, and other countries, the supply will be found ample for 1,000 years. Improved machinery has greatly increased the yield per miner, and thus produced a fall in price to the advantage of all industries.

The production of the principal countries in 1907 in metric tons of 2,205 pounds was: United States 430,430,183; United Kingdom, 267,828,276; Germany, (a) 205,542,688; Austria-Hungary, (a) 39,876,511; France, 37,022,556; Belgium, 23,824,499; Russia, 17,800,000; Japan, 12,890,000; Australasia, 10,534,000; India, 10,694,891; Canada, 10,510,961; Spain, (a) 3,250,000; Sweden, 305,308; So. * Production is for calendar year preceding the fiscal year. †Export statistics for the fiscal years ending June 30. ‡ Residuum—tar, pitch, and all other from which the light bodies have been distilled. In 1898 this amounted to 19,973,604 gallons, in 1899 to 30,668,938 gallons, in 1900 to 16,629,186 gallons, in 1901 to 25,696,596 gallons, in 1902 to 20,309,510 gallons, in 1903 to 21,715,720 gallons, in 1904 to 22,580,570 gallons, in 1905 to 48,949,362 gallons, in 1906 to 75,031,824 gallons, in 1907 to 65,228,099 gallons, and in 1908 to 70,581,822 gallons.

Over 262,000,000 barrels (of 42 gallons) of petroleum, according to the office of the Geological Survey, are now produced annually in the world. Of this amount 166,095,335 barrels are produced in the United States, 61,850,734 in Russia, and the remainder is distributed among a dozen countries, Austria producing 8,300,000; Sumatra, Java and Borneo, 8,700,000; Roumania, 8,100,000; Canada, 788,872; Germany, 756,631.

Production of Copper, Tin, and Zinc.

THE production of copper in the world in 1909, stated in metric tons of 2204.6 lbs., was as follows: United States, 501,372; Spain and Portugal, 53,023; Chile, 42,726; Japan, 42,987; Germany, 32,815; Mexico, 57,230; Australasia, 34,952; Africa, 15,185; Canada, 21,626; other localities, 62,400; total of the world, 854,316.

The copper production of the United States in 1909 was distributed as follows (figures are in tons of 2,000 lbs.): Alaska, 2,029; Arizona, 146,021; California, 26,679; Colorado, 5,244; Idaho, 3,885; Michigan, 113,624; Montana, 156,919; New Mexico, 2,567; Utah, 50,219; Wyoming, 1,145; Southern States, 11,419; other States, 1,823; total production, 552,668.

The production of tin in the world in 1909, in long tons, was: England, 5,200; Straits Settlements, 60,551; China, 4,200; Banka and Billiton, 14,214; Australasia, 5,384; Bolivia, 18,121; United States, none; total of the world, 107,670.

The production of zinc in the world in 1909, in metric tons, was as follows: Austria, 12,638; Belgium, 167,100; France, (c) 49,718; Germany, 219,766; Holland, 19,548; Italy, (d); Russia, 7,949; Spain, (c) 6,400; United Kingdom, 59,350; United States, 241,730; total of the world, 784,199.

(c) An approximate separation of the total which is reported for France and Spain. (d) Included in Austria.

The statistics of Production of Coal, Copper, Tin and Zinc, and those of Pig Iron and Steel, which follow, were compiled for THE WORLD ALMANAC by the Engineering and Mining Journal.

The following was the statement of receipts and expenditures by local associations in 1909:

Receipts: Weekly dues, $204,022,656; paid-up stock, $17,933,107; deposits, $47,863,514; loans repaid, $161,403,676; interest, $48,497,657; premium, $3,130,724; fines, $388,439; pass books and initiation, $559,874; borrowed money, $54,073,545; real estate sold, $4,084,795; miscellaneous receipts, $15,703,683; cash on hand, $22,030,682; total, $579,892,352.

Disbursements: Pass book loans, $14,019,702; mortgage loans, $224,349,510; stock withdrawals, $160,055,408; paid-up stock withdrawals, $28,222,220; deposit withdrawals, $42,384,747; expenses, $6,130,049; borrowed money, $36,587,265; interest, $1,473,954; real estate purchased, $3,764,867; miscellaneous, $14,539,585; cash on hand, January 1, 1910, $28,36 ,045; total, $579,892,352.

The officers of the League, elected at the annual meeting of 1910, are as follows: President, James M. McKay, Youngstown, Ohio; First Vice-President, Addison B. Burk, Philadelphia, Pa.; Second Vice-President, S. Wittkowsky, Charlotte, N. C.; Third Vice-President, Charles O'C. Hennessy, New York City; Treasurer, Joseph K. Gamble, Philadelphia, Pa.; Secretary, H. F. Cellarius, Cincinnati, Ohio; Assistant Secretary, W. J. Bayersdorffer, Shreveport, La.

In 1893 there were 240 national building and loan associations in the United States, with total assets of $37,020,366. Since that date this class of associations has greatly decreased in numbers.

a Compiled from Commerce and Finance of the United States The figures are for the years ending August 31. b Includes receipts of Pensacola. c Included in receipts of Mobile d Not shown separately.

One of the most striking features of the statistics presented in the table is the remarkable increase in the net receipts of cotton at the Gulf ports. For instance, the receipts at Galveston and New Orleans have increased steadily and rapidly since 1875, the increase in the combined receipts of these two ports for 1907 over those for 1875 amounting to 4,840,253 bales. This remarkable development is to be attributed to the large increase in cotton growing in the States of Texas and Oklahoma which have transportation connections centring in these ports. It may be noted that the cotton crop of Texas in 1879 was only 805 284 commercial bales, compared with 2 267.293 bales in 1907 and 4 066.472 bales in 1906

Another noteworthy feature of the statistics in the above table is the drift of the cotton trade in certain of the Atlantic ports. Charleston shows 412 931 bales in 1875 and 597.802 bales in 1885 but in 1908 the receipts were only 203,491 bales; on the other hand. Wilmington increased gradually from 76 601 bales in 1875 to 501.483 bales in 1908 The receipts at Norfolk have nearly doubled while those of Savannah have more than doubled during the period covered by the table These conditions have been brought about largely by the trend in the development of the interior transportation facilities and by the establishment of ocean transportation routes.

It may be interesting, in this connection, to observe that the average ocean freight rate from the United States to Liverpool according to statistics published by the Department of Agriculture, is 32 cents per 100 pounds, the average railway rate from the local shipping point to all ports 40 cents, and the average cost of transportation from the farm to the shipping point 16 cents, which gives an estimated total freight charge from the hands of the producer to the cotton merchant in Liverpool, not including terminal charges, of 88 cents for 100 pounds, or $4 40 per 500-pound bale.

Cotton Production in the United States.

THE following are extracts from Census Bulletin 107. issued by the Bureau of the Census, June 15, 1910.

The figures as finally compiled for the crop of 1909, including linters and counting round as half bales, show 10,386,209 running bales, expressed in 500-pound bales, the crop amounted to 10,315,382 bales, which is 3,271,924 bales, or 24.1 per cent. less than the total for 1908. The crop of 1909 is the smallest produced since 1903.

The average production of cotton in the United States for the last five years was 11,935,641 bales, or 1,620,259 bales more than the crop of 1909. Of the total production in 1909, the territory west of the Mississippi River contributed 4,222,048 bales, or 40.9 per cent., while in 1908 it contributed 6,232,128 bales, or 45.9 per cent. The States east of the Mississippi returned 6,093,334 bales, or 59.1 per cent., in 1909, and 7,355,178 bales, or 54.1 per cent., in 1908. During the five-year period, the States west of the Mississippi contributed 45.2 per cent. of the aggregate production, while those east of that river produced 54.8 per cent. The smallest aggregate production by the States east of the Mississippi during the last five years was 6,093,334 bales in 1909, and the largest, 7,355,178 bales in 1908, a variation of 1,261,844 bales; the smallest aggregate production by the States west during this period was 4,222,048 bales in 1909, and the largest, 7,233,210 bales, in 1906, a variation of 3,011,162 bales. These statistics show how much more regular are these Eastern States in the production of cotton.

CONDITIONS AFFECTING THE CROP OF 1909.

The agents of the Census Bureau were requested, at the time of forwarding their final report for this season, to mention any conditions which peculiarly affected the production in 1909. In reciting the causes for the decrease in the crop, 175 agents, in twelve States, mentioned excessive Spring rains; 134, in eleven States, drought and high temperatures in July and August; 73, in five States, boll weevil ravages; 30, in ten States, decrease in acreage; and 13, in six States, insufficient labor.

Among the reasons assigned by the agents for comparatively good crops, especially in the Carolinas and Georgia, the following are characteristic and suggestive: Deep and thorough preparation of the soil, careful seed selection, more and better fertilization, superior cultural methods, favorable weather conditions, and ample labor for cultivating and harvesting. It may be stated in this connection that the Fall and Winter of 1908-1909 were very mild and were accompanied by little rain, especially in the Southwest. The Spring of 1909 was unfavorable for planting, the moisture, especially in Texas, being insufficient to germinate the seed. It was not until about the middle of May that rains fell in sufficient quantities in Texas to permit of general planting. While oil natic conditions were favorable during the Spring and most of the Summer in the South Atlantic States, the weevil had appeared in Texas, and became so numerous in Louisiana and Mississippi that many cotton fields were plowed under and other crops were planted. Later in the year Texas was in great need of moisture, little or no rain having fallen in the months of June and July. The exceedingly high temperatures which prevailed during the critical crop months of August and September did great injury, and a very early killing frost completely cut off the "top crop."

EXPERIMENTS IN GROWING EGYPTIAN COTTON.

The value of the Egyptian cotton annually imported into the United States amounts to more than $14,000,000, and the demand for this cotton is increasing. There are four principal reasons for the extensive use of Egyptian cotton in this country: (1) It is best adapted to mercerizing and other processes that give a high finish to cloth and cause it to resemble silk; (2) its exceptional clearness as well as its capacity for taking dyes fit it for mixing with silk and for filling sateen, India linens, and similar goods having a brilliant surface; (3) the brown color of the Mit Afifi grade of this fibre allows it to be used without dyeing in manufacturing such goods as Balbriggan underwear and lace curtains in which the ecru shade is desired; (4) it can be used for the manufacture of sewing thread and other articles which need to be very strong and for which no other type of cotton but sea-island can be used. Apart from the specific qualities of the fibre, there is another reason given by manufacturers for preferring Egyptian cotton namely, it is freer from trash and short fibres, and hence there is less waste in carding and combing than with either sea-island or American long-staple upland cotton.

For a number of years the United States Department of Agriculture has been endeavoring to establish this species of cotton in this country and thus make the United States independent of the Egyptian supply. Since this type of cotton will continue to produce and ripen fibre until a hard frost occurs it is obvious that the largest yield can be obtained in regions where the Autumn temperatures are highest. It was therefore to be expected that the greatest success in producing cotton from Egyptian seed would be by irrigation in the hot, dry portions of southern Arizona and southeastern California, and this expectation has been fully sustained by the experiments of the department. The valley of the Salt River and of the Colorado River (Yuma Valley) in Arizona and the Imperial Valley in California have been found to be adapted to this culture. While the efforts toward the cultivation of this type of cotton have not proceeded beyond the experimental stage, they indicate that this culture can be conducted profitably in the United States, and it is stated that in 1910 efforts will be made in the valleys mentioned to produce this cotton on a commercial scale.

VALUE OF RECENT CROPS.

The estimated value of the crop of 1909, $812,090,000, compared with $681,230,000 for 1908; $700,960,000 for 1907; $721,650,000 for 1906, and $632,300,000 for 1905. The value of the crop of 1909 was $130,860,000, or 19.2 per cent. more than that of 1908, notwithstanding the fact that the quantity was 3,271,924 bales or 24.1 per cent. less. Measured by its yarn-producing quality and by the financial results to the growers this crop was the most valuable ever produced. It is interesting to observe that the value of the cotton crop of last year was about one-half that of the corn crop of the country in 1909, as estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture, nearly $100,000,000 more than that of the wheat crop, and twice the value of the oat crop. The world's production of gold in 1909 was the greatest ever recorded, amounting in value to about $160,000,000, which is but slightly more than one-half the value of the American cotton crop last year.

COTTON GINNED.

The number of establishments which ginned cotton from the growth of 1909 is 26,669, compared with 27,598 for 1908. The result of the endeavors to consolidate and enlarge the cotton-ginning establishments is illustrated by the fact that the cotton crop of 1905 was ginned in 29,038 establishments, the average quantity per ginnery being 366 running bales, while the crop of 1909 was handled by 26,669 ginneries, the average being 381 bales per ginnery. The average number of bales ginned per active establishment in 1908 was 478.

AREA PLANTED TO COTTON.

According to the Bureau of Statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture, the area planted to cotton in 1909 was 32,292,000 acres, but the bureau estimates that 1,354,000 acres, or 4.2 per cent., were abandoned leaving 30,938,000 acres as the area from which the crop was harvested. There was a reduction of 4.6 per cent. in the area harvested and of 24.1 per cent. in the production in 1909. The average production per acre in 1909 was 155 pounds, compared with 195 pounds in 1908.

Cotton Manufacturing Industry in the United States.

(From Census Bulletin 97.)

THE rapid development of the cotton manufacturing industry in the United States is one of the most remarkable events in the history of the country. As early as 1640 the general court of Massachusetts made an order for the encouragement by bounties of the manufacture of linen, woollen and cotton cloth. In this it was followed about nine months later by the Assembly of Connecticut, which took measures to encourage the importation of cotton wool from the Barbadoes. About the same time a company of Yorkshire men who settled at Rowley, Mass., in 1638, engaged in spinning and weaving cotton, flax and wool, later, in 1643, erecting at that place the first fulling mill in America.

As in Great Britain, however, the manufacture in this country properly dates from the introduction of the Arkwright machinery, which took place in 1790, although as early as 1775 a spinning jenny of 24 threads was put in operation by a joint stock company at Philadelphia. Here in 1782 Samuel Wetherell jr., one of the company, advertised for sale what were probably the first factory made "jeans, fustians, everlastings, &c.," in this country, but up to 1790 no sheetings, shirtings, checks or ginghams had been made here. The warp for the first goods manufactured wholly of cotton was supplied by a water frame cotton mill at Pawtucket, the equipment of which consisted of three carding machines, one drawing and roving machine, and two Arkwright spinning frames of 72 spindles, the latter being the first machine of the kind successfully operated in the United States. The product of this mill, small as it was during the first twenty months, far exceeded the demand of the hand weavers and buyers.

FIRST COTTON SEWING THREAD.

In 1794 the first cotton sewing thread ever made is said to have been spun from sea-island cotton, the cultivation of which was just beginning in the South. The introduction of stocking yarn in America was made about this time by Mr. Samuel Slater. The prices of yarn in Rhode Island at this time are recorded as being 88 cents per pound for No. 12, $1.04 for No. 16 and $1.21 for No. 20. About 1804 cotton machinery, clandestinely obtained from England, was introduced into a large factory previously run as a woollen mill at Byfield, Mass., and for a time was employed upon warp yarn and wicking for household manufactures. A few years later the manufacture of tickings, coarse ginghams, sheetings and similar heavy materials was commenced at this factory, the first, it is said, of that class of goods made in this country. These were all woven on hand looms, as power weaving was not in use at that date. The price of ginghams at that time was 75 cents, and of sheetings 50 cents a yard. It was during this year (1804) that the first consignment for sale of American cotton manufactures was made by Almy & Brown, of Providence, to Elijah Warren, of Philadelphia, who became their agent for selling American yarns and threads in great variety, to which were added as business improved stripes, plaids, checks, denims, tickings, &c. In 1808 a company with a capital of $1,000,000 was incorporated in Maryland to manufacture coarse cotton goods on a large scale, beginning operations at Ellicott's Mills, on the Patapsco River, in 1810.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

In an official report made by the Secretary of the Treasury to Congress in 1810 the number of cotton mills erected up to the close of the previous year, including 25 then building, was given as 87. Of these 62 were in operation and worked 31,000 spindles, requiring a capital of about $100 per spindle, of which $60 was actively employed. The average annual consumption of cotton per spindle was 45 pounds, worth 20 cents per pound, and the product 36 pounds of yarn per spindle worth on an average $1.125 per pound. These mills employed on an average 5 men and 35 women to every 800 spindles. The mills were distributed as follows: Rhode Island, 25, including 7 under construction; Massachusetts, 15, including 5 under construction; Connecticut, 6; Pennsylvania, 4; New York, 6; Maryland, 5; New Hampshire, 6; Kentucky, 6; Vermont, 4; New Jersey, 2; Delaware, 2, and in Maine, Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Ohio, 1 each. Of these 87 mills, all those in Kentucky, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Ohio, 2 in Pennsylvania, and 1 each in Delaware and Maryland, were operated by animal power.

The first census of manufactures taken by the Government was in 1810, when 269 cotton manufacturing establishments, scattered throughout 18 States and Territories and operating about 87,000 spindles, were reported. These factories were small, producing chiefly yarn and from 1,000 to 8,000 yards of cloth each per annum. The greater part of the domestic cotton then consumed was spun and woven in the homes of the people, and the aggregate quantity returned as so made was 16,551,299 yards, an amount estimated to exceed in measurement all the cloth made that year from flax, hemp, wool and silk combined. Cotton duck, which of late years has been so extensively made and consumed in this country and which has entered so largely into our exports of domestic cotton fabrics, was then a new article, having just been introduced by Mr. Seth Bemis, a manufacturer of Watertown, Mass. During the year 1809 a small quantity of this material, made in Boston from sea-island cotton, was sold at 65 cents per yard for No. 1 and 58 cents for No. 2.

PRINTED COTTON GOODS.

It was in 1810 that cotton goods were first printed in this country upon engraved copper rollers. This took place at a bleachery and print works established near Philadelphia, where calico printing from wooden blocks had been carried on since the year 1788, or even earlier. The first cylinder machine, enabling one man and two boys to print daily 10,000 yards of cloth, was imported from England in 1809 and put in operation by water power near Philadelphia. In 1822 the engraving of metallic rollers for calico printers was commenced in Philadelphia, and this led to the building of a number of plants about this time in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey and Maryland. For the successful introduction of the power loom we are indebted to a Boston manufacturing company chartered in February, 1813. This company built a factory of about 1,700 spindles at Waltham, Mass., for the manufacture of cotton products by the aid of the power loom, which was constructed with several improvements upon the basis of the English loom then in use.

In 1840 there were 1,240 mills in the United States with 2,284,631 spindles. In 1880 there were 756 mills with 10,653,435 spindles, while in 1908 there were 1,941 mills with 27,964 387 spindles. The decrease in the number of mills between 1840 and 1880 was due to the concentration of the industry in larger establishments. For instance, in 1840, the average number of spindles per mill was 1,842, in 1880 the number was 14,092, while in 1908 it was 14,407. The number of mills in 1840 and in 1880 includes weaving mills, while in 1908 only mills operating cotton spindles are considered.

WOOL MANUFACTURES.

(From Census Bulletin No. 74.)

The period intervening between the censuses of 1900 and 1905 was an unusually prosperous season for the industries which use wool as chief raw material, namely: Woollen goods, worsted goods, carpets and rugs, other than rag; felt goods, and wool hats. The 1,213 establishments engaged in wool manufacture in 1905 were distributed thus: Woollen goods, 792; worsted goods, 226; carpets and rugs, 139; felt goods, 39, and wool hats, 17. The total capital invested was $370,861,691. There was an increase in every industry except wool hat manufacture, where there was a decrease of 19.7 per cent. The average number of wage-earners in the several industries was 179,976. Materials used in the wool manufacture cost $242,561,096.

The total value of products, $380,934,003, is made up of the output of woollen mills, $142,196,658; of worsted goods factories, $165,745,052; of carpet and rug factories, $61,586,433; of felt goods factories, $8,948,594, and of wool hat factories, $2,457,266.

Massachusetts held first rank in the total value of products of all branches, and in value of worsted goods and woollen goods; Pennsylvania was first in the manufacture of carpets and rugs, and New York led in the manufacture of felt goods and wool hats. The cities of Philadelphia, Pa.; Lawrence, Mass., and Providence, R. I., are still the leading centres of wool manufacture.

In 1905 the worsted manufacture exceeded that of woollen goods in capital, cost of materials, and value of products. An indication of the change of fashion from woollen to worsted goods is the decrease in woollen yarn purchased from 38,903,178 pounds in 1900 to 38,141,488 pounds in 1905, coincident with an increase in worsted yarn from 34,377.736 pounds in 1900 to 43,403,705 in 1905. The quantity of scoured wool consumed in the woollen manufacture was 282,194,618 pounds, and the total quantity of yarns purchased was 203,079,791 pounds, costing $59,904,637. Cotton, either alone or mixed with wool, has largely supplanted wool as the material of a great number of fabrics. There are important increases in the silk yarn used and in the yarn of jute, ramie, and other vegetable fibres.

The principal machinery was 5,968 cards, 1,549 combing machines, 4,021,098 spindles, and 77,985 looms.

The National Meat Inspection Law.

IN the Act making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, approved June 30, 1906 (confirmed by Act of March 4, 1907), appear the following provisions regulating the inspection of meat foods either in the hoof or carcass or in canning and packing establishments:

"For the purpose of preventing the use in interstate or foreign commerce, as hereinafter provided, of meat and meat food products which are unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome or otherwise unfit for human food, the Secretary of Agriculture, at his discretion, may cause to be made, by inspectors appointed for that purpose, an examination and inspection of all cattle, sheep, swine, and goats, before they shall be allowed to enter into any slaughtering, packing, meat-canning, rendering, or similar establishments in which they are to be slaughtered, and the meat and meat food products thereof are to be used in interstate or foreign commerce; and all cattle, swine, sheep, and goats found on such inspection to show symptoms of disease shall be set apart and slaughtered separately from all other cattle, sheep, swine, or goats, and when so slaughtered the carcasses of said cattle, sheep, swine, or goats, shall be subject to a careful examination and inspection, all as provided by the rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture as herein provided for.

"For the purpose hereinbefore set forth the Secretary of Agriculture shall cause to be made by inspectors appointed for that purpose, as hereinafter provided, a post-mortem examination and inspection of the carcasses and parts thereof of all cattle, sheep, swine, and goats to be prepared for human consumption at any slaughtering, meat-canning, salting, packing, rendering, or similar establishment in any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia for transportation or sale as articles of interstate or foreign commerce; and the carcasses and parts thereof of all such animals found to be sound, healthful, wholesome, and fit for human food, shall be marked, stamped, tagged, or labelled as 'inspected and passed;' and said inspectors shall label, mark, stamp, or tag as 'inspected and condemned' all carcasses and parts thereof of animals found to be unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or otherwise unfit for human food; and all carcasses or parts thereof thus inspected and condemned shall be destroyed for food purposes by the said establishment in the presence of an inspector, and the Secretary of Agriculture may remove inspectors from any such establishment which fails to so destroy any such condemned carcass or part thereof, and said inspectors, after said first inspection shall, when they deem it necessary, reinspect said carcasses or parts thereof to determine whether since the first inspection the same have become unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or in any way unfit for human food, and if any carcass or any part thereof shall, upon examination and inspection subsequent to the first examination and inspection, be found to be unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or otherwise unfit for human food, it shall be destroyed for food purposes by the said establishment in the presence of an inspector, and the Secretary of Agriculture may remove inspectors from any establishment which fails to so destroy any such condemned carcass or part thereof.

"The foregoing provisions shall apply to all carcasses or parts of carcasses of cattle, sheep, swine, and goats, or the meat or meat products thereof which may be brought into any slaughtering, meat-canning, salting, packing, rendering, or similar establishment, and such examination and inspection shall be had before the said carcasses or parts thereof shall be allowed to enter into any department wherein the same are to be treated and prepared for meat food products; and the foregoing provisions shall also apply to all such products which, after having been issued from any slaughtering, meat-canning, salting, packing, rendering, or similar establishment, shall be returned to the same or to any similar establishment where such inspection is maintained.

"For the purposes hereinbefore set forth the Secretary of Agriculture shall cause to be made by inspectors appointed for that purpose an examination and inspection of all meat food products prepared for interstate or foreign commerce in any slaughtering, meat-canning, salting, packing, rendering, or similar establishment, and for the purposes of any examination and inspection said inspectors shall have access at all times, by day or night, whether the establishment be operated or not, to every part of said establishment, and said inspectors shall mark, stamp, tag, or label as 'inspected and passed' all such products found to be sound, healthful, and wholesome, and which contain no dyes, chemicals, preservatives, or ingredients which render such meat or meat food products unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or unfit for human food; and said inspectors shall label, mark, stamp, or tag as 'inspected and condemned' all such products found unsound, unhealthful, and unwholesome, or which contain dyes, chemicals, preservatives, or ingredients which render such meat or meat food products unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or unfit for human food, and all such condemned meat food products shall be destroyed for food purposes, as hereinbefore provided, and the Secretary of Agriculture may remove inspectors from any establishment which fails to so destroy such condemned meat food product."

Other sections of the law provide for the sanitary examination of slaughtering, packing, and canning establishments, and the labelling of all such inspected articles of food.

The provisions of this act requiring inspection to be made by the Secretary of Agriculture shall not apply to animals slaughtered by any farmer on the farm and sold and transported as interstate or foreign commerce, nor to retail butchers and retail dealers in meat and meat food products, supplying their customers: Provided, That if any person shall sell or offer for sale or transportation for interstate or foreign commerce any meat or meat food products which are diseased, unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome, or otherwise unfit for human food, knowing that such meat food products are intended for human consumption, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for a period of not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The Prohibition Movement.

(Revised by the Associated Prohibition Press.)

THE temperance and Prohibition movement made substantial progress in every section of the United States during the year 1910. While there were some reverses recorded in scattered cities and districts, and while the Federal reports indicated an increasing consumption of liquor, the last twelve months have witnessed radical strengthening of organization among the forces opposed to the drink traffic, and the year 1910 closes with the liquor question nearer the centre of the political stage and a more vital popular issue in a score of States than for many years past.

On November 8, the question of constitutional Prohibition was decided by a direct vote of the people in Florida, Missouri, Oklahoma and Oregon. These are the first States, except Alabama (November, 1909), to consider the constitutional phase of Prohibition by referendum for twenty years. Indications point to similar battles during the next two years in many other States, including Texas, scheduled to vote in 1911, Arkansas, Iowa, Kentucky, South Carolina, Delaware, New Hampshire, Vermont, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Idaho, Utah and Nebraska.

The liquor question, either in the form of a movement for county Prohibition, or involving election of leading State candidates friendly to some phase of the Prohibition issue, played a leading role and was the strong factor in the Fall campaigns of 1910 in Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Alabama, Texas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Oregon, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

The National Prohibition party with complete tickets in the field and with scores of Congressional nominations embracing its ablest champions, made the most aggressive canvass in many years in thirty leading States East and West, with a certainty of electing a considerable number of its candidates to legislative and other positions, especially in Minnesota, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

The national agitation of the party has been steadily extending during the last twelve months, as a definite preliminary to its next Presidential canvass, which will be launched early in 1911, to continue without interruption to the November election of 1912.

The results of Prohibition in decrease of crime, increase of property values, moral and social benefits to the community, and the general welfare of the people who have experienced it, are recorded in overwhelming masses of data and evidence on file at the Associated Prohibition Press headquarters.

The leading issue of the Prohibitionists in the campaign of 1910 and which will be pressed energetically in 1911, will be a demand for legislation by Congress prohibiting interstate traffic in liquor, the failure to do which has rapidly allowed the liquor traffic to develop an enormous sale of its products in Prohibition territory, and led to serious modification of the law in wide areas nominally considered dry by local enactment. This abuse of loose interstate regulations has been emphasized in its damaging results in Prohibition districts by the continual connivance of unfriendly parties and officials, who have retained political control, although public sentiment has forced the adoption of prohibitory legislation. This situation forms the basis of the Prohibitionists' appeal to the people for political support.

On January 1, 1910, there were nine Prohibition States, including Maine, Kansas, North Dakota, Georgia, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina (in each of which States the new law went into effect on January 1, 1909) and Tennessee (which closed its retail liquor traffic July 1, 1909, and abolished liquor manufacture December 31, 1909). These nine Prohibition States have a total population of 12,393,162 and a total area of 508,807 square miles.

STATE.	January 1, 1910.	January 1, 1911.
Alabama.....	Defeated constitutional Prohibition, November 28, 1909. Statutory Prohibition in effect December 31, 1908.	Strenuous battle on to retain statutory Prohibition. Partial nullification due to unfriendly officials and interstate traffic. Prohibition shows remarkable success despite handicaps.
Arizona.....	New county Prohibition law; bare majority substituted for previous two-thirds requirement. Two Prohibition districts.	Several county Prohibition elections.
Arkansas.....	55 Prohibition counties.	Movement for State Prohibition delayed by political manipulation. Popular sentiment overwhelming.
California.....	300 Prohibition towns.	Some local gains. Sentiment rapidly growing for State Prohibition.
Colorado.....	Nearly 100 Prohibition towns, State local option law.	Some local gains; stricter law enforcement; Prohibition sentiment growing.
Connecticut...	97 Prohibition towns.	Legislature passed several important restrictive measures.
Delaware.....	2 counties out of 3 Prohibition.	Election November, 1910. Rural Newcastle County State Prohibition movement under way.
Dist. Columbia.	New high license law. Sentiment for Prohibition organizing. Stricter enforcement.	Fight for complete Prohibition for district being pressed.
Florida.....	35 Prohibition counties.	Popular vote for constitutional Prohibition, 1910.
Georgia.....	Prohibition partial success despite almost unrestricted interstate traffic. Statutory Prohibition in effect January 1, 1908.	Popular sentiment overwhelmingly behind State Prohibition. Increasing demand for Prohibition of interstate traffic.
Idaho.....	County Prohibition law passed. 2 counties vote dry. Brewery ownership of saloons prohibited.	15 dry counties. Governor and public sentiment strong for State Prohibition.
Illinois.....	36 Prohibition counties; 2,500 Prohibition towns.	Elections April, 1910. Many dry reverses. No-license election in Chicago prevented by liquor forces raising technicalities. Remarkable campaign. 30 Prohibition counties battle for county Prohibition in 1910-11 legislative session.
Indiana.....	70 counties dry. Net Prohibition majority, 67,025. Sentiment for State Prohibition very active; 1,780,839, or 65 % of State population in dry territory. 32 dry cities of 5,000 and over.	Battle to retain county Prohibition changing into a movement for State-wide. Public sentiment very strong.
Iowa.....	74 counties dry. Law enforcement gaining ground.	Campaign for State Prohibition developing great enthusiasm.
Kansas.....	State Prohibition (1880). Better enforcement. Enforcement a success in Kansas City, Kan. Legislature passed in 1909 important additions to State law; sale of alcohol in any form prohibited. Strict enforcement the rule.	Successful enforcement period continues.

STATE.	January 1, 1910.	January 1, 1911.
Kentucky	96 Prohibition counties. 1,546,613, or 66%, of total population in dry territory. State Prohibition campaign launched.	Battle for State Prohibition well under way.
Louisiana	Prohibition sentiment grows. Local Prohibition proves notable success in 33 dry parishes	Conditions similar.
Maine	State Prohibition (1854) continues, although partially nullified by hostile officials and interstate traffic.	Nullifying Republican State administration defeated September, 1910. First time in thirty years. Better enforcement expected.
Maryland	15 Prohibition counties Sunday closing. New high license law for Baltimore.	Strong battle for advanced Prohibition legislation.
Massachusetts	25,000 State majority against license. Definite campaign for State Prohibition. 261 towns dry out of 321, 20 cities dry out of 33. 26,897 State majority against license.	Worcester turns wet. Decreased majority for no license. Growing sentiment for State-wide battle.
Michigan	30 Prohibition counties. Important new restrictive legislation took effect September 1, 1909. State Prohibition campaign on.	40 or 45 dry counties. Sentiment rapidly crystallizing for State-wide Prohibition.
Minnesota	1,600 Prohibition towns. Strict law enforcement. Three party Prohibitionists in legislature.	Same. County option defeated provokes State-wide union of Prohibition forces.
Mississippi	State Prohibition (December 31, 1908).	Enforcement of State-wide law strengthened by growing public sentiment.
Missouri	75 Prohibition counties. Strict Sunday closing.	Constitutional Prohibition amendment vote November, 1910. Campaign stirred whole State.
Montana	1 Prohibition county. Local gains.	Prohibition sentiment growing with notable increase in party vote in some districts.
Nebraska	26 Prohibition counties. Many local gains. State capital, Lincoln, 50,000 voted dry. State Prohibition campaign on. 48 dry county seats.	Few changes. Lincoln, State capital, votes dry second time, increased majority. Results of dry law remarkable.
Nevada	No local Prohibition laws.	State Prohibition of gambling goes into effect; movement against liquor selling develops.
New Hampshire	144 Prohibition towns (1904); 183 Prohibitions towns (1908).	Same. Movement for repeal of license law in active operation.
New Jersey	Sunday closing in most cities. Dry towns.	Hard battle for advanced legislation so far prevented by liquor's political influence at legislature.
New Mexico	No Prohibition territory.	Santa Fé dry. Other smaller towns vote out liquor. State Prohibition referendum expected soon.
New York	300 towns dry. Cities all license by State law.	Battle for county Prohibition in legislature defeated, but kept up.
North Carolina	State Prohibition in effect January 1, 1909.	Success of State Prohibition shown by official statistics.
North Dakota	State Prohibition, State-wide enforcement.	Conditions same. Sentiment back of law overwhelming throughout the State.
Ohio	61 counties dry. Campaigns in largest cities and State-wide Prohibition scheduled for near future. Net Prohibition majority in 70 county contests, 66,132.	Liquor forces roused by defeats. Battle under way to retain county Prohibition. Countermove for State Prohibition expected.
Oklahoma	State Prohibition (1907). Enforcement on State Prohibition.	Liquor forces, by strenuous work, succeeded in resubmission amendment, 1910.
Oregon	County option. 21 dry counties out of 34.	Vote on State-wide Prohibition November, 1910. Vigorous campaign conducted.
Pennsylvania	600 scattered towns dry. County option defeated 1909, but sentiment rapidly growing.	Liquor forces dominate both old-party tickets, 1910 Fall elections. Uprising for county Prohibition throughout State.
Rhode Island	About 20 Prohibition towns. New State enforcement law.	Little change.
South Carolina	37 Prohibition counties out of 42. Sweeping Prohibition victories August 17, 1909. State campaign definitely on.	State-wide Prohibition primary ticket defeated in close vote. Campaign goes on.
South Dakota	13 Prohibition counties.	Few local changes. Sentiment for State Prohibition campaign developing. Referendum for county Prohibition law, November, 1910.
Tennessee	State Prohibition passed January, 1909, effective July 1, 1909. Liquor manufacture prohibited; law effective July 1, 1910.	Prohibition a success in whole State except Memphis, Nashville and Chattanooga, where local liquor influence has been backed and abetted by anti-Prohibition Governor and administration. Public sentiment forced Governor Patterson's declination as candidate to succeed himself.
Texas	154 Prohibition counties. State Prohibition referendum narrowly defeated by legislature only increased agitation. Vote expected within two years.	Political manipulation secures nomination of anti-Prohibitionist for Governor—stirs public indignation. State-wide Prohibition referendum fixed for 1911.
Utah	Many dry towns, some dry counties.	Whole State campaign, 1910, hinges on State Prohibition issue. All parties on record. Victory expected in 1911.
Vermont	138 Prohibition towns out of 240 in 1904. 216 dry towns in 1908.	Few local changes. Demand for resubmission of Prohibition growing.

STATE.	January 1, 1910.	January 1, 1911.
Virginia.....	71 Prohibition counties. State Prohibition delayed through political manipulation.	Demand for State Prohibition strengthens as result of discouraging oscillations in many local no-license campaigns
Washington....	About 75 Prohibition towns. Compromise local Prohibition law passed legislature in 1909. Alaska-Yukon exposition, Seattle, first big dry fair.	Prohibition sentiment dissatisfied with compromise law. Demand for advanced legislation.
West Virginia..	40 out of 54 dry counties. Charleston, State capital, dry since July 1. Only 3 counties wholly wet State campaign on.	Few changes. State campaign goes on
Wisconsin.....	Approximately 750 Prohibition towns.	County Prohibition still unattained, but sentiment rising for the abolition of the liquor traffic throughout the State
Wyoming.....	New law, effective January 1, 1910, puts whole State outside of incorporated towns under Prohibition.	Sentiment gradually growing.

The Defective Classes.

The Insane.—The total number of insane in the United States on June 1, 1890 (Census of the United States), was 106,485, of whom 74,028 were in hospitals In the collection of statistics of the insane in 1903 (Census Special Report issued August, 1906), only the insane in hospitals were considered. These had increased to 150,151 on December 31, 1906. The number of hospitals for the insane had increased in thirteen years from 162 in 1890 to 328 in 1903.

In 1903 the number of insane males in hospitals was 78,523, and insane females 71,628. In proportion to population there were more white than negro insane. None of the insane in hospitals were under twelve years of age. The maximum concentration occurred between ages twenty-five and thirty-five years. Female insane live longer than male insane, and white insane than negro insane.

More than one-fourth, 27.8 per cent. of the hospital insane had been inmates less than one year, less than one-sixteenth per cent. had been in hospitals at least twenty years. 41.6 per cent. had been employed as laborers and servants before becoming inmates. 22.5 per cent. had been occupied in agriculture, transportation and other outdoor pursuits, and 16 per cent. in manufacturing and mechanical industries. Of the 328 hospitals for the insane, 226 were public and 102 private in character. The annual cost of maintenance of insane in public hospitals approximated $21,000,000.

The Feeble-Minded.—The number of feeble-minded in institutions on December 31, 1903, was 14,347. The Census estimate of the number of feeble-minded in the general population is not less than 150,000. Of the feeble-minded in institutions 58 per cent. were under twenty years of age, and 85 per cent. were under thirty years of age. Three-fifths of the inmates were epileptics.

The Deaf and Dumb.—The total number of deaf mutes in the United States on June 1, 1890 (the latest Census returns on the subject), was 40,592—whites, 37,447; negroes, 3,115; others, 30; males, 22,429; females, 18,163; native-born whites, 33,278; foreign-born whites, 4,169.

The number of persons so deaf as to be unable to hear loud conversation on June 1, 1890, was 121,178, of whom 80,611 were able to speak. The latter were 49,278 males, 31,338 females, 77,308 whites, 3,308 negroes.

The Blind.—The total number of blind in the United States on June 1, 1890, was 50,568—whites, 43,351; negroes, 7,060; others, 157; males, 28,080; females, 22,488; native-born whites, 34,205; foreign-born whites, 9,146. The number of blind in one eye only was 93,988.

The number of insane persons in Great Britain and Ireland in 1896, according to Mulhall, was 128,896, or 328 per 100,000 population; Austria (1890), 51,880; Hungary (1890), 28,158. The number of insane in Germany in 1884 was 108,100; France, 93,900; Russia, 80,000.

Suicides.

IN European cities the number of suicides per 100,000 inhabitants is as follows: Paris, 42; Lyons, 29; St. Petersburg, 7; Moscow, 11; Berlin, 36; Vienna, 28; London, 23; Rome, 8; Milan, 6; Madrid, 3; Genoa, 31; Brussels, 15; Amsterdam, 14; Lisbon, 2; Christiania, 25; Stockholm, 27; Constantinople, 12; Geneva, 11; Dresden, 51. Madrid and Lisbon show the lowest, Dresden the highest figure.

The average annual suicide rate in countries of the world per 100,000 persons living is given by Barker as follows: Saxony, 31.1; Denmark, 25.8; Schleswig-Holstein, 24.0; Austria, 21.2; Switzerland, 20.2; France, 15.7; German Empire, 14.3; Hanover, 14.0; Queensland, 13.5; Prussia, 13.3; Victoria, 11.5; New South Wales, 9.3; Bavaria, 9.1; New Zealand, 9.0; South Australia, 8.9; Sweden, 8.1; Norway, 7.5; Belgium, 6.9; England and Wales, 6.9; Tasmania, 5.3; Hungary, 5.2; Scotland, 4.0; Italy, 3.7; Netherlands, 3.6; United States, 3.5; Russia, 2.9; Ireland, 1.7; Spain, 1.4. A later enumeration of suicides in France gives 8,926 as the number in 1900, or 23.6 per cent.

The causes of suicide in European countries are reported as follows: Of 100 suicides: Madness, delirium, 18 per cent.; alcoholism, 11; vice, crime, 19; different diseases, 2; moral sufferings, 6; family matters, 4; poverty, want, 4; loss of intellect, 14; consequence of crimes, 3; unknown reasons, 19.

The number of suicides in the United States in the Census year 1900 was 5,498. The number of suicides in States and cities of the United States which have laws requiring the registration of deaths as reported by Census Bulletin 108 on Mortality Statistics: In 1908 was 8,332 and in 1909 was 8,402. The most common means of suicide in the latter year was: Poison, 2,462; firearms, 2,395; hanging, 1,215; asphyxia, chiefly by illuminating gas, 989; cutting instruments, 536; drowning, 507; jumping from high places, 156; crushing, 84. Undoubtedly many deaths from suicide fail to be reported.

The number of suicides in sixty-five American cities in ten years, 1899 to 1909, inclusive, according to Frederick L. Hoffman statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company of New Jersey, was 29,446; at the rate of 18.5 per 100,000 of population. The ten cities having the highest rate per 100,000 of population were: San Francisco, 51.6; Oakland, Cal., 36.3; Hoboken, N. J., 30.6; St. Louis, 28.3; Denver, 26.4; Newark, N. J., 24.6; Haverhill, Mass. 23.7; Milwaukee, 22.7; Chicago, 21.9; Cincinnati, 21.8; New York (Manhattan and Bronx), 20.9. The number of suicides in New York City in the ten years was 7,119; Chicago, 4,184; Philadelphia, 1,921; San Francisco, 1,847.

Help in Case of Accidents.

Drowning. 1. Loosen clothing, if any. 2. Empty lungs of water by laying body on its stomach, and lifting it by the middle so that the head hangs down. Jerk the body a few times. 3. Pull tongue forward, using handkerchief, or pin with string, if necessary. 4. Imitate motion of respiration by alternately compressing and expanding the lower ribs, about twenty times a minute. Alternately raising and lowering the arms from the sides up above the head will stimulate the action of the lungs. Let it be done gently but persistently. 5. Apply warmth and friction to extremities. 6. By holding tongue forward, closing the nostrils, and pressing the "Adam's apple" back (so as to close entrance to stomach), direct inflation may be tried. Take a deep breath and breathe it forcibly into the mouth of patient, compress the chest to expel the air, and repeat the operation. 7. DON'T GIVE UP! People have been saved after HOURS of patient, vigorous effort. 8. When breathing begins, get patient into a warm bed, give WARM drinks, or spirits in teaspoonfuls, fresh air, and quiet.

Burns and Scalds. Cover with cooking soda and lay wet cloths over it. Whites of eggs and olive oil. Olive oil or linseed oil, plain, or mixed with chalk or whiting. Sweet or olive oil and lime-water.

Lightning. Dash cold water over a person struck.

Sunstroke. Loosen clothing. Get patient into shade and apply ice-cold water to head. Keep head in elevated position.

Mad Dog or Snake Bite. Tie cord tight above wound. Suck the wound and cauterize with caustic or white-hot iron at once, or cut out adjoining parts with a sharp knife. Give stimulants, as whiskey, brandy, etc.

Stings of Venomous Insects, etc. Apply weak ammonia, oil, salt water, or iodine.

Fainting. Place flat on back; allow fresh air, and sprinkle with water. Place head lower than rest of body.

Tests of Death. Hold mirror to mouth. If living, moisture will gather. Push pin into flesh. If dead the hole will remain, if alive it will close up. Place fingers in front of a strong light. If alive, they will appear red; if dead, black or dark. If a person is dead decomposition is almost sure to set in after 72 hours have elapsed. If it does not, then there is room for investigation by the physician. Do not permit burial of dead until some certain indication of death is apparent.

Cinders in the Eye. Roll soft paper up like a lamplighter, and wet the tip to remove, or use a medicine dropper to draw it out. Rub the other eye.

Fire in One's Clothing. Don't run—especially not downstairs or out-of-doors. Roll on carpet, or wrap in woollen rug or blanket. Keep the head down, so as not to inhale flame.

Fire from Kerosene. Don't use water, it will spread the flames. Dirt, sand, or flour is the best extinguisher, or smother with woollen rug, table-cloth, or carpet.

Suffocation from Inhaling Illuminating Gas. Get into the fresh air as soon as possible and lie down. Keep warm. Take ammonia—twenty drops to a tumbler of water, at frequent intervals; also, two to four drops tincture of nux vomica every hour or two for five or six hours.

Antidotes for Poisons.

First. Send for a physician.

Second. INDUCE VOMITING, by tickling throat with feather or finger. Drink hot water or strong mustard and water Swallow sweet oil or whites of eggs.

Acids are antidotes for alkalies, and vice versa.

When the Boat Overturns.

DON'T go out in a pleasure boat without being assured that there are life-saving buoys or cushions aboard sufficient to float all on board in case of an upset or collision. All persons should be seated before leaving shore, and no one should attempt to exchange seats in midstream or to put a foot on the edge or gunwale of the boat to exchange seats. Where the waters become rough from a sudden squall or passing steamers, never rise in the boat, but settle down as close to the bottom as possible, and keep cool until the rocking danger is passed. If overturned, a woman's skirts, if held out by her extended arms, while she uses her feet as if climbing stairs, will often hold her up while a boat may pull out from the shore and save her. A non-swimmer, by drawing his arms up to his side and pushing down with widely extended hands, while stair-climbing or treading water with his feet, may hold himself several minutes, often when a single minute means a life; or throwing out the arms, dog fashion, forward, overhand and pulling in, as if reaching for something—that may bring him in reach of help.

Rules in Case of Fire.

CRAWL on the floor. The clearest air is the lowest in the room. Cover head with woollen wrap, wet if possible. Cut holes for the eyes. Don't get excited.

Ex-Chief Hugh Bonner, of the New York Fire Department, issued the following rules applying to houses, flats, hotels, etc.:

Familiarize yourself with the location of hall windows and natural escapes. Learn the location of exits to roofs of adjoining buildings. Learn the position of all stairways, particularly the top landing and scuttle to the roof. Should you hear cry of "fire," and columns of smoke fill the rooms, above all KEEP COOL. Keep the doors of rooms shut. Open windows from the top. Wet a towel, stuff it in the mouth, breathe through it instead of nose, so as not to inhale smoke. Stand at window and get benefit of outside air. If room fills with smoke keep close to floor and crawl along by the wall to the window.

Do not jump unless the blaze behind is scorching you. Do not even then if the firemen with scaling ladders are coming up the building or are near. Never go to the roof, unless as a last resort and you know there is escape from it to adjoining buildings. In big buildings fire always goes to the top. Do not jump through flame within a building without first covering the head with a blanket or heavy clothing and gauging the distance. Don't get excited; try to recall the means of exit, and if any firemen are in sight DON'T JUMP.

If the doors of each apartment, especially in the lower part of the house, were closed every night before the occupants retired there would not be such a rapid spread of flames.

Statistics of Homicide.

Josiah Strong's "Social Progress" for 1906 gives the following table of homicides and the annual average:

	Tried.	Convicted.		Tried.	Convicted.		Tried.	Convicted.
Italy	3,606	2,805	England	318	151	Hungary	...	625
Austria	689	499	Ireland	129	54	Holland	35	28
France	847	580	Scotland	60	21	Germany	567	476
Belgium	132	101	Spain	1,584	1,085

The average number of murders in the United States annually during the twenty years, from 1885 to 1904, was 6.597. In 1896 the murders reached high-water mark, 10.662, and in 1895 there were 10,500. For 1908 the Census Bureau reported the number of homicides in the registration area of the United States—55.3 per cent. of the total population—as 3.003 and in 1909 as 2.854. In Germany the convictions equalled 95 per cent. and a fraction; in the United States, 1.3 per cent.

In this connection, the nationalities of the homicides in the United States will be of interest. August Drahm gives the following: Native white, 42.94 per cent.; foreign born, 16.50 per cent.; negroes, 37.12 per cent.; Chinese and Japs, 1.28 per cent.; civilized Indians, 1.21 per cent.

Embezzlements.

THE fidelity department of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York keeps a record of embezzlements reported in the United States. The following are the figures for four calendar years

	1906.	1907.	1908.	1909.
Banks and trust companies	$12.835,215	$3.032,001	$5 933.971	$3.840 576
Beneficial associations	365.538	451.831	281.511	404.601
Public service	1.734,720	1.807.763	1.044.741	1.007.028
General business	2.376.298	2.013,048	2 402.982	1 908 051
Insurance companies	141.979	81.540	581.233	1.296 981
Transportation companies	240.866	353.783	544.526	287 466
Court trusts	255.553	327,088	242.608	865.970
Miscellaneous	933.540	1.300,910	534.107	1,041 387
Total	$18,883.709	$9.367,964	$11,565.679	$10.652 060

The total amount of embezzlements reported by the same authority for each year from 1896 to 1909, inclusive, was as follows: 1896, $9,113,030; 1897, $11,154,530; 1898, $9.236.351, 1899 $5,873,086; 1900, $8,090.878; 1901, $7,734 250; 1902, $6.933.516; 1903, $10.312.793; 1904, $10.068,971; 1905, $12,623 536; 1906, $18,883,709; 1907, $9.367,964; 1908, $11 565.679; 1909 $10.652.060; total $141.610,353

THE WORLD of July 31, 1910, said: Amount stolen from banks in past five years, $28.000 000 Banker convicts in Federal Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kan., exceeded every other class of prisoners except burglars and mail robbers. Records show that a majority of embezzlers stole money to gamble in Wall Street. Total thefts of $28,000 000 do not represent complete record of losses, because banks conceal them whenever possible. Temptation to try and repeat performances of the few men who have made quick fortunes in Wall Street is held responsible for increasing embezzlements among bank employés

Mortality Statistics.

THE Census Office published in 1909 a report of Mortality Statistics of States and cities which have laws or ordinances requiring the registration of deaths. It represented a population of 48,776,893 or 55 per cent. of the population of Continental United States. The total number of deaths reported was 732,538, the rate per 1,000 of the population being 15.0. There were eighteen States (California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin) and the District of Columbia, with fifty-four cities in non-registered States, included in the registration area of 1909.

The Census enumeration of 1900 which follows covered the whole United States and is the latest enumeration of that character:

The returns for the whole United States for 1910 had not been completed for announcement by the Census Office when the Almanac went to press.

The largest number of deaths returned for any month in 1909 was 70,093 for March. With the great majority of the registration States and cities it is the month having the largest number of deaths, while June is the month of lowest mortality.

The Census Office announces that with a view to securing uniform and comparable statistics of the causes of death for the world, the International Classification of Causes of Death was prepared in 1900. This classification has been adopted by all of the countries of North America and Australasia, by nearly all of those of South America, by Japan, by France and a number of the other countries of Europe, and by several cities of Austria and Russia. In order to keep abreast of the progress of medical science, it was planned to revise the classification every ten years. The first revision would naturally come in 1910, but in deference to the wishes of the officials of the Census of the United States the International Commission of Revision met in Paris in 1909. This enabled the many countries taking a census in 1910 to prepare mortality statistics that will be in accord with the advanced medical ideas.

The following was the death rate per thousand in various countries in 1900: Austria, 25.4; Belgium, 19.3; Denmark, 16.9; England and Wales, 18.2; France, 21.9; German Empire, 22.1; Hungary, 26.9; Ireland, 19.6; Italy, 23.8; Netherlands, 17.8; Norway, 15.9; Scotland, 18.5; Spain, 28.9; Sweden, 16.8; Switzerland, 19.3; United States (registration area), 17.6. (In 1909, United States, 15.0.)

It is a fact of much interest, as showing the general prevalence in 1909 of extremely favorable conditions for human life, that the death rate of England and Wales for that year was 14.5 per thousand, which was also the lowest on record for that country, while the rate of 14 for the city of London was even lower and demonstrates the fallacy of the belief that high death rates are necessarily found in large cities.

DEATH RATE OF LARGE CITIES.

(From Census Office Bulletins, 1910.)

Consumption—While the total number, 81,720, of deaths from tuberculosis in 1909 was greater than for any preceding year and exceeded by 3,431 the number, 78,289, compiled for 1908, the death rate in the Census Bureau's death registration States and cities, showed a decline from 173.9 in 1908 to 167.5 per 100,000 estimated population in 1909. The 1909 rate is the lowest on record for the census registration area, although it should be remembered that the rates for this area, to which large additions were made in 1906, 1908 and 1909, may not be strictly comparable throughout the period covered with respect to constitution of population. The addition of the new registration State of Ohio for 1909, for example, by bringing in a considerable rural population with a normally low death rate from tuberculosis, would tend to depress the death rate from this cause for the registration area as a whole. Excluding Ohio, which is shown only for 1909, 11 of the 17 registration States for which data are given presented numerical decreases in deaths from tuberculosis for 1909 as compared with 1908, the largest being for New York (415) and Rhode Island (107). Deaths from tuberculosis increased in Washington (91) and California (78) among the 6 States showing more deaths from this cause. Among the larger cities the chief fluctuations were increases of 85 for St. Louis, Mo., 61 for Minneapolis, Minn., 58 for Toledo, Ohio, and 56 for New Haven, Ct.; significant from their small amount; while decreases of 222 occurred for New York City, 194 for Philadelphia, Pa., and 149 for New Orleans, La.

Cancer—Cancer showed a much greater proportional increase in the number of deaths than tuberculosis, rising from 33,485 for 1908 to 37,562 for 1909. The death rate increased from 74.3 to 77, the latter being the highest crude death rate from cancer thus far recorded for the registration area of the United States. The uniform tendency to increase in the number of deaths reported from cancer is shown in the totals reported for the registration States and cities for 1908 and 1909. All the 17 States for which data are given for the two years showed more deaths from this cause in the latter year, except Maryland and South Dakota, for which slightly diminished numbers were returned. Of the 36 large cities only 5 showed more deaths from cancer in 1908 than in 1909, and the amounts of decrease were very small in each case. The numerical increase in the deaths registered from cancer was not large for any particular State or city, but the most impressive feature is the widespread increase shared by all States and cities with but few exceptions.

Typhoid Fever—The total number of deaths caused by typhoid fever in the registration area for the year 1909 was 10,722, a reduction of 653 from the number, 11,375, recorded for the somewhat smaller registration area of 1908. The death rate fell from 25.3 to 22 per 100,000 estimated population, these rates being based on the populations as estimated upon the average annual increase between the last two censuses. The typhoid fever death rate for 1908 was the lowest recorded since the series of census annual reports was instituted, and the rate for 1909 shows a marked reduction from that of the previous year. It is nearly one-third less than the rate shown for the five-year period 1901-1905 (32.2), although still more than twice as large as that of England and Wales. The success already obtained in its reduction should encourage further progress in this direction until residence and travel in this country shall be as safe in this respect as in the best regulated countries of Europe, where the disease is becoming practically negligible as a menace to public health.

Homicides—The total number of deaths from homicide, as reported for 1909, was 2,854, a decrease of 149 from the number compiled for 1908. Not all deaths from homicide are specified, so that the total number that actually occurred would be in excess of that compiled. The increase in the death rate, 5.9, from this cause for 1909 over the annual average rate, 2.9, for the five-year period 1901-1905 is probably due largely to greater precision in the returns in this respect.

Accidental Deaths—Among the causes of accidental deaths, in the order of numerical importance for the year 1909, were the following: Railroad accidents and injuries, 6,659; drowning, 4,558; burns and scalds, 3,992; injuries at birth, hereafter to be classified under diseases of early infancy, 3,508; injuries by horses and vehicles, 2,152, not including injuries by street cars, 1,723, and automobile accidents and injuries, 632; injuries in mines and quarries, 1,997; inhalation of poisonous gases, including conflagration, 1,837; other accidental poisoning, 1,779; accidental gunshot wounds, 944; heat and sunstroke, 816; cold and freezing, 251; lightning, 150.

Infantile Paralysis—It is reported that, of the 569 deaths from infantile paralysis, 552 were of white and only 17 of colored persons. There was a somewhat greater incidence of disease among males and an increased mortality in August, September and October. The bulletin states that no statistical segregation of infantile paralysis as a cause of death has been made heretofore, but the increasing importance of the disease and its wide prevalence throughout the country in the form of local epidemics render a statement of the mortality important. Numerous outbreaks have occurred in this country, the most important of which were those in Vermont in 1894, and in New York and Connecticut in 1907. The 569 deaths compiled for the registration area for 1909 were widely distributed, and indicate endemic or epidemic prevalence in many parts of the country.

Pneumonia—Pneumonia, in the aggregate, caused more deaths than other diseases, except tuberculosis. The number increased from 61,259, or 136 per 100 000 population in 1908, to 70,033, or 143.6 per 100,000 population in 1909, the latter number being only 7 less than the number, 70,040, from tuberculosis of the lungs. The rates for both years were lower than for any previous year of the decade.

The returns for Great Britain and Ireland, same year, were: Born alive, 1,151 378; deaths under one year, 132,722; per cent., 10.8. The total number of deaths of infants under one year of age in the registration area of the United States in 1909 was 140,057.

Fourth of July Accidents.

THE Journal of the American Medical Association has kept a record of the accidents in the United States, due annually to the celebration of Independence Day, in the past eight years. The following are the figures:

Year.	Killed.	Injured.	Total.	Year.	Killed.	Injured.	Total.
1903	466	3.393	3,859	1908	163	5 460	5 623
1904	183	3.986	4,169	1909	215	5.307	5 522
1905	182	4,994	5,176	1910	131	2.923	3.054
1906	158	5.308	5,466
1907	164	4,249	4,413	Total, 8 years	1.662	35.620	37,282

The grand total for the eight years showed that, since 1903, 37,282 persons were injured as a result of Fourth of July celebrations, of which 1,662 died, 694 as the direct result of injuries and 968 from tetanus following injuries. One hundred and twenty-two persons lost their sight, 551 lost the use of one eye, 432 lost arms, legs and hands, and 1,541 were crippled by the loss of fingers.

The detailed figures for 1910 showed 72 cases of lockjaw, 67 of which were fatal; 7 persons lost their sight, 33 lost one eye, 26 lost legs, arms or hands, and 114 lost their fingers. Blank cartridges were responsible for 386 of these accidents, and firecrackers for 1,050; cannon for 212, firearms for 229, and powder and fireworks for 976. Of the 72 tetanus cases, blank cartridges were responsible for 64; all other causes 8. The report showed that as a cause of tetanus blank cartridges were responsible in 1910 for eight times as many cases as all other causes, while the death rate from tetanus was 93 per cent; 43 of the 131 deaths and 1,455 of the 2,923 injuries occurred in cities of over 50,000.

The decrease from 466 deaths in 1903 to 131 in 1910 was due to more intelligent methods of celebration, the most marked decrease taking place in States where the agitation for restrictive measures was strongest.

Benefactions of 1910.

THE benefactions for the year 1910 reached the sum of about $125,000,000, falling below the year 1909, when the total was about $175,000,000. The American people have not grown any less generous, the discrepancy being partially explained by the fact that the late John Stewart Kennedy bequeathed $30,000,000 in 1909 to various Presbyterian and general charities, and which was included in benefactions of 1909.

The leader in the year's bequests was Isaac C. Wyman, of Salem, Mass. Mr. Wyman's great fortune ($10,000,000) was left to Princeton University, from which institution he was graduated in 1848. The gift is to be used as the trustees direct, "to maintain, develop or assist in any way that will increase the power and usefulness of the university." This sum places Princeton near the front of American universities in point of wealth. Columbia lays claim to $26,700,000, while Harvard, with its centuries of givers, has $22,000,000. Girard College, Leland Stanford, Jr., and the University of Chicago (beneficiaries of individuals) have $23,800,000, $18,000,000 and $15,000,000. Yale, Cornell and Pennsylvania fall behind with $10,500,000, $8,800,000 and $5,300,000, respectively.

The United States Steel Corporation dedicated $8,000,000 for a fund with which to pension superannuated and disabled employés. This fund has been consolidated with the $4,000,000 fund created by Andrew Carnegie after he sold out his holdings in the Carnegie Steel Company to the United States Steel Corporation. The new fund, therefore, will be $12,000,000 and will be known as "The United States Steel and Carnegie Pension Fund."

John D. Rockefeller's published donations for the past year amount to $5,332,000, the $3,820,000 gift for the endowment of the Rockefeller Hospital for Medical Research in New York City being the principal one. Mr. Rockefeller contributed $540,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association's World-wide Expansion Movement; $500,000 to the Harriman Hudson River Park; $162,000 to Dr. Aked's Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York City; $125,000 to the William Jewell College, at Liberty, Missouri; $100,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association Building, Cleveland, Ohio; $50,000 for the Blue Ridge reservation, near Asheville, North Carolina, for a national playground, and $35,000 for the Young Men's Christian Association Building, at Tarrytown, N. Y.

Andrew Carnegie followed Mr. Rockefeller in the size of his contributions to the public welfare, $4,016,000 being the amount contributed. Mr. Carnegie's largest gift was $3,000,000, this sum to be distributed among ten cities, including Pittsburgh, Pa., for the benefit of their public school teachers. The University of Virginia received $500,000; Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., $100,000; Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio, $50,000; Pomona College, California, $50,000; Cornell University $50,000 for a laboratory; $50,000 for the University of the South; $50,000 for the University of South Dakota library building; $40,000 to Wells College for the Frances Cleveland Library (in honor of Mrs. Grover Cleveland); $30,000 to Elmira College; $25,000 to Charles City College, Charles City, Iowa; $21,000 to Washington and Tusculum College, East Tennessee; $20,000 to Piedmont College; $10,000 to the Pittsburgh Endowment Fund for Teachers; $5,000 to the New York Zoological Society, and $5,000 to the King Edward Peace Propaganda Fund.

David Ranken, Jr., of St. Louis, Missouri, in order that he may die poor has given up his fortune of $3,000,000 to the support of the Ranken, Jr., School of Mechanical Trades. Mr. Ranken is the most modest of our millionaires. Few people even in St. Louis know him personally, for he avoids publicity and shrinks from the limelight. He is a bachelor, seventy-five years old and a native of Ireland. He amassed his fortune in real estate and stock deals and makes his home unpretentiously over a grocery store.

John Pierpont Morgan is credited with giving $2,300,000 to various institutions: $1,500,000 to the Harriman Palisades Park; $250,000 to the memorial building presented to the city of Hartford, Ct., as a tribute to Mr. Morgan's father, Junius Spencer Morgan; $100,000 to the Protestant Episcopal Church Unity Fund; $100,000 to Trinity College, Hartford, Ct., for an endowment fund; $100,000 to Yale University for the establishment of a department to be known as the William M. Laffan Professorship of Assyriology and Babylonian literature, in the memory of the late William M. Laffan, publisher of the New York Sun; a collection of Indian costumes, weapons and utensils valued at $80,000 to the Museum of Natural History, New York City; $50,000 to the University of the South and the balance distributed among the following: French flood sufferers, Tuberculosis Hospital at Aix-les-bains, France; a chapel for the Church of St. George, Stuyvesant Square, New York City; New York Zoological Society, etc., etc.

An anonymous New Yorker has contributed $2,000,000 to the "Economic and General Foundation," which bequest met with much opposition and ridicule in the State Legislature, although the bill incorporating it, known as the Cobb-Ward bill, was finally passed. The millionaire sponsor of the bill gives his fortune as $5,000,000, and having but one son to inherit, thinks the amount too large, so took this method of applying half of his wealth for general State charities. The object of the corporation is "to receive and maintain a fund or funds and to apply the principal and income thereof to economic, altruistic, artistic, scientific and educational purposes."

By the will of Thomas Murdock, president of Reid, Murdock & Company, wholesale grocers of Chicago, Ill. (died December 25, 1909), an estate of $2,500,000 is left to the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago, American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia, and the Young Men's Christian Association of Chicago.

Charles Francis Wright, of Brookline, Mass., who died December 27, 1909, left the bulk of his estate of $2,100,000 to be divided between the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children of Boston and the Free Hospital for Women of Brookline. Mr. Wright also left a fund of $70,000 for the care of his horses and dogs and $25,000 to his household servants.

Mrs. Amander W. Reid, of Portland, Ore., donated $2,000,000 for the establishment of a college in Portland, to be known as the Reid Institute.

A $2,000,000 home for Friendless Children in Chicago is provided for in the will of Henry Curtiss Elliott, a mine owner, who was killed by a snow slide in Alaska, January 4, 1910.

Thomas Forsythe, of Boston, Mass., departed somewhat from established custom in stipulating that his gift of $2,000,000 should be used for the care of the teeth of Boston's children. This amount is to be used to maintain and equip the "Forsythe Dental Infirmary," to be built on Hemenway Street, Boston. Under the terms of Mr. Forsythe's generosity, every child in the city from birth up to sixteen years of age will receive free dental service.

The will of Henry Dexter, of New York City, who died July 11, 1910, disposed of $1,500,000 to various institutions. Among them the Salvation Army of the United States, which receives, after the death of Clarissa Treadwell Dexter, $250,000; the Midnight Mission at No. 289 Fourth Avenue receives $200,000; the Young Men's Christian Association, West Fifty-seventh Street, $100,000; the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, $100,000; the American Bible Society, $150,000; and the remainder of estate to be distributed among a score of New York City churches and charities.

Mrs. Mary Hunt Loomis, prominent in Chicago for half a century, left by will her estate of $1,250,000 to the Loomis Institute of Windsor, Ct., which was founded by the family of Mrs. Loomis's husband.

Mrs. Russell Sage is a close follower of Mr. Morgan in the monetary value of her gifts for the year just ended, her total reaching $1,170,209. Of this amount, Mrs. Sage's donation to Yale is the most memorable. Its amount is $650,000, and the purpose to which it is to be applied is the purchase of the Hillhouse property on Prospect Street, New Haven, Ct. The gift is the second largest ever made to Yale, the only one exceeding it being the $1,000,000 donation of John D. Rockefeller three years ago. In Mrs. Sage's trip through the Southern States to the Pacific Coast last Winter, she contributed $200,000 to hospitals and other institutions. Princeton received $150,000 to enlarge a dormitory previously given by Mrs. Sage; the Palisades Park (given by Mrs. Harriman) received $50,000; the National Association of Audubon Societies $2,700; to the Pascal Institute School of Domestic Art and Sciences, New York City, $15,500, and women suffrage $2,000.

Mrs. Mary W. Harriman, widow of Edward H. Harriman, is a new comer in the field of public philanthropy. Her first gift is a truly splendid one. By it 10,000 acres of beautiful mountain and woodland is secured to the people for a wonderful park. In addition to the land, the value of which is not given in figures, Mrs. Harriman gave $1,000,000 to purchase additional property. Mrs. Harriman's next benefaction was the paying off the mortgage of $113,000 of the Boys' Club, corner of Tenth Street and Avenue A, New York City. This charity was the favorite one of her husband, the late E. H. Harriman, and one to which he gave much of his time as well as money. The village of Turner, New York State, where the Harriman's magnificent Arden estate is located, received $31,000 from Mrs. Harriman; $6,000 was for the building of a new station, and $25,000 for general town betterment. The stipulation which accompanied this gift was that the name Turner should be changed to Harriman. The sum total of Mrs. Harriman's beneficences is $1,169,000.

John A. Kasson, who died in Washington, D. C., May, 1910, left $1,000,000 for maintenance before and after its erection of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral, now being built in the District of Columbia. The fund is to be known as the Kasson Cathedral Endowment Fund, and no portion is to be spent for mere ceremony or formal rites.

Frank B. Cotton, of Brookline, Mass., bequeathed by will his estate, amounting to $1,000 000 This sum is to be used for the erection and support of a trade school for the benefit of girls and women.

Martin A. Ryerson, President of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, gave $1,000,000 to that institution. The money is to be used for the construction of a physical laboratory which, it is proposed, will be the finest one in the world.

Thomas F. Ryan, the New York financier, has set aside $1,000,000 for the purchase of the sculptured masterpieces of Rodin, which will be presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

By the death of Mrs. Flora L. Dotger, widow of Andrew J. Dotger, who died August 26, 1910, at East Orange, N. J., her estate, valued at $1,000,000, will go to the Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., of which Booker T. Washington is the head.

An anonymous giver has offered to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, ninety acres of land (value not given) and $1,000,000 for a sanitarium. This institution is for the benefit of all employés of the insurance company who may be afflicted with tuberculosis.

Horace B. Silliman, a wealthy textile manufacturer of Cohoes, N. Y., bequeathed his entire estate, amounting to $1,000,000, to philanthropic purposes. One-half goes to William R. Moody, son of the late Dwight Moody, the noted evangelist, to aid in conducting his institution at Northfield. The other half is divided among the First Presbyterian Church, Cohoes, $19,800; Moody's Mount Herman School for Boys, $13,000; Moody's Northfield Seminary, $6,600; Park College, Parkville, Mo., $6,600; Hamilton College, $13,000; Cohoes Young Men's Christian Association, $13,000; Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, $66,000, and other Presbyterian churches and charities being remembered in sums varying from $6,000 to $13,000 each.

Mrs. Harriet Coles, of New York City and Mineola, L. I., widow of the late John B. Coles, left by her will her fortune of $1,000,000 to philanthropy. The bulk of Mrs. Coles estate will revert to the Female Guardian Society of the city of New York, the Presbyterian Hospital receiving $75,000 to found a bed in perpetuity.

The will of Mrs. Mary A. Mason, of Pittsfield, Mass., who died April, 1910, gives $850,000 to Great Barrington, Mass. Of this sum, $750,000 is to be used for the building of a hospital, and the remainder to various other charities of that place, including a library.

Miss Martha R. Hunt, who died in Somerville, Mass., March 15, 1910, left $800,000 in public bequests. A remarkable feature of Miss Hunt's will is that, although she was an invalid, by careful investment she quadrupled the estate left her by her father. The larger bequests are: American Unitarian Association, $65,000; Baldwinsville, Mass., Cottage Hospital, $15,000; Calhoun, Ala., College School, $10,000; First Parish, Concord, $16,000; Home for Aged People, Concord, $15,000; Home for Incurables, Dorchester, $10,000; Lend a Hand Society, Boston, $10,000; Maclean Insane Asylum, $10,000; $122,000 to other charities, and the residue to be divided equally among the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Massachusetts Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute and the New England Watch and Ward Society.

Belden R. McAlpine, former President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, bequeathed to charitable purposes $800,000. The specific bequests in Mr. McAlpine's will aggregate $242,000, and the bulk of the residuary estate is bequeathed as follows: Four-fifths to be divided in equal shares among the Rochester Home for the Friendless, Rochester Orphan Asylum; the Association for the Relief of Respectable and Aged Indigent Females of the city of New York, and the New York Society for the Relief of the Ruptured and Crippled.

The late Professor Goldwin Smith made Cornell University his beneficiary to the extent of $689,000 unconditionally. "I do this," Professor Smith's will says, "to show my affection for the university, at the foundation of which I had the honor of taking part; to pay respect to the memory of Ezra Cornell and to show my attachment as an Englishman to the union of the two branches of our race on this continent with each other and with their common mother."

By the will of Mathias Hollenback Arnot, of Elmira, N. Y., the city of Elmira benefited to the extent of $635,000. Mr. Arnot left his home, with his art gallery and an endowment fund, valued together at $600,000, and the Arnot Ogden Hospital of the same city received $35,000.

Adolph Lewisohn, of New York City, gave $630,000 to the following charities: $250,000 to Columbia University School of Mines; $130,000 toward the erection of a pathological laboratory at Mt. Sinai Hospital; $125,000 to the Hebrew Technical School for Girls.

Mrs. Phoebe Hearst gave to the University of California $500,000 for an anthropological museum. During the past ten years Mrs. Hearst has given $500,000 to this same institution.

Charles H. Farman, a graduate of Yale, class of 1895, left by his will $500,000 to his alma mater, to be used for furthering the usefulness of the Sheffield Scientific School.

Henry Phipps, of New York City and Pittsburgh, gave $500,000 to the University of Pennsylvania the money to be used in a campaign against tuberculosis.

George W. Patten, the millionaire grain operator, who died September 8, 1910, left a fortune which is expected to be directed in aid of the anti-tuberculosis campaign. Two weeks before his death Mr. Patten created a fund of $500,000, known as the "Agnes and Louisa Patten Fund," for the endowment of the Evanston Hospital Association, an institution in which he and brother James A. Patten took great interest

Darius Ogden Mills, of New York City, left $500,000 to charity. The specific bequests are: Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York City, $100,000; American Museum of Natural History, $100,000; Home for Incurables of New York, $100,000; New York Botanical Gardens, $50,000; American Geographical Society, $25,000; The National Red Cross, $25,000, and St. Luke's Hospital, San Francisco, $100,000.

John Everett Smith, a wealthy Norwood, Mass., printer, under his will made Tufts College the residuary legatee to his estate, valued at half a million dollars.

Property estimated as worth $500,000 is bequeathed by James Scott to the city of Detroit, Mich., with a specification that it is to be used to erect a fountain upon Belle Isle to be called the James Scott Fountain and bear a life-sized statue of himself.

The late Arthur Hill, regent of the University of Michigan, left $425,000 to be used as follows: $225,000 to the University of Michigan for an auditorium and $200,000 for a manual training school at Saginaw, Mich.

Jesse T. Bonney, of Norfolk, Va., died August 31, 1910, and left his estate of $400,000 to educational institutions for girls which he established during his lifetime in Norfolk.

C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., donated to the Trades' and Workers' Association of the same place a sanatorium building, furnished and erected at a cost of $400,000. This is to be used as a home for widows and orphans of members of the association.

By the estate of Mrs. Hope Brown Russell, widow of Henry Grinnell Russell, of Providence, R. I., $380,000 revert to the following: The Rhode Island Hospital, $160,000; The Rhode Island Episcopal Convention, $150,000; St. Andrews Industrial School, Providence, $25,000; St. Elizabeth's Home, $25,000, and other Rhode Island charities.

The estate owned by Thomas L. Addis, of New Haven, Ct., announces that Mr. Addis, who died August 9, 1910, left property valued at $376,000, to the following institutions: General Hospital Society of New Haven, $100,000; Grace Hospital, New Haven, $100,000; The Masonic Home, Wallingford, Ct., $20,000; The New Haven Orphan Asylum and other Connecticut charities to receive the balance.

By the will of the late Edward E. Salisbury, of Boston, Mass., $355,000 will come into possession of Yale University.

An anonymous New Yorker has given $350,000 to Columbia University for a new building for the School of Philosophy. The giver said: "This gift is made in memory of my father and in recognition of friendships and associations which now go back over many years, and which you (Prof. Nicholas Murray Butler) will fully understand and appreciate."

Larz Anderson departed somewhat from the general run of philanthropic gifts by giving $300,000 to erect a bridge over the Charles River as an appropriate and artistic approach to the Stadium of Harvard.

Alexander Smith Cochran, of Yonkers, N. Y., gave to the city, through the Sanitary League, one hundred acres of land as a site for a tuberculosis hospital. The value of this gift is approximately $250,000.

Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, New York City, gave $250,000 to Yale University for an endowment fund. This makes $3,000,000 Mr. Vanderbilt's family has given to this institution.

Mrs. Julia M. Champlin, of Brookline, Mass., who died July, 1910, willed the residue of her estate valued at $250,000 to numerous Episcopal societies and charitable organizations in Boston and Brookline.

The old Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., an edifice built and made famous by the Thaws, has been turned over by Henry Clay Frick, its present owner, to the Salvation Army. The gift is estimated as being valued at $250,000.

Mrs. Mary E. Brinckerhoff, of New York City and Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., by her will made bequests amounting to $250,000 to various New York City charities.

The children of the late Samuel Mather, of Cleveland, Ohio, have given $250,000 to Western Reserve University, the funds to be used for the erection of a new building for the College for Women.

Howard Melville Hanna has given $250,000 to the Western Reserve University, the money to be devoted to the enlarging and bettering of its Medical Department.

Adolphus Busch, of St. Louis, Mo., has given $250,000 to the Germanic Museum at Harvard University. This building is thus sufficiently provided for, but Harvard does not accept any building unless it is endowed, so a fund will therefore be necessary for its maintenance.

Two alumni, George G. Mason, of New York City, and William S. Mason, of Evanston, Ill., both of the class of '88, have made a gift to Yale of $250,000 for a laboratory of mechanical engineering. Except the gifts of Frederick W. Vanderbilt, of the class of '76, this is larger than any gift ever made to the school by a graduate.

John W. Gates, financier, has contributed $250,000 to the University of the Methodist Church.

John H. Converse, late head of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, who died May, 1910, left by will $200,000 for the use of various boards of the Presbyterian church to which he had long been a most generous contributor.

Mrs. Robert D. Evans, of Boston, Mass., enriched the Boston University by a gift of $200,000, the money to be used by the School of Medicine for a department of clinical research and preventive medicine.

The will of S. E. King, of Ottawa, Kan., sets aside $200,000 for the following charities: $50,000 for the education of worthy young men, provided they do not study for the ministry; $60,000 for a high school building; $50,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building, and $40,000 for a hospital.

William K. Vanderbilt, of New York City, has astounded the French by doing the impossible. He has changed the course of a public road that ran by his training barns at Poissy, diverting passing automobiles from the thoroughfare used by the more conservative French and their horse vehicles. The expense to Mr. Vanderbilt reached the sum of $200,000.

New England educational institutions are remembered in the will of David Cummings, a shoe manufacturer of Somerville, Mass., who died April 1, 1910. Tufts College receives $65,000; Dean Academy, $50,000; the Somerville Home for the Aged, $40,000, and $40,000 distributed among various Boston charities.

Prof. Alexander Agassiz, of Newport and Cambridge, Mass., by his will enriched Cambridge charities to the extent of $193,000. Harvard University receives $100,000 for its zoology museum and a similar amount for the publication of Professor Agassiz's memoirs of his scientific trips; $50,000 is left to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a similar sum to the National Academy of Sciences at Washington, and the remainder to the city of Newport for manual training and for the Coles Laboratory, in which Professor Agassiz was much interested.

Public bequests aggregating $192,000 are contained in the will of Caroline M. Martin, of Dover, N. H. The institutions named as beneficiaries include practically all of the various missionary and educational branches of the Congregational denomination.

The Misses Alice and Irene Lewisohn contributed $192,000 to the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, New York City.

Mrs. D. Willis James, of New York City, donated $180,000 to the endowment fund of the old First Presbyterian Church at Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, New York City, in order to preserve the interesting landmark from the encroachments of trade.

Erskine M. Phelps, deceased, formerly of Chicago, Ill., by his will released $165,000. Of this sum

Chicago Hahnemann Hospital receives the largest part, the remainder going to Chicago Presbyterian churches.

Charles S. Ward, of Roseville, N. J., died July, 1910, willed $160 300 to the Presbyterian Hospital of New York City and the American Tract Society, also the Reformed Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, etc.

Roman Catholic Charities benefit to the amount of $160,000 by the will of Ann Cronin, of New York City, died March 12, 1910. Among the institutions remembered are Our Lady of Perpetual Help, The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, St. Joseph's Seminary, The Literary Society of St. Vincent Ferrer, Sisters of St. Dominick, The Home for Aged, conducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor, The Sisters of Charity at Mt. St. Vincent, and St. Benedict's Home for Destitute Colored Children.

Alphonso Rockwell Cluett erected a building at Pawling, N. Y., for the Pawling School, as a memorial to his son, who died in 1900. The value of the gift is $150,000, and was suggested by Dr. Gamage (head master of the school), when Mr. Cluett asked him to suggest a fitting memorial.

Dr. H. H. Apple, by his generosity, increased the endowment of the Franklin and Marshall College $141,000.

Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, of New York City, disbursed $158,000 during the last year. $100,000 was given for the endowment of the Chair of Medicine in the University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, in memory of her father, Marcellus Hartley; $25,000 to the Society of the Lying-in Hospital, New York, and the remainder in smaller sums to various city charities.

By the will of Mrs. Minnie Edgerton, who died in Plainfield, N. J., June, 1910, charities in that city will receive $140,000. Bequests are made as follows: To Muhlenberg Hospital, $50,000; distribution among the poor, $25,000; Young Men's Christian Association, $10,000; Young Women's Christian Association, $10,000; Grace Episcopal Church, $10,000; Kings Daughters, $10,000; Playgrounds Commission, $5,000; Anti-Tuberculosis League, $5,000, and the Police and Firemen's Pension Fund, $5,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri F. de Gonghi, of Chicago, donated $135,000 to Loyola University of Chicago.

By the will of Joseph Hull, who had lived the life of a hermit for the greater part of his life in Cheshire, Ct., $100,000 reverts to the Baptist Association of Connecticut.

Two more residences, one on Grove Street and the other on Temple Street, New Haven, Ct., have been bought and given to Yale by Frederick W. Vanderbilt. This recent purchase cost Mr. Vanderbilt $100,000.

Nells Poulson gave $100,000 to the American-Scandinavian Society to be used to further educational intercourse between the nations, principally through the bringing of Scandinavian students to the United States for post-graduate courses in American universities.

Divorce Statistics.

THE Bureau of the Census issued in 1910 a report of the results of a compilation of statistics of divorces of married people granted by the courts in the United States for a period of twenty years; being from 1887 to 1906, both years inclusive.

NUMBER OF DIVORCES BY STATES.

The number of divorces reported for each State in each twenty-year period and the divorce rate in 1880 and 1900, based on a five-year average, were as follows:

PARTIES TO WHICH DIVORCES WERE GRANTED.

Almost exactly two-thirds—66.6 per cent.—of the total number of divorces granted in the period 1887 to 1906 were granted to the wife. In other words, divorces obtained by the wife are twice as numerous as those obtained by the husband.

At least a partial explanation of this difference between the number of divorces granted to the husband and the number granted to the wife probably lies in the fact that without any reference to the question of which party is the more frequently responsible for the marital unhappiness that leads to divorce the wife has a legal ground for divorce more frequently than the husband. Although the law may make no distinction between the parties to a marriage in respect to the grounds on which a divorce may be granted, certain well-known and comparatively common grounds are more readily applicable against the husband than against the wife. Notably there is nonsupport or neglect to provide, which, for the husband seeking divorce, is not ordinarily an available ground, although the present investigation found 6 cases in the State of Utah in which the husband obtained a divorce for neglect to provide. Again, cruelty, although not infrequently the ground for divorces granted to husbands, is, at least so far as it is physical cruelty, more often existent as a cause for the wife's seeking a divorce. Five divorces for cruelty are granted to the wife for every one granted to the husband.

CONTESTED CASES.

Of the total number of divorces granted in the period, 1887 to 1906, only 15.4 per cent. were contested. The proportion of contested cases was slightly larger for divorces granted to the wife than for those granted to the husband.

ALIMONY TO WIVES.

The statistics concerning alimony relate only to permanent alimony secured by the wife as an incident to the divorce suit. Alimony secured by a separate and distinct action brought for the purpose has not been considered. The figures, therefore, do not represent the true number of cases in which permanent alimony is considered by the courts, but probably only the number of cases in which it is considered simultaneously with the question of granting the divorce.

CHILDREN OF THE DIVORCED.

In the cases included in the report, in 376,694 or 39.8 per cent. of the whole number, there were children of the parties to the divorce, and in 380,608 or 40.2 per cent. no children were reported. In 188,323 cases or 19.9 per cent., no mention was made of children and the presumption is that no children were involved.

More separations, it appears, occurred in the first and second years of married life than in any subsequent years. At the end of the fifth year more than one-half of the total number of separations had taken place. The number diminished slowly year by year thereafter. But it is a somewhat surprising fact that 24,143 married couples (3.1 per cent. of the whole number) separated and became divorced after the completion of twenty-five years of married life.

The number of years elapsing between separation and divorce was ascertained in 780,022 cases. About one-eighth (12.7 per cent.) of this number of divorces were granted in the same calendar year in which the separation took place. Rather more than one-third (35 per cent.) were granted either in the same year or the following year. At the completion of five years after separation 78.5 per cent. of the total number of divorces had been granted.

COMPARISON WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

The figures concerning the growth and prevalence of divorce thus far considered have dealt only with the United States. The following table shows how the divorce rate in the United States compares with that in certain foreign countries.

It should, perhaps, be stated that this comparison is affected slightly by the fact that the figures for foreign countries include as a rule only absolute divorces, while those for the United States include both absolute and limited divorces. This difference is, however, of almost no practical importance, for in the United States less than 1 divorce in 100 is a limited divorce. If it is assumed that exactly 1 divorce in 100 is a limited divorce the ratio of the United States would become 72 per 100,000 population instead of 73, an immaterial difference.

Wills.

A WILL OR TESTAMENT is a final disposition of a person's property to take effect after his death. A codicil is an addition or alteration in such disposition. All persons are competent to make a will except idiots, persons of unsound mind, and infants. In many States a will of an unmarried woman is deemed revoked by her subsequent marriage. A nuncupative or unwritten will is one made orally by a soldier in active service, or by a mariner while at sea.

In most of the States a will must be in writing, signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence, and by his direction, and attested by witnesses, who must subscribe their names thereto in the presence of the testator. The form of wording a will is immaterial as long as its intent is clear.

AGE at which persons may make wills is in most of the States 21 years. Males and females are competent to make wills at 18 years in the following States: California, Connecticut, Hawaiian Islands, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah; and in the following States only females at 18 years: Colorado, District of Columbia, Illinois, Maryland, Missouri, Washington, Wisconsin.

In the following States persons of 18 years may dispose of personal property only: Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri, Oregon, Rhode Island, Virginia, West Virginia; in Georgia any one over 14 years and in Louisiana any one ove 16 years is competent to make a will. In Colorado persons of 17 years, and in New York males of 18 and females of 16 years may dispose of personalty. WITNESSES—Most of the States require two witnesses, except in Connecticut (3), Maine (3), Massachusetts (3), New Hampshire (3), South Carolina (3), Vermont (3).

Acknowledgment of Deeds.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT is the act of declaring the execution of an instrument before an officer authorized to certify to such declaration. The officer certifies to the fact of such declaration, and to his knowledge of the person so declaring. Conveyances or deeds of land to be entitled to be recorded must first be acknowledged before a proper officer. Most of the States have forms of acknowledgments, which should be followed.

Acknowledgments may be taken in general by Notaries Public, Justices of the Peace, Judges or Clerks of Courts of the higher grades, Registers, Masters in Chancery, Court Commissioners, Town Clerks, Mayor and Clerks of incorporated cities, within their respective jurisdictions.

The requisites to a valid deed are the same in general as other contracts, but the appointment of an attorney to execute a deed for another person must in general be executed with the same formalities requisite to the deed itself.

SEALS or their equivalent (or whatever is intended as such) are necessary in Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming. In almost all the States deeds by corporations must be under seal. FORMS are prescribed or indicated by the statutes of most of the States except Connecticut, Florida, Louisiana. SEPARATE ACKNOWLEDGMENT by wife is required in Alaska, Arkansas, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas. ONE WITNESS to the execution of deeds is required in District of Columbia, Maine (customary), Maryland, Nebraska, New Jersey (usual), Oklahoma, Utah, Wyoming. TWO WITNESSES to the execution of deeds are required in Arkansas, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin.

Promissory Notes and Checks.

Negotiable instruments, the common forms of which are promissory notes, checks, or other bills of exchange, while having the same general requisites as other contracts, have certain distinct features. The purpose of the law is to facilitate as much as possible their free passing from hand to hand like currency. The assignment of an ordinary contract leaves the assignee in no different position for enforcing his rights than that of his assignor, but one who takes a negotiable instrument from a prior holder, without knowledge of any defences to it, before its maturity, and gives value for it, holds it free of any defences which might have been set up against his predecessors, except those defects that were inherent in the instrument itself.

To be negotiable an instrument must be in writing and signed by the maker (of a note) or drawer (of a bill or check).

It must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money.

Must be payable on demand, or at a fixed future time.

Must be payable to order or to bearer.

In a bill of exchange (check) the party directed to pay must be reasonably certain.

Every negotiable instrument is presumed to have been issued for a valuable consideration, and want of consideration in the creation of the instrument is not a defence against a bona-fide holder.

An instrument is negotiated, that is completely transferred, so as to vest title in the purchaser, if payable to bearer, or indorsed simply with the name of the last holder, by mere delivery, if payable to order by the indorsement of the party to whom it is payable and delivery.

One who transfers an instrument by indorsement warrants to every subsequent holder that the instrument is genuine, that he has title to it, and that if not paid by the party primarily liable at maturity, he will pay it upon receiving due notice of non-payment.

To hold an indorser liable the holder upon its non-payment at maturity must give prompt notice of such non-payment to the indorser and that the holder looks to the indorser for payment. Such notice should be sent within twenty-four hours.

When an indorser is thus compelled to pay he may hold prior parties through whom he received the instrument liable to him by sending them prompt notice of non-payment upon receiving such notice from the holder.

One who transfers a negotiable instrument by delivery, without indorsing it, simply warrants that the instrument is genuine, that he has title to it, and knows of no defence to it, but does not agree to pay it if unpaid at maturity.

The maker of a note is liable to pay it if unpaid at maturity without any notice from the holder or indorser.

Notice to one of several partners is sufficient notice to all.

When a check is certified by a bank the bank becomes primarily liable to pay it without notice of its non-payment, and when the holder of a check thus obtains its certification by the bank, the drawer of the check and previous indorsers are released from liability, and the holder looks to the bank for payment.

A bona-fide holder of a negotiable instrument, that is, a party who takes an instrument regular on its face, before its maturity, pays value for it and has no knowledge of any defences to it, is entitled to hold the party primarily liable responsible for its payment, despite any defences he may have against the party to whom he gave it, except such as rendered the instrument void in its inception. Thus, if the maker of a note received no value for it, or was induced to issue it through fraud or imposition, they do not defeat the right of a bona-fide holder to compel its payment from him.

The following States have enacted a similar Negotiable Instrument law: Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Florida, Maryland, Massachusetts, North Carolina, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin, New York, and Tennessee—and the same general rules apply in all the States.

Distribution of Intestate's Personal Estate.

THE following is a synopsis of the laws of the various States providing for the distribution of the personal estate of a deceased after the payment of funeral expenses and other debts where there is no will:

In many of the States the widow and children are entitled to receive a small portion of the estate, generally varying from $100 to $500, before the claims of creditors are paid. Aside from such exempt portion of the estate, the property to be distributed to the widow or relatives is that remaining after all creditors' claims have been satisfied.

The following is the plan of distribution of a male's property. The same rules apply to a female's estate, except in some States, where the rights of a husband in the estate of his deceased wife differ from those of a wife in the estate of her deceased husband, which will be shown in a separate table.

I. In all States where the deceased leaves a child or children, or descendants of any deceased child, and no widow, the children or descendants take the entire estate, to the exclusion of all other relatives. The children take equal shares, and in most States the descendants of a deceased child together take the share of their parent, except where the descendants are all in equal degree to the deceased (all grandchildren, no children surviving), when they share equally and do not take their proportionate share of their parent's interest.

No statement is given in this synopsis of the law of Louisiana, which, being founded on the provisions of the French code and Roman law instead of the English common law, which is the underlying principle in the other States, differs in many respects from the principles followed in the other States, especially on the question of the rights of a husband and wife in each other's property and in the property acquired by the husband and wife during their married life. The provisions of the law of Indiana are also not included, for the reason that for an accurate statement of its provisions a reading of the entire statute is necessary, together with the decisions of the Indiana courts construing its provisions, which would occupy too much space for a statement here.

II. (a) If deceased leaves a widow, and no children or descendants, the widow takes all. This is the rule in Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

(b) In the following States the widow takes one-half, the residue being taken by the other relatives in the manner and proportion in which they take the entire estate when the deceased leaves neither widow or descendants (given below): Arkansas, California, Delaware, District of Columbia, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota and Virginia.

(c) In Massachusetts, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Utah the widow takes the entire estate up to $5,000 and one-half of the residue.

(d) In Connecticut and Vermont the widow takes the entire estate up to $2,000 and one-half of the residue.

(e) In New York, in case deceased leaves a father surviving, the widow takes one-half; if no father surviving, the widow takes one-half and $2,000 in addition.

(f) In New Hampshire the widow takes $1,500, and, if the estate exceeds $3,000, one-half of the residue.

(g) In Wyoming the widow takes the entire estate up to $10,000 and three-fourths of the residue.

(i) In Michigan the widow takes the entire estate up to $3,000 and one-half of the residue.

III. (a) When the deceased leaves a widow and children, or descendants, the widow takes one-third and the children share equally in the residue in the following States: Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio (one-half if less than $400), Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, and West Virginia.

(b) In the following States, if there be but one child, the widow takes one-half and the child one-half; if two or more children or their descendants, the widow takes one-third, as above, and the children or their descendants the residue: California, Florida, Idaho, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Utah.

(c) In the following States the widow takes one-half and the children, or descendants, the residue: Colorado, Kansas, Kentucky, Oregon, Washington, and Wyoming.

(d) In the following States the widow takes the same share as each of the children: Mississippi, Missouri, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

(e) In North Carolina, if there are less than three children, the widow takes one-third and the children the residue; if there are three or more children, the widow takes the same share as each of the children.

DISTRIBUTION OF INTESTATE'S PERSONAL ESTATE—Continued.

(f) In Alabama, if there is but one child, the widow takes one-half and the child one-half; if there are more than one child and less than five children, the widow takes the same share as each of the children; if there are five or more children, the widow takes one-fifth and the children or their descendants share equally in the residue.

(g) In Georgia, if there are less than five children, the widow takes the same share as each of the children; if there are five or more children, the widow takes one-fifth and the children or their descendants share equally in the residue.

In Nebraska if widow is not the parent of all the children of the deceased and there be more than one child, widow takes one-fourth and children the residue. If widow is parent of all children of the deceased, she takes one-half if there be but one child and the child the residue; if there be more than one child the widow takes one-third and the children the residue.

(h) In New Mexico, the widow takes one-half of the estate acquired during marriage, otherwise than by gift (by purchase, for example) and the children or their descendants share equally in the residue; the widow also takes one-fourth of the estate acquired before marriage, or by gift or legacy during marriage, the children or their descendants taking the residue.

IV. (a) When the deceased leaves no widow, children or descendants, the parents take the entire estate in equal shares in the following States: Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In all of the States just mentioned, except Alabama, Arizona, Maine, and Texas, if one parent is dead, the surviving parent takes the entire estate, to the exclusion of brothers and sisters. In Alabama, Arizona, Maine, and Texas the surviving parent takes one-half and the brothers and sisters, or their descendants, take the residue.

In all of them, if both parents are dead, the brothers and sisters and their descendants take the entire estate.

(b) In the following States the father, if living, takes the entire estate; if the father is dead, then to the mother and brothers and sisters, or their descendants equally; and if both parents are dead, then to the brothers and sisters, or their descendants: Florida, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

(c) In the following States the father, if living, takes the entire estate; if the father is dead, then to the mother; and if both parents are dead, then to the brothers and sisters or their descendants: Arkansas, Colorado, District of Columbia, Nevada and North Dakota.

(d) In the following States the parents, if living, and the brothers and sisters, or their descendants, take the entire estate, sharing equally. Georgia, Illinois, Mississippi, Missouri, and South Carolina.

(e) In Delaware and Ohio the brothers and sisters, or their descendants, take the entire estate in preference to the parents, who only inherit if there are no brothers or sisters or lawful issue of any deceased brothers or sisters.

DISTRIBUTION OF FEMALE'S ESTATE.

In the following States, if the deceased was a married woman, the rights of her surviving husband in her personal estate differ from the rights of a widow in the estate of her deceased husband as shown in the above synopsis.

(a) In Delaware, District of Columbia, New Jersey, North Carolina, Rhode Island, and Virginia the husband takes the entire personal estate, whether there is any issue of the marriage or not.

(b) In New York, if there are no children or descendants of children, the husband takes the entire estate.

(c) In Florida, Georgia, and Pennsylvania, if there are no children or descendants, the husband takes the entire estate; if there are children, the husband takes the same share as each child.

(d) In Ohio the husband takes the entire estate if there are no children or descendants; if there are children or descendants, they take the entire estate.

(e) In Alabama the husband takes one-half of the estate, the children, or descendants, taking the residue.

Law Examinations in New York State.

To entitle an applicant to an examination as an attorney and counsellor he shall pay to the examiners a fee of $15, and he must prove (15 days in advance) to the satisfaction of the State Board of Law Examiners: 1. That he is a citizen of the State, twenty-one years of age, and that his residence for six months prior to the examination is actual and not constructive, which proof must be made by his own affidavit. 2. That he has studied law in the manner and according to the conditions prescribed for a period of three years, except that if the applicant is a graduate of any college or university his period of study may be two years instead of three; and except also that persons who have been admitted as attorneys in the highest court of original jurisdiction of another State or country, and have remained therein as practicing attorneys for at least one year, may be admitted to such examination after a period of law study of one year within this State. 3. That the applicant has passed the regents' examination or its equivalent must be proved by the production of a certified copy of the regents' certificate filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

INHERITANCE TAX LAWS.

THE following is a synopsis of several of the laws of the various States affecting the administration of the estate of a deceased person:

1. Who to Administer.—(a) If the deceased leaves a will, the duty of administration falls upon the executor. If no executor is named, or in the event of the death or refusal of the executor to act, the Court will grant administration under the will to some suitable person, generally selected from those most largely interested under the provisions of the will, such as the residuary legatees, if any. (b) If the deceased died intestate, letters of administration are granted to the following persons in practically all the States:

First—To the surviving husband or widow.

Second—To one or more of the next of kin entitled to share in the estate.

Third—If none of the above consent to act, to one of the creditors of the estate, except in localities where there is provided by law a Public Administrator, who is preferred to creditors.

In practically all the States an administrator is required to give bond for the faithful performance of his duties in double the value of the estate to be administered.

In most of the States, if so provided by the will, no bond is required of an executor, except that in some States an executor is required to give a bond to cover the probable amount of the debts of the estate, and in practically all the States, in the discretion of the Court, for cause shown, an executor may be required to give a bond.

2. Claims of Creditors.—The procedure in the several States in presenting creditors' claims against the estate varies very considerably. In the majority of the States the executor or administrator is required promptly to give public notice to creditors to present their claims to him, and the creditors are required so to present their claims supported by an affidavit that the same are justly due and owing from the estate, above any offsets or counter claims, within a period limited generally to six months or a year. The law of each State should be consulted for more specific details.

3. The following table contains an analysis of the laws of the several States, covering:

(1) The time provided for accounting to the Court by executors and administrators on their administration.

(2) The inheritance or succession tax upon property received either by intestate laws, last will, or by gift or transfer, designed to take effect at death, excepting legacies for religious, charitable or educational purposes, which are tax exempt in most of the States.

(3) The various classes of estate obligations given priority over other claims in case of the insolvency of the estate.

New York State Probation Commission.

THE State Probation Commission, created by Chapter 430, Laws of 1907, consists of seven members. Four are appointed by the Governor for terms of four years each; one is appointed by the State Board of Charities from among its members; one is appointed by the State Commission of Prisons from among its members; and the State Commissioner of Education is a member ex-officio. Commissioners serve without compensation, but are entitled to necessary travelling expenses.

The general duties of the Commission are to exercise general supervision over the work of probation officers and to keep informed as to their work; to collect and publish statistical and other information as to the operations of the probation system; to inquire from time to time into the conduct and efficiency of probation officers, and when advisable to conduct a formal investigation of the work of any probation officer; to make recommendations and to secure the effective application of the probation system and the enforcement of the probation law in all parts of the State. The Commission makes an annual report to the Legislature showing its proceedings and the results of the probation system as administered in the various localities in the State, and making suggestions and recommendations. The Commission in the discharge of its duties has access to all offices and records of probation officers, and may direct formal investigation of the work of any probation officer.

President, Homer Folks, New York; Secretary, Arthur W. Towne. The Commission has its office in the Capitol, at Albany.

A contract is an agreement of two or more parties, by which reciprocal rights and obligations are created. One party acquires a right enforceable at law, to some act or forbearance from the other, who is under a corresponding obligation to thus act or forbear.

Generally speaking, all contracts which are made between two competent parties, for a proper consideration, without fraud and for a lawful purpose, are enforceable at law.

To the creation of a valid contract there must be:

1. Precise agreement. The offer of one party must be met by an acceptance by the other, according to the terms offered.

2. There must be a consideration. Something of value must either be received by one party or given up by the other.

3. The parties must have capacity to contract. The contracts of insane persons are not binding upon them. Married women are now generally permitted to contract as though single, and bind their separate property. The contracts of an infant are generally not binding upon him, unless ratified after attaining his majority. The contracts of an infant for "necessaries" may be enforced against him to the extent of the reasonable value of the goods furnished. It is incumbent upon one seeking thus to hold an infant to show that the goods furnished were in fact necessary to the infant, and that he was not already supplied by his parents or guardians.

4. The party's consent must not be the result of fraud or imposition, or it may be avoided by the party imposed upon.

5. The purpose of the parties must be lawful. Agreements to defraud others, to violate statutes, or whose aim is against public policy, such as to create monopolies, or for the corrupt procurement of legislative or official action, are void, and cannot be enforced by any party thereto.

Contracts in general are equally valid, whether made orally or in writing, with the exception of certain classes of contracts, which in most of the States are required to be attested by a note or memorandum in writing, signed by the party or his agent sought to be held liable. Some of the provisions which are adopted from the old English Statute of Frauds, vary in some of the States, but the following contracts very generally are required to be thus attested by some writing:

Contracts by their terms not to be performed within a year from the making thereof.

A promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person.

Contracts made in consideration of marriage, except mutual promises to marry.

Promise of an executor, or administrator to pay debts of deceased out of his own property.

Contracts for the creation of any interest or estate in land, with the exception of leases for a short term, generally one year.

Contracts for the sale of goods above a certain value, unless a portion of the price is paid or part of the goods delivered. The required value of the goods sold varies in different States from $30 to $200. In a number of the States no such provision exists.

In many of the States declarations or conveyances of trust estates.

In many States representations as to the character, credit, or responsibility of another person.

Partial performance of the contract is generally held to dispense with the necessity for a writing.

If the damages liable to result from the breaking of a contract are uncertain the parties may agree upon a sum to which either may be entitled as compensation for a breach which will be upheld by the courts, but if the sum so fixed is not designed as a fair compensation to the party injured, but as a penalty to be inflicted, it will be disregarded.

A party is generally excused for the failure to perform what he has agreed only by the act of God or the public enemy. Except in cases involving a personal element in the work to be performed, such as the rendition of services, when the death or sickness of the party contracting to perform them is a valid excuse, or contracts for the performance of work upon a specified object, when its destruction without the fault of the party sought to be held liable is a sufficient excuse.

Arrest in Civil Action.

WHILE imprisonment for debt as it formerly existed in English and American law, by which a debtor might be arrested and imprisoned for mere inability to pay his creditor, no longer exists in the United States, the statutes of the majority of the States provide for the arrest of a defendant in a civil action under varying conditions. A large number of States determine the right of arrest by the character of the claim on which suit is brought, allowing it in actions for fraud or the injuries known in the law as "torts," such as an injury to the person or property, conversion or embezzlement, libel, slander or the like. Other States only allow arrest to prevent or punish the escape of a defendant from the State and the concealment or transfer of his property with intent to defraud creditors. Still other States combine these two theories or modify them in different ways.

The following synopsis shows a grouping of the States along lines of approximately similar legislation.

In the following States no civil arrest is allowed: Alabama, Arizona, District of Columbia, Florida, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Tennessee and Texas.

In the following States the right to arrest depends upon the nature of claim in suit: In actions for fraud or torts, Connecticut; for fraud, libel, slander or violent injury to person or property, Delaware; for fraud only, Iowa and Kansas; only after verdict of jury, finding malice, fraud or wilful deceit, Colorado; for torts, breach of promise to marry, misconduct or embezzlement in office or professional capacity, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York (also for fine or penalty or to recover property concealed from Sheriff); only after judgment for fraud or personal injuries, New Mexico.

In the following States arrest is only allowed against a defendant about to remove from State or about to conceal, transfer or remove his property to avoid plaintiff's claim or defraud creditors, irrespective of the nature of the claim: Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, New Hampshire, Utah, Virginia.

In the following States arrest is allowed in contract actions where the defendant is about to depart from the State, or conceal or remove his property, and also in actions for fraud or torts of various kinds, though the provisions are not identical: Arkansas (fraud only), California, Idaho, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia (fraud only), Wisconsin.

In Georgia arrest only allowed against attorneys, sheriffs or other officers of the Court for failure to pay over money collected, and in certain circumstances against defendant who conceals property from Sheriff.

In Wyoming and Ohio (only after judgment) in actions for fraud, or money lost at gambling, or where defendant has removed or concealed property to avoid judgment.

In Rhode Island, allowed in all actions except to recover debt or taxes.

Rowing.

YALE VS. HARVARD—'VARSITY EIGHTS.

YALE and Harvard eights have rowed forty-four races, beginning in 1852 on Lake Winnipiseogee at two miles. In 1855 the course was changed to Springfield and lengthened to three miles. Lake Quinsigamond was the scene for nine years, and Lake Saltonsall for 1869. After an interval of seven years the crews in 1876-77 went to Springfield, Mass. when the four-mile course was inaugurated. In 1878 the crews changed again to New London, Ct. The records:

In the races at Gull Lake, Kalamazoo, Mich., in March 1901, the Wolverine, owned by Commodore D. C Otis, of the Kalamazoo Club, won the Stuart International Trophy. In the last heat over a 20-mile two-point course, the time of the Wolverine was 42 minutes

At Kalamazoo Mich., February 24, 1907 the Wolverine, owned by the Kalamazoo Ice Yacht Club, broke all world's records for a two-point course, sailing 20 miles in 39m. 50s The boat was required to turn every two miles.

The American Turf.

THE conditions which governed racing on the Metropolitan tracks about New York and at Saratoga during 1910 did not show any improvement over the previous year. Anti-betting legislation and invasion of European tracks by some of the largest American racing stables all combined to lessen interest in the sport. The passing of a new law at Albany, holding the officials of racing associations personally responsible for the breaking of the betting laws, was responsible for the discontinuing of racing on New York tracks after Sept. 1, 1910.

Automobile Industry

In all its phases automobiling advanced with tremendous strides during 1910 the year being easily the most prosperous ever enjoyed by the industry. In the previous year it had been predicted that the output of cars in 1910 would not cease to the 200,000 mark if the necessary parts could be obtained. Up to November 1 this estimate had been well justified the approximate total being between 175,000 and 200,000 with a majority of plants continuing production almost to capacity in anticipation of a heavy demand in 1911. The extraordinary growth in the use of automobiles may be judged from the fact that at the end of 1909 there were perhaps a quarter of a million self propelled vehicles in use in the United States while the waning season of 1910 found the number increased to more than 400,000.

To further illustrate the popularity of the automobile it might be said that from a negligible factor among the country's industries a decade ago it had advanced to fifth place in 1910. Much of this growth had been achieved in three years. The estimate of automobiles manufactured in 1908 was 55,000; in 1909 80,000. The output for the year just ended therefore was considerably greater than for the two previous years. Figuring the average cost to the user at $1,000 (the amount is probably greater) the aggregate of investment in automobiles grows into bewildering figures.

James J. Hill and other financiers took occasion during the year to express publicly their disapproval of the motor vehicle, declaring it an "industrial menace." The characterization of investment in automobiles as an "economic waste" was met by a storm of protest from manufacturers of these vehicles. They declared that the motor driven car had been directly responsible for the greatly desired "back to the farm" movement by bringing the farm closer to the towns and cities, that its use commercially was a concrete instance of economy and that such a form of investment for pleasure paid the investor a hundredfold in health. The country's vastly increased mileage of good roads, they asserted was directly a result of the growth of automobiling, and in the train of highway improvement followed increased value of real estate.

A significant feature of the year's development was the formation of a $16,000,000 corporation which, up to November 1, had taken over the control of eight or ten subsidiary companies. Following the formation a year earlier of a similar corporation, capitalized at $60,000,000 and controlling more than twenty subsidiary companies, the belief was expressed in many quarters that the industry would finally come to be controlled by a number of such corporations. Equally significant was the announcement by one of these corporations late in the season that the visit of its president to Europe was for the purpose of completing arrangements for the erection of a plant in or near London to be devoted to the manufacture in Great Britain of low-priced American designed automobiles. The wiseacres predicted that the same policy would be followed in the course of time by other American producers whose foreign trade made the expansion justifiable.

NEW MODELS.

The so-called "new models" for 1911 were brought out unusually early, due to the demand that had resulted in clearing out of a majority of the factories all the cars designed for the 1910 trade. Some of the 1911 models made their appearance as far back as July, and by the beginning of Fall it was possible to purchase nearly all the types intended for the following year. As a matter of fact, the new cars in all essential details proved to be virtually duplicates of their predecessors. Very few constructors had found it desirable to make other than the most trifling departures from previous engine design, and, as the basic principle of nearly all engines is the same, this may well be called the age of standardization in automobile practice.

Wherein 1910 was responsible for bringing forth a drastic departure from accepted ideas was in bodies. Beginning with their general appearance at the Winter shows a craze was started in favor of the torpedo-shaped body. From the manufacturers of the least expensive to the producers of the most palatial cars came styles that a short time before would have been termed freakish. The underlying principle of the innovation, however, that of giving protection equally to those in the front seats and the tonneau and of presenting smooth surfaces to which dust would not adhere took the fancy of the buying public. While all bore the same general appearance many manufacturers disagreed as to the proper description of this type of body, and it had been variously termed the "torpedo," "closed in," "four-door," "fore door," "gunboat," etc. Its vogue at the end of 1910 was so great that the torpedo threatened to displace all other forms of touring bodies.

Inclosed cars, such as limousines and landaulettes, enjoyed increased public favor during the year, the demand as the cold season approached being greater than ever before. This was due to the fact that automobiling has become an all the year round diversion. Where formerly a majority of owners began storing their cars for the Winter in September and October, the custom now is to keep the machine in commission at all times. The inclosed body therefore makes a strong appeal, the more so because it can be used for touring purposes quite as well as the regular touring model.

MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS

In the twelve months subsequent to the decision by Judge Hough favoring the Selden claim of a basic patent on gasoline automobiles the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers gained in membership, from thirty to nearly ninety, its list including nearly every manufacturer of prominence in America. The organization of independent manufacturers gave up the fight and went out of existence early in the year, most of its members joining the licensed association, thus being obligated to pay royalties. An effort to organize another similar body to oppose the Selden claim met with some measure of success. Independent makers desirous of showing their products in New York joined hands during the Fall for the promotion of a show in the Grand Central Palace, beginning on New Year's Eve and lasting for a week. The licensed association planned a show in Madison Square Garden lasting two weeks in January, the first week being devoted to pleasure cars and the second to commercial vehicles.

While many of the States made changes in their motor vehicle laws during the year, the most notable concessions to the users of automobiles were made in New York and Massachusetts. The Legislature of the Empire State adopted the Callen bill, to the delight of the two hands of car owners who had worked for years to obtain more liberal regulations. The Callen law became effective on August 1, 1910. In nearly all its provisions it is considered a model. It provides for the annual registration of cars, the tax being on the basis of horse-power, and for the annual license of chauffeurs after examination as to their fitness. It permits speed consistent with safety to the other users of the highways in country districts up to thirty miles an hour, any speed above this being considered presumptive evidence of reckless driving. In built-up districts fifteen miles is the limit. Only cities of the first class are allowed to fix an arbitrary limit.

Under the old law the registration numbers in New York State had run up to 112,000, these figures representing approximately the number of motor driven vehicles placed in use in the State from the inception of the industry. In the first three months of registration under the new law more than 64,000 cars were registered by the Secretary of State showing that number to be actually in use. About 20,000 chauffeurs obtained licenses in the same period, from which it was deduced that two-thirds of the automobiles in the State are driven by their owners. The weakest point in the new law, it was asserted, lay in the failure to require owners, as well as paid drivers, to take out licenses. As the law stands the mere fact of ownership qualifies a man to drive, no matter how inexperienced he may be in the handling of a car.

One of the first effects of the Callen law was a great lessening of the number of speed traps throughout the State, there being too few violations of the thirty-mile limit to make their maintenance profitable.

as in the old days The Police Department of Greater New York inaugurated a system of personal identification certificates which, carrying a photograph of the holder, were accepted by policemen in case of alleged speed violation thus allowing the driver to proceed without the necessity of going to the station and giving bail.

RACING IN 1910

Racing on road and track in 1910 was very general, and a vast number of new records were established The principal road races of the year were the Vanderbilt Cup, on Long Island the Grand Prize race at Savannah the Fairmount Park event in Philadelphia, and the national races at Elgin The Vanderbilt Cup with two minor contests run in conjunction with it on Long Island drew a record breaking entry list and the running evolved a new speed record for the classic Unfortunately however two deaths occurred during the race, and two others were indirectly due to it In addition the number of injured was greater than ever before So strong was the feeling developed against such contests where military protection of drivers and spectators could not be obtained that the promoters were obliged to abandon the international race that was scheduled to follow, and it was taken to Savannah

Track racing flourished on the two great motordromes at Indianapolis and Atlanta the mile saucer at Los Angeles, and on numerous mile dirt courses throughout the country At Brighton Beach an American car established a new record of 1,248 miles for twenty-four hours of running, which was 52 miles in excess of the best previous total in a similar contest. On the beach at Florida Barney Oldfield driving a 200 horse-power foreign racing creation made a mile at a rate of speed equal to 133 miles an hour which stands as the fastest that man has ever travelled Automobile Races and Records.

PUBLIC interest in automobile racing increased in 1910, several road and track records were broken. The principal events follow:

NOTES ON BASEBALL. 1910

A grand total of 7,279 157 persons witnessed the combined games of the National and American Baseball Leagues during the season just closed. just 98,951 less than in 1909. The decrease occurred in the American League the National showing an increase over 1909 of 54 782 Ban Johnson's organization showed a falling off of 153,733 from 1909 This falling off is due partly to the early settlement of the American League race, it being a foregone conclusion that the Athletics would win a month before the close of the season The National League outdrew the American by 105 483 Last season the American outdrew the National by more than 100.000 Since the American League expanded East in 1901 it has outdrawn the National six times while the National has outdrawn the American four times The Boston Americans carried off the individual honors. drawing 740.250 persons an average of 10 031 to a game Four cities in the American League—Boston. New York Chicago and Washington—showed an increase while Athletics. Detroit. St. Louis and Cleveland fell behind. Five cities in the National League—Chicago St Louis. Cincinnati. Philadelphia and Brooklyn—d d better than in 1909 while New York Boston and Pittsburgh fell off. As a road team the Detroit leads. drawing 639 461 New York Nationals were the next best drawing team on the road, with a total of 577.724. While the majority of the Western clubs have an advantage with Sunday games. the East has outdrawn the West by 51.735 The Eastern clubs outdrew the Western in the American League. while the West outdrew the East in the National The figures follow:

In the cities where two clubs are located the total attendance shows Chicago the leading city with a grand total of 1,220.761. New York is again second and Philadelphia third The National League outdrew the American in Chicago. New York and St Louis while the American received the better support in Boston and Philadelphia The total of the two clubs in each city follows: Chicago 1 220 761: New York 1,163,000: Philadelphia 977.343; Boston 922 222; St Louis. 810 000

The following is a short chronology of the records that were made during the campaign of 1910:

Fastest game on record—On September 17 in the concluding game of the Southern League season in Atlanta. Mobile defeated Atlanta in nine full innings. playing the game in thirty-two minutes This is believed to be the record for fast games

Record throw—The world's record for the long distance throwing of a baseball that had stood for 36 years was broken at the field day between the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh National League teams on October 9 in Cincinnati. when Sheldon Lejeune of the Evansville club of the Central League threw the sphere 426 feet 6¼ inches. which is 25 feet 10¾ inches over the old record in a special match between Lejeune and Escar Fandre of Springfield The record that has stood for more than a third of a century was made by John Hatfield and was 400 feet 7½ inches

Record in stolen bases—What is believed to be a world's record for stolen bases during the last 19 years was made by William N Zimmerman the Utica right-fielder. who in the New York State League season. stole 107 bases in 135 games He finished the season with a batting average of 295.

A new record for the number of pitchers used in one series between clubs—The Naps and Red Sox broke an American League record when they used nineteen pitchers in a five-game series Cleveland used ten and Boston nine there being only four repeaters. Koestner. Blanding and Fanwell for Cleveland. and Collins for Boston Cleveland might have gone through the series without calling upon the same pitcher twice as Cy Young Mayberry and Doane were not called upon to perform Likewise Boston did not call upon Karger or Mahoney to pitch. Here is the way the pitchers worked: September 26 Blanding and Fanwell vs Cicotte and Collins: September 27. Dernott and Mitchell vs Hunt and Hall. Harkness and Koestner vs F Smith and Wood: September 28. Kaler and Koestner vs McHale. September 29. Fanwell and Blanding vs C. Smith and Collins.

THE FINANCIAL RESULT.

THE receipts of the 1910 World's Championship Series did not quite equal the record made by Pittsburgh last year when the attendance was 145.295 and the receipts $188 302 50 but that great total was for seven games whereas the Athletic-Chicago series ended with the fifth game In this series the total paid attendance was 124,421 and the total receipts $174.000 Of this amount the clubs' share was $31,226.40 each. the National Commission's share was $17,408 03. and the players' share was $79 071 93. Of this 60 per cent., or $47 443.15 goes to the winners and $31,628 77 to the losers As there are 23 players on each team eligible to participate. each of the Athletics was entitled to round numbers to $2 062 79 and each Chicagoan to $1 375 16 The players' total was increased by courtesy of the National Commission which ruled that in the event of a Sunday game if the receipts were larger than those of any previous day. the smallest receipts should be considered as accruing to the fifth game and the Sunday receipts accredited to the fourth contest. the last in which the players had a financial share Following are the figures.

First game Philadelphia: attendance 26.891. receipts, $37.424 50: second game. Philadelphia attendance 24 597. receipts, $35 137: third game, Chicago 26 412. receipts $36,771.50: fourth game Chicago attendance 19,150 receipts $27.550 50: fifth game Chicago. attendance 27,371 receipts $37 116 50. Total attendance 124 421. receipts $174.000 Each club's share, $31 326 40; National commission, $17.408 03; players share for four games, $79,071 92.

Sunday World Field Days.

The Sunday World Field Days were inaugurated in the New York City public schools in 1906 under the auspices of the Public Schools Athletic League. In the five years of this annual series of athletic meets 135,000 boys have participated in the games, more than 14,000 medals have been awarded to the winners of events and 600 banners to classes that made the best athletic records in the various schools.

In 1906, 94 field day meets were held by 98 schools, separate meets for all schools, except a few that combined; and in these games 16,000 boys were entered, an average of 165 from each school.

In 1907, 20,000 boys took part in the games, and 100 meets were held.

In 1908, 114 schools held the meets. In the final meet held at Curtis Athletic Field, Staten Island, the city carrying all the contestants by ferry boat free, 1,400 boys competed in the games and there were nearly 10,000 spectators, school children, teachers and parents.

In 1909, 147 grammar schools of the city, including all of the largest in each of the five boroughs, held the Sunday World Field Days. The year was one of immense enthusiasm and interest in the games in all the city schools. There were some huge meets by big Manhattan and Brooklyn schools. In one (P. S. No. 83, Manhattan), 1,400 boys competed, and in another (P. S. No. 62, Manhattan), 1,070 boys took part in the games. Eight other schools each entered more than 500 boys in their field day contests for the World prizes; 30 other schools had more than 400 boys in these games. The year's enrolment of boys entered in the games reached the immense total of 33,600. Twelve hundred teachers acted as officials at the meets, which in most cases were directly supervised by the principal of the school.

In 1910, the surprising record of 1909 in the Sunday World Field Days was exceeded both in number of schools and of boy contestants. One hundred and fifty-four schools held the separate meets and 36,000 boys were entered in the games. In view of the success of these field days the Board of Education made a rule permitting schools to devote one school day in the year to field-day sports. Thirty-four schools held these all-day outings and from these 34 schools 50,000 children enjoyed the outing and the programme of

The Sunday World Point Trophy for the elementary school championship of the city of New York was won by P. S. Nos. 10 and 27, Manhattan, who tied in the score at the final meet.

The All-City Plaque for the school that had the best all-around meet of the year was won by P. S. No. 62, Manhattan, which had 1,070 boys entered in its field day games.

The Sunday World Baseball League inaugurated in 1908, under the auspices of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, was continued in 1910 under the direction of the Bureau of Recreation of the New York Department of Parks. Two hundred baseball teams of boys under 17 years of age, representing the various playgrounds of the city, played in the games.

Under the direction of the Bureau of Recreation, the Sunday World Vacation Games were held on 18 of the city playgrounds, in July, August and September. Eight thousand boys and girls took part in this organized play under competent supervision.

On July 4, 1910, the Sunday World gave the prizes and in conjunction with the P. S. A. L. arranged a Flag Relay Race, in which 37 teams of 20 boys each, from over 50 New York schools, competed. The Park Department for the first time in the history of the city permitted the use of the Speedway and Fifth Avenue for athletics in the running of the preliminary final heats of this race, which was witnessed by 25,000 spectators.

THE SUNDAY WORLD WALKING CLUB.

The organization of the Sunday World Walking Club in the New York public schools was begun at the opening of the schools in September, 1910. Within the first month more than 300 squads of eight boys each, and 80 squads of girls, had been organized, making a membership in the club of more than 3,000 pupils. The purpose of the Club is to encourage walking among New York children, and prizes are given quarterly to members of all squads that walk 50 miles and 100 miles. A teacher, or other adult person approved by the school principal, must accompany each squad on its sight-seeing tour of the city or its suburbs.

Evening World Headpin Championship Bowling.

THE Evening World free headpin championship tournament was held at the White Elephant Alleys, New York, January 19 to February 18, 1910. Five hundred and eighty-six five-men teams (2,930 men) bowled. Of the individual bowlers, 240 received fobs, five getting those of solid gold, which were given to those who made scores of 115 pins or more and the others silver fobs for scores of 105 pins or more. The Corinthian team, which made a new record of 550 pins out of a possible 600, received the Evening World championship trophy. Emil Roedel of the Empire B. C., made the highest individual score of 116 pins.

Pugilism.

JOHNSON-JEFFRIES FIGHT

THE feature of 1910 in pugilism was the Jack Johnson-Jim Jeffries battle fought at Reno, Nevada, on July 4. In many respects it was the most remarkable bout ever held, establishing new records in gate receipts and purse. Johnson, the champion, won in the fifteenth round after a one-sided fight which failed to enthuse the 18,000 spectators who came from all parts of the world to witness what was generally expected to be the greatest heavyweight contest in the history of modern pugilism.

Immediately following Johnson's acquisition of the championship through his defeat of Tommy Burns at Sydney, Australia, on December 26, 1908, there arose a demand that he meet Jeffries. The latter had voluntarily retired from the ring on July 3, 1905, when he passed the heavyweight title to Marvin Hart, who defeated Jack Root at Reno on that date.

For almost a year talk of a match between the undefeated and retired champion and Johnson, the present champion, continued. It was not until Jeffries' return from a conditioning trip abroad on October 22, 1909, that he publicly expressed his determination to meet Johnson, who repeatedly reiterated his willingness to fight Jeffries for the title. On October 29 the present and retired champions met in New York City and signed tentative articles to fight forty-five rounds or more on or about July 4, 1910. At that time it was agreed to award the bout to the club offering the largest purse, the same to be divided seventy-five per cent. to the winner and twenty-five per cent. to the loser. Bids for the match were to be opened on December 1, 1909.

On that date the representatives of the two pugilists met and decided to defer the opening of bids twenty-four hours. On December 2, 1909, bids were opened at a Hoboken, N. J., hotel. A number of bids were listed and then it was announced that G. L. "Tex" Rickard had secured the match with his offer of a $101,000 purse and the entire moving picture profits, one-third of which net profits was to be returned to him by the pugilists. He agreed to hold the fight in either California, Nevada or Utah on July 4, 1910, which date fell on Monday. It later developed that the opening of bids was a mere formality since Rickard, according to his own statement, had signed the men to fight for him two days before.

Following the award of the match to Rickard he took Jack Gleason, a resident of San Francisco, into partnership with him and plans were made to stage the match in the inclosure of the California Jockey Club at Emeryville, a small township just outside of Oakland, California, across the bay from San Francisco. In the meantime both Johnson and Jeffries toured the country with troupes of boxers and wrestlers, giving exhibitions at various cities. Jeffries was first to close his tour and entered upon active training on April 5 at Rowardennan Park, near Ben Lomond, California, about seventy miles south of San Francisco. Johnson opened training quarters at Seal Rock Pavilion on the ocean front of San Francisco on May 1. Opposition, both political and religious, developed against holding the fight at Emeryville, and late in May promoters Rickard and Gleason decided to stage the fight in the city of San Francisco.

Offices were opened in the Flannery Building and a permit secured from the Board of Supervisors for the holding of a forty-five-round boxing exhibition under the name of the Marathon A. C. The arena site was selected at the corner of Eighth and Market Streets and the building of a series of stands to accommodate 30,200 spectators began. There was great rivalry for the position of referee and so much bitterness and political wire pulling that eventually Rickard was named as referee in order to settle the controversy. Opposition from the San Francisco Church Federation and certain political factions developed as had previously occurred in Oakland.

The matter finally reached the stage where Governor Gillett of California interfered. He ordered U. S. District-Attorney Webb to stop all boxing bouts in the State of California. The Sam Langford-Al Kaufman bout set for June 17 was abandoned after several companies of militia were ordered out to suppress the contest. Rickard and Gleason immediately prepared to move to Nevada, where prize fights were permitted under the State statutes. Rickard left for Reno on June 19. Reno, Goldfield, and Ely all bid for the fight, but the bout was finally awarded to the Reno A. C. of Reno on June 21. The following day Jeffries arrived from Rowardennan Park and resumed training at Moana Springs, on the outskirts of Reno. Johnson arrived on June 24 and secured quarters at Rick's resort. There was no further interference and by Saturday, July 2, Reno's population of 15,000 had been doubled by the arrival of prospective spectators from all parts of the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, France, England and other portions of the globe.

The day of the fight was fair and warm and the spectators began to gather about the arena, which was a fac-simile of the San Francisco structure, but considerably smaller, as early as 10 o'clock in the morning. The gates were opened at 12 o'clock noon and by 1 o'clock the stands were well filled. There were few vacant seats when the pugilists entered the ring at 2.45 o'clock. Johnson was seconded by Billy Delaney, Barney Furey, George Cotton, Dave Mills, Sig Hart and Tom Flanagan. In Jeffries' corner were Jim Corbett, Sam Berger, Farmer Burns, Roger Corneil and Bob Armstrong. Before the fight was started more than thirty famous pugilists and wrestlers were introduced and the gathering contained the greatest number of prominent pugilists and sporting men ever assembled about one ring.

Previous to the opening round Rickard announced that the principals had decided to divide the purse on a sixty and forty per cent. basis instead of the original seventy-five and twenty-five as called for by the fight agreement. Both pugilists sold their moving picture rights before the fight. Jeffries received $66,666.67 for his share, and Johnson $50,000. In addition each received a bonus of $10,000 for signing for the fight. Rickard received $33,333.33 for his picture rights, but Gleason refused to sell outright and received a percentage of the receipts. It was estimated that Jeffries cleared $75,000 as a result of his exhibition tour previous to the fight, and Johnson one-third of that sum.

The following paragraphs have been divided and indexed in order to afford quick reference facilities:

FIGHT OFFICIALS.—Referee, "Tex" Rickard, Ely, Nev.; Alternate Referee, Charley White, New York; Timekeeper, George F. Harting, San Francisco; Announcer, Billy Jordon, San Francisco; Betting Commissioner, Tom Corbett, San Francisco; Stakeholder, Timothy D. Sullivan, New York City.

PUGILISTS' RECEIPTS.—all sources—Johnson, winner, purse, $50,000; bonus, $10,000; sale of picture rights, $33,333; exhibition tour previous to fight, $25,000; total, $118,333. Jeffries, loser, purse, $50,000; bonus, $10,000; picture rights, $66,666; exhibition tour receipts, $75,000; total, $192,666.

GATE RECEIPTS, $270,775. Ticket sale, 1,258 fifty-dollar seats; 150 forty-dollar seats; 643 thirty-dollar seats; 1,595 twenty-five-dollar seats; 1,457 twenty-dollar seats; 1,705 fifteen-dollar seats and 9,050 ten-dollar seats. In addition there were 760 complimentary tickets distributed. Paid attendance, 15,763. Some 2,500 extra gained admission by climbing fences.

BETTING.—Jeffries was the favorite from signing of articles. Betting opened with the retired champion at 10 to 7 choice. The odds fluctuated but little until the day of the fight, when Jeffries was 2 to 1 favorite. Johnson rose to even money in the fourteenth round. Estimates placed the total amount wagered on the fight all over the world between three and five million dollars.

BETTING DECISIONS.—Tom Corbett, official betting commissioner, decided that Johnson won inside of fifteen rounds but that Jeffries did not last fifteen rounds. Jeffries was not counted out by Timekeeper Harting and was not unconscious at the finish. Bets that Johnson would knock out Jeffries were paid on Rickard's statement that it was a virtual knockout.

Motorcycle Racing.

ACCORDING to the competition rules of the Federation of American Motorcyclists as adopted September 14, 1909, no record shall be accepted or recognized which is made on any motorcycle having an engine of greater piston displacement than 61 cubic inches (1.000 cubic centimetres). The distances officially recognized for speed records are one kilometre and one mile, and afterward by miles up to and including a distance of 25 miles. Above 25 miles and including 100 miles the official distances recognized for speed records will be those which are multiples of five, thus, 30, 35, 40, 45, etc. Above 100 miles the distances officially recognized for speed records will be the distances covered by hundreds of miles and by the hour. Only the following records made with a standing start will be recorded—the standing kilometre and the standing mile. All other record distances shall be negotiated from a flying start.

June 25, at New York City—Crescent A. C. defeated Tecumseh A A., of Toronto, Can., by 10 to 4.

Chess.

THE year 1910 was made notable by a match for the world's chess championship between Dr E. Lasker, title holder, and Carl Schlechter of Vienna, the first of the kind in which Dr. Lasker failed to carry off the honors. The champion came within an ace of being defeated, but by winning the tenth and last game, tied Schlecter's score and saved his title. Schlechter won the fifth game, all of the rest being drawn. The play was at Vienna and Berlin In a series at Paris, Dr Lasker defeated D Janowski by 7 to 1 and 2 drawn. In the international cable matches, Great Britain defeated America for the second time in succession, but in the subsequent match against Oxford and Cambridge the American collegians repeated their success of 1910. Among the notables who died in 1910 was Sir George Newnes Bart donor of the Anglo-American cable match trophy. Frank J. Marshall, United States chess champion, who toured the country under the management of the American Chess Bulletin, of New York defeated J W Showalter of Georgetown, Ky., in a championship match at Lexington by the score of 7 to 2 and 3 drawn. The championship of the Manhattan Chess Club, too, was won by Marshall Marshall also attended the international congress at Hamburg in August, which was won by Schlechter and the American was bracketed with R. Teichmann for fifth place. A tie between Harvard and Yale was the outcome of the annual tournament with Columbia and Princeton in New York and, although two matches were arranged to break the tie, this result was not accomplished, both being drawn. The University of Pennsylvania won the annual tournament of the Triangular College Chess League in New York from Cornell and Brown A new departure was made by the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, which included in its programme of lectures a series of four on the subject of chess by Albert B. Hodges, ex-United States champion, and later a similar series by Hermann Helms, former New York State champion.

C. H. Y. P Tournament—The eighteenth of this annual series ended in a tie between Harvard and Yale, each team scoring 7 points out of 12. Columbia 6½ to 5½, was third, and Princeton 3½ to 8½, last. The winning scores: Yale—J. R. Chandler, 3 to 0; G. Burgess, 1½ to 1½; C F Jefferson, 1 to 2; G. F. Parsons, 1½ to 1½. Harvard—C. S. Hadley, ½ to 2½; W. M P Mitchell 1 to 2; F P. Byerly, 3 to 0; D. B. Priest, 2½ to ½.

Triangular College Chess League—Won by Pennsylvania, 6½ to 1½; Cornell, 5½ to 2½; Brown, 0 to 8. Winning scores: N. T. Whitaker, 4 to 0; H. L Bauder 2½ to 1½.

New York State Meeting—February 22. State championship won by J R Capablanca; C Jaffe, second. Summer meeting at Rochester—Masters tournament won by J L. Clark, Harvard Chronology of Aviation.

BY HUDSON MAXIM AND WILLIAM J. HAMMER.

THE rapidity of the development and utilization of the power-driven, man-carrying, heavier-than-air machine or aeroplane since the memorable flight of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., on December 17, 1903, has been most extraordinary.

The development of the aeroplane has exceeded even that of the automobile in a similar period of time, and with the greatest scientific and engineering talent of the civilized world turning its attention to this field a great future for the aeroplane is assured. Of its manifold influences upon civilization we can have but a faint conception to-day, for the world is but beginning to realize that the conquest of the air is an accomplished fact.

There are five hundred men flying to-day in heavier-than-air machines, whereas until the latter part of 1906 there were but two men who could fly, Messrs. Wilbur and Orville Wright, of Dayton, Ohio, who during the period from 1903 to 1906, made 160 flights, totalling almost exactly 100 miles; one flight, that of October 5, 1905, being of 24.2 miles in length and lasting 38 minutes and 3 seconds in duration.

As in the development of all arts, many men have left their impress upon the art of flying and contributed in no small degree to our knowledge of the subject and the ultimate success achieved. We must not, however, confound the experiments with gliders (aeroplanes without power) nor the straightaway jumps or glides of a few hundred feet in length, of power driven man-carrying aeroplanes with the actual flights (now so common) under abnormal weather conditions. Whereas the early experimenters never actually flew in disturbed air nor demonstrated their ability to control the fore and aft and lateral stability of their machines in flight the aviators of the present day successfully deal, not alone with strong, steady winds, but powerful gusts, cross winds, cyclonic swirls, ascending and descending currents, etc.

The name of Prof. Samuel P. Langley, former secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, occupies a position of paramount importance in the art of flying. He it was who first dignified an art which had been relegated to the cranks and charlatans by lending to it his name and support as a scientist and engineer of great distinction. For upward of twenty years he studied, experimented, evolved and demonstrated his theories. He built a model aeroplane, weighing 27 pounds, driven by a steam engine of one and a quarter horse power, weighing but 25 ounces, which flew many times, in distances from half to three-quarters of a mile, or until the fuel gave out, and maintaining its equilibrium automatically in winds of four to five miles an hour. Langley subsequently built another model driven by gasoline power and also built a large man-carrying aeroplane upon similar lines, and four times as large as his models which was twice tried out on the Potomac River in 1903, being operated by his assistant, Charles M. Manly, who designed and built the 52.4 horse power engine which Langley employed. Accidents due to the aeroplane catching in the launching mechanism damaged the machine and precipitated it into the water before its ability to fly could be demonstrated.

Sir Hiram Maxim's aeroplane weighed 7,800 pounds, was 126 feet in length and 104 feet in width, had a surface area of 4,000 square feet and was driven by two compound steam engines weighing 640 pounds and developing 363 horse power at a steam pressure of 320 pounds. Maxim employed a remarkably efficient modification of the Thornycroft water-tube boiler using oil fuel and weighing 1,060 pounds; the thrust of his two propellers, which were 17 feet 10 inches in diameter, was 2,300 pounds. In testing his aeroplane, which was mounted upon wheels and ran on a rail track, four supplementary wheels arranged to bear upon the under side of holding-down rails, were provided in order that the machine, when rising from the ground, might be held within a short distance of the ground during the test. Unfortunately the strain upon the axles and the guard rail was too great and the giant aeroplane was wrecked July 31, 1894, without any actual flight having been made.

M. Clement Ader, in 1872, built a flapping wing machine or ornithopter, to be operated by his own power. It had a wing spread of 26 feet and weighed 33 pounds. This proved a complete failure. He subsequently built a huge bat-shaped aeroplane, weighing 1,100 pounds and carrying a steam engine of from 20 to 30 horse power, which drove two four-bladed propellers attached to the front of the aeroplane. On October 14, 1897, while endeavoring to make a flight and after a short run on the grounds the machine was wrecked due to deficient equilibration.

Prof. Samuel P. Langley, M. Clement Ader, who was backed by the French Government, and Sir Hiram S. Maxim in England, each spent upward of $160,000 in endeavoring to make a successful flying machine, and they one and all gave it up, having made nothing which could be considered as an actual flight or as a demonstration of stability or equilibration. The work of these three men was of the greatest magnitude and importance and they hold an assured place among the great pioneers in the art of flying. There are many others to whom the world owes a debt of gratitude for their pioneer efforts. Among these are Otto Lilienthal, the German mechanical engineer, who lost his life in a glider in 1896 after making over 2,000 successful glides, Octave Chanute, the American civil engineer, whose experiments with gliding machines and those of his assistant, Herrn Augustus M. Herring, covering some 2,000 glides, and whose various contributions to the technical press, both here and abroad, were of great value; Percy Pilcher of England, who lost his life in a glider in 1899; Prof. J. Jay J. Montgomery of California, whose assistant, Malloney, was killed in a glider in 1905, and Messrs. Cayley, Wenham, Moulliard, Stringfellow, Phillips, Pilcin, Henson, Le Bris, Penaud and Hargrave, whose experiments with gliders and kites were of great interest and value. The more recent work of Santos Dumont, Voisin brothers, Farman, Bleriot, Levassour, Curtiss and other aeroplane builders and operators will be exemplified in the accompanying tables which have been prepared especially for THE WORLD ALMANAC.

Hubert Latham	Antoinette mono.	July 19, 1909	11 miles over Channel, fell in water	.....	1	First attempt to cross Channel in aeroplane.
Louis Bleriot	Bleriot monoplane	July 25, 1909	25 miles	0 37 00	1	First cross-Channel passage. Flew from Sangatte to Dover. Employed an Anzani motor.
Hubert Latham	Antoinette mono.	July 27, 1909	20 miles, fell in sea near Dover.	.....	1	This was Latham's second unsuccessful attempt.
Count Jacques de Lesseps	Bleriot monoplane	May 21, 1910	26 miles	0 45 00	1	Flew from Calais to Dover, aeroplane equipped with Gnome motor. Won Prix Ruinart which had been lost by Bleriot the previous year through a technicality.
Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls	Wright biplane	June 2, 1910	55 miles in all of which 50 miles was over water.	1 30 00	1	First round trip Channel passage from Dover, England, to Sangatte, France, and return. This was also the record trip for over water at the time. He dropped three messages at Sangatte without stopping. Large air bags were attached to lower planes. This was first biplane Channel flight.
John B. Moisant	Bleriot monoplane	Aug. 7, 1910	About 25 miles	0 32 00	2	First Channel crossing with passenger. Carried his mechanician, Albert Fileux, entire distance from Paris to London. Moisant weighed 135 lbs. and Fileux 175 lbs. Crossed from Calais to Tilmanstone, England. After many accidents and delays he reached London September 6, 1910, three weeks after leaving Paris. This was first Paris to London flight.

NOTABLE AEROPLANE DURATION AND DISTANCE FLIGHTS. (CONTINUOUS FLIGHTS.)

NOTE—Prior to 1908 no one had made a flight of one hour; in 1908 there were 11; in 1909, 56, and since then they have been quite common.

WILBUR WRIGHT.

December 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time, 12s. (this was second trial in 27-mile wind and did not demonstrate that they had power or control). December 17, 1903, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time 59s; flew 852 feet; this was the fourth trial and made in a 20-mile wind (this was the first actual flight by man in an aeroplane and demonstrated they had power and control). August, 1904, at Dayton, Ohio; time, 1m. November 9, 1904, Dayton, Ohio, time, 5m 4s, flew 3 miles (with second motor flier). Wright brothers made 105 flights in 1904. September 26, 1905, time, 18m 9s.; flew 11 125 miles. October 5, 1905 Dayton, Ohio; time 38m. 3s.; flew 24 2 miles (world's record). During 1905 Wright brothers made 49 flights, that of October 5, 1905, was longer than all of the flights of 1904 together. No flights were made during 1906 and 1907. May 11, 1908, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time, 2m. 28s.; flew 1.855 miles. May 14, 1908, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time, 7m 20s. August 8 1908, Le Mans, France; time, 1m. 47s. August 10, 1908 Le Mans, France, time, 1m 48s. August 11 1908, Le Mans, France; time 3m 41s. August 12, 1908, Le Mans, France; time, 6m 56s; flew 4 miles. August 13, 1908, flew 8m. 13.4s. September 3, 1908, flew 10m 40s. September 5, 1908 LeMans, France; time, 19m. 48 4s. September 10, 1908, flew 21m. 43 4s. September 16 1908 flew 39m. 18 4s. September 21, 1908, Le Mans, France; time, 1h. 31m 21 4-5s; flew 41 miles (made 100 flights at Le Mans and took up 36 people as passengers). September 24, 1908 Le Mans France; time, 54m. 3 1-5s. October 10, 1908 Le Mans, France, time, 1h 9m 45 3-5s.; flew 46 miles. December 18, 1908, Le Mans, France; time 1h. 54 53 2-5s.; flew 62 miles. December 31 1908 Le Mans, France; time, 2h 20m 23 1-5s; flew 77 miles (first man to fly for 2 hours continuously). March 20 1909, Pau, France, time, 6m (no previous propulsion). April 16, 1909, Rome, Italy (made many flights here and took up passengers). October 4, 1909 New York City; time 33m 33s; flew 21 miles (from Governor's Island, New York Bay, up the Hudson River above Grant's Tomb and back during the Hudson-Fulton celebration). On September 29, 1909, made 3 flights, 2 over Governor's Island and 1 around the Statue of Liberty and back to Governor's Island. Also has since made many flights at College Park Md., Dayton, Ohio, and elsewhere.

ORVILLE WRIGHT.

December 17, 1903 at Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time 12s (this was the first attempt and was made in a 27-mile wind and did not demonstrate that they had power or control). December 17, 1903, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time 15s (this was the third attempt). September 15, 1904 Dayton, Ohio, made first turn ever made with an aeroplane. September 20, 1904, made first complete circle with an aeroplane. December 1, 1904 Dayton, Ohio, time, 5m. 4s; flew 3 miles (with second motor flier). September 29, 1905, Dayton, Ohio; time 19m 55s; flew 12 miles. September 30, 1905, Dayton Ohio, time 17m 15s. October 3, 1905, Dayton Ohio; time 25m 5s, flew 15 25 miles. October 4, 1905, Dayton Ohio; time, 33m. 17s.; flew 20 75 miles. (No flights were made during 1906 and 1907.) May 11 1908, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time, 2m 11s.; flew 1 205 miles. May 13, 1908, Kitty Hawk, N. C., U. S. A.; time 3m 20s, flew 2 440 miles. On May 13, 1908, also made two flights, one of 1 701 miles in 2m. and 44s and one of 2m. and 39s (see also passenger records). September 3, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A.; time, 1m. 10s. September 4, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A.; time, 4m. 30s. September 5 1908, Fort Myer, Va. U. S. A.; time 4m 11⅘s. September 7, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A.; time, 1m 28s. September 8, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A., time 11m. 10s. September 9, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A., time 57m 31s. September 9 1908 Fort Myer, Va. U. S. A.; time, 7m. 34s (flew at altitude of 150 feet, a world's record). September 9, 1908, Fort Myer Va., U. S. A.; time, 1h 2m 15s; flew 40 miles (world's record first man to fly continuously for 1 hour, see also passenger records). September 10, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A.; time, 1h. 5m 42s (world's record). September 11 1908 Fort Myer Va. U. S. A.; time, 1h 10m 24s (world's record). September 12 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A.; time 1h 14m 24s; flew 50 miles (longest flight made in 1908, flew at 250 feet altitude new world's record). September 17, 1908, Fort Myer, Va., U. S. A. (accident to Wright biplane, resulting in death of Lieutenant Selridge and injury to Mr Wright). July 20, 1909, Fort Myer Va. U. S. A.; time 1h 20m 45s. July 21 1909, Fort Myer Va., U. S. A.; time, 1h 12m. 40s (for official United States Government flights see speed and passenger records). August 29, 1909, Berlin, Germany, time, 15m. September 4, 1909, Berlin Germany; time, 55m. September 17 1909 Berlin, Germany, time 54m 26s. September 18 1909 1h 35m 47s, world's passenger record. October 4, 1909 Berlin, Germany ascended 1,600 feet, world's record. (Made many flights at Berlin, Germany, during August, September and October, 1909.) Has since made many flights at Dayton Ohio, and elsewhere.

RECORD OF LOSS OF LIFE IN AEROPLANE ACCIDENTS.

Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, U. S. A. (American), killed at Fort Myer, Va., September 17, 1908, while flying in a Wright biplane with Orville Wright, who was severely injured. Accident probably due to breaking of propeller.

Eugene Lefebvre (French), killed at Juvisy, France, while flying in a Wright biplane on September 7, 1909.

Capt. Louis F. Ferber (French), killed at Boulogne, France, September 22, 1909, in a Voisin biplane. Killed in making an unfortunate landing.

Antonio Fernandez (Spanish), a French aviator of Spanish birth, killed at Nice, France, on December 6, 1909, in a Wright type of biplane of his own construction. A motor cylinder exploded at an altitude of 500 metres, hurling him to the ground in his machine.

Leon Delagrange (French), killed while operating a Bleriot monoplane at Bordeaux, France, on January 4, 1910, when a wing of his aeroplane broke while the aviator was making a turn at high speed against the wind.

Hubert Le Blon (French), was killed at San Sebastian, Spain, on April 2, 1910, by falling into the harbor, where his Bleriot monoplane, driven by a 50 H.P., 7-cylinder Gnome motor, from an unknown cause turned turtle. He was but slightly bruised, and it is presumed that his death was due to drowning.

Hauvette Michelin (French), was killed at Lyons, France, May 13, 1910, in an Antoinette monoplane. While running his aeroplane along the ground prior to ascending, he struck one of the bylons or stakes used in marking the course, which fell on top of him, causing his death.

Aindan de Zoseley (Hungarian), was killed at Budapest, Hungary, on June 2, 1910, by a fall from a machine of his own construction. He fractured his skull, dying the same day.

Thaddeus Robl (German), formerly a professional bicycle rider, was killed at Stettin, Germany, June 18, 1910, in a H. Farman biplane. He ascended in a high wind, due to the insistenee of an angry crowd, and at a height of 350 feet circled twice, and after dropping to within 50 feet of the earth, he turned up his elevator or front rudder, but his machine did not respond quickly enough and he was dashed to the ground with frightful force. His neck was broken and he died in a few moments.

Charles Louis Wachter (French), who had made many excellent flights and who on May 15, 1910, remained aloft for 2 hours and 2 min., was killed on July 3, 1910, at Rheims, France, in an Antoinette monoplane due to the breaking of one the wings of his machine while at a height of five hundred feet from the ground.

Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls (English), was killed July 12, 1910, at Bournemouth, England, aviation meet, in a Short-Wright biplane. While endeavoring to alight from a considerable height within a marked square in front of the grand stand, his front control or elevator broke in his rapid descent at an acute angle.

Daniel Kinet (Belgian), fell at Ghent, Belgium, July 10, 1910. The rudder of his H. Farman biplane broke and the machine, turning over and over, fell from a great height. He died July 15, 1910.

Nicholas Kinet (Belgian), a brother of Daniel Kinet, was killed in his Henry Farman biplane, at the Brussels meet, August 3, 1910. While flying at a height of 650 feet, a rear wire became entangled in his motor, stopping the engine so suddenly that it turned on its side and crashed to the ground, instantly killing Kinet. Last May he had made a memorable flight of nearly 3 hours with a passenger.

Lieut. (Marquis) Vivaldi, of the Italian Army, was killed near Rome, Italy, on August 20, 1910, while returning from a cross country flight to Civitavecchia, about 38 miles from Rome, the motor of his Farman biplane stopped from lack of petrol, and the aviator not being an adept in planing, lost control of his machine and was dashed to the ground from a great height and was instantly killed.

Van Maasdyk (Dutch) was killed near Arnhoim, Netherlands, August 27, 1910. While attempting a cross country flight, the motor of his Sommer biplane stopped suddenly, precipitating himself and machine to the ground killing the aviator instantly.

Edmond Poillot (French), was killed at Chartres, France, September 25, 1910, while flying with a passenger, who escaped with slight injuries. The machine had reached a height of 90 feet and seemed to be going well when a piece of canvas was ripped from the plane, causing it to fall backward and completely upside down, burying the two men under the wreckage. Poillot's spine was broken

Georges Chavez (French), who was born in Paris, France, of Peruvian parentage, died at Domo d Ossola, Italy, September 27, 1910, from his injuries, received in his attempt to fly over the Alps from Brieg, Switzerland, to Milan, Italy, a distance of about 75 miles, for a prize of $20,000. He started September 23, 1910, and succeeded in crossing the Alps, ascending to a height of over 8,000 feet and on endeavoring to effect a landing on a plain five kilometres (3.1 miles) from Domo d'Ossola, Italy, for the purpose of securing petrol and oil, and while 30 feet above the ground, the wind caught his monoplane (Bleriot) turning it over and smashing it to the ground. Chavez had both legs and a thigh bone broken, and he suffered internal injuries. It had been decided to give him one-half of the $20,000 prize for his remarkable achievement in crossing the Alps, although there still remained some 50 miles to be covered before Milan could be reached. Chavez, although a comparatively little known aviator, had made an altitude record of 8,409 feet on September 8, 1910, at Issy, France.

Pflehmann (German), the aviator who was seriously injured by the collapsing of his aeroplane at Mühlhausen, Germany, September 28, 1910, while at a height of 150 feet, died on September 29, 1910, without having recovered consciousness.

Haas (German) was instantly killed by the fall of his aeroplane at Wellen on the Moselle River, Germany, on October 1, 1910, during a distance competition from Treves to Metz. The cause of the accident is not known.

Captain Mazlewitch (Russian), military aviator was killed October 7, 1910, in a fall from a Farman biplane at St. Petersburg during an altitude competition. Mazlewitch had ascended 3,930 feet when he decided to descend. At the height of 1,640 feet his machine suddenly upset, throwing the aviator out. Practically every bone in his body was broken. Loss of control of the lever is believed to be responsible for the accident. Mazlewitch was considered the most skilful and careful of the Russian military aviators, and had only a few days before the accident carried Premier Stolypin in a ten-minute flight.

Captain Madiot (French), military aviator, was killed October 23, 1910, at Douai, France, at a height of 100 feet. He endeavored to stop his engine and plane to the ground, but the engine continued to run and his aeroplane plunged to the ground, instantly killing the aviator, whose skull was fractured and completely wrecking his machine. Captain Madiot gained some prominence by his military kite flying experiments at Rheims.

Lieutenant Mente (German) was killed October 25, 1910, at Magdeburg, Germany, while planing to earth in a Wright biplane. He restarted his motor which had stopped when the machine turned turtle crashing to the ground and instantly killing the aviator and wrecking his machine.

Fernando Blanchard (French) was killed October 26, 1910, at Issy les Moulineux, France, as he was about to alight after a flight of 140 miles from Bourges to Paris. He flew over the city at great speed and when about 120 feet above the military exercise grounds at Issy the control of his monoplane broke and he plunged to instant death in the presence of his bride of but a few weeks.

Lieutenant Sagiletti (Italian) was killed October 27, 1910, at the military exercise grounds at Centocello, Italy. His aeroplane was gliding beautifully to earth when it suddenly tipped violently. Sagiletti made a desperate effort to right the machine, but in vain, and he was dashed to the ground and instantly killed.

Ralph Johnstone (American) was killed at Denver, Col., November 17, 1910, while making a spiral glide with a Wright biplane. He started from a height of 800 feet, and after making one turn the middle spar on the left lower plane broke, allowing his plane to fold up and causing the machine to dash rapidly to the earth turning over three times in its fall; practically every bone in the aviator's body was broken. Johnstone made the world's aeroplane altitude record of 9,714 feet at the recent Belmont Park aviation meet.

DIRIGIBLE BALLOONS OR AIRSHIPS.

The United States possesses the Baldwin dirigible built for the War Department, and a few small dirigibles owned by Knabenshue, Myers, Beachy, Wild Baumhaugh Stroebel Dixon Stevens and Owens and used for exhibition purposes. These and a Zodiac recently imported by Seward Davis constitute practically all the dirigibles in this country, and while the American airships are for the most part well designed, simple and cheap, they sink into insignificance when compared with the dirigibles of Europe, particularly of Germany and France.

The Baldwin No. 1 of the United States War Department is 120 feet long, and few, if any, of our dirigibles exceed it in size, whereas the proposed new Zeppelin monster of Germany will be 984 feet in length, driven by eight motors and designed to carry 300 passengers. Professor Hergesell, meteorological adviser to Count Zeppelin, says that improvements in construction will probably enable it to remain in the air for a week at a time.

The remarkable outburst of patriotic feeling and sympathy in Germany after the disaster to the Zeppelin IV. in August, 1908, culminated at the close of that year in a popular subscription of $1,524,000, which enabled Count Zeppelin to equip an immense plant at Friedrichshafen for turning out his giant dirigibles of the rigid type. A full description of their details of construction is not possible here, but roughly speaking, there are some sixteen or seventeen small balloons set like peas in a pod, each balloon being separated from its neighbors by aluminum partitions attached to an aluminum framing which is covered with rubber cloth inclosing all the balloons. This framing is surrounded by a two-foot air space and this in turn is inclosed by a "Pegnoid" outer covering to protect the gas bags from mechanical injury and weather influences. It has lately been found that the motor exhaust gases, after being passed through an asbestos furnace to prevent danger of explosion, can then be led into this space and the gas in the balloons kept at a normal temperature and consequently at a normal lifting power.

Two aluminum boat cars carrying motors are hung from the frame about 200 feet apart and in the exact centres of gravity, and there is a passage way between. A single vertical box kite rudder is hinged between each of the sets of fins, fixed one above the other, on either side of the stern, to direct the ship to the right or left. The stabilizing fins prevent deviation from the line of horizontal flight, while four three-decked horizontal rudders are placed fore and aft on each side of the hull for directing the ship up or down.

In contradistinction to the rigid type of dirigible, of which the Zeppelin until recently was the only illustration, there are the flexible or non-rigid types, such as the Parseval, made in Germany, and the Ville de Paris, made in France, and finally there is the semi-rigid type, consisting in the main of a flexible balloon stiffened by a skeleton framework, and of this type the La Republique, which was destroyed last year, represented a notable example. The Gross semi-rigid dirigible employs a framework of steel tubing, imparting considerable rigidity to the airship. Another semi-rigid German type is the Ruthenberg.

Efforts have been made in Germany, Switzerland and elsewhere to establish scheduled trips and excursions to and from various points, such as from Frankfort to Berlin, a distance of 250 miles, in Zeppelin's, trips, frequently covering distances of 50 to 200 miles and even going as high as 900 miles. These airships carry two motors, each of 150 to 200 horse power, and are driven at an average speed of 35 miles an hour. As a result of the remarkable development of aerial craft aerial maps have been made, upon which are clearly designated the various towns, railroads, elevations, prominent landmarks, etc. Belgium, France and Austria were the first to accept these maps, but Germany, Italy, The Netherlands and Switzerland are completing theirs, and Denmark, England and Spain are about to follow suit.

The Clement-Bayard Company have built huge dirigibles of 133,000 and 200,000 cubic feet capacity for Russia and England. The former, after the acceptance tests were made in Paris, was damaged and descended into the Seine from which it was subsequently rescued, repaired and delivered to Russia, which also possesses a war dirigible of the Republique type, built by the Lebaudy brothers of Paris.

On October 16, 1910, the huge Clement-Bayard dirigible built for England made the trip from Compiegne, 45 miles northeast of Paris, to London in the remarkable time of 6 hours for the 195 miles of the journey. This was the first trip of a dirigible across the English Channel, and the passage was made in 45 minutes and the airship was convoyed across the Channel by three torpedo destroyers. The airship was designed to carry 39 passengers in addition to the crew, and on this trip it was under the direct charge of M. Gustave Clement, of the firm of Clement-Bayard, Baudry and Le Prince, steersmen; Salaetic, engineer and designer; two mechanics and Mr. A. P. Du Cros, M. P., representative of the British Parliament Defense Committee.

During the past Summer whole fleets of dirigibles, as well as many aeroplanes, have taken part in the military manœuvres of the European armies, and it is interesting to note that the Krupps and others have designed special ordnance for destroying aerial craft, securing the range by using smoke-emitting projectiles.

At Osnabruck, near Dusseldorf, a monument is to be erected to mark the spot where the Deutschland VII. came to grief on June 28, 1910, during a storm which completely wrecked it. The 33 passengers who were on board at the time luckily escaped by means of a rope ladder from the tree-tops of the forest of Teutoburgian

The Deutschland had made a trip of 300 miles on June 22, 1910, carrying 20 passengers, and a longer trip on June 24, 1910, carrying 32 passengers, 19 of whom were women.

The Zeppelin II. was destroyed late in April, 1910, after taking part in airship manœuvres with the Gross I (semi-rigid), the Parseval II. (non-rigid), while fighting her way in a high wind from Hamburg to Cologne. She was brought to the ground, but the next day was carried away and completely wrecked in a gale.

The Zeppelin IV. was wrecked near Stuttgart, August 4, 1908, while undergoing repairs; a high wind tore it from its moorings, carrying it into the air, where it was destroyed by fire, caused, it is believed, by an electrical discharge.

In a similar way France lost her famous La Patrie late in November, 1907, after she had made a trip of 187 miles. A gale tore the lines to which the dirigible was fastened from the hands of a company of soldiers and it was blown across France and Ireland and out to sea. France suffered another disaster in the loss of the Republique, when a propeller blade flew off, tearing the gas envelope open and causing an explosion and a fall of the airship from a height of 500 feet and the instant death of four French Army officers. This was on September 25, 1909.

Oscar Erbstoch, the winner of the international balloon race from St. Louis, Mo., in 1907 and his four companions, Messrs. Poelle Hoeppe, Kranz and Soecke, were dashed to death July 13, 1910, near Opladen, Germany while making a trip in an Erbstoch non-rigid dirigible. It is believed that the sudden expansion of the gas at a high altitude burst the balloon

On July 27, 1910, the Gross II. made a night ascent of 7 hours, 50 minutes, passing from Berlin to Gotha

On June 19, 1910, the German Clouth airship sailed from Cologne over the French and Belgian frontiers unnoticed landing at Etterbach near Brussels and covering 125 miles in 5 hours and 20 minutes.

During the past Summer the airship Ville de Luzerne was stationed at Luzerne, Switzerland, and made daily trips; on some days as many as five rides were made the total number carried during a day being 43; in 15 days 21 ascents were made and there was no difficulty in securing passengers at $20 a head.

At Manheim, Germany, Professor Schuette, of the University of Dantzig, has been constructing huge dirigibles, larger than any Zeppelins thus far built and designed to carry 5 to 7 tons and fly 3 to 5 thousand miles. The framework is outside and built of wood instead of metal.

In addition to the dirigibles already referred to, Germany is building rigid types known as the Schuette, the Unger, the Prill and the Rettig, and the Siemens-Schuckert Company are building a non-rigid dirigible. Belgium has La Belgique II., built by Godard of Paris, and they are completing the La Friandre. England, besides her Clement-Bayard, has a non-rigid type under construction and has a "baby" war dirigible for experimental purposes. Vickers Sons & Maxim are building a dirigible said to be larger than Zeppelin's. Italy has a semi-rigid military, a non-rigid Da Schio and a mixed rigid and non-rigid type, the Leonardo da Vinci, and has in preparation two war dirigibles.

Russia has the dirigible built by the Lebaudy Brothers of the Republique type and Spain has the Espana, built by the Astra Company

The most important and interesting event during the past year in which the dirigible has figured is undoubtedly Walter Wellman's attempt to cross the ocean in his airship America, with his crew of five, including Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer; F. Murray Simons, navigator; J. K. Irwin wireless operator; A. L. Loud and John Aubert, assistant engineers. The big dirigible left Atlantic City, N. J. October 15, 1910, and travelled in the air continuously for three days, when Wellman and his five companions and a kitten were picked up by the steamer Trent, off the North Carolina coast, about 375 miles east of Norfolk, Va. After cutting loose the boat car the gas envelope and its trailing "stabilizer" were abandoned, the valve of the gas envelope being left open.

Although Wellman failed in his attempt to cross the Atlantic, he certainly made an earnest effort to do so and at great risk to the lives of all concerned, and he succeeded in establishing new records for the dirigible, making 1,008 miles, as compared with the former record of 850 miles, and remaining in the air 71½ hours, as compared with 37 hours the previous record of Zeppelin.

The America, which is second in size only to the huge Zeppelin dirigibles, was constructed in Paris under the direction of Walter Wellman, and under the direct supervision of Melvin Vaniman who was responsible for most of the design and construction details. The America was 228 feet in length and 52 feet in diameter and had a capacity of 345,000 cubic feet of gas; the envelope being made of three thicknesses of cotton and silk gummed together with rubber to make it gas tight; it had a lifting power of nearly 12 tons and was of the flexible or non-rigid type; its long car, 156 feet in length, was made of steel tubing and attached to the bag by rope connections and bands on the gas envelope and imparted all the rigidity necessary; two motors of 80 to 90 horsepower, were employed for driving the propellers and a third motor of 10 horse power, was used for general utility purposes. The propellers could be adjusted so as to give the airship an up or down movement, rendering deflecting planes unnecessary; a triple planed rudder set vertically, was placed at the rear of the car; six balloonettes were placed in the lower part of the gas bag and air was pumped into these as the gas became exhausted, and the envelope, thus kept taut. A lifeboat 30 feet long was suspended below the centre of the framework and stocked with supplies. No ballast was carried, as the "equilibrator", consisting of 30 steel tanks filled with gasoline and some 40 wooden blocks, were strung on a flexible steel cable about 330 feet long.

The airship usually sailed at a height of 200 feet and as it raised or lowered, due to the expansion or contraction of the gas, more or less of the equilibrator rested on the water, thus relieving the airship of its weight.

SPHERICAL BALLOON ASCENTS.

As indicative of the large number of spherical balloon ascensions made during the past year, which it is impracticable to enumerate herein, it is interesting to consider the latest compilation of the amount of gas utilized in various countries for this purpose. Germany, 2,261,162 cubic metres; France, 810 983 cubic metres; United States, 255,000 cubic metres; Switzerland, 223,830 cubic metres; Belgium, 219,000 cubic metres; Great Britain, 217,734 cubic metres; Italy, 96,350 cubic metres; Austria, 49,500 cubic metres; Spain, 24,600 cubic metres; Sweden, 18,500 cubic metres; Russia, 16,500 cubic metres; Holland, 13,600 cubic metres; Denmark, 8,700 cubic metres; Norway, none. Probably the most serious accident occurring to a spherical balloon during the past year occurred in Germany on April 3. A balloon carrying Dr. W. H. W. Delbruch, member of the Reichstag, and Messrs. Semmelhardt, Bendubn and Helm ascended from Stettin in a gale, the car being almost torn from the gas bag by impacts with telegraph wires and a factory as they arose. They were then swept out to sea as the valve cord was broken. They descended into the sea by using the rip cord. All were exhausted and three sank, Herr Semmelhardt being the only one rescued.

On April 16, 1910, Messrs. Luft, Leuscheuring (manager of the Parseval Airship Company of Munich) and two residents of Leipsic ascended in a balloon at Bitterfeld, near Berlin, and after about five hours, when passing over Eisenach, they encountered a thunderstorm and the balloon was struck by lightning and exploded, instantly killing all the occupants of the balloon.

UNITED STATES RECORDS.

Distance—Allan R. Hawley and Augustus Post (International Balloon Race, G. B. trophy), St. Louis to Lake Tschotogama, Quebec, October 17-19, 1910, 1,171.13 miles (America II.) Duration—Clifford B. Harmon and Augustus Post, St. Louis to Edna, Mo., October 4, 1909 (balloon New York), 48h. 26m. (claimed an altitude of 24,200 feet). Altitude—A. Holland Forbes, holder of the Lahm cup, and James C. Yates, from Quincy, Ill., May 9, 1910 (balloon Viking), ascended 20,600 feet.

The most important event of the past year in spherical ballooning has been the International Balloon Race from St. Louis, Mo., October 17, 1910, which was won by the America II, manned by Allan R. Hawley, pilot, and Augustus Post, aide. They travelled 1,171.13 miles in 45h. 44m., coming to earth at Lake Tschotogama, Province of Quebec, Canada. They established a new American record, but failed to win the world's record, which has been held since October 11, 1900, by Count Henri de la Vaulx (see world's balloon records above).

WORLD'S BALLOON RECORDS.

Distance—Count Henri de la Vaulx and Count Castillion St. Victor, October 9-11, 1900, Vincennes, France, to Karoslychew, Russia, 1,193 miles in 35¾ hours. Duration—Colonel Schaeck and aide, from Berlin, Germany, to sea off Norway (G. B. Int. Race), October 12, 13, 14, 1908, 73 hours (balloon Helvetia). Altitude—Professors Berson and Suring, July 31, 1901, in balloon of 8,400 cubic feet capacity, 34 440 feet (10,500 m.)

WORLD'S RECORD FOR SOUNDING BALLOONS.

From Uccle Observatory, Belgium, November 5, 1908 (29,040 metres) 95,040 feet or over 18 miles. World's Record. Kites—Mt. Weather Observatory, U. S. A., May 6, 1910, 7,205 metres.

N. or any other words, letters, or figures to indicate that the person using the name is such a registered nurse. Two examinations will be held annually in January and June, respectively. Applications should be made at least ten days in advance to Education Department, Examination Division, Albany, N. Y. Dates: Jan. 31–Feb. 3, June 27–30, at New York, Albany, Syracuse, and Buffalo. (Each candidate is notified as to exact place.)

OPTOMETRY EXAMINATIONS—The Regents admit to examination any candidate who pays a fee of $15 and submits satisfactory evidence, verified by oath, that he is more than 21 years of age, of good moral character, has a preliminary education equivalent to at least two years in a registered high school, and has also studied at least three years in a registered optometrist's office or has graduated from a recognized school of optometry. The certificate of every candidate successfully passing the examination is numbered and recorded in the Regents' office, together with the candidate's photograph, a duplicate of which must be affixed to his certificate. Dates of examinations, held at New York, Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo, Jan. 31–Feb. 2, May 23–25, June 27–29, Sept. 26–28. (Each candidate is notified as to exact place). Application should be made at least one week in advance to Education Department, Examinations Division, Albany, N. Y.

Statistics of Illiteracy.

TABLE I.

Table I gives the number of illiterates per thousand population in the countries of Europe where census statistics on the subject have been found. The age periods have been made as nearly comparable as the figures permit and the proportion for the United States is added to the list.

COUNTRY.	Illiterates per Thousand	Year.	Age Period	COUNTRY.	Illiterates per Thousand	Year	Age Period.

TABLE II.

Table II., which follows gives the proportion of illiterates among army recruits in some European countries. The authority for this table is Hubner's Annual Tables for 1909, pages 93 and 94. For the United States, a comparable figure to those contained in this table would be the number of illiterates among native white males, 21 to 24 years of age. This figure is added to the list.

*The advance of education in England and Wales is shown by the decreasing proportion of persons who must sign the marriage registers by mark. In 1843, 32.7 per cent men and 49.0 per cent. women married within the year signed in this way: in 1908, 1.3 per cent. men and 1.5 per cent. women. In Scotland (1907), 1.32 per cent. men and 1.75 per cent women signed by mark. In Ireland (1908), 8.0 per cent. men and 8.5 per cent. women.

Education is also compulsory in Austria, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain (compulsory under specified conditions), Greece (law lax), Hungary, Portugal (law lax), Servia, Spain (law lax) and United States.

In Russia (in Europe) the provinces of Esthonia, Curland and St. Petersburg are least illiterate.

Copyright Law of the United States.

DIRECTIONS FOR SECURING COPYRIGHT UNDER ACT OF CONGRESS OF MARCH 4, 1909.

THE new copyright law approved March 4, 1909, which took effect on July 1, 1909, provides that the application for registration of any work "shall specify to which of the following classes the work in which copyright is claimed belongs:"

SUBJECT MATTER OF COPYRIGHT.

(a) Books, including composite and cyclopaedic works, directories, gazetteers, and other compilations; (b) periodicals, including newspapers; (c) lectures, sermons, addresses prepared for oral delivery; (d) dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions; (e) musical compositions; (f) maps; (g) works of art; models or designs for works of art; (h) reproductions of a work of art; (i) drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character; (j) photographs; (k) prints and pictorial illustrations.

The application for registration of any article should distinctly specify to which one of these classes the work belongs. An article is not entitled to registration unless it is reasonably possible to class it under one or the other of the designations named in the statute.

STEPS NECESSARY TO SECURE COPYRIGHT REGISTRATION.

For works reproduced in copies for sale: 1. Publish the work with the copyright notice. The notice may be in the form "Copyright, 19..., (year date of publication) by ..... (name of copyright proprietor)." 2. Promptly after publication, send to the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., two copies of the best edition of the work, with an application for registration and a money order payable to the Register of Copyrights for the statutory registration fee of $1.

In the case of books by American authors, or permanent residents of the United States, the copies deposited must be accompanied by an affidavit, under the official seal of an officer authorized to administer oaths, stating that the type setting, printing, and binding of the book have been performed within the United States. Affidavit and application forms will be supplied by this office on request.

Books of foreign origin in a language or languages other than English are not required to be manufactured in the United States. In the case of a book in the English language published abroad before publication in this country, an ad interim copyright for 30 days may be secured by depositing in the Copyright Office one complete copy of the foreign edition within 30 days after its publication abroad. If two copies of such book manufactured in this country are deposited during the ad interim term, the copyright shall be extended for the full term of 28 years.

For works not reproduced in copies for sale: Copyright may also be had of certain classes of works (see a, b, c, below) of which copies are not reproduced for sale, by filing in this office an application for registration, with the statutory fee of $1, sending therewith: (a) In the case of lectures or other oral addresses or of dramatic or musical compositions, one complete manuscript or typewritten copy of the work. This privilege of registration, however, does not exempt the copyright proprietor from the deposit of printed copies of a dramatic or musical composition or lecture where the work is later reproduced in copies for sale. (b) In the case of photographs not intended for general circulation, one photographic print. (c) In the case of works of art (paintings, drawings, sculpture); or of drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character, one photograph or other identifying reproduction of the work. In all these cases, if the work is later reproduced in copies for sale, such copies must be deposited.

COPYRIGHT FEES.

For registration of any work subject to copyright, $1, which sum is to include a certificate of registration under seal. But only one registration at one fee is required in the case of several volumes of the same book deposited in the Copyright Office at the same time. For every additional certificate of registration, or copy of record under seal, 50 cents. In the case of photographs the fee shall be 50 cents where a certificate is not requested. For recording and certifying an assignment of copyright, or for a certified copy of an assignment, $1, if the instrument is not over three hundred words in length; if more than three hundred and less than one thousand words in length, $2; if more than one thousand words in length, $1 additional for each additional one thousand words or fraction thereof over three hundred words. For comparing a copy of an assignment with the record of such document in the Copyright Office and certifying the same under seal, $1. For recording the transfer of the proprietorship of copyrighted articles, 10 cents for each title of a book or other article, in addition to the fee prescribed for recording the instrument of assignment. For recording an extension or renewal of copyright, 50 cents. Remittances should be made by money order payable to the Register of Copyrights.

DURATION OF COPYRIGHT.

The original term of copyright runs for twenty-eight years. Within one year prior to the expiration of the existing term, the author, if living, or the widow or widower of the author, or the children of the author if not living, or next of kin if none of the above are living, may secure a renewal for a further term of twenty-eight years, making fifty-six years in all. In case of composite works, if the proprietor secured the original copyright, he may also secure the renewal.

ASSIGNMENTS.

Copyrights are assignable by any instrument of writing. Every assignment of copyright must be recorded in the Copyright Office within three calendar months after its execution in the United States or within six calendar months after its execution without the limits of the United States, "in default of which it shall be void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, without notice, whose assignment has been duly recorded." Every assignment of copyright executed in a foreign country must be acknowledged by the assignor before a consular officer or secretary of legation of the United States authorized by law to administer oaths or perform notarial acts. The certificate of such acknowledgment under the hand and official seal of such consular officer or secretary of legation is prima facie evidence of the execution of the instrument.

The Library of Congress.

THE Library of Congress was established in 1800, destroyed in 1814 by the burning of the Capitol, afterward replenished by the purchase by Congress of the library of ex-President Jefferson, 6,760 volumes (cost, $23,950); in 1851, 35,000 volumes destroyed by fire; in 1852, partially replenished by an appropriation of $75,000; increased (1) by regular appropriations by Congress; (2) by deposits under the copyright law; (3) by gifts and exchanges; (4) by the exchanges of the Smithsonian Institution, the library of which (40,000 volumes) was, in 1866, deposited in the Library of Congress with the stipulation that future accessions should follow it. Sixty sets of Government publications are at the disposal of the Librarian of Congress for exchange, through the Smithsonian, with foreign governments, and this number may be increased up to 100. Other special accessions have been: The Peter Force collection (22,529 volumes, 37,000 pamphlets), purchased 1867, cost $100,000; the Count de Rochambeau collection (manuscript), purchased 1883, cost $20,000; the Toner collection (24,484 volumes (numerous pamphlets); gift in 1882 of Dr. Joseph M. Toner, the Hubbard collection (engravings); gift in 1898 of Mrs. Gardiner G. Hubbard.

The collection is now the largest in the Western Hemisphere, and third in the world. It comprised at the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1910) about 1,793,685 printed books and pamphlets (including the law library of which, while a division of the Library of Congress, still remains at the Capitol), manuscripts, maps and charts, pieces of music, and photographs, prints, engravings, and lithographs. Of the printed books, probably one-sixth are duplicates not in use.

The collection is rich in history, political science, in official documents, National, State, and foreign, and in Americana, including important files of American newspapers and original manuscripts (colonial, revolutionary, and formative periods). Many of the rare books and manuscripts belonging to the Library are exhibited in show cases on the second floor.

In 1897 the main collection was removed from the Capitol to the building erected for it under the acts of Congress approved April 15, 1886, October 2, 1888, and March 2, 1889, at a cost of $6,347,000 (limit by law, $6,500,000), exclusive of the land, which cost $585,000. The architects who furnished the original designs were John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz. By the act of October 2, 1888, before the foundations were laid, Thomas L. Casey, Chief of Engineers of the Army, was placed in charge of the construction of the building, and the architectural details were worked out by Paul J. Pelz and Edward P. Casey. Upon the death of General Casey, in March, 1896, the entire charge of the construction devolved upon Bernard R. Green, General Casey's assistant, and under his superintendence the building was completed in February, 1897, opened to the public November, 1897. The building occupies three and three-quarter acres upon a site ten acres in extent at a distance of 1,270 feet east of the Capitol, and is the largest and most magnificent library building in the world. In the decorations some forty painters and sculptors are represented—all American citizens. The floor space is 326,195 square feet, or nearly 8 acres. The book stacks contain about 56 miles of shelving, affording space for 2,600,000 octavo volumes.

The southeast interior court has been built over as a book stack, with capacity for 940,000 octavo volumes of books on 22 miles of shelves, and 84,000 volumes of newspapers on a similar length of shelves—22 miles.

The Library is maintained by annual appropriations by Congress for various purposes, including the purchase of books. Total appropriation for 1910-11, $666,285.11. For service and contingent expenses, $382,490.00; purchase of books, $108,000.00; building and grounds, $175,794.43.

Library Service.—Library proper, 244 employés; copyright, 84; distribution of cards, 28; law indexing, 7; disbursement and care of building and grounds, 127. Total, 490. By virtue of the act of 1897, employés in the Library proper are appointed by the Librarian of Congress "solely with reference to their fitness for their particular duties."

Copyright Office.—The Copyright Office is a distinct division of the Library of Congress, and is located on the ground floor, south side; open 9 to 4.30. It is under the immediate charge of the Register of Copyrights, who, by the act of February 19, 1897, is authorized "under the direction and supervision of the Librarian of Congress," to perform all the duties relating to copyrights. Copyright registration was transferred to the Librarian of Congress by the act of July 8, 1870. Of most articles copyrighted two copies, and of some one copy, must be deposited in the Library of Congress to perfect copyright.

Entitled by statute to draw books for home use are the following: The President, the Vice-President, Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress (no books may be given out upon the orders of members in favor of those who are not members); Heads of Departments; the Justices, Reporter, and Clerk of the Supreme Court; the Judges and Clerk of the Court of Claims; Judges of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia and Judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; representatives at Washington of foreign governments; the Solicitor-General and Assistant Attorney-General; the Secretary of the Senate; the Clerk of the House of Representatives, the Solicitor of the Treasury, ex-Presidents of the United States; the Chaplains of the two Houses of Congress; the Secretary and Regents of the Smithsonian Institution; the members and Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Chief of Engineers of the Army.

Inter-Library Loans.—While not a lending Library, but a reference Library, primarily and essentially, the Library of Congress maintains an inter-library loan system by which special service is rendered to scholarship by the lending of books to other libraries for the use of investigators, engaged in serious research, which it is not within the power or duty of the Library in question to supply, and which at the time, are not needed in Washington.

Hours.—The Library building is open to the public all days in the year excepting certain legal holidays. The hours are from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M. week days, and from 2 P.M. to 10 P.M. Sundays and holidays.

The Main Reading Room, and Periodical Reading Room are open to the public from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M. week days, and from 2 P.M. to 10 P.M. Sundays and holidays.

New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox, and Tilden Foundations.

ESTABLISHED by consolidation of "The Trustees of the Astor Library," "The Trustees of the Lenox Library," and "The Tilden Trust." May 23, 1895, twenty-one Trustees being chosen from the Trustees of these corporations. The agreement of consolidation provided for the establishment and maintenance of a free public library and reading-room in the city of New York, with such branches as might be deemed advisable for the continued promotion of the objects and purposes of these several corporations.

The Trustees soon after the consolidation in 1895 determined to pursue a liberal policy and to create a great library system not only for the use of scholars, but for the people. The best permanent site for the future great library was considered to be in Bryant Park, on Fifth Avenue, between Fortieth and Forty-second Streets, on the site of the reservoir, which had become obsolete and was practically unused. On March 25, 1896, the Trustees made a formal address to the Mayor asking aid from the city in securing the site of the reservoir, and in May, 1896, the Legislature passed a law authorizing the removal of the reservoir and the lease of the land to the Library. On May 19, 1897, another act was passed providing for the construction by the city of a library building on the reservoir site, and for its lease to the Library, which act was amended in 1900, removing the limit of cost. On November 10 the architects were selected for the new building and on December 1 the plans were approved by the city. The style of architecture is Renaissance and the material used is white marble. The building fronts on Fifth Avenue, looking east. The greatest projection of the main façade of the building is seventy-five feet back of the Fifth Avenue building line. It is intended to make a terrace out of this seventy-five feet of foreground, serving as a grand approach to the main entrance. The terrace will be 455 feet long. There is a hallway in the centre of the building eighty feet long and forty feet wide. The staircases which lead to the second and third floors are of stone, twelve feet wide. The arches of the vestibule are thirty-five feet high and fifteen feet wide. The entrance to the stairs and the elevators is found on the Fortieth Street side. The rooms for the circulation of books and the children's room are on the basement floor, Forty-second Street side; on this floor are also the rooms for newspapers, the binding and printing departments; the first floor contains the offices of the business superintendent, superintendent of circulation, patents, and periodicals, reading-rooms, and exhibition rooms; on the second floor is the Trustees' room, the office of the Director, lecture and assembly rooms, cataloguing and accession departments, and various special reading-rooms; the third floor contains the large general reading-rooms, the public catalogue, special reading-rooms for manuscripts, Americana, etc., the Stuart books and pictures, the print room, etc. There is about 140 feet of ground between the west elevation of the building and the present park. The design of the building is monumental in character, with classical proportions. After delays, owing to the inability of the city to appropriate funds for the work, the removal of the reservoir was begun on June 6, 1899. The entire building was under roof at the end of November, 1906.

On March 12, 1901, Mr. Andrew Carnegie offered to give $5,200,000 to the city for the construction and equipment of free circulating libraries upon condition that the city should provide the land and agree to maintain the libraries when built. This communication was submitted to the Mayor on March 15, and on April 26 an act was passed authorizing acceptance of the gift by the city upon the terms imposed by Mr. Carnegie. An agreement with the city was executed on July 17, the Library acting as agent for Mr. Carnegie, under which forty-two buildings are to be erected in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond (later increased to fifty), on sites to be selected and purchased by the city with the approval of the Library, the buildings to be leased to the Library and to be under its control. The city agrees to provide adequate yearly maintenance, 10 per cent. of the cost of each building being agreed upon as a minimum.

On November 7, 1901, an agreement was made with three firms of architects in New York to prepare plans and specifications for these branch libraries. On June 6, 1902, an issue of bonds for $250,000 was authorized for purchase of sites. The first Carnegie building, known as the Yorkville branch, was opened December 13, 1902, at 222 East Seventy-ninth Street; the second, providing a new home for the Chatham Square branch, was opened November 2, 1903, at 31 East Broadway. By the end of 1909 thirty-two branches had been opened under this contract. The Trustees of the Library are:

The Dickens Fellowship.

The Dickens Fellowship is a worldwide league of English-speaking men and women whose purpose is to exemplify the teachings of Charles Dickens and to cultivate and diffuse the spirit which pervades his writings—the spirit of innocent festivity and mirth of religion without bigotry, of charity without coldness, of universal philanthropy and human kinship The society began its existence in London in October, 1902. The object and aims of the Fellowship are:

"To knit together in a common bond of friendship lovers of that great master of humor and pathos Charles Dickens. To spread the love of humanity, which is the keynote of all his work. To take such measures as may be expedient to remedy or ameliorate those existing social evils which would have appealed so strongly to the heart of Charles Dickens, and to help in every possible direction the cause of the poor and the oppressed To assist in the preservation and purchase of buildings and objects associated with his name and mentioned in his works. To do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects or any of them"

The Fellowship is open to all, without restriction as to class, creed or nationality. Henry F. Dickens is President. On the list of Vice-Presidents of the society are the following: Sir Francis C. Burnand, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the Rev Canon Benham, Sir L. Alma-Tadema, J. Comyns Carr, T. P. O'Connor, M. P.; Miss Georgiana Hogarth, J. M. Barrie, Harry Furniss, W. S. Gilbert, Hall Caine, Lord James of Hereford, L. Toole and H. Beerbohm Tree. Headquarters are at Whitcomb House, London. Branches of the Fellowship have been formed not only throughout Great Britain but in the United States and Canada, India, Australia and New Zealand, 15,000 members in all.

The officers of the Manhattan (New York) branch are: President—J. Woolsey Shepard Corresponding Secretary—Miss Louise G. Shinn, 505 W. 124th St, N. Y. City. Treasurer—Paul Shotland, 275 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City. Membership fees are $3 per annum Dickens entertainments are a feature. Meetings are held from October to May on or about the 7th of every month

The Dickens Centenary takes place February 7, 1912. To raise money for a testimonial in England it is proposed to issue a Dickens Centenary Stamp, in the form of an artistic book plate, which admirers of the author may affix to any volume of Dickens which they may possess, the price of the stamp to be two cents. Lord Rosebery, Chief Justice Alverstone, Andrew Lang, Rider Haggard, Percy Fitzgerald and Edmund Gosse, with others, have announced their approval of this form of testimonial. It is estimated that there are 24,000,000 copies of Dickens's works extant.

Esperanto.

THE INTERNATIONAL LANGUAGE.

THE following statement has been prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC:

Esperanto is an artificial language invented by the Russian Dr. L. L. Zamenhof, of Warsaw, Poland. It has only one object in view, namely, to serve as an international auxiliary language; it is not in the least intended to replace the national languages. The first book in the new language was published in 1887.

The Esperanto words are mostly of Latin, but to some extent also of Anglo-German origin, so that at the first glance Esperanto has the familiar appearance of a Roman language.

The great success of Esperanto, which is now known and studied all over the world, is chiefly due to the facility with which it may be mastered. The pronunciation is strictly phonetic, making the study of spelling unnecessary. The grammar does not admit of any exceptions to the rules and is so logical and simple that it may be learned completely in a few hours by any person who is familiar with the grammar of his mother tongue. The vocabulary consists of about 2,500 root words, a large majority of which is known to anyone whose language contains a great number of Latin roots—for instance, English.

In spite of this small number of root words Esperanto has been made rich in words and expressions by the adoption of certain affixes and certain methods of word combination. By these simple and easy means a considerable vocabulary may be obtained. Esperanto is a well-sounding language when spoken.

Esperanto is now used for all civilized purposes by many hundreds of thousands of persons in all civilized countries. It made its appearance in the United States in an organized form in 1905, when the first society for its study was formed in Boston, and this was followed soon afterward by societies in New York and Philadelphia. It is now promoted by a large and flourishing national association, the "Esperanto Association of North America," of which John Barrett, the director of the International Bureau of American Republics, is president, and Edwin C. Reed, of the Chamber of Commerce, Washington, D. C., secretary.

Esperanto has a large literature, over a hundred periodicals, including a number in the United States, being published and a large and powerful "Universal Esperanto Association" maintains a regular system of consulates all over the world, to facilitate the transaction of all kinds of legitimate business for its members by means of the common tongue.

Six great international congresses of Esperantists have been held at Boulogne, Geneva, Cambridge, Dresden, Barcelona and Washington. The last convened August 14, 1910, and was attended by three hundred delegates representing thirty-five different nations. Dr. Zamenhof, the founder, was present and made an address, and among the other speakers were Mello Sousa, of Brazil; Wu Chang, of China; Ali Hulf Khan, of Persia; Capt. F. Postnikov, of Russia, Francisco Latom, of Guatemala, Dr. H. W. Yeamans of the War Department, and Charles Stewart, of the Navy Department, United States. The Congress was in session a week.

The Hall of Fame.

MARCH 5, 1900, the Council of New York University accepted a gift of $100,000, afterward increased to $250,000, from a donor whose name was withheld, for the erection and completion on University Heights, New York City, of a building to be called "The Hall of Fame for Great Americans." A structure was accordingly built in the form of a semi-circle, 170 feet, connecting the University Hall of Philosophy with the Hall of Languages. On the ground floor is a museum 200 feet long by 40 feet wide, consisting of a corridor and six halls to contain mementos of the names that are inscribed above. The colonnade over this is 400 feet long with provision for 150 panels, each about 2 feet by 6 feet, each to bear the name of a famous American.

Only persons who shall have been dead ten or more years are eligible to be chosen. Fifteen classes of citizens were recommended for consideration, to wit: Authors and editors, business men, educators, inventors, missionaries and explorers, philanthropists and reformers, preachers and theologians, scientists, engineers and architects, lawyers and judges, musicians, painters and sculptors, physicians and surgeons, rulers and statesmen, soldiers and sailors, distinguished men and women outside the above classes. Fifty names were to be inscribed on the tablets at the beginning, and five additional names every fifth year thereafter until the year 2000, when the 150 inscriptions will be completed. In case of failure to fill all the panels allotted, the vacancies are to be filled in a following year.

In February, 1904, the plan was announced of an additional structure in the form of a loggia joining the colonnade on the north, having 30 panels for foreign-born Americans, six to be filled in 1905, and beyond this of a Hall of Fame for Women, about 30 by 60 feet, with a museum on the ground floor and a main story above of 28 columns supporting a pedimented roof, with places for 60 tablets.

The rules prescribed that the Council should invite nominations from the public. Every nomination seconded by a member of the University Senate should be submitted to an electorate of one hundred eminent citizens selected by the Council.

In October, 1900, the University Senate received the ballots of the electors. Of the one hundred judges selected ninety-seven voted. The number of names which had been submitted to them was 252. Of these each judge returned a vote for fifty. The rule required that no candidate receiving less than fifty-one votes could be accepted. The returns showed that but twenty-nine candidates received the required number and were chosen. These were as follows: George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Daniel Webster, Benjamin Franklin, Ulysses S. Grant, John Marshall, Thomas Jefferson, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry W. Longfellow, Robert Fulton, Washington Irving, Jonathan Edwards, Samuel F. B. Morse, David G. Farragut, Henry Clay, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Robert E. Lee, Peter Cooper, Eli Whitney, John J. Audubon, Horace Mann, Henry Ward Beecher, James Kent, Joseph Story, John Adams, William E. Channing, Gilbert Stuart, Asa Gray.

In October, 1905, under the rules named above, the Senate received the ballots of 95 Electors out of 101 appointed, of whom only 85 undertook to consider the names of women. A majority of 51 was demanded, but in the case of the names of women, a majority of only 47. The following persons were found to be duly chosen: John Quincy Adams, 59; James Russell Lowell, 58; William Tecumseh Sherman, 58; James Madison, 56; John Greenleaf Whittier, 53. Alexander Hamilton, 88; Louis Agassiz, 83; John Paul Jones, 54; Mary Lyon, 58; Emma Willard, 50; Maria Mitchell, 48.

The Hall was dedicated May 30, 1901, when twenty-five or more national associations each unveiled one of the bronze tablets in the colonnade, and on May 30, 1907, the eleven new tablets were unveiled, orations being given by the Governors of New York and Massachusetts.

Since the Deed of Gift was amended to admit memorials to famous foreign-born Americans, the roll of electors has been amended in like manner, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, a native of Scotland, succeeding to the place of ex-President Grover Cleveland, deceased.

In October, 1910, the next ballot was taken, the number cast being 97 and the number required for a choice being 51. The following persons had the requisite number of votes: Harriet Beecher Stowe, 74; Oliver Wendell Holmes, 69; Edgar Allan Poe, 69; Roger Williams, 64; James Fenimore Cooper, 62; Phillips Brooks, 60; William Cullen Bryant, 59; Frances E. Willard, 56; Andrew Jackson, 53; George Bancroft, 53; John Lothrop Motley, 51. There were 211 nominees.

Literature of 1910.

BY FREMONT RIDER.

THE book production of the United States for 1910 passed all records, exceeding even the high water mark of 1909, and placing us close to the head of the book producing countries of the world. Though there have been few books of pre-eminent merit, making the task of selection doubly difficult, the level of excellence has been more than usually uniformly high. The following 300 odd titles out of 12,000 odd published during the year aim to include the most important, not only in the sense of having more or less enduring value, but also because of their popularity, possibly transient but no less significant, as evidenced by sales or repute.

In FICTION there is almost no name of the first rank, Meredith being represented by a fragment only and Kipling by a volume of short stories. It is noteworthy, however, in contradistinction to the years immediately previous, that "The Rosary" and L. M. Montgomery's stories, perhaps the most popular novels of 1910, were all wholesome, pleasant studies of life.

Peary's "The North Pole" and Roosevelt's "African Game Trails," naturally overshadowed the other TRAVEL books, excellent as the latter were. Roosevelt's stimulated a considerable number of African books. The BIOGRAPHY of the year was large in amount, varied in theme and unusually important; the HISTORY less so; while pure LITERATURE, especially POETRY, made a very poor showing indeed. Reflecting the popular mind, RELIGION and PHILOSOPHY continue to decrease in comparative importance, as SOCIOLOGY AND POLITICAL ECONOMY grow. The latter type of books is almost the feature of 1910, the list of important titles being long and attractive, showing that the work of such agencies as the Sage Foundation and the university trained investigator is bearing valuable fruit. AVIATION has loomed large in current interest, but in books, typically American enough, this interest is revealed mainly in a large crop of practical booklets and pamphlets of the "How to Build" variety.

The Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University.

CECIL RHODES, statesman, who died at Cape Town, South Africa March 26, 1902, directed in his will dated July 1, 1899, that a part of his fortune, estimated at $10,000,000, should be applied to the creation of a fund for the support of a certain number of scholarships covering a three-years' course at the University of Oxford. He directed that the selection of the recipients of this gift should be made two from each State and Territory of the United States, or one hundred in all, fifteen from Germany and from one to nine from each of the British Colonies. The scholarships are awarded on marks only, three-tenths whereof shall be given to a candidate for his 'Literary and Scholastic' attainments, the remainder being for his love of outdoor athletics and sports, for strong manly qualities such as courage, generosity and kindness, and for high moral character, and especially for ambition to serve and lead in large public affairs.

The agencies for final selection vary a good deal Scholars from Cape Colony are chosen by the individual schools to which the scholarships are especially assigned In several of the Canadian provinces and in a few States of the American Union it has been decided that an appointment shall be made in rotation by the leading universities Under this system the field of selection each year is somewhat narrowed, but it is possible to carry out more closely than otherwise the suggestions made by Mr Rhodes, who appears to have had in his mind selection by a single institution. The five German students for whom annual provision is made are nominated, according to the terms of the will, by the Emperor himself. In the great majority of the States of the Union, in outlying colonies like Bermuda, Jamaica and Newfoundland, in four provinces of Canada, in New Zealand and the States of Australia, the final choice of the scholar is left in the hands of a Committee of Selection Great care has been taken in the constitution of these committees, as it has been felt that on the wise and impartial exercise of their judgment depends more than upon anything else the full success of the scheme.

In most of the States the selection is made by a committee appointed by representatives of the colleges; in some the appointments are made in rotation by the leading colleges.

The conditions regulating the award of scholarships in the American States provide that the candidates shall have satisfactorily completed the work of at least two years in some college of liberal arts and sciences Except under extraordinary circumstances the upper age limit must be twenty four years at the time of entering upon the scholarship at Oxford To be eligible the candidate must be a citizen of the United States, or the son of a citizen, and must be unmarried Each student receives an allowance of £300 a year, which is equivalent to $1,500, payable in quarterly instalments, which is just enough to enable him to pay his college fees and necessary expenses As the first instalment is not available until some time after the arrival of the student, he should go abroad with one or two hundred dollars in his possession

At the beginning of Michaelmas term, October, 1904, there entered Oxford seventy two Rhodes scholars; forty-three were Americans, twenty four Colonials and five Germans. In 1906, the full number, 190 in all, were in residence, and thereafter this number will be maintained, the vacancies being filled as men complete their three-years' course The last examination in the United States took place in January, 1910 There will be examinations also in 1911, 1913, 1914 and so on, omitting every third year The examinations are not competitive, but qualifying Inquiries as to particulars by intending candidates may be addressed to any college Information about Oxford, its colleges and course of studies, should be addressed to F. J. Wylie, the Oxford agent of the Rhodes trustees, Oxford, England.

* The French Academy is one of five academies, and the most eminent, constituting the Institute of France. It was founded in 1635 by Cardinal Richelieu, and reorganized in 1816. It is composed of 40 members, elected for life, after personal application and the submission of their nomination to the head of the state. It meets twice weekly, at the Palace Mazarin, 23 Quai Conti, Paris, and is "the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric and poetry, and the publication of the French classics." The chief officer is the secretary, who has a life tenure of his position. The present permanent secretary is Thureau-Dangin (No 9), who was elected an Academician in 1893. A chair in the Academy is the highest ambition of most literary Frenchmen.

The other academies of the Institute of France are: The Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres, with 40 members; Academy of Sciences, with 68 members; Academy of Fine Arts, with 40 members (as follows: Painting, 14; sculpture, 8; architecture, 8; engraving, 4; musical composition, 6), and Academy of Moral and Political Science, with 40 members. All members are elected for life.

The Carnegie Hero Fund.

In April, 1904, Andrew Carnegie created a fund of $5,000,000 for the benefit of the dependents of those losing their lives in heroic effort to save their fellow men, or for the heroes themselves if injured only. Provision was also made for medals to be given in commemoration of heroic acts.

The endowment known as "The Hero Fund" was placed in the hands of a commission composed of twenty-one persons, residents of Pittsburgh, Pa., of which Charles L. Taylor is President and J. M. Wilmot, Secretary, and Manager of the fund.

In his letter to the Hero Fund Commission Mr. Carnegie outlined the general scheme of the fund thus: "To place those following peaceful vocations who have been injured in heroic effort to save human life, in somewhat better positions pecuniarily than before until able to work again. In case of death, the widow and children or other dependents are to be provided for until she remarries and the children until they reach a self-supporting age. For exceptional children, exceptional grants may be made for exceptional education. Grants of sums of money may also be made to heroes or heroines as the commission thinks advisable—each case to be judged on its merits.

The fund applies only to acts performed within the United States of America, the Dominion of Canada, the Colony of Newfoundland and the waters thereof and such acts must have been performed on or after April 5, 1904.

The Commission has awarded 377 medals—191 bronze, 173 silver and 13 gold. In addition to the medals, $270,866 has been awarded for disablement benefits and special purposes and for the dependents of heroes who lost their lives, including payments made to October 31, 1910, on monthly allowances. The Commission has also awarded $134,462 for relief of sufferers from disasters—at Brockton, Mass., $10,000, from the California earthquake, $51,462, at Monongah Mines, Monongah, W. Va., $35,000, at Darr Mine, Jacobs Creek, Pa., $25,000 and at Lick Branch Mine, Switchback, W. Va., $10,000.

American Academy of Arts and Letters.

THE first members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters were chosen by seven men selected by the National Institute of Arts and Letters from its own body in 1904 with authority to elect the other members of the Academy until the number reached fifty. The seven were William Dean Howells, Augustus St. Gaudens, Edmund Clarence Stedman, John La Farge, Samuel L. Clemens, John Hay and Edward MacDowell. In order to become eligible to the American Academy one must first be a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. This society was organized at a meeting of the American Social Science Association in 1898. The qualification for membership is stated in the constitution: "It shall be notable achievement in art, music or literature." The number in the Institute is limited to 250 and the election is by ballot.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters numbers fifty members, and the officers are William Dean Howells president; William Milligan Sloane chancellor; Robert Underwood Johnson permanent secretary.

The following are the present members of the Academy, there being five vacancies:

The Carnegie Institution of Washington.

THE Carnegie Institution of Washington was founded by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, January 28, 1902, when he gave to a board of trustees $10,000,000, in registered bonds, yielding 5 per cent. annual interest. In general terms, he stated that his purpose was to "found in the city of Washington an institution which, with the co-operation of institutions now or hereafter established, there or elsewhere, shall in the broadest and most liberal manner encourage investigation, research and discovery, show the application of knowledge to the improvement of mankind, and provide such buildings, laboratories, books, and apparatus as may be needed." Mr. Carnegie added $2,000,000 to his gift in 1907.

By an act of Congress, approved April 28, 1904, the institution was placed under the control of a board of twenty-four Trustees, all of whom had been members of the original board referred to above. The Trustees meet annually, and during the intervals between such meetings the affairs of the Institution are conducted by an Executive Committee, chosen by and from the Board of Trustees, acting through the President of the Institution as chief executive officer.

The Administration Building is situated on the S. E. corner of 16th and P Streets N. W., Washington, D. C.

Trustees of the Institution—Chairman, John S. Billings; Vice-Chairman, Elihu Root; Secretary, Cleveland H. Dodge; John D. Cadwalader, William N. Frew, Lyman J. Gage, Henry L. Higginson, Charles L. Hutchinson, Seth Low, S. Weir Mitchell, Andrew J. Montague, William W. Morrow, Wm. Barclay Parsons, Henry S. Pritchett, Martin A. Ryerson, William H. Taft, Charles D. Walcott, William H. Welch, Andrew D. White, George W. Wickersham, Robert S. Woodward.

President of the Institution—Robert S. Woodward.

CHAUTAUQUA INSTITUTION.

Chancellor—John H. Vincent. President—George E. Vincent. President of Trustees—Clement Studebaker, Jr. Secretary—Ira M. Miller. Treasurer—Scott Brown. Director—Arthur E. Bestor.

The Chautauqua Assembly, now Chautauqua Institution was organized in 1874 as a result of the joint plan of Lewis Miller and John H. Vincent. It holds annual sessions during July and August at Chautauqua, N. Y. The plan includes Summer school courses of instruction in language, literature, science, and art, open lectures, concerts, and recitals and various forms of platform entertainment and out of door recreation. Local assemblies patterned after the mother Chautauqua convene in different places throughout the United States and number over five hundred.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle (Kate F. Kimball, Chautauqua, N. Y. Executive Secretary) was organized at Chautauqua in 1878, with the aim of continuing the influence of the Assembly throughout the year in all parts of the country. Since that time more than two hundred and sixty thousand members have been enrolled. The Circle aims to promote the habit of reading and study in history, literature, science, and art, in connection with the routine of daily life. Each year four books are especially published for the course, and the Chautauquan Magazine (Frank Chapin Bray, Editor) offers series of articles relating to the plan of the year and gives advice as to home reading. The essentials of the plan are: A definite course covering four years, each year complete in itself, specified volumes approved by the counsellors, allotment of time by the week and month, a monthly magazine with additional readings and notes, review outlines, and other aids. Individual readers may pursue the course alone, or local circles may be formed by three or four members. The time required is about one half hour daily for nine months. Diplomas are granted to those who complete the course. Any one may become a member of the C. L. S. C. by sending an application, together with $5 for the unit (four books, membership book and magazine for one year), to Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua, N. Y.

NATIONAL SOCIETY FOR BROADER EDUCATION.

National Society for Broader Education was organized in December, 1909. Its purpose is: "Through the education of the adult to aid in the normal development of national life, in removing the causes of distrust and antagonism between classes and in promoting the interests of the whole people."

The Society carries on its work through the lecture platform, the pulpit and the newspapers. In 1910 its speakers delivered 310 lectures, several hundred sermons and conducted 442 discussions. President, Guy C. Lee, Ph. D., Baltimore, Md.; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. H. H. Langsdorf, Carlisle, Pa.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCES.

Northfield Conferences and Summer Schools were established by D. L. Moody. The season is from May 1 to Oct. 1. Headquarters, East Northfield, Mass. The officers of the Seminary are: President, Chas. A. Hopkins; Treasurer, Geo. E. Keith; Director, W. R. Moody; Clerk, A. G. Moody.

THE JOHN F. SLATER FUND.

In 1882 Mr. John F. Slater, of Connecticut, placed in the hands of trustees the sum of $1,000,000, for the purpose of "uplifting the lately emancipated population of the Southern States and their posterity." For this patriotic and munificent gift the thanks of Congress were voted, and a medal was presented. Education in industries and the preparation of teachers are promoted in institutions believed to be on a permanent basis. The board consists of William A. Slater, President, John A. Stewart, Alexander E. Orr, Cleveland H. Dodge, Seth Low, Wallace Buttrick, Richard H. Williams, Wickliffe Rose, David F. Houston. The Treasurer is the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York. General Agent, Jas. H. Dillard, 571 Audubon Street, New Orleans, La. Field Agents, G. S. Dickerman, 2 Rector Street, New York; W. T. B. Williams, Hampton, Va., and B. C. Caldwell, New Orleans, La. Schools established by States, denominations, and individuals are helped by annual donations. Among the more prominent are the Hampton Normal and Industrial, Spelman Seminary, Claflin University, Fisk University, Tuskegee Institute, and schools at Tougaloo, Miss.; Raleigh, N. C.; New Orleans, etc.

THE GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD.

The General Education Board was organized in New York, February 27, 1902, and incorporated by act of Congress, signed January 12, 1903. The following are members of the Board: Frederick T. Gates, Chairman, J. G. Myers, Treasurer, Wallace Buttrick, Secretary, Charles W. Eliot, Andrew Carnegie, Robert C. Ogden, Walter H. Page, J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Albert Shaw, George Foster Peabody, Wallace Buttrick, Starr J. Murphy, Hugh H. Hanna, E. Benjamin Andrews, Edwin A. Alderman, Hollis B. Frissell, Harry Pratt Judson, Edgar L. Marston. The purposes of the Board are to promote education in the United States, without distinction of race, sex, or creed, and especially to promote, systematize, and make effective various forms of educational beneficence. Office, 2 Rector Street, New York City.

THE SOUTHERN EDUCATION BOARD.

The Southern Education Board, the outcome of the Capon Springs and Winston-Salem Conferences, has been organized with these officers and members: Chairman, Robert C. Ogden, New York; Treasurer, George Foster Peabody, New York; Executive Secretary, Wickliffe Rose, 811 Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C. The purpose of this board is to co-operate with State and local authorities in building up State systems of public schools.

Catholic Summer School of America.

A ROMAN Catholic Chautauqua or Summer School was opened at New London, Ct., in the Summer of 1892 under the auspices of distinguished clergymen and laymen, and the first meetings were held from July 30 to August 14. The association has since acquired a site at Cliff Haven, near Plattsburg, N. Y., on Lake Champlain, upon which the necessary buildings have been erected, and here the Summer School is held annually from July to September. The work of the institution is continued throughout the year by means of reading circles and study clubs on the University Extension plan. Secretary, Charles Murray, 7 East Forty-second Street, New York.

Art Progress in the United States.

BY HENRY TYRRELL.

THE Centennial Exposition held at Philadelphia in 1876 may be taken as marking the beginning of the present era of art development in America, in the sense of widespread popular interest, the investment of capital, and the endowment of public museums and schools. Thirty-five years ago the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art in its embryo stage, had little to show besides the Pledgett collection of dubious "old masters" and the Cypriote antiquities of General di Cesnola. The New York Historical Society possessed a gallery of old European paintings and American portraits, little known save to specialists. These, with the Boston Museum's Copleys and Gilbert Stuarts, the Colonial and Revolutionary portraits at the Independence Hall in Philadelphia, and the miscellaneous American paintings and sculpture in the capitol at Washington, constituted the country's chief public art displays. The annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design showed in monotonous rotation the portraits and allegories of Daniel Huntington, the homely genre pictures of J. G. Brown, an occasional Rocky Mountain scene by Bierstadt, and the output of the "Hudson River school" of landscapists. The few wealthy collectors, such as A. T. Stewart, George I. Seney, James Gordon Bennett and the Vanderbilts, went abroad to buy, and the sensational art auction sales of the present generation were a thing unknown. It was in 1876 that F. E. Church's "Niagara Falls" (now in the Corcoran Gallery, Washington, D.C.), was sold for $12,500—the reputed highest price ever paid for a picture in America up to that time. In the same year Turner's "Slave Ship," now in the Boston Museum, was thought dear at $2,500.

In April, 1910, the sale of the paintings, sculptures and art furniture of the late Charles T. Yerkes in New York City, realized a total of $2,067,000, including such record-making prices as $437,000 for Frans Hals's "Portrait of a Woman," $129,000 for Turner's "Rockets and Blue Lights," and $50,500 for Corot's "Fisherman." At the exhibition held in the Metropolitan Museum in the Fall of 1909 in connection with the Hudson-Fulton commemoration, over $40,000,000 worth of Dutch paintings were shown, including forty Rembrandts, all owned in America. At that time the aggregate value of the "old masters" alone privately owned in this country was conservatively estimated at $125,000,000. Mr. P. A. B. Widener, the well-known Philadelphia collector, in anticipation of the Payne tariff (now in effect) placing works of art over twenty years old on the free list, declared that he personally knew of $50,000,000 worth of paintings owned in Europe by Americans, which would be brought to the United States as soon as the oppressive duties of the Dingley and McKinley schedules should be repealed. Verification of this prediction is already shown in the fact that works of art valued at $21,000,000 were imported in the fiscal year 1909-10, whereas the largest importation under the Dingley tariff law, that of 1906-07, was only $6,000,000. Within the past two years the many notable purchases of European art treasures have included Otto Kann's "Family Group" by Frans Hals for $500,000, Mrs. C. P. Huntington's portrait of Count Olivares by Velasquez for $400,000, and J. Pierpont Morgan's Mazarin tapestry for $350,000. Sculptures and art objects other than paintings now come into this country untaxed, unless of so recent production as to compete with the current output of native artists. This means vast enrichment of public and private collections throughout the country, and, in view of the lavish expenditure of money coincident with awakened enthusiasm and advancing connoisseurship, makes New York City the twentieth century art clearing house of the world.

Native American art—painting, sculpture, architecture and applied design in all its branches—participates liberally, if somewhat indirectly, in this era of prosperity and progress. Practically all of the European art treasures imported revert to the public through the museums and loan exhibitions. The public taste is cultivated, and the work of native artists and craftsmen throughout the entire country augments in dignity and importance, as well as in commercial value. Institutions of national and international importance such as the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Brooklyn Institute Museum, the Boston Museum, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Corcoran Gallery of Washington, the Chicago Art Institute, the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh and the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts, are supplemented by museums, galleries and schools of corresponding local influence in the larger cities throughout the country notably in Baltimore, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Paul, Indianapolis, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, Buffalo, Worcester and Pittsfield, Mass., Providence, R. I., Poland Springs, Me., and at San Francisco Los Angeles, and Portland, Ore., on the Pacific coast. The work of American painters and sculptors has a proportionately fair representation, though not a predominating one, in all these institutions and localities. The real measure of our native art development to-day is to be found in the work of painters like La Farge, Abbey, Sargent, Alexander, Blashfield, Low, Cox, Millet, Du Mond and Dodd—of sculptors such as Saint Gaudens, French, Barnard, Borglum, Bartlett, Partridge—and of architects of the school represented by the late Charles Follen McKim, in public buildings and monuments. Another gauge of our progress is in the recognized fact that American art students now find at home the instruction and inspiration which a generation ago it was necessary to go abroad to seek, and that both academic honors and highly paid commissions await the ambitious in their own native cities. With the exception of Whistler, Sargent, Abbey, Sherman, and perhaps one or two others, whose careers have been achieved abroad, American artists have not yet commanded at sales or in portrait commissions prices comparable to those obtained by their French and English contemporaries. The $20,000 paid by the Brooklyn Institute for the Sargent water colors, the $15,000 for George Inness's "Gray, Lowery Day" at the Thomas B. Clarke sale, and $5,600 for the Metropolitan Museum's most striking Winslow Homer, "The Gulf Stream," may be taken as representative of the best current prices for paintings by modern or contemporaneous American artists. The best Colonial and early American paintings are practically priceless because rare and unobtainable. The work of several deceased artists of a generation ago, notably Inness, Martin, Fuller, Blakelock, Twachtman, and Robinson, has steadily risen in value during the past few years. Chase, Henri, Redfield, Waugh, Carlsen, Hassam, Couse, Groll, Ballard Williams, Ryder, Murphy, Crane, Metcalfe, Curran, Dewing, Metz, Blumenschein and a score of others equally familiar at the Academy exhibitions, find ready sales at prices ranging from $200 to $2,000, and are being added with gratifying rapidity to the principal private and public collections.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, in its fortieth annual report (1909), records the largest attendance in its history—a total of 977,823, as compared with 817,809 during the year preceding. The expenditure for administration and maintenance in 1909 was $285,965, toward which amount the city contributed $200,000 and $11,622 was received from admissions on pay days. The total accessions for the year numbered 8,487 objects of art, of which 1,438 were by gift or bequest and 7,049 by purchase. In contrast with the great art museums of Europe, which are largely supported by Government subsidies, the Metropolitan has been built up by private donations exclusively, no public moneys having gone into its now vast and rapidly growing collections. With its generous endowments—something like $10,000,000 in cash funds alone having been turned into its treasury within the past five years by the contributions of Messrs. Rogers, Kennedy, Hewitt and Bacon—the Metropolitan possesses to-day a purchasing power which probably exceeds that of any other museum in the world.

Sir Purdon Clarke's retirement from the directorship of the Metropolitan Museum, after nearly five years of active, efficient and popular service, places the former assistant director, Dr. Edward Robinson in the position of acting head of the institution. In some degree perhaps as a result of Sir Purdon Clarke's lifelong and specialized interest in the industrial and decorative arts and crafts, the Museum's recent advance has been more remarkable in the rounding out of its collections in these lines than in the departments of painting and sculpture.

Music in 1909-10.

THERE was a remarkable advance made in music in this country during the season of 1909-10, especially in the realm of grand opera. For besides better music than before being heard, there is a greater appetite for and appreciation of the best music. To compare opera in America at the present time with opera ten years ago is to find that Americans are becoming more musical. The increasing interest taken by the public in the art of music was shown by the number of concerts given by musical organizations throughout the country, besides the performances of opera in the Metropolitan and Manhattan Opera Houses, the New Theatre in New York, and operas given in Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Buffalo and nearly all the large cities.

Efforts were made to establish English opera, but very little progress was made in that direction. What is lacking is a great American composer. On March 18, 1910, the Metropolitan management, for the first time during its regular season, made the experiment of producing a native American work by an American composer when it gave Frederick S. Converse's one-act opera, "The Pipe of Desire." While it caused no great commotion, failure or success, a step was made forward in the direction of giving grand opera in the vernacular. This work, while lacking in realism and pictorial qualities, shows a skilful putting together of the music which is poetical and modern in harmonies, and the score contains some expressive and beautiful passages. The presentation was efficient, showing beautiful staging and careful preparation. All the principal singers except one were American, and she was English. The largest share of the music fell to Riccardo Martin, who did well. Louise Homer was lovely as Naoia. Clarence Whitehill in the role of the Old-One and Herbert Witherspoon as the First Gnome both did justice to the parts. Leonora Sparkes, the Englishwoman was the First Sylph. The chief fault of the cast was their poor enunciation, and this was due mostly to the poor construction of the sentences of the libretto.

Le Grand Howland's "Sarrona" was given a hearing on February 8. This American composer presented his opera at the New Amsterdam Theatre. His efforts were commendable, but the composition showed a lack of originality and is distinctly and imitatively Italian in construction and material.

Metropolitan Opera House—The Metropolitan Opera House opened on November 15, 1909, with an artistic performance of Amilcare Ponchielli's (1834-1886) "La Gioconda" (1876) in Italian with Enrico Caruso as Enzo. He sang the beautiful aria "Cielo e mar" gloriously. Emmy Destinn was admirable as Gioconda. Louise Homer as Laura sang with distinction. Anna Meitschik (debut) did well as La Cieca, and Amato's portrayal of Barnaba was a distinct characterization of the spy.

Wagner's (1813-1883) consecrational festival play, "Parsifal" (1882) was given on November 25 with a strong cast including Clarence Whitehill in his first appearance as Amfortas, the king of the Grail. Mme. Fremstad as Kundry, Blass as Gurnemanz, Burrian as Parsifal, Witherspoon as Titurel, and Goritz as Klingsor.

One of the finest performances given in years of "Tristan and Isolde" (1859) was heard on November 27. Wagner's love poem was brilliantly sung by an excellent cast, including Mme. Gadski as Isolde, Louise Homer as Brangaene, Burrian as Tristan, Amato as Kurwenal, and Blass as King Mark. Toscanini read the wonderful score in a masterly manner.

At the initial performance of the year of "Tannhauser" (1845) a first-class impersonation of the Wagner heroine Elisabeth, was given by Emmy Destinn on December 4, being her first appearance in this work. The other newcomer in the cast was Clarence Whitehill, who as Wolfran sang with fervor the song to The Evening Star."

An interesting performance of Giacomo Puccini's (1858) "Tosca" (1900) was given with Fremstad making her debut as the heroine and Amato singing Scarpia for the first time on December 11.

The management brought forward on December 23 a revival of "Orfeo ed Euridice" (1762), Gluck's (1714-1787) melodious old work. It was picturesquely presented and excellently sung. Louise Homer as Orpheus deserves the highest praise for her glorious singing, and Gadski was exquisite as Eurydice.

Notably attractive was the first American presentation of Alberto Franchetti's (1860) spectacular opera "Germania" (1902), in Italian, a lyric drama in a prologue, two acts and an epilogue, the book by Luigi Illica. Its story is laid in Germany during the period of political unrest (1806-1813) and was first produced at La Scala, Milan, in 1902 with Caruso in the chief tenor part. It was artistically given here on January 22, 1910 and the principal characters were taken by Caruso as Frederico Loewe, the lover; Amato as Carlo Worms, the betrayer, and Emmy Destinn as Reicke.

For the first time in twenty-three years a revival of Flotow's (1812-1883) "Alessandro Stradella" (1844) was given on February 4. This composition, with its pretty melodies and bright rhythm, was admirably sung. Slezak was a good-looking Stradella and sang well the many arias allotted to the part. Alma Gluck was charming in both voice and manner as Leonore. Max Bendix conducted.

Verdi's (1813-1901) Shakespearean opera, "Falstaff" (1893), was revived on February 16 with a cast headed by A. Scotti, who humorously impersonated Falstaff, Pini-Corsi, who gave an unsatisfactory representation of Ford, and Emmy Destinn, who sang delightfully the role of Mrs. Ford.

Another of Verdi's master works which was given an enthusiastic reception was "Otello" (1887), which served to introduce the magnificent Czech tenor, Slezak, on November 17. His voice is of rare quality, and together with dramatic fervor and skill created a marked impression. Frances Alda was Desdemona.

As Manrico in "Il Trovatore" Slezak scored another success. His rendering of the famous cavatina "Di quella pira" was effective and he proved himself a lyric tenor of first rank. Rhadames in "Aida" was another character he successfully sang, but his Tannhauser stands out as one of the most potent characterizations of that role by any artist.

A popular German opera was heard when "Der Freischutz" (1820) was given in German on March 11. This is in three acts, music by Carl Maria von Weber (1786-1826), book by Fr. Kind.

Another welcome novelty was received toward the close of the season when Modeste Tschaikowsky's "Pique Dame" (The Queen of Spades) (1890), written in three acts and seven scenes, the music by Peter Ilich Tschaikowsky (1840-1893), first heard in St. Petersburg in 1890, in Vienna in 1902 and in Milan in 1905, was produced on the afternoon of March 5. It is an unusual work and typically Russian. There are several melodious and interesting passages throughout the score. Slezak was splendid as Herman, the officer. Others in the cast were Anna Meitschik as the Countess, Emmy Destinn as Lisa, the heroine; Didur, who made a fine Count Tomsky; Florence Wickham, Marie Mattfeld, Leonora Sparkes, Alma Gluck, Forsell, Muhlmann, Glenn Hall, Otto and Ludwig. Gustav Mahler conducted.

The old-fashioned Bellini (1801-1835) opera, "La Sonnambula" (1831), was put on at this house on March 23. In the cast were the young Spanish singer, Elvira de Hidalgo, as Amina, and Bonci as Elvino.

Mention must also be made of the exhibition of dancing by the Russians, Anna Pavlowa and Michael Mordkine. They appeared in "Coppelia" and in a ballet divertissement, "Hungary," to music by Glazounov, and distinguishing themselves, drew large audiences whenever they appeared.

The final week of the season began with "Die Walkure" (1870), in which Walter Hyde, an English tenor, made his first appearance in this country in the role of Siegmund, and ended with "Pagliacci," which rang down the curtain on the season.

Thirty-seven operas were given. Of these seventeen were Italian, twelve German, five French, one American, one Bohemian and one Russian. Italian works were heard the greatest number of times, having seventy-two performances; German came second, with forty, while French was given nineteen times. Russian four times, American twice and Bohemian received a single hearing. Delibes had seven performances of his ballet "Coppelia."

New Theatre—At this house there were given, including double bills, fifty-four performances of twenty-five works; of these, nineteen were operas and there were forty-three representations of them. Of French there were: "Werther" (4), "La Fille de Madame Angot" (3), "Fra Diavolo" (3) "L'Attaque du Moulin" (4), "Manon" (1), "Alessandro Stradella" (1), the pantomime "L'Histoire d'un Pierrot" (4), "The Awakening of Woman" (1) and three performances of Delibes's ballet "Coppelia."

The Italian school was represented by twenty-one performances of ten works, as follows: "Maestro di Cappella" (3), "Barber of Seville" (3), "Don Pasquale" (3) "La Boheme" (3), "Cavalleria" (3), "Pagliacci" (2) and one performance each of "L'Elisir d'Amore," "Madama Butterfly," "Tosca" and "La Sonnambula."

German music was heard when seven performances of two operas were given, "Czar und Zimmermann" (4), "The Bartered Bride" (3).

The ballet divertissement, "Hungary," was also given and one single performance of Converse's "Pipe of Desire" and Bayer's "Wiener Walzer."

The New Theatre was opened on November 16, 1909, to opera with a performance in French of Massenet's "Werther" (1892), a lyric drama in four acts and five tableaux. The music has both charm and melody.

Geraldine Farrar was charming in the title role and M. Clement, a French tenor, made his first appearance in America as Werther, making a very favorable impression by his singing with good taste and feeling. Others who appeared for the first time were Alma Gluck as Sophie, Dinh Gilly as Albert, and Egisto Tango, a new conductor.

This opera was first produced in Vienna in 1892 and had its initial performance in New York at the Metropolitan in 1894, with Jean de Reszke as Werther and Emma Eames as Charlotte.

A musical delight was heard on November 26, when Rossini's (1792-1868) "Barber of Seville" (1824) was heard. Lydia Lipkowska made a youthful and piquant looking Rosina and her voice was charming. M. Bonci made an admirable Almaviva and M. Campanari an incomparable Figaro.

Forgotten for a quarter of a century, "Czar und Zimmermann" (Czar and Carpenter), a comic opera in three acts, text and music by Gustav Albert Lortzing (1801-1851), was presented on November 30.

This amusing work was written in 1837 and was heard for the first time in America at Niblo's Garden, in 1859. It is a rollicking piece, with both spirit and melody.

There is but one important female role in it, that of Marie, charmingly sung by Bella Alten. Mr. Whitehill made a good Peter the First; the largest share of the work falls to the character of Van Bett the Burgomaster, which was ably and humorously played by Otto Goritz. The others were Albert Reiss as Peter Iwanow, Adolf Muhlmann as General Lefort, Carl Jorn as Marquis de Chateauneuf and Marie Mattfeld as Widow Browe.

Pantomime got a trial at this house when "L'Histoire d'un Pierrot," in three acts, with music by Mario Costa, was given its first American production on December 28. It did not prove an attraction, though the parts were well and gracefully performed. Sachetto was Pierrot, Lucette de Lievin was Luisette and Sarracco was Pochinet.

An appreciative audience listened to Auber's (1782-1871) "Fra Diavolo," on January 11, in the French version, without recitatives. This opera comique is perhaps his best work, and though it was written and heard first in 1830, still retains its charm and freshness. Bella Alten as Zerline, the innkeeper's daughter, sang with good taste. Clement made an entertaining Fra Diavolo, and Reiss and Goritz were very amusing as the two brigands.

"Maestro di Cappella," a one-act bouffe by Ferdinando Paer (1771-1839), composed part of the bill at this house on December 9. There is no real value in the music of this composition. Pini-Corsi, as Barnaba, furnished the comedy. The other two characters were taken by Alma Gluck as Gertrude and Angelo Bada as Bonetto.

Another piece that found its way into favor was Lecocq's (1832), "La Fille de Madame Angot" (1872), on December 14. This delightful comic opera introduced Jeanne Maubourg, a Brussels soprano, who showed a pleasing and expressive voice, though the tone frequently showed unsteadiness. Edmond Clement sang beautifully as Ange Pitou and Cecile Roma delighted as Amarante.

New Yorkers made the acquaintance of a new opera on February 8, 1910, when "L'Attaque du Moulin" (The Attack on the Mill) (1893), a lyric work in four acts, book by Louis Gallet, after Emile Zola, and music by Alfred Bruneau (1857). The theme of this opera is the last war between France and Germany, with a love story interwoven. The music is fairly attractive and the part given to Marie Delna, that of Marceline written especially for her, was admirably sung. The real interest of the drama centres in Mariler, sung well by Gilly. Clement, as Dominique, sang with feeling and finish of style.

Altogether the performances at this house were artistically mounted and well sung. Crowded houses were few however and the house closed to opera, for the season, on April 1, with a performance of Cavalleria Rusticana, with Mme. Fremstad. The New Theatre is out of the operatic field.

Manhattan Opera House—On August 31, 1909, Mr. Hammerstein opened the Manhattan Opera House for a preliminary season of opera for the public at popular prices. This new venture met with a fair amount of artistic success, but with a financial deficit of about $50,000. Opening with Verdi's "Aida" (1871), in which the new Spanish tenor, Federico Carasa, made his debut as Rhadames; it continued for nine weeks.

Marguerite Sylva made her first appearance on September 1 as the heroine of Georges Bizet's (1838-1875) "Carmen" (1875), and Halevy's (1799-1862) "La Julve" (1835), which was produced for the first time at the Manhattan, introduced Eva Grippon, a French dramatic soprano, and Jean Duffault a French tenor, on September 9.

The fourth in his series of educational opera was Donizetti's (1797-1848) "Lucia" (1835), with Lalla Miranda in the title role.

Other operas given were "Cavalleria Rusticana" (1890), "Pagliacci" (1892), "Les Contes d'Hoffmann" (1880) "Carmen" (1875), "Trovatore" (1853), "Bohemian Girl" (in English), "Traviata" and "The Prophet" (1849); among the artists were Georges Lucas, Giuseppe de Bernardo, Alice Baron, Henri Scott, Wilhelm Beck, Mme. d'Alvarez, Mme. Duchene and Taty-Lango.

Mr. Hammerstein made a new departure in giving light opera, for which he especially engaged French singers. This experiment did not meet with the success expected. Lecocq's (1832) "La Fille de Madame Angot" (1872), with its tuneful score the first of the series, was performed on November 16; Mlle. Layas, a mezzo soprano, as Amarante, and Mme. Delmores as Clairette, the heroine delighted the audience. The second opera, given on November 27, was "La Mascotte" (1880), a work by Edmond Audran (1842-1901). "Les Dragons de Villars" (1856), by Maillart (1817-1871), proved another attraction. Mme. Walter-Villa, as Rosa Friquet, showed her voice and acting to advantage and Devries was a capital Sylvain.

The Planquette (1848-1903) operetta, "The Chimes of Normandy" (1877), was given by the Opera Comique Company for the first time on December 4. The charming melodies were delightfully received. Delmores did well as Serpolette, the good-for-nothing; Blondel sang and acted well the character of Gaspard, the miser, while Crabbe distinguished himself as the Marquis of Corneville.

On November 8, 1909, the fourth season of grand opera under the management of Oscar Hammerstein opened at the Manhattan Opera House with the first performance in America of Massenet's "Herodiade" (1881), which is composed from the book of Paul Millict and Henri Gremont, and was produced in Brussels in 1881. This work was one of the successes of the year. It was staged well and the scenes were realistic and spectacular. Throughout the opera are interesting solos and pretty, charming music. Lina Cavalieri in the role of Salome sang well and was at her best in her duet with the Prophet in the dungeon. Renaud as Herod and Dalmores as John the Baptist deserved the highest praise. The other characters were Gerville-Reache, who made a good Herodias, Vallier as Phanuel the astrologer, Crabbé as Vitellius and Nicholay as the High Priest. Henriques De la Fuente ably conducted.

The second novelty of the season, "Sapho" (1897), which was given for the first time in this country on November 17, is a "piece lyrique" by Henri Cain and M. Bernede after the novel of Alphonse Daudet; the music by Jules Massenet (1842). This work is tuneful and of pleasing quality, yet there is but very little really important music in it and cannot be counted among the great works of the composer. It appeared as though it had been hurriedly prepared, though the dramatic ability shown by Mary Garden as the heroine, Fanny Le Grand, the artist's model, was amazing and impressive, and Dalmores, in the role of the young artist-student, sang with fervor and effect. Trentini as Irene, Jean's cousin; Alvarez, Lackin, Dufranne, Vallies and Villa completed the excellent cast.

Another of Massenet's pleasing works to be given its American premiere was "Griselidis" (1901), a miracle play in three acts, with a prologue. It was tastefully staged and brilliantly performed. Mary Garden as Griselidis equaled her many successes and sang exceptionally well and acted the simple, medieval maid with mystic subtlety. Huberdeau as Satan was not a very convincing devil. Dufranne as the Marquis sang beautifully, as did also Dalmores as Alain, and Walter-Villa was a lively Flaming, Satan's spouse.

Donizetti's "La Fille du Regiment" (The Daughter of the Regiment) (1840) was sung for the first time at the Manhattan, and for the first time in New York since 1902, on November 22. It is a very tuneful opera comique with pretty melodies and a droll story. Tetrazzini in a new role, that of Marie the vivandiere, furnished enjoyment and admiration, especially in her love duet with John McCormack, in the character of Tonio, the soldier.

Mme. Carmen-Mells, who has beauty, a fine voice and dramatic ability, proved an additional prize to the forces of the Manhattan. She was introduced to the New York public on November 26 in the role of Tosca, the heroine of Puccini's (1858) music drama, making an instant success.

The first attempt at giving Wagnerian opera by Mr. Hammerstein was made when "Tannhauser" was given on December 10 in French. But the public did not care for Wagner in French by artists who were French or Italian. It was, however, a novelty. The setting might have been better done, but Zenatello s singing in the title role could not be surpassed. Renaud's Wolfram was a fine impersonation, but Mazarin did not come up to the standard and made an unsatisfactory Elisabeth.

A sumptuous revival of "Samson and Delilah" (1877) was given January 28, 1910. This Saint-Saens (1835) opera was well rendered and effectively staged. Mme. Gerville-Reache gave a finished performance and showed her voice to perfection in this role. M. Dalmores sang Samson M. Dufranne was the High Priest of Dagon and De la Fuente conducted with his usual skill.

The operatic event of the year was the production f Strauss's much heralded music drama, "Elektra," on February 1. This weird and wonderful opera is from Gautier-Villar's French version of Hugo von Hoffmanstall's tale of the ancient Greek tragedy f Agamemnon. While this work made a sensation in Europe when given at Dresden a year previous, it caused a great stir when presented in this country and for the first time anywhere in French.

Its success was owing mostly to the excellent voice and dramatic ability of Mme. Marlette Mazarin, a French dramatic soprano, a great tragedienne and singer, whose interpretation of the woman crazed by hate and vengeance for the murder of her father, Agamemnon, the Homeric king in the Trojan war, held the audience spellbound.

Entering shortly after the raising of the curtain, to the close, one hour and a half, there being but one act and one scene, she was constantly upon the stage and seldom silent or inactive.

The music is weird and compelling. There are several beautiful passages, such as her duo with Orestes. Forty-five themes or leit-motives are counted in the analysis of this musical score, of which the lightest is the waltz theme of Chrysothemis. The orchestra numbered 113 men and was efficiently conducted by Henriques De la Fuente, whose remarkable reading of the score deserves credit.

The climax of this drama is when Elektra reveals the acme of frenzy, hate and triumph in a mad dance of death. Gerville-Reache as Klytemnestra was not impressive and was replaced in later performances by Mme. Doria. At the first performance of this work in Dresden, January 25, 1909, Mme. Schumann-Heink created the part of Klytemnestra.

From vaudeville to grand opera in less than six months was accomplished by a promising young American tenor, Orville Harrold, who met with immediate success on his first appearance in opera on February 18. As Canio in "Pagliacci" he showed excellent enunciation and a beautifully pure voice, full and liquid in quality.

"La Navarraise" (1894), was brought forward on February 28. This one-act blood-and-thunder melodrama by Massenet was carefully revived by an admirable cast.

A revival was given on March 11 of Claude Debussy's (1862) poetic "Pelleas et Melisande" (1902). In this delightful "dream drama" Mary Garden portrayed the youthful Melisande beautifully and skilfully and she rendered her share of the music excellently. Emma Trentini was the boy Yniold, M. Huberdeau the talkative but good natured Arkel, Dufranne the husband, Golaud, and Dalmores the Pelleas.

The closing innovation of the season was Delibes' (1836-1891) "Lakme" (1883) with Tetrazzini in the title role. This single performance served to show the prima donna's enlarged repertory.

Of the thirty operas presented by Mr. Hammerstein during twenty weeks, eighteen were French and had sixty-three performances, nine Italian with forty hearings, and three German, heard fourteen times, all of the last named being sung in French by French singers.

Jules Massenet's works held the list in the number of works and the number of presentations they were given. It was a great year for this composer. His music has color, though it rarely expresses the emotion intended in the underscore. It lacks warmth and passion of feeling.

"Lucia," on March 26, 1910, with Mme. Tetrazzini and Messrs. McCormack and Sammarco, closed the season.

"Manon" in French, with Geraldine Farrar in the title role, opened the season in Brooklyn at the Academy of Music on November 8.

Boston.—The new Boston Opera House opened on November 8, 1909, with a brilliant performance of Ponchielli's opera, "La Gioconda," with Lillian Nordica in the title role, Louise Homer as Laura, Florencio Constantino as Enzo and Meltschik made her first appearance in Boston as La Cieca. Arnoldo Conti directed.

The Manhattan Opera Company, on March 28, 1910, at the Boston Theatre, gave "Elektra," with Mme. Mazarin, and "Lucia" on March 29.

The Metropolitan Opera Company presented "Aida," with Caruso, at the Boston Opera House on March 28, and "Madama Butterfly" on March 29.

Chicago.—Those who won special favor during the four weeks of opera in this city were the Swedish baritone, John Forsell, who was unknown to the American public, and was not heard in this country in opera until he sang Tonio in "Pagliacci" on Wednesday of the closing week. Miss Nielsen, in the second performance of "La Boheme," won admiration, and Mr. Jadlowker was recognized as a gifted tenor.

Slezak was a big drawing power and won the regard of his listeners whenever he appeared. Others who succeeded in impressing the audiences with their art were Fremstad, Clement, Farrar, Caruso, Gadski, Destinn, Scotti, Alda, Amato and Soomer.

London—Grand opera at Covent Garden opened on April 23 and lasted until July 30. In addition to a repertory, two complete cycles of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" and two performances of "Tristan and Isolde" were given.

Among the artists who were engaged for the season were Emmy Destinn, Zorah Dorly (Brussels), Nellie Melba, Lalla Miranda, Luisa Tetrazzini, sopranos; Kirkby-Lunn, Edna Thornton, contraltos; Charles Dalmores, Walter Hyde, Riccardo Martin, John McCormack, Nicolo Zerola, Carl Stratz, tenors; Armand Crabbe, Mario Sammarco, Anton Van Rooy, Edmond Burke, J. Bourbon, basses and baritones.

The conductors were Cleofonte Campanini, Maurice Frysara, Ettore Panizza, Percy Pitt and Dr. Hans Richter.

"Elektra" was given during the Beecham season, on February 19, 1910. Edyth Walker sang the title role, while another American, Frances Rose, took the part of Chrysothemis.

Paris—On May 19 a public rehearsal of "Aida" was given at the Chatelet and was a triumph for the Metropolitan company and especially for its director, Gatti-Casazza. Caruso sang Rhadames, Emmy Destinn was Aida, Amato was Amonasro and Louise Homer was Amneris. All were enthusiastically received and were in excellent voice.

The first performance of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," on June 9, was warmly received. There was unbounded enthusiasm for Puccini, who was present, and for the conductor, Toscanini, as well as for the artists who sang the leading roles. The title part was sung by Signorina Lorgi, a newcomer in the operatic field, except in Italy; Caruso was Des Grieux.

During May and June five operas were presented and each one was performed three times: "Aida," "Cavaliera," "Pagliacci," "Otello," "Falstaff" and "Manon Lescaut."

Berlin—"Foia," Arthur Nevin's new opera, based on North American Indian themes before the discovery of America by Columbus, was the first American opera ever presented in Europe. It was heard at the Royal Opera House of Berlin on April 23, causing quite a stir and criticism in that stronghold of music, Germany.

A brilliant audience greeted the beautifully staged and magnificently rendered work. Three solo roles were successfully sung by Americans, Natoya, the leading feminine part, being sung by Mrs. Francis McClellan; Natorsi was portrayed by Putnam, Griswold and Sinyi by Miss Lucy Gates. Foia, the title role, was represented by Herr Kirchoff, and the character of the villain, Sumatsi, was played by Herr Bischoff.

Mr. Walter McClintock, an American lecturer, suggested the story. He spent some years among the Black Feet tribe, and Mr. Nevin, while with him, studied their language and music. Mr. Randolph Hartley wrote the libretto. The orchestra was conducted by Dr. Muck.

Caruso began a three-night engagement on October 24, 1910, in "Aida" at the Royal Opera House, and received a rousing welcome.

Rome—Two new operas by Leoncavallo were performed in Rome within four days of each other, "Maia," in three acts, libretto by Paul de Choudens, at the Costanzi Theatre, on January 15, and "Malbruk," in three acts, libretto by Nessi, at the Nazionale Theatre, on January 19.

"Malbruk" is a work of the highest order in the line of comic opera. The music is bright and melodious and the libretto shows cleverness. It was a success mostly owing to the excellence of the Maresca company which played it. Elodia Maresca as the wife of Malbruk did especially well.

THE FOLLOWING IS A REVIEW OF THE OPERA FOR SEASON 1910-1911 UP TO TIME OF ALMANAC GOING TO PRESS.

With Mr. Gatti-Casazza as the sole director, the Metropolitan Opera House opened its doors for the season on November 14, 1910.

A sumptuous revival of Gluck's "Armide" was given in French. This classical work was first produced at the Academie Royale de Musique, Paris, in 1777, making it just one hundred and thirty-three years old, and it was never before heard in America, though often sung abroad.

"Armide" is a story of the First Crusade, taken from Tasso's epic poem, "Jerusalem Delivered." In When the Crusaders reached Damascus, Armide, niece of Hidraot, King of Damascus, finds that one of them, Renaud by name, not only does not pay her homage, but hates her. Renaud is banished from the army, and while wandering alone is discovered by Armide, who, intending to slay him, finds her hate turned to love, and by enchantment wins him, and they are transported to a magic garden. Being sent for by the leader of his army, Godfrey de Bouillon, Renaud answers the call and returns, leaving Armide, who disappears with the destruction of her enchanted palace.

One of the strongest scenes in the opera is Armide's invocation of the spirit Hate after finding she was unable to win Renaud's love.

Lasting more than three hours, the work is in five acts and seven scenes, which were staged with picturesque beauty. The scenery is from the Paquereau studio in Paris.

The music, which has many charming passages throughout the score, is also a bit dull and monotonous. The whole work lacks reality and human interest and is not likely to equal "Orfeo ed Euridice" in popularity.

The principal character, Armide, is a difficult one and was well acted and sung by Olive Fremstad. Caruso, as Renaud, did not have the opportunity, as the music runs, to use his voice to advantage, and he scarcely looked the part of a warrior. Alma Gluck made a lovely La Plaisir (Spirit of Pleasure); Louise Homer, as La Haine, sang and acted with power, and Amato, in the character of Hidraot, showed all the beauty and lusciousness of his fine voice.

Dinh Gilly, as the Chevalier Danois, and Bada, as Artemidore, were satisfactory Knights, and Leonora Sparkes, as Sidonie, and Jeanne Maubourg, completed the especially good cast. To Conductor Arturo Toscanini is due especial credit for the powerful wielding of his baton and the tasteful rendering of the score.

A fine performance of Wagner's "Tannhauser" was rendered on the second night of the season, November 16. Berta Morena made her reappearance after a year's absence, as Elisabeth, and her beautiful interpretation of the woman, saintly yet human, was received with enthusiasm.

Stezak repeated his triumph of the previous year and sang with fervor and effect, and Fremstad as Venus, made a lasting impression by her distinctive singing. It was a pleasure to hear the smooth, resonant notes of Walter Soomer in the character of Wolfram, and Alfred Hinckley did well as Landgrave. A new addition to the cast was William Hinshaw, an American, who, as Biteroff, was favorably received. Alfred Hertz conducted with skill.

On November 17 "Aida" was heard, with a favorable cast in excellent voice. Caruso, as Rhadames, showed an improvement, and his singing of "Celeste Aida" was tastefully done. Emmy Destinn repeated her success as Aida, and Louise Homer sang the part of Amneris gloriously. Others in the cast were Amato, who sang his best as Amonasro, Didur as Ramfis, and Reis Portia as the Priestess.

The American debut of Lucy Weidt, the Vienese dramatic soprano, and of Basil Ruysdael, an American bass, took place on November 18.

"Die Walkure," with new scenery, served to introduce these newcomers to the public. Miss Weidt as Brunnhilde, fell short of the standard of excellence set by other artists in the same role. In the first act she showed improvement, and in the scene of her punishment by Wotan sang well and showed ability to act. Ruysdael as Hunding, sang well, though nervousness was apparent. Hertz admirably conducted.

In her best voice, Geraldine Farrar made her first appearance of the season at the matinee performance of "Madame Butterfly" on November 19. As Mimi in Puccini's lovely work "La Boheme," on November 21, she made a decided hit and portrayed the heroine with remarkable skill and put into the impersonation feeling and charm. Her voice is a delight. Jadlowker's first appearance here as Rodolfo was finely done. This Russian tenor not only sang with effect, but showed a true interpretation of the character. In the remainder of the cast were Scotti as Marcello, Didur as Schaunard, De Segurola as Colline, and Pini-Corsi as Benoit, the landlord.

A holiday matinee of "Parsifal" was given on November 24, with Burrian as Parsifal, Fremstad as Kundry, and Goritz as Klingsor. Witherspoon and Hinshaw, newcomers in the cast, as Gurnemanz and Titurel respectively, were a decided improvement, and Amato sang Amfortas better than ever before. Hertz conducted.

On the evening of November 24 Nellie Melba, the Australian prima donna, after six years absence, returned to receive an ovation, and well she deserved it. As Gilda in Rigoletto she sang with all the beauty and freshness of voice, and her rendering of "Caro Nome" was exquisite. If anything her acting was better than ever. Another event of the performance was the appearance for the first time on Broadway of the great French baritone, Renaud. And what a Rigoletto he makes! No better representative of the stricken jester exists. Into this part he puts all the strength and elegance of his art. Constantino, as the Duke, sang well, and with Marianne Flahault, Marie Mattfeld, Helen Mapleson, Begue and Bada completed the cast.

A capable performance of "Lohengrin" was given on November 28. Morena's Elsa was beautiful, and Jadlowker as Lohengrin was impressive. Hinshaw showed his ability to act and sing, and this was his first appearance here as the Herald. Hinckley made an unsatisfactory King. Alfred Hertz conducted.

As Violetta in "Traviata" Melba made her second appearance on November 29 and sang with brilliancy. There was the pleasure of hearing also John McCormack for the first time at the Metropolitan, and as Alfredo his lovely, fresh tenor voice was a delight. Carlo Galeffi was a new Germont (debut) and Jeanne Maubourg was Flora. Podesti conducted.

"Il Trovatore" was heard for the first time this season on December 1, with Marie Rappold as Leonora. She sang well, but without any particular distinction. Slezak was Manrico. Amato as the Count used his voice to advantage, and Louise Homer as Azucena made an imposing and appealing gypsy.

On Friday night December 2, "Madama Butterfly" was repeated. In the cast were Geraldine Farrar in the title role, Rita Fornia as Sazuki, Helen Mapleson as Kate Pinkerton and Riccardo Martin as B Pinkerton.

A double bill was heard on Saturday afternoon, December 3, consisting of "Cavalleria Rusticana," followed by "Pagliacci." Alma Gluck made her debut as Nedda in "Pagliacci."

For the first time on any stage Giacomo Puccini's latest opera, "La Fanciulla del West" (The Girl of the Golden West), was heard on December 10. This opera is based on the play by David Belasco. Both the dramatist and composer were present.

The repertoire as outlined included operas of all schools sung in French, German, Italian and English. The schedule of new operas was announced as follows: Gluck's "Armide," Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West," to the libretto of David Belasco: "Koenigskinder" by Engelbert Humperdinck, the composer of "Haensel und Gretel," libretto by Ernst Rosmer. The latter two novelties were to be given under the direction of the composer.

"Parsifal" was given two holiday performances, and there will be one cycle of "Der Ring des Nibelungen." Other novelties and revivals include Bonito's "Mefistofele," Dukas's "Ariane et Barbe-Bleue," Goldmarck's "The Cricket on the Hearth," Gounod's "Romeo et Juliette," Leone's "L'Oracolo," Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz," Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Rossini's "Guglielmo Tell," "Il Signor Bruschino," Leroux's "Le Cheminean," Blech's "Versiegelt," Wolff-Ferrari's "Le Donne Curiose," Jean Nougues's "Quo Vadis." The ballets are Delibes's "Coppelia," "Grisele," music by Adam, plot by Theophile Gauthier, and Saint-Saens's "Javotte."

The newcomers in the company are Mmes. Inga Oerner, Luisa Villani and Lucie Weidt, sopranos; Mmes. Constance Milestone and Assunta Lugli, mezzo-sopranos; Leopoldo Jaricci, Robert Lassalle, Salvatore Sciaretti and Dimitri Smirnoff, tenors; George Baklanoff, Carlo Galeffi and William Hinshaw, baritones; Leon Rothier and Milispaugh Ruysdael, bassos.

The conductors are Messrs. Arturo Toscanini, Alfred Hertz, Vittorio Podesti and Josef Pasternack.

The directors of the Metropolitan Opera House are Edmund L. Baylies, Rawlins L. Cottenet, Paul D. Cravath, T. De Witt Cuyler, Robert Goelet, George J. Gould, Eliot Gregory, Frank G. Griswold, Eben D. Jordan, Otto H. Kahn, C. H. Mackay, Ed. T. Stotesbury, W. K. Vanderbilt, Harry P. Whitney and Henry R. Winthrop.

Mr. Hammerstein produced at the Manhattan Opera House on September 30, 1910, "Hans, the Flute Player," in English. It is a comic opera in three acts and a prologue, music by Louis Ganne, book by Maurice Vacaire and Georges Mitchell.

"Hans, the Flute Player," is distantly related to the German "Rat Catcher of Hamelin." Hans, by playing his magic flute, filled the mythical town of Milkatz with mice, drowned the cats and caused dismay to the people because of their having lapsed from dolimaking to commercialism. By this same flute he restored the doll industry and also united a pair of lovers who had difficulties because of the clash between art and trade.

The music is melodious and charming and through it run catchy little melodies. A waltz introducing act two and a march for the ballet are especially tuneful.

Sophie Brandt made a charming Lisbeth and sang with spirit and vivacity. Georges Chadel, of the Paris Opera Comique, was brought over by Mr. Hammerstein to create the role of Hans in New York, a part which was written for him and which he played many times abroad. He has a high baritone voice, and together with a pleasing presence won the audience immediately.

Olive Ulrich, as Ketchen, sang and danced prettily, and Frank Pollack, as Yoris the lover, was warmly received and sang his solos effectively.

Alice Gentle as the wife, Frau Pippermann, was lively and humorous. The ballet, in sabots and striped stockings and later as the dolls, made a beautiful scene. Altogether the opera was artistically staged and the parts well sung.

Others in the cast were George Callahan as Pippermann, Frank Doane as Van Pott and Frank Coombs as Willum.

Another of Mr. Hammerstein's successes, "Naughty Marietta," was produced at the Broadway Theatre on October 7. This new comic opera is by Victor Herbert, book by Rida Johnson Young. The music is tuneful and of true worth.

The book amounts to very little. Marietta d'Altena runs away from a convent in Paris to New Orleans to escape a marriage without love. Donning boy's clothing and after many adventures she meets the man of her choice and reveals her identity.

Emma Trentini, as Marietta, had an opportunity to show her excellent voice, and, together with her personal charm and finished style of acting, captivated the audience. Orville Harold as Capt. Warrington, who wins the hand of Marietta, displayed his fine tenor voice to advantage, and the music of the opera afforded this opportunity.

Another member of the former Manhattan Opera Company, Marie Duchene, in the part of Adah, a colored slave brought out all the richness of her contralto voice in "'Neath the Southern Moon." Edward Martindel as Etienne, a pirate, did well. Others in the cast were: Kate Elinore as Lizette; Harry Cooper as Simon O'Hare, an adventurer; William Frederic as the Governor, and James Murray as Rudolfo.

Beginnings of Famous Universities.

The University of Oxford has the reputation of having been founded by King Alfred in 872.

The first college of the University of Cambridge was founded by Hugo, Bishop of Ely, in 1257.

The University of Paris was founded by King Philip II about 1200.

The first university in the German Empire was at Prague, Bohemia, 1348

The Czar Alexander I. founded the Universities of St. Petersburg and Moscow in 1802.

The oldest Spanish University is that of Salamanca, founded in 1240

The University of Copenhagen, Denmark, was founded in 1479.

The University of Upsala, Sweden, was founded in 1477.

The oldest Italian universities are Bologna, founded 1200; Padua, 1222; Naples, 1224; Genoa, 1243; Perugia, 1276; Macerata 1290. There were nine more founded between 1300 and 1550. Italy was the greatest resort of students for the higher education in the Middle Ages.

Trinity College, Dublin, was incorporated by royal charter in 1591.

The University of Edinburgh was founded in 1582 by a charter granted by King James VI., of Scotland.

Harvard University had its beginning at Newtown, afterward Cambridge, Mass., in 1636.

Yale University had its beginning at Saybrook, Ct., in 1700, and was removed to New Haven in 1716.

Columbia University was chartered as King's College in 1754. The name was changed to Columbia College in 1784 and Columbia University in 1896.

Princeton University, founded in 1746, was chartered as the College of New Jersey, and did not assume its present name officially until its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary in 1896

William and Mary College (first steps taken toward establishing it in 1617) erected at Williamsburg, Va., and charter granted in 1693.

The first common schools established by legislation in America were in Massachusetts, 1645; but the first town school was opened at Hartford, Ct., prior to 1642.

The University of Pennsylvania had its beginning at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1740. It was chartered in 1753 as the Academy and Charitable School in the Province of Pennsylvania, and received a further charter as a college in 1755. Its present title dates from 1791

The University of Jagielle, of Cracow, Poland where Copernicus received his education, was founded in 1364 by the Polish King Kazimiers the Great, and endowed by a later Polish King, Jagielle in 1400.

Rapid Transit Act.

A RAPID transit railroad in New York City is defined as a railroad for the transportation of persons and property built under the Rapid Transit act, which is a State statute known as Chapter 4 of the Laws of 1891. It was under this act and its amendments that the existing subway, the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad (McAdoo tunnels), Pennsylvania Railroad tunnels across New York City and the Manhattan portion of the Bridge loop subway were built, and the contracts let for the Fourth Avenue subway and the Tri-borough system.

Street railroads in New York City get their franchises from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the right to exercise them from the Public Service Commission. They are built and operated according to the terms and conditions of the franchises and under the provisions of the State Railroad law.

Rapid transit railroads are built and operated under franchises granted by the Public Service Commission, subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment under the provisions of the Rapid Transit act.

The Public Service Commission law (which is a statute and entirely separate from the Rapid Transit act) was enacted by the Legislature of 1907 and amended in 1910. Under the Public Service Commissions law all railroads operating in New York City are subject to control and regulation by the Public Service Commission, and when this Commission was created in 1907 it took over the work and succeeded the Rapid Transit Commission. Under the Rapid Transit act it lays out routes and makes plans for new rapid transit lines, lets contracts for the building of same, subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

UNITED CHAPTERS OF PHI BETA KAPPA.

The Phi Beta Kappa Society was founded at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., December 5, 1776, and now consists of 71 chapters located in as many of the leading colleges and universities in the land. The total living membership is about 15,500. Until 1883 the growth of the Society was comparatively slow, but since the organization of the United Chapters the development has been rapid, 47 chapters having been organized. At the tenth National Council, held in New York City, September 13 and 14, 1910, six charters were granted and the chapters will be instituted shortly. They are: West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va.; Denison University, Granville, Ohio; Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; Beloit College, Beloit, Wis.; Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind.; Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. Women were first admitted in 1875, and the first charter to a woman's college, Vassar, was granted in 1898. Since then Smith, Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke and the Woman's College of Baltimore have received charters. The first woman to be honored by election to the Senate was President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College. At the triennial council in September, 1910, the old officers were re-elected for another three-year term, as follows: President, Prof. Edwin A. Grosvenor, LL. D., Amherst, Mass.; Vice-President, Hon. John J. McCook, LL. D., New York City; Secretary and Treasurer, Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, A. M., 350 East 146th Street, New York City.

Sigma Xi.—An honorary scientific society founded at Cornell University in 1886, and having twenty odd chapters in the principal colleges and universities of the country. It is not secret. The performance of creditable scientific research in the natural and applied sciences together with a high standard of scholarship constitutes the basis of membership. Women are admitted as well as men.

Tau Beta Pi Fraternity.—An engineering honorary society founded at Lehigh University in 1885. It now has 22 chapters. R. C. Mathews, University of Tennessee, at Knoxville, is the national secretary.

Alpha Omega Alpha.—An honorary medical society in which scholarship is the membership qualification, and which admits women on the same basis as men. It was founded by Dr. William W. Root at College of Physicians and Surgeons at Chicago in 1902. It now has 15 chapters and 1,000 members. Dr. William W. Root, 170 Baldwin Avenue, Detroit, Mich., is the national secretary.

Acacia Fraternity.—An intercollegiate organization for Master Masons founded at the University of Michigan in 1904, now has a membership of 1,456 and 23 ctive chapters. The National Secretary is Harry E. Kilmer, 728 Rialto Building, St. Louis, Mo.

The Professional Fraternities now number 52, with a membership exceeding 38,000. They are located in both technical and professional schools. With the exception of Theta Xi (Engineering Scientific), members of professional fraternities may also belong to the general college fraternities.

Local or "One-College" Fraternities exist in nearly all colleges, and some date back as early as 1825. There are about 75, with a membership approximating 8,000. The women's local fraternities number about 50, with a total membership of about 3,000.

The Alfred B. Nobel Prizes.

THE Swedish scientist, Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, died in 1896, bequeathing his fortune, estimated at $9,000,000, to the founding of a fund, the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had mostly contributed to "the good of humanity." The interest is divided in five equal shares, given away, "One to the person who in the domain of physics has made the most important discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important chemical discovery or invention, one to the person who has made the most important discovery in the domain of medicine or physiology, one to the person who in literature has provided the most excellent work of an idealistic tendency, and one to the person who has worked most or best for the fraternization of nations, and the abolition or reduction of standing armies, and the calling in and propagating of peace congresses."

The prizes for physics and chemistry are awarded by the Swedish Academy of Science, that for physiological or medical work by the Caroline Institute (the faculty of medicine in Stockholm), that for literature by the Swedish Academy in Stockholm, and the peace prize is awarded by a committee of five persons, elected by the Norwegian Storthing.

In accordance with these statutes the awarders of the prizes (the four above named institutions) elect fifteen deputies for two consecutive years, the Academy of Science electing six, and the other prize awarders three each. These deputies elect for two consecutive years four members of the Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute, which Board, exclusively consisting of Swedes, must reside in Stockholm. A fifth member, the President of the Board, is nominated by the Government. The Board of Directors has in its care the funds of the institution, and hands yearly over to the awarders of the prizes the amount to be given away. The value of each prize is on an average $40,000. The distribution of the prizes takes place every year on December 10, the anniversary of Mr Nobel's death. Full information can be obtained from "Nobelstiftelsens Styrelse" (The Board of Directors of the Nobel Institute), Stockholm, Sweden.

The awards made until now have been: Physics, 1901, W. C Röntgen, German; 1902, H. A. Lorentz and P Zeeman, Hollanders; 1903, H A Becquerel, P. Curie, and Marie Curie, all French. 1904, Lord Rayleigh, English; 1905, Prof. Philipp Leonard, of Kiel University, German; 1906, Prof J J Thomson, of the University of Cambridge, English; 1907, Prof. Albert A Michelson, of the University of Chicago, American 1908, Professor Gabriel Lippman, University of Paris, French; 1909, William Marconi, Italian, and Professor Ferdinand Braun, of Strassburg, German; 1910, Prof. Johannes Diederik Van der Waals, Dutch.

Chemistry: 1901, J. H. van Hoff, Professor of the Berlin University, Hollander; 1902, E. Fischer, German; 1903, S A Arrhenius, Swede; 1904, Sir William Ramsay, English; 1905, Adolph von Boeyer German; 1906, Prof Henri Moissan, French; 1907, Prof. Edouard Buchner, of the Berlin University, German; Sir William Crookes, English, 1908, Professor Ernest Rutherford, University of Manchester, English; 1909, Professor Wilhelm Ostwald, German.

Medicine: 1901, E. A. von Behring, German; 1902, R. Ross, English; 1903, N. R. Finsen, Dane; 1904 Pavloff, Russian; 1905, Prof. Robert Koch, German; 1906, Prof. Ramon y Cajal, Spanish; Professor Golgi, French; 1907, Dr. Laveran, of Paris, French; 1908, Dr. Paul Ehrlich, of Berlin, German; and Professor Elie Metschnikoff, Pasteur Institute, Paris, Russian; 1909, Professor Theodor Kocher of Berne Swiss; 1910, Dr. Albrech' Kossel, Professor of Physiology at Heidelberg University.

Literature: 1901, R. F. A Sully Prudhomme, French; 1902, Th Mommsen, German; 1903 Björnstierne Björnson, Norwegian; 1904, Frederic Mistral, French, and José Echegaray Spaniard. 1905 Henry Stenkiewicz, Pole, 1906, Professor Carducci, Italian, 1907, Rudyard Kipling English. 1908, Professor Rudolf Eucken, Jena University, German; 1909, Selma Lagerlof, Swede Peace, 1901, Henri Dunant, Swiss, and Fr. Passy, French; 1902, E. Ducommun and A. Gobat, both Swiss; 1903, W R. Cremer, English; 1904, The Institution of International Law, the first award to an institution; 1905 Baroness von Suttner, Austrian; 1906, President Theodore Roosevelt, American. 1907, Ernesto Teodoro Moneta, Italian, and Louis Renault, French; 1908, K P. Lynchings and Legal Executions.

Lynchings—The total number of lynchings in the United States from 1885 to November 1, 1910 was 3 287. In 1910 to November 1 there were 66 lynchings, of which 65 occurred in the South and one in the North. Of the lynched, 58 were negroes and 8 white persons; 63 were males and 3 females. The offences for which they were lynched were: Murder 26, rape 14, miscellaneous offences, 26. The States in which the lynchings occurred and the number in each were, in 1910 to November 1, as follows: Alabama 8, Arkansas 8, Florida 15, Georgia 10, Kentucky 1, Louisiana 3, Mississippi 5, Missouri 2, North Carolina 1, Ohio 1, Oklahoma 1, South Carolina 1, Tennessee 2, Texas 7, West Virginia 1. During a race riot in Texas 18 persons were killed, but they are not included in the above.

Legal Executions—In 1908 there were 92, in 1909 there were 107, and in 1910 to November 1 there were 94, of which 37 were in the North and 57 in the South. Forty-seven were whites and 46 negroes and all were males. The crimes for which they were executed were, murder 84, rape 10. The States in which the executions in 1910, to November 1, took place were: Alabama 6, Arkansas 7, California 2, Connecticut 1, Florida 4, Georgia 7, Illinois 2, Iowa 1, Kentucky 2, Louisiana 4, Massachusetts 1, Mississippi 2, Missouri 3, New York 9, New Jersey 4, Nevada 1, North Carolina 2, Ohio 4, Oklahoma 1, Oregon 1, Pennsylvania 9, South Carolina 4, Tennessee 1, Texas 6, Virginia 8, Washington 2

Smithsonian Institution.

FOR THE INCREASE AND DIFFUSION OF KNOWLEDGE AMONG MEN.

OFFICERS OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

Ex-Officio Presiding Officer of the Institution, William H. Taft, President of the United States; Chancellor of the Institution, James S. Sherman, Vice-President of the United States; Secretary of the Institution, Charles D. Walcott; Assistant Secretary in Charge of United States National Museum, Richard Rathbun.

Board of Regents, James S. Sherman, Vice-President of the United States, Chancellor; Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States; Shelby M. Cullom, Member of the Senate; Henry Cabot Lodge, Member of the Senate; A. O. Bacon, Member of the Senate; John Dalzell, Member of the House of Representatives; James R. Mann, Member of the House of Representatives; William M. Howard Member of the House of Representatives; James B. Angell, citizen of Michigan; Andrew D. White, citizen of New York; John B. Henderson, citizen of Washington, D. C.; Alexander Graham Bell, citizen of Washington, D. C.; Charles F. Choate, Jr., citizen of Massachusetts, George Gray, citizen of Delaware.

The Institution at Washington, D. C., was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune in 1826 to the United States for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." From the income of the fund a building, known as the Smithsonian Building, was erected on land given by the United States. The Institution is legally an establishment having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents consisting of the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, three members of the United States Senate, three members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. It is under the immediate direction of the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, who is the executive officer of the Board and the director of the Institution's activities.

For the increase of knowledge, the Institution aids investigators by making grants for research and exploration, supplying books, apparatus, laboratory accommodations, etc. It occasionally provides for lectures, which are published. It has initiated numerous scientific projects of national importance, some of which have been turned over to the Government and resulted in the creation of independent Government bureaus. It advises the Government in many matters of scientific importance, especially in those that have an international aspect. It co-operates with scientific bodies of national importance, like the National Academy of Sciences, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Historical Association, etc. It issues three regular series of publications: Annual Reports, containing papers of general interest intended to keep the ordinary reader abreast of the progress of science; Contributions to Knowledge, the distinct feature of which is that each memoir constitutes an original contribution to knowledge; Miscellaneous Collections, which contain bibliographies, reports of expeditions, and standard tables. All these publications are distributed gratuitously to important libraries throughout the world.

THE INSTITUTION LIBRARY.

The Institution maintains a library, in co-operation with the Library of Congress, which numbers 250,000 volumes, and consists mainly of the transactions of learned societies and scientific periodicals. While the body of the library is deposited in the Library of Congress and accessible to all its readers, a working library is maintained at the Institution. Lists, bibliographies, rules for cataloguing and library work have been published. It supports a table at the Naples Zoological Station. All these and numerous other activities may be carried on solely from the income of the Smithsonian fund. The Regents are empowered to accept gifts without action of Congress, in furtherance of the purposes of the Institution, and to administer trusts in accord therewith.

The parent Institution has the administrative charge of several branches which grew out of its early activities and which are supported by Congressional appropriations. These are the National Museum, including the National Gallery of Art; the International Exchange Service, the Bureau of American Ethnology, the National Zoological Park, the Astrophysical Observatory, and the United States Regional Bureau for the International Catalogue of Scientific Literature.

THE UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural history, geology, paleontology, archaeology and ethnology of America, and has unique collections of American history, as well as many series relating to fine arts and the industrial arts. It is both an educational and a research museum, and issues numerous technical and popular scientific publications. The National Gallery of Art consists largely of the collections of etchings and engravings of George P. Marsh, the collections of Charles L. Freer, containing numerous paintings and etchings by Whistler, and examples of Chinese and Japanese art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of the greatest English portrait painters, and the collection of William T. Evans, of more than one hundred paintings, representing some of the best work of American artists.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE, carried on in accordance with the terms of a treaty entered into between the United States and various foreign nations, is for the free interchange of Governmental and scientific publications between the Government of the United States and foreign governments and institutions, and investigators in the United States and foreign lands. At present it has 62,630 correspondents, and since its establishment more than 4,000,000 packages have been handled by it.

THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY, for the study of the North American Indian; THE ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY, for the investigation of solar phenomena; THE NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK at Washington, containing about 1,400 animals, and the Regional Bureau of the INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE, for the preparation of a classified index to the current scientific literature of the United States are also branches of the work of the Institution.

World's Panama Exposition at New Orleans in 1915.

NEW ORLEANS will hold an International Exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal in 1915. The World's Panama Exposition Company of New Orleans has been organized, with Governor Sanders as Honorary President and Mayor Behrman, of New Orleans, as Honorary Chairman of the Board of Directors, and the company has raised $1,000 000 toward the $7,500,000 which it has been decided to use for the preparation and establishment of the exposition. The Louisiana Legislature at its regular and special sessions in 1910, voted unanimously for the submission to the people of the State of a Constitutional amendment authorizing the levying by the State of a tax to provide the additional $6,500 000. This amendment was ratified by the people of Louisiana at the polls in the November election. It is proposed to select a site for the exposition just outside the city limits and to give it in perpetuity to the city as a park and pleasure resort. An illustrated monthly magazine entitled "The Logical Point," is being issued by the Exposition Company in the interest of the enterprise with William C. Chevis as editor The Chairman of the Executive Committee is T. P. Thompson; Treasurer, Charles Janvier; Secretary, E. L. Chappius; Assistant Secretary, J. L. Wright.

The Italian Semi-Centenary.

THE fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of Italian Unity will be celebrated under the patronage of the King of Italy, from April to October, 1911, by a great international art and historical exposition at Rome, and a great international industrial exposition at Turin. The United States Congress, May 6 1910, appropriated $150,000 to enable this country to participate in these expositions Francis B. Loomis, former Assistant Secretary of State at Washington, is the American Commissioner for the exhibit at Turin, and Harrison S. Morris, of Philadelphia, the Commissioner for the exhibit at Rome. Sites for the American display have been advantageously selected at each city. The Italian Chamber of Commerce in New York has interested itself in the exposition, and the Italian National Exposition, Company has an office at No. 1 Franklin Street, New York.

Celebration of One Hundred Years of Peace.

IT is proposed to celebrate in 1914 the centennial of the Treaty of Ghent, making one hundred years of peace between the United States and Great Britain. The matter was first discussed at the Harvard University Commencement of 1909, when the Hon. W. L. King, Minister of Labor of Canada, urged that a memorial be erected on the frontier at Niagara. Subsequently, it was discussed at the Mohonk Peace Conference in May, 1910, and at a meeting on June 10, a temporary committee on organization, which later was made permanent, chose Andrew Carnegie Chairman; William H. Short, Secretary, and John A Stewart, Chairman of an Executive Committee. Plans will be formulated later.

San Diego World's Fair in 1915.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., has raised $1 000,000 for a Panama Canal World's Fair in 1915, and its citizens have pledged themselves to raise bonds for another $1,000,000. Prominent men behind the movement are U. S. Grant, Jr., John D. Spreckels, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage and A. G. Spalding. The Provisional Director-General of the Exposition is Col. D. C Collier, of San Diego.

Exposition in 1913 Celebrating Perry's Victory.

THE one hundredth anniversary of the victory of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry over the British fleet under command of Capt. Barclay in the battle of Lake Erie September 10, 1813, will be celebrated by an historical and educational exposition at Put-in-Bay Island during the Summer of 1913 and a dedication of a national memorial to Commodore Perry and the American seamen who perished in that conflict, the remains of many of whom have reposed in unmarked graves on Put-in-Bay Island for nearly a hundred years.

The State of Ohio took the initiative in the project by necessary legislation providing for the appointment of commissioners to carry forward such plans as they deemed advisable, and since that time Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and other States, by legislation and the appointment of commissioners, have joined in the enterprise

The officers of the Ohio Commission are: President, William H Reinhart, Sandusky; Vice-President, George H. Worthingham, Cleveland; Secretary, Webster P Huntington, Columbus; Treasurer, S M. Johannsen Put-in-Bay

The exposition will open on July 4, 1913 and close September 10 Its historical and educational interests will be under the direction of the historical societies and the universities and colleges of the States participating The only industrial feature will relate to an exhibit for the promotion of the shipping interests of the Great Lakes. In conjunction with the permanent memorial to Commodore Perry the exposition will commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of Gen. William Henry Harrison's Northwestern campaign

The United States National Fair in 1912.

THE United States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition Company has been chartered under the laws of Delaware and capitalized at $1,000,000, to organize, finance and hold expositions and fairs for the promotion, improvement of and education in the arts, manufactures and products of the soil and mines, and by exhibiting displays of agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, forestry, animal husbandry and domestic arts to illustrate the general development, resources, products and advantages of the United States, their insular possessions and foreign countries

The Director-General is E. Alexis Taylor, Hartford, Ct; Chairman of the Board of Directors, Charles W Bush, Hartford Ct; the Governors of thirty-five States and Territories are Vice-Presidents; there is a Board of Lady Managers and a General Advisory Board of over 250 prominent professional and business men located throughout the country

The first United States National Fair will be held in 1912, the location yet to be determined, but it will be decided with regard to geographical relation to exhibits and population, transportation and hotel facilities The buildings will be of steel and concrete with a view to permanency as well as beauty

As the fair will open in 1912, it will be made the occasion to commemorate the centennial of the war of 1812, and in 1915 the fiftieth anniversary of the close of the civil war will be observed by a grand review of the Blue and Gray and a mammoth exhibition of war relics

There will be automobile exhibits at the fair of 1912, airship flights and contests, horse racing, sports and national athletic contests military displays and tournaments, zoological exhibitions, national singing meets, spectacular fireworks and other features illustrative of modern progress.

The Japanese National Exposition of 1917.

THE following statement has been prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by the Japanese Embassy at Washington:

The exposition which will be held in 1917 in Tokio is a national exposition, and is to be maintained and administered by the Imperial Government of Japan. It was planned to have the exposition held during the year 1912, but early in 1908 it was decided that owing to world wide financial disturbances during 1907 it would be advisable to postpone the exposition until 1917. That will be the fiftieth anniversary of the accession of the present Emperor, during whose reign Japan has made such wonderful strides in commerce, manufactures and, in fact, in every field of human endeavor. While it is a national exposition, the participation of the governments and peoples of foreign countries is cordially invited and the Japanese Government will make the plan on such a scale as not only to render it the largest exposition ever held in Japan, but give it a positively international character. This has been communicated to several countries, and many of them, appreciating the desire of the Japanese Government, have already shown their readiness to render their assistance.

It is expected that the national appropriation alone in connection with the projected exposition will amount to about $5,000 000. Added to this, the local government and municipality of Tokio, as well as the various local governments throughout the Empire of Japan and the Government of Formosa, and so forth, will make appropriations in their respective budgets so that the total governmental and municipal appropriation covering the direct expenditures of the exposition will aggregate at least more than $10,000 000.

The grounds of the exposition will occupy about 250 acres of land, of which about thirty acres will be covered by buildings already decided upon. Special buildings will be set apart for exhibits representative of arts and science, including those relating to education and also of machineries and electrical appliances.

The period during which the exposition is to be held is determined to be from April 1 to October 31, so as to include both the cherry blossom and the chrysanthemum seasons, of which so much has been written by writers on Japan and talked of by foreign visitors who have been there.

From these facts it can be easily seen that the Japanese Government desires to offer an unexcelled opportunity for foreigners to take a trip to Japan and to be entertained with attractions and amusements which even the natives may not often witness except on such an occasion.

Being a national exposition, the primary object of the enterprise is to widen the knowledge of the Japanese people as regards the industrial development attained within their own country as well as in the whole world; but, nevertheless, no better opportunity will be found in the near future than this exposition for one who entertains the desire to know the Japanese people better and to study deeper the natural and industrial resources of the country, no less than the present state of civilization and industrial achievement of her people.

San Francisco Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915.

IT is proposed to hold an International Exposition of the arts and industries at San Francisco, Cal., in 1915 in commemoration of the opening of the Panama Canal. The project was taken up with enthusiasm by the citizens of San Francisco in the early part of 1910, and at a public meeting held on April 28 over $4.000.000 was pledged toward the capital stock of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company. Since then an additional sum has been subscribed, raising the amount to $7,500,000. In addition to this the California State Legislature has authorized a provision of $5,000 000 from the State and $5,000,000 from the municipality of San Francisco, a total of $17,500,000, for the exposition. The approval of Congress has been solicited, but no definite action was taken at the session which ended June 25.

The various commercial and industrial bodies of San Francisco have interested themselves in the enterprise and numerous plans have been considered to make the occasion of the exposition attractive to the visitors who may be expected to come in throngs from all parts of the world, not only to witness the wonderful uprising of San Francisco from its desolation by fire, but to view the scenic splendors of the Pacific Coast region.

It is proposed to build the exposition structures in the western half of Golden Gate Park, which possesses all the advantages of convenience and beauty of site. The plans for the exposition will mature during the current year.

Proposed World's Fair in New York in 1913.

IN accordance with a proposition that a World's Fair should be held in the City of New York in 1913 to celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city, Mayor Gaynor early in 1910 appointed a committee of one hundred citizens, with John Claflin as Chairman, to consider the matter. A meeting of the committee was held June 21, and a sub-committee of fifteen was created to study the question throughout the Summer and report in the Autumn as to whether in its judgment a World's Fair should be held in New York in 1913. The committee consisted of E. H. Outerbridge, Chairman, Otto T. Bannard, George C. Boldt, Henry Clews, George B. Cortelyou, Robert W. DeForest, John C. Eames, Stephen M. Griswold, Otto H. Kahn, George F. Kunz, J. P. Morgan, Jr., Ralph Peters, Welding Ring, Louis Stern and Clarence Whitman. This sub-committee reported to the general committee at a meeting of the latter on October 27 adversely to the holding of the fair, giving as the reasons that resources for the fair were not available; that there was no satisfactory site in the city; that practically all of the manufacturing and business houses which were interviewed on the subject were opposed to the holding of the fair; that the time allowance for preparation was too short, and that no interference should be given to the Panama Fair to be held in New Orleans or in San Francisco in 1915. The report concluded as follows:

"The great destruction of property at Brussels has indicated grave possibilities to private exhibitors in such fairs, and the city's transit facilities and hotel accommodations would not be equal to the needs of such a time as World's Fair time. Any expansion of business as a result of the fair would be purely transitory and would result in financial reaction."

Mr. Claflin, Chairman of the Committee of One Hundred, submitted these conclusions of the sub-committee to the individual members of the general committee and received replies from a majority of the members concurring in the report, and he so advised the Mayor. This ended the movement.

Several propositions have been made to observe the foundation year by celebrations of various character and one or more of these may take form later.

The Wood Pulp Industry.

A BULLETIN of the Census Bureau issued October 18, 1910, contained the following summary of statistics of the wood pulp industry in the United States:

There were 253 wood-pulp mills in operation during the whole or a part of the calendar year 1909 in the United States, as against 251 in 1908. The consumption of the pulp wood in these mills during 1909 was 4,002,000 cords, as against 3,347,000 cords in 1908, an increase of about 19 per cent.

It is especially noticeable that since 1907 there has been a decided decrease in the consumption of the best known and highest priced pulp wood, namely, spruce; this species contributing 68.1 per cent. of the total in 1907, 64.5 per cent. in 1908, and 60.5 per cent. in 1909. There has also been a slight decrease in hemlock, whereas corresponding increases have occurred in the consumption of woods heretofore little used as pulp material, such as balsam, white fir, and several hardwoods, including birch, beech, maple, gum and basswood. This increase is especially marked in the case of balsam, the quantity of this species consumed in 1909 being more than double that reported for 1908.

The steady decrease in the annual consumption of spruce has been accompanied by a substantial increase in the average cost per cord of this species. This was $8.90 in 1907, $9.33 in 1908, and $9.96 in 1909.

The tendency to use the woods less highly considered in pulp making becomes more marked as the cost of spruce increases and the available supply is reduced. White fir, which is separately shown for the first time in 1909, is one of the woods of good quality for pulp which has been utilized only during recent years. It is very common in the national forests, and has a rather low value, due both to the lack of knowledge of its pulp value and to the lack of other uses for it. The development of the use of this wood for pulp will mean much for the national forests' management, for it will make it possible to dispose of much material for which there has hitherto been little demand.

The advancing cost of pulp wood of all species is clearly brought out in the report. The total consumption in 1909, though exceeding that of 1907 by less than 40,000 cords, cost over $2,000,000 more.

The quantity of slabs and other mill waste consumed as pulp material was substantially the same in 1909 and in 1908, about 250,000 cords in each year, which, however, was a material increase in the consumption of this character of material over 1907, when 193,000 cords of it were reported as used.

The consumption of woods, in cords, in 1909 was as follows:

Spruce, domestic 1,653,000; spruce, imported 768,000; hemlock 560,000; poplar, domestic 303,000; poplar, imported 26,000; balsam 95,000; pine 91,000; white fir 37,000; cottonwood 37,000; all other 183,000; slab wood, etc. 249,000; total 4,002,000.

Production of Lumber
IN THE UNITED STATES.

A BULLETIN of the Bureau of the Census, issued November 8, 1910, contained the following report on the production of lumber in the United States in the calendar year, 1909:

The lumber cut in the United States during the calendar year 1909 was 44,585 million feet, board measure, as against 33,224 million feet in 1908, and 40,256 million feet in 1907. This was an increase of 34.2 per cent. over 1908, and of 10.8 per cent. over 1907. The output of lath and shingles during 1909 was 3,712 million and 14,945 million, respectively. The increase in the production of lath in 1909 over 1908 was 24.3 per cent. and over 1907 1.3 per cent. while the corresponding increases for shingles were 23.4 per cent. and 26.4 per cent.

Of the total production of lumber in 1909 softwoods supplied 33,875 million feet, or 76 per cent., while hardwoods contributed 10,693 million feet, or 24 per cent. Softwoods contributed 1 per cent. less of the total production in 1909 than in 1908 and 1907, in each of which years they formed 77 per cent. of the total.

The reported cut of yellow pine in 1909, 16,277 million feet, constituted 36.5 per cent. of the total lumber output. This proportion was substantially larger than in 1908 and 1907, in which years it formed 33.8 per cent. and 32.8 per cent., respectively, of the total. Douglas fir lumber, which ranked next to yellow pine in 1909, with a reported cut of 4,856 million feet, formed 10.9 per cent. of the total output in that year, as against 11.1 per cent. in 1908 and 11.8 per cent. in 1907. White pine, with an output of 3,900 million feet, contributed 8.8 per cent. of the total in 1909, as against 10.1 per cent. in 1908 and 10.4 per cent. in 1907. The reported cut of oak lumber in 1909, namely, 4,446 million feet, was substantially larger than the output of this species in either 1908 or 1907. It formed 10 per cent. of the total in 1909, as against 8.3 per cent. in 1908 and 9.2 per cent. in 1907. A steady decrease is noted in the proportion of hemlock lumber in the total production during the last three years. It formed 8.4 per cent. of all lumber in 1907, 7.6 per cent. in 1908, and 6.8 per cent. in 1909. A similar showing was made by spruce, which declined from 4.3 per cent. of the total in 1907, and 4.2 per cent. in 1908, to 3.9 per cent. in 1909. Western pine showed little variation in actual or relative production in the three years. Its contribution in both 1907 and 1908 formed 3.8 per cent. of the total, and in 1909, 3.4 per cent. The cut of lumber from no other species reached as much as 3 per cent. of the total output in any of the three years, though a substantial increase in the production of hickory lumber was shown for 1909, when a cut of 338 million feet was reported.

The States producing the largest amount of lumber in 1909, were, Washington, 3,863,000,000 board feet; Louisiana, 3,552,000,000 board feet; Mississippi, 2,573,000,000 board feet; North Carolina, 2,178,000,000 board feet; Arkansas, 2,111,000,000 board feet.

Commission on Railroad Corporation Stocks and Bonds.

BY Section 16 of Chapter 309, acts of the Second Session of the 61st Congress, approved June 18 1910, the President was authorized to appoint a commission to investigate questions pertaining to the issuance of stocks and bonds by railroad corporations. The section reads as follows:

The President is hereby authorized to appoint a commission to investigate questions pertaining to the issuance of stocks and bonds by railroad corporations, subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and the power of Congress to regulate or affect the same, and to fix the compensation of the members of such commission. Said commission shall be and is hereby authorized to employ experts to aid in the work of inquiry and examination, and such clerks, stenographers, and other assistants as may be necessary, which employés shall be paid such compensation as the commission may deem just and reasonable upon a certificate to be issued by the chairman of the commission. The several departments and bureaus of the Government shall detail from time to time such officials and employés and furnish such information to the Commission as may be directed by the President. For the purposes of its investigations the commission shall be authorized to incur and have paid upon the certificate of its chairman such expenses as the Commission shall deem necessary: Provided, however, That the total expenses authorized or incurred under the provisions of this section for compensation, employés, or otherwise, shall not exceed the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

The President appointed under this authority the following members of the Commission: Arthur T. Hadley, President of Yale University, Chairman; Frederick Strauss of the firm of J. and W. Seligman & Company, bankers, New York; Balthasar H. Meyer, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Wisconsin, and Chairman of the Wisconsin Railway Commission; Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, one of the Vice-Presidents of the National Conservation Commission, and Frederic N. Judson of St. Louis, late Chairman of the Missouri State Taxation Commission.

AFRICA.

THE long disputed frontier boundaries of British and German East Africa with the Belgian Congo, was settled by a protocol signed by the representatives of the three Governments at Brussels, May 14, 1910.

Capt. A. H. W. Haywood, R. A., travelled from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean across the Sahara Desert by the route from Gao on the Niger to Insalah. He is one of the few Englishmen who has ever taken this route, and he suffered many hardships, particularly from lack of water and the driving sands.

The Duke of Mecklenburg started on another expedition to West Africa. He will follow the Congo-Ubangi route to Lake Chad, and hopes to make his way to the Bahr-el-Ghazal through Southern Wadi, and other border lands of the Sudan.

It was officially announced by the British Parliament that the Lado Enclave, which by an agreement with Belgium was to revert to Anglo-Egyptian Sudan six months after the death of King Leopold, was formally handed over to the Sudan authorities June 16, 1910.

Many of the former gaps in the map of the region between eastern Adrar and the bend of the Niger River have been surveyed by Captain Cortier (French). He was able to fix the positions of the most important points astronomically, thus securing a satisfactory frame work for the cartography of this part of the Sahara Desert.

Further information on Lake Chad was published by Dr. Marquardsen of Gottingen, Germany. The variations in its level and size do not in his opinion indicate a progressive change in climate since its discovery by Denham in 1823. However, the lake appears to be shifting northward and gradually filling up.

The sand dunes of the Libyan Desert have been studied by H. J. L. Beadnell during a residence of three years in the Kharga oasis 300 miles south of Cairo and the results published. He found that even when superposed on irregular sands the dunes showed a remarkable linear grouping from north to south The average rate of progression of the dunes in this direction was 15 to 16 metres a year.

On March 14, 1910, the expedition in charge of Theodore Roosevelt arrived at Khartoum, having spent eight months in British East Africa collecting mammals, birds, reptiles, fishes and plants for the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D. C.

Evidence is steadily accumulating to show that most of the forest mammals formerly supposed to be restricted to the west coast of Africa are found in Uganda. The latest instance of this was afforded by the discoveries of O. Thomas during the past year.

Capt. A. J. N. Tremearne discussed the origin of the remarkable African race the Fulah or Filani before the Royal Society of Arts. He believes that the tribe arose in Central Sudan from the union of Berber males with negro women, and in the course of time separated into groups, one going southeast becoming the Wahuma, another west to Morocco and the third south, becoming the Fans.

The boundary between Tunis and Tripoli, which has been for several years in dispute between the French and Turks, was settled by mutual agreement, the French claims being conceded.

ASIA.

Major de Lacoste explored Mongolia. Accompanied by two companions he started from Verkhne-Udinske on the Trans-Siberian line southeast of Lake Baikal, went south to Urga, then west as far as Uliassutai and finally reached Obi. The climate in the region traversed was very trying, the inhabitants poor and their flocks decimated by famine and thirst.

The Japanese traveller Zuicho Tachibana left for the northern part of the Chinese Empire and will explore Kara-nor.

M. Bacot spent several months on the China-Tibet frontier. He visited Beji and also Likiang. At the latter place he was shown a work giving the history of the kings of Likiang and a series of portraits of them.

The Dutch expedition to New Guinea succeeded in ascending a portion of the interior mountain range, reaching the first glacier at a height of several thousand feet. A new peak was sighted, to which the name of Juliana was given and the altitude of Wilhelmina peak, the highest point yet discovered in New Guinea, was fixed as 15,800 feet above sea level.

An expedition organized by D. Carruthers left England, in March, 1910, for northwestern Monogolia. The chief object will be to explore zoologically, botanically and geographically the basin of the upper Yenesei River. The Yenesei is important as being the line of demarcation between the faunas of eastern and western Siberia. Explorations will also be made in the Chinese provinces of Kansu and Alashan.

The first industrial exposition ever held in China was opened at Nanking, and lasted from June to November. Only two buildings were allowed for foreign exhibits, but several were devoted to displaying products of Chinese industry, agriculture and natural resources.

Results of observations taken by Major D' Ollone's expedition in northwestern China, have been to place the great elbow of the Hwango-ho River, nearly a degree east of the position previously assigned to it, thus necessitating a revision of the map of the entire region.

Dr. T. G. Longstaff on his glacier explorations in eastern Karakorum, achieved four important feats, viz., the discovery of the Saltoro Pass, the fixing of the watershed in the eastern Karakorum, the discovery of the Siachen Glacier and the peak of Teram Kangri, the latter having an altitude of at least 27,500 feet and possibly the highest in the world.

Rubber culture has had a remarkable effect on the commercial activity of the Strait Settlements. In the suburbs of Singapore City a large area of swamp land has been drained and converted into a nursery for Para rubber plants, while in Malacca, land previously covered with laling has been transformed into rubber plantations.

An interesting account of explorations on the Hispar glacier, one of the largest in the world, was read by Dr. Workman before the Royal Geographical Society. The Hispar glacier is one of the many feeders of the Indus, is almost 37 miles long and has a gradient of about one in thirty, with an average width a little less than two miles.

The Empire of Korea was annexed to that of Japan in August, 1910, thus fulfilling the clause in the treaty of Portsmouth between Japan and Russia, which stated that Japan shall have the guidance, protection and control of Korea.

EUROPE.

The influence of the mountain ranges of Central Germany upon the temperature of the atmosphere was discussed by Ewald Haussler. His conclusions are, that the isothermal lines are displaced upward in many parts of this region at certain times of the day and seasons of the year, which means that the reduction of temperature with height is less than it otherwise would be.

Italy, not to be outdone by Austria, has taken steps to scientifically explore the Adriatic Sea, paying particular attention to the fisheries. A joint conference was held at Venice from May 18 to 21, 1910, for developing a plan for advantageous co-operation and assigning the fields of activity for each country.

The inauguration of the Oceanographical Museum at Monaco, founded by the Prince of Monaco, as an aid to oceanographical research, took place March 29, 1910.

A series of studies of Austrian climate based upon systematic observations covering a long period of years, was issued by K. K. Zentralanstalt für Meteorologie und Geodynamik.

in Rome from October 15 to 22, 1911. The congress will be divided into eight sections and communications may be made in Italian, French, German or English.

A collection was started for an endowment fund for the British Rainfall Organization (which has been an unofficial organization) for carrying on its work of keeping records of rainfalls.

Special maps of Germany and Central Europe made during the 15th century are so rare that considerable importance is attached to the description written by Prof. A. Wolkenhauer, of the two fragments at Coblenz.

Dr. A. Defant, of the Institute of Meteorology and Geodynamics, Vienna, Austria, investigated the causes of the strong daily oscillations of level on Lake Garda.

An international expedition started in March, 1910, for the peak of Teneriffe, Canary Islands, to study the effect of high altitudes and sunshine on medical and biological processes.

Experiments carried out with chemicals have thrown new light on the underground system of the Timavo, the stream famous in antiquity, which debouches into the Gulf of Trieste. The main point settled was the connection of the Timavo with the Wippach by way of Lakes Deberdo and Pietra Rossa, which was proved to be the case by throwing lithium chloride into the Wippach at Vertoche and then examining the water in the lakes and the Timavo.

An expedition under Dr. Hjort, financed and accompanied by Sir John Murray, left Plymouth, April 7, 1910, and returned some months later. Both physical and biological observations were made off the west coasts of Ireland and Europe, Canary Islands, Azores and Newfoundland. More than six hundred temperature readings were recorded at various depths and samples of the water were collected at the same time. Deep sea fishes were obtained by tow nets and many new species were brought up.

AMERICA.

Capt. T. W. Whiffen returned from a trip to the upper waters of the northwestern tributaries of the Amazon River. He found the natives ignorant of the use of metals and peace loving within the limits of their own tribe.

H. V. Radford, an American naturalist, spent several months in the almost unknown area west of the Slave River and north of the lower Peace in northwest Canada, studying the habits of the rare wood bison and in making surveys.

Chile has adopted as standard time the 75th meridian west of Greenwich.

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey gave the height of Mount McKinley, Alaska, as 20,300 feet above the sea level, and its location as 63° 3′ 56.83″ N. lat., and 151° 0′ 41.31″ West long.

Carl Lumholtz made ethnological and physico-geographical investigations in the northwestern part of Sonora, Mexico. He also travelled extensively in the little known Pinacate region.

A detailed examination of trade routes in Bolivia was made by Prof. I. Bowman and published in the Bulletin of the American Geological Society. He believes that the Atlantic slope and not the Pacific will always be the back door to Bolivia, for the section of the country in which the population is found looks toward the Pacific, and the first essential of all trade routes is a short line to the coast.

The natural bridges in Utah, the largest called "The Stone Arch," 308 feet high and 275 feet between abutments, were explored by B. Cummings. These bridges are the result of a disturbance of the vast strata of red and yellow sandstone underlying portions of Utah, which left natural obstacles through which the rivers have worn their way.

An earthquake at Cartago, Costa Rica, on May 4, 1910, destroyed many buildings and it is estimated that a large number of people lost their lives.

Letters received from Major Fawcett's party in Bolivia, stated that he proposes to trace the Heath River to its source, and if he has time he will go to the head waters of the Madidi and explore the surrounding country.

An expedition to the west central part of Labrador was organized by Prof. R. McFarland, of Middlebury College. A study was made during the Summer of the region about Little Lake Mistassini and Lake Temiscamie.

A party from the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, visited unknown parts of Southern Florida. Of the once powerful Seminole nation, there are now only 300 persons, who live on small islands in the everglades. The Seminoles have no use for white men or white men's civilization and wish to be left entirely alone.

Mount McKinley, Alaska, was reported to have been ascended by four miners in April, 1910. Later on in the year Prof. H. C. Barker's party, under the auspices of the American Geographical Society, spent considerable time in the vicinity of the mountain.

POLAR RESEARCH.

The French Antarctic Expedition under Jean Charcot returned in their ship, Pourqui Pas, to Punta Arenas on February 11, 1910, and later sailed for France. New lands were discovered west and south of Alexander First Land, and considerable time was spent among the Shetland Islands. To the south of Adelaide Island a vast gulf was found and about 120 miles of new country was surveyed.

Dr. W. S. Bruce of Scotland, is contemplating sailing in the Spring of 1911 to Buenos Ayres, Argentina, and thence to Cape Town for the purpose of completing the bathymetrical survey of the South Atlantic Ocean, begun in 1902. He will then proceed to Melbourne, Australia, and later set out from a base on Coats Land, with a view to crossing the Antarctic continent by way of the South Pole.

Captain Amundsen sailed from Christiania, Norway, in June, 1910, on the Fraum to make meteorological and oceanographical researches in the North Atlantic Ocean. Dr. Nansen in the Norwegian gunboat Frithjof also explored the North Atlantic.

Knud Rasmussen, whose expedition will be officially known as the Danish Ethnographical Expedition to the Central Esquimo, will leave Copenhagen in the Summer of 1911. He will make a special study of the Esquimaux living in the northwestern part of Baffin Land and in the Barren Lands of Northern Canada.

Announcement of a Japanese expedition to the South Pole was made at Tokio early in 1910. It will be in charge of Lieutenant Shirase (who will command a little 200-ton schooner) the actual polar party consisting of a geographer, an astronomer and two other men besides Lieutenant Shirase. Horses and sleighs will be used for transportation purposes.

Capt. E. Mikkelsen, who left June 20, 1909, to search for M. Erichsen's expedition which was lost in November, 1907, was wrecked in the Winter of 1910 on the coast of East Greenland. Mikkelsen's party succeeded in reaching Shannon Island, off King William Land, and were rescued by a passing steamer.

Lieutenant Filchner (German) proposes to start in April, 1911, for the Antarctic region with the intention of discovering the South Pole. He has purchased a Norwegian sealer, viz., the Björn, which has been employed around Weddell Sea and is well suited for Antarctic work.

In September, 1910, H. Whitney of New Haven, and P. T. Rainey of New York, returned from a hunting trip in the Arctic. They went further north (83°N) it is reported than any previous hunting expedition, and brought back a large collection of skins, horns and tusks.

Prince Henry of Prussia, with Count Zeppelin, left on the steamer Mainz for the Arctic region to study water and air currents and ice drifting. They will ultimately try to reach the North Pole by an airship.

Review of Scientific Progress in 1910.

ARCHAEOLOGY.

Drs. M. O. Richter and K. Koritzky (German archaeologists) announced the discovery of the site of the famous Cyprian temple of Aphrodite-Astarte. Dr. Richter believes that the antiquities to be unearthed will prove so numerous that it will be necessary to erect a special museum for them.

Prof. D. Vaglieri, while excavating at Ostia, Italy, found the sarcophagus of Quiriacus, the first bishop of Ostia, who was murdered with several followers in the year 268.

The highlands of Moab, Arabia, have been the field of much archaeological activity. Near the ruins of El Hudr, a number of large monoliths, some over 18 feet high, were found which the Arabs of the district could not account for.

Excavations in Babylonia, under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa., have brought to light a number of Aramaic incantation bowls. The bowls are inscribed with magical incantations, which were believed to have the power of driving out evil spirits from the bodies and homes for whom they were inscribed.

Thirty complete skeletons were unearthed in the Topango Canyon, California, and anthropologists have been endeavoring to discover the prehistoric age to which they belong. The bones indicate that the race were about the size of the average man of the present day, but have low and retreating foreheads, while in front of the ears is a peculiar horn like development.

Divers gathering sponges off the coast of Tunis, Africa, came across a large number of marble and bronze statues, among them a marble bust of Aphrodite. The statues were part of a cargo of a ship bound for Italy, but wrecked about 2,000 years ago near what is now the port of Mahdea.

Dr. Luigi Pernier explored an early Greek city on the island of Crete. Among the ruins were inscribed stones and terra-cottas, the most important of all, however, was a stele representing a standing figure facing the right, clad in a tightly folded robe.

In a paper read before the French Academy by Professor Naville, the results are given of an exhaustive examination of the Egyptian evidence for the belief that the Jewish Book of Law, usually identified with Deuteronomy, discovered in the walls of the Temple of Jerusalem during the reign of Josiah, was placed there by Solomon.

More antiquarian treasures have been found at Tarranto, in Southern Italy. Since excavating was started in September, 1908, over 400 tombs, valuable potteries showing a high degree of perfection in ceramic art, and fragments of clay statues of the third or fourth century B. C., have been unearthed. Many of the statue fragments have been carefully assembled by Prof. Quagliati and placed in the museum at Tarranto.

Cardinal Rampolla in his searches among the manuscripts in the Vatican Library, is reported to have come across a Latin hymn written by Charlemagne, King of France, on the death of his son.

Prof. Butler, of Princeton University, Princeton, N. J., with several assistants, began excavating the city of Sardis, which is five hours distance by rail from Smyrna, Turkey. The work there will last about three years or until the entire city is laid bare.

ASTRONOMY.

There were four eclipses during 1910, two of the sun and two of the moon. A total eclipse of the sun took place May 8 and a partial one November 1. Total eclipses of the moon occurred May 23 and November 16.

A new comet, viz., Comet a 1910, was first observed at Johannesburg, South Africa, January 17. It came up to perihelion from behind the sun, passing perihelion about 10,000,000 miles from it, and then went away from the earth.

In regards to the markings on the planet Mars, R. G. Aitken, in an address before the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, said, "that the observations of the past year are as contradictory as those of previous, though the weight of evidence on the whole this year is more favorable to the theory that the markings are of natural origin."

On the night of May 18, 1910, the earth passed through the plane of the orbit of Halley's Comet.

A new observatory was founded at Moscow, Russia, by M. Archinoff. It has a refractor telescope with an objective of 130 m.m.

T. J. J. See, in the February number of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific journal, wrote, "that the origin of the so called craters on the moon were caused by the impact of satellites and that the old volcanic theory is erroneous."

The most important contribution to the literature of double star astronomy was the publication of the second volume of Schiaparelli's double star measures, containing the results of 7,177 measures of 636 systems made with the 18-inch Merz-Repsold refractor of the Milan Observatory.

On April 28, 1911, a total eclipse of the sun will take place. The path of the moon's shadow will be restricted to the equatorial regions and confined to the longitudes between Australia and South America, so far as Europe and Asia are concerned the eclipse will not be observed even in a partial phase.

Three eminent astronomers died during 1910. Sir William Huggins, May 12, the pioneer founder of spectroscopic research in relation to the heavenly bodies; on July 4, G. V. Schiaparelli, the Italian astronomer who has added so much to our knowledge of Mars, and on July 10, J. G. Galle, the German astronomer who discovered the planet Neptune.

By combining the results of the velocities of 49 stars near the assumed apex of the solar system with those of 15 stars surrounding the anti-apex, Prof. Strovbant concluded that the system is travelling toward the assumed apex with a velocity of 19.40 k.m. per second.

Prof. W. H. Pickering, of Harvard College Observatory, in the Popular Astronomy for May, contributed an interesting article on the Orbits of Meteorites. He wrote: "If all the meteorites before their fall were moving in direct orbits, then those whose fall is observed between noon and midnight, must overtake the earth and be travelling faster than it. Moreover, more meteorites overtake the earth than are overtaken by it."

The intrinsic brilliancy of the sun was estimated by Dr. Nordmann as 100,500 decimal candles per square centimetre.

Prof. H. W. Russell, discussed the origin of binary stars from the view point, that they are produced by the fission of rotating masses. He concludes, that while the development of nuclei in the original nebula must be invoked to account for the formation of star clusters it is more reasonable to suppose that binary systems have been produced by fission.

CHEMISTRY.

M. M. Besson and Fournier obtained a new chloride of phosphorous, P2 Cl4, by subjecting a mixture of hydrogen and phosphorous tri-chloride vapor to a silent electric discharge. The chloride produced is an oily, colorless liquid, with a strong odor of phosphorous. Its melting point is −28° C., and boils under the ordinary atmospheric pressure at about 180° C.

H. E. Watson made a series of experiments to ascertain the molecular weights of helium, neon, krypton, xenon and argon. On reducing the observed densities to zero pressure, the molecular weights were: helium, 3.994; neon, 20.20; krypton, 82.92; xenon, 130.22, and argon, 39.881.

Ozonized air was tried as an adjunct to the ventilation of the Chicago Public Library, and proved very satisfactory.

A new method of producing sapphires by fusion was brought out by M. A. Verneuil. A mixture of alumina with 1½ per cent. of magnetic oxide of iron and ½ per cent. of titanic acid, was fused by an oxy-hydrogen blow pipe, and yielded sapphires which had the same color, structure and optical characteristics as the natural stones.

An examination of the atmosphere at various altitudes for oxides of nitrogen and ozone was made at the University, Manchester, England. The oxides of nitrogen were found to be present in variable proportions, and the amount of ozone at ground level and up to altitudes of 8,000 feet, averaged less than one part by volume in 4,000,000,000 parts of air, while at higher altitudes up to ten miles the quantities varied from one part to 3,000,000 to 9,000,000 of air.

Giolitti and Ceccarelli, Italian chemists, investigated the behavior of bronze when exposed to the electrolytic action of corrosive agents as hydrochloric acid. From the results of their experiments it appears that the difference in the behavior of two bronzes of the same composition toward corrosive agents is mainly due to the different treatment which the alloys had previously been subjected to.

Another sulphide of carbon was obtained by Sir J. Dewar and H. O. Jones, by passing a silent electric discharge through a rapid current of carbon bisulphide vapor. At a pressure of about one m.m. partial decomposition occurs with the liberation of sulphur and formation of a new sulphide of carbon, probably the monosulphate, which is volatile at the ordinary temperature, but may be condensed at the temperature of liquid air.

Duralumin, a new alloy of aluminum, was discovered by H. B. Weeks, a chemist employed by Vickers Sons & Maxim, at Barrow, England. It is described as a little heavier than pure aluminum, but as strong as steel. Moreover, it can be forged, rolled and drawn at suitable temperatures, and is not so easily corroded as other aluminum alloys.

Mme. Curie, working with Prof. Dubiern, succeeded in obtaining pure radium in metallic form. By using one one-hundredth part of a grain of radium salts, they produced an infinitesimally small amount of radium. It appeared as a white metal, but rapidly oxidized on exposure to the air and became black.

GEOLOGY.

H. W. Fairbanks and E. P. Carey reported evidences of glaciation in the San Bernardino Range, California, in latitude 34° 7′ N. This is about 200 miles further south than the general assumed line of glaciation in the United States.

The United States Bureau of Mines was established July 1, 1910. It is under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

Dr. John Ball, in the Geological Magazine, discussed the origin of the Nile Valley and the Gulf of Suez. His conclusions are, that the hypothesis that the Nile Valley and the Gulf of Suez owe their origin to trough faulting is unwarranted by geological evidence, and that the Nile Valley is essentially a valley of erosion while the Gulf of Suez is an eroded anticline.

Wind worn pebbles are rare in England. A description of several found in quarry sections at Hill Top, Worcestershire, about 350 feet above the sea level, was published by L. J. Willis.

Dr Vaughan's success in the Bristol district gave a great impetus to the zoning of carboniferous rocks of the British Isles. His system has been applied to the carboniferous rocks of South Wales and the Midlands, with the result that many important points in the physiography of lower carboniferous times have been ascertained.

An interesting discovery was made by D. Tait, who found fossils of the lower cretaceous age in beds of yellow sand at Leavad, Caithness, Scotland. The fossils include species belonging to the genera Craspedites, Desmoceras, Hamites and Crioceras, and have neocomian facies.

Observations bearing on the origin of the Vaal River diamonds (South Africa) were made by H. S. Harger. He found on examining the gravels flanking the Vaal River, that the so called high level gravels are really disintegrated conglomerates belonging to the Dwyka formation. It is noteworthy that diamonds do not appear in the alluvium of Vaal River until it begins to flow over the outcrop of the ventersdorp amygdaloid.

The United States Geological Survey has had twelve parties in Alaska making explorations and studying the geology and the mineral resources.

S. S. Buchmann, in a paper on the lower jurassic rocks of the Dorset coast of England, classifies them by the zonal system. Thus the Upper Lias portion of the junction bed near Chideock is a condensed imperfect epitome in 20 inches of about 180 feet of strata on the Yorkshire coast, while a 2-inch layer lying between the bifrons and striatulus bands on the same bed represents 250 feet of deposit in the Cotteswolds. Hence he concludes that two feet of the junction bed was formed while a thickness of some 550 feet was being deposited elsewhere.

The fifth International Congress of Mining, Metallurgy, Mechanical Engineering and Practical Geology met at Dusseldorf, Germany, on June 20, 1910, and remained in session for several days.

T. H. D. La Touche discussed the question whether relics of the ice age may not be recognized in the plains of Northern India, in the form of the elevated patches of older alluvium. He pointed out that the high level terraces in the Himalayan valleys seem to owe their origin to the exceptional accumulation of debris during the glacial period owing to the destruction of vegetation.

ENGINEERING.

The Trans-Andine Railroad, connecting Buenos Ayres, Argentina and Santiago, Chile, a distance of 888 miles, was opened April 5, 1910. This road has one of the most remarkable tunnels in the world, viz., the Summitt, which is two miles long and about 10,000 feet above sea level.

Work was started on the Cape Cod Canal, in Massachusetts, which will connect Buzzards Bay with Cape Cod Bay, thereby shortening the distance by water from New York to Boston by several hours. The canal will be eight miles long with a minimum width at the bottom of 100 feet.

A deep tunnel under New York City, projected by the Board of Water Supply at an estimated cost of $25,000,000, was approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The tunnel will distribute the water brought by the Catskill Aqueduct in the five boroughs of the city.

Clear Lake Dam, forming part of the Klamath Irrigation Project (Oregon-California), was completed in January, 1910, by the United States Reclamation Service. The dam is located on Lost River at the outlet of Clear Lake, Cal., and is 940 feet long on top, with a maximum height of 33 feet. It forms a reservoir with an area of 25,000 acres and a capacity of 1,089,000,000 cubic feet.

The Grafton Bridge across Cemetery Gulley, Auckland, New Zealand, a reinforced concrete structure having the largest masonary arch in the world, was opened for traffic April 28, 1910. The main arch has a 320-foot span, and is composed of two ribs, separated by cross struts and carrying the floor on slender columns. The bridge is 36 feet wide, with a 24-foot roadway and two sidewalks

An Australian transcontinental railroad has been surveyed. It will be about 1,060 miles long and of standard gauge.

Work on the Panama Canal has progressed favorably. The average excavation per month was approximately 2,600,000 cubic yards, although in March 3,049,000 cubic yards were excavated Five and a half miles at the Atlantic entrance have been opened to the rock and sand fleet, while five miles at the Pacific entrance have been opened to vessels of all classes.

The building of the Engle Dam across the Rio Grande River was started, and when completed, will inclose one of the largest artificial bodies of water in the world. The reservoir will have a capacity of 2,000,000 acre feet, which is sufficient to irrigate 180,000 acres of land. The dam will be 1,400 feet long. 265 feet high, 180 feet thick at the bottom and 20 feet at the top.

The Pennsylvania Railroad station in New York City, and the Manhattan Cross Town and East River tunnels connecting it with Long Island City, were opened to the public September 8, 1910.

On October 1, 1910, the great breakwater protecting the harbor of San Pedro, Cal., was completed after ten years' work. The breakwater is 9,250 feet long and represents an expenditure of many millions of dollars.

Plans for the largest dry dock (the Gladstone) in the world, to be built at Liverpool, England, were prepared by the Mersey Docks and Harbor Board. It is unique in being intended for ordinary use as a wet dock, and will be pumped out only to dock vessels of the largest class It will be 1,020 feet long, with an entrance 120 feet wide, and is designed to accommodate the new steamers of the White Star, Cunard and Hamburg-American lines

Reports on the progress of the New York State Barge Canal during the past year were very satisfactory, in fact, more progress was made than in the previous four years One hundred and twenty-one miles of contract was let, which amounted in the aggregate to nearly $19,000,000

The first of the large caissons for the pier foundations of the new Quebec Bridge across the St Lawrence River, was placed in position For one of the piers a caisson 79 feet by 180 feet will be built, which will be the largest of its kind ever constructed.

White House Rules.

THE following rules have been arranged for the conduct of business at the Executive Offices during the Winter of 1909-10:

The Cabinet will meet on Tuesdays and Fridays from 11 A. M until 1 P. M

Senators and Representatives having constituents whom they desire merely to present to the President will be received from 10 to 10.30 A. M., excepting on Cabinet days.

Senators and Representatives having business to transact will be received from 10 30 A. M. to 12 M., excepting on Cabinet days. In view of the pressure of the appointments at the Executive Offices during the Congressional session it would greatly facilitate matters if the Senators and Members could telephone for an appointment before calling, as many will have first made appointments in this way, and those calling without are therefore necessarily delayed in seeing the President.

Visitors having business with the President will be admitted from 12 M. to 1 P. M daily, excepting Cabinet days, by appointments previously fixed

The East Room will be open daily, Sundays excepted for the inspection of visitors, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 2 P. M.

CHARLES D NORTON,
Secretary to the President.

Age at death is given in parentheses; vocation, place, cause, and time of death when known follow.

Religious Statistics.

OTHER GEOGRAPHICAL DIVISIONS.

According to the estimate of M. Fournier de Flaix, the number of persons in North and South America affiliated with the Catholic church is 58,398,882, and with the Protestant churches 57,294,014; Oceanic Catholics, 6,574,481; Protestants, 2,724,781; Mohammedans, 24,699,787; Africa Catholics, 2,655,920; Protestants, 1,744,080; Mohammedans, 36,000,000, Asia Catholics, 3,007,250; Protestants, 662,750; Orthodox Greek Church, 8,820,000; Mohammedans, 109,532,585. Confusionists, Hindoos and Buddhists in Asia were not estimated.

ENGLISH-SPEAKING RELIGIOUS COMMUNITIES OF THE WORLD.

Episcopalians	29,200,000	Free Thinkers	5,250,000
Methodists of all descriptions	18,650,000	Lutherans, etc	2,800,000
Roman Catholics	15,500,000	Unitarians	2,600,000
Presbyterians of all descriptions	12,250,000	Minor religious sects	5,500,000
Baptists of all descriptions	9,230,000	Of no particular religion	17,000,000
Congregationalists of all descriptions	6,150,000	English-speaking population	124,130,000

A very large number—more than 18,000,000—of Hindoos, Mohammedans, Buddhists, and others in the East also speak and read English.

The estimates in the last table were from Whitaker's (London) Almanack.

The "Encyclopedia Britannica," last edition, makes a rough estimate of numbers of Protestants in the world speaking all civilized languages, and places the Lutherans at the head, with over 42,000,000 members (mostly in Germany and Scandinavia), and the Anglican Church second, with about 20,000,000 members. The London Jewish Year Book for 1910 estimated the number of Jews in the United States at 1,903,926 and in the world at 11,625,656 in 1910.

Universalists	730	890	54,836
Grand Total for 1909	168.378	215 160	34,517,317

The aggregate of 34,517,317 represents actual church membership, and includes all Catholics (communicants and unconfirmed minors), but not all persons affiliated by family ties to Protestant bodies. The larger of the Protestant bodies may claim twice the number of their communicants as nominal adherents.—Editor of The Almanac.

Note.—(a) Besides actual church members the Christian Scientists claim several hundred thousand unattached adherents.
(b) The London Jewish Year Book for 1910 estimates the number of the Jewish race in the United States as 1,903,926

SEATING CAPACITY OF CHURCHES.

The total seating capacity of church edifices reported in 1906, according to the Census Bulletin of August 20, 1909, was 58,536,830, an increase over 1890 of 14,976,767, or 34.4 per cent. The seating capacity reported for the Protestant bodies was 53,282,445; for the Roman Catholic Church, 4,494,377; and for the remaining bodies, 760,008. The rate of increase was practically the same for both the Protestants and the Roman Catholics, being 33.6 per cent. for the former, and 33.3 per cent. for the latter. The increase in the seating capacity of churches has kept pace with the increase in population, the seating capacity being 69.2 per cent. of the population in 1890, compared with 69.5 per cent. in 1906.

The average seating capacity per organization for the Protestant bodies taken together was 317, and for the Roman Catholic Church, 436. With the single exception of the Roman Catholic Church, all the denominations showed an average seating capacity considerably in excess of the average membership. For the Protestant bodies the average seating capacity was three times the average membership per organization, while for the Roman Catholic Church the average membership was almost two and one-fourth times the average seating capacity.

GENERAL SUMMARY OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES.

[From a statement furnished by the Chancellor of the Diocese of New York and including a resume of the activities of the Pontiff at the present time.]

Archbishops, 13; bishops, 88; clergy, 16,550; churches, 13,204; seminaries, 83; students, 6,182; colleges for boys, 217; academies for girls, 709; parishes with schools, 4,845; attendance, 1,237,251; orphan asylums, 289; orphans therein, 51,541; charitable institutions, 1,125; children in institutions, 1,450,448. Total Catholic population, 14,347,027.

Pope Pius X., eight years ago, announced his motto to be: "To restore all things in Christ." The Catholic world has been deeply impressed with the carrying out of this policy.

Pius X. has effected marked changes in important matters of church government and discipline, and has been unrelenting in attacking the doctrinal errors of Modernism, which he calls the "synthesis of all heresies." He has reorganized the Roman Curia, made up of the various sacred congregations of cardinals who assist the Pope in the administration of church affairs, revived the venerable tribunal of the Rota, inaugurated a codification of canon law, transferred the church in the United States from the jurisdiction of the propaganda as a missionary land to the immediate supervision of the Cardinal Secretary of State in the Vatican itself, instituted in Rome a school for higher biblical studies, ordered the establishment of confraternities for the teaching of catechism in every parish, issued decrees reforming church music, introduced new legislation on marriage, recommended frequent and daily communion to the people, and directed that first communion be given to children on reaching the age of reason.

Christian Science.

THE Christian Science Publication Committee, for the State of New York, contributes the following statement:

There are many institutes for teaching Christian Science, and upward of 4,000 practitioners of Christian Science mind-healing. Organizations can now be found in almost every city in the United States, and there are branches in Canada, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Mexico, the Bahamas, British West Indies, the Hawaiian Islands, Cuba, Philippine Islands, Sandwich Islands, British Isles, France, Germany, Norway, Switzerland, Italy, Australia, New South Wales, India, China, South Africa, South America and many other countries.

All Christian Science churches other than the Mother Church in Boston are branches of that Church. In all of these the Sunday services are uniform, and consist of correlative passages read from the Bible and the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. On Wednesday evening a meeting is held in every church of this denomination.

Mrs. Eddy says in her book, "Retrospection and Introspection": "I claim for healing scientifically the following advantages: 1. It does away with all material medicines and recognizes the antidote for all sickness, as well as sin, in the immortal mind, and mortal mind as the source of all the ills which befall mortals. 2. It is more effectual than drugs, and cures when they fail, or only relieve, thus proving the superiority of metaphysics over physics. 3. A person healed by Christian Science is not only healed of his disease, but he is advanced morally and spiritually. The mortal body being but the objective state of the mortal mind, this mind must be renovated to improve the body." The absence of creed and dogma in the Christian Science Church, its freedom from materialism, mysticism and superstition, also the simplicity, uniformity and impersonality of its form of worship and organization, are among the distinguishing features which characterize this modern religious movement. Hypnotism, mesmerism, spiritualism, theosophy, faith cure and kindred systems are foreign to true Christian Science. Those practising these beliefs are denied admission to the Christian Science Church.

The Theosophical Society.

THE Theosophical Society was founded in New York City on November 17, 1875, by Mme. H. P. Blavatsky and Col. Henry S. Olcott, but its headquarters was removed in 1879 to Adyar, Madras, India. Its objects are three: (a) To form a nucleus of the Universal Brotherhood of Humanity, without distinction of race, creed, sex, caste or color; (b) to encourage the study of comparative religion, philosophy and science; (c) to investigate unexplained laws of nature and the powers latent in man. It has now eleven territorial sections, each presided over by a general secretary: America, Great Britain, India, Scandinavia, Holland, Hungary, France, Italy, Germany, Australia and New Zealand. During the 34 years of its existence it has admitted about 28,000 members and chartered over 750 branches. The membership at present of the American section is about 3,000; there are 114 branches. Reincarnation and Karma are the basic stones of the Theosophical system. The President, Mrs. Annie Besant, resides at the Adyar headquarters. Mr. Weller Van Hook, General Secretary, 103 State Street, Chicago, Ill., contributes the above statement.

The National Spiritualists' Association.

ORGANIZED September 28, 1893; incorporated November 1, 1893, at Washington, D. C. The objects of said Association shall be the organization of the various Spiritualist Societies of the United States into one general association for the purpose of mutual aid and co-operation in benevolent, charitable, educational, literary, musical, scientific, religious, and missionary purposes and enterprises germane to the phenomena, science, philosophy and religion of Spiritualism.

Active working local societies, 600; State associations, 22; other local societies meeting at irregular intervals, 250; public meetings not organized as societies, 225, camp meeting associations, 32; academy for liberal education, 1; churches and temples, 150; membership of avowed Spiritualists, 200,000; unidentified with organized societies, but believers in the philosophy and phenomena, and frequent attendants upon public services, 1,500,000 to 2,000,000. A host of people from every walk in life, impossible of exact enumeration, are investigating psychic truths through mediums. Number of public mediums, 1,500; private mediums, many thousands; ordained ministers, 400; total valuation of church, temple and camp meeting property, $2,000,000.

Officers for the year ending in October, 1909: Dr. George B. Warne, 4203 Evans Ave., Chicago, President; Charles Schirm, Baltimore, Vice-President; George W. Kates, Washington, D. C., Secretary; Cassius L. Stevens, Pittsburgh, Pa., Treasurer.

Headquarters of National Spiritualists' Association, 600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C. The next annual convention will be held in Wichita, Kan., October 17-20, 1911.

The Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society.

THE Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society, founded by Mme. H. P. Blavatsky in New York, 1875, continued after her death under the leadership of the co-founder, William Q. Judge and now, under the leadership of their successor, Katherine Tingley, has its international headquarters at the world's Theosophical centre, Point Loma, Cal. The Secretary General is Frank M. Pierce.

This organization declares that brotherhood is a fact in nature. The principal purpose of the organization is to teach brotherhood, demonstrate that it is a fact in nature, and make it a living power in the life of humanity, establishing Raja Yoga schools throughout the world, and creating a new literature. Its subsidiary purpose is to study ancient and modern religion, science, philosophy and art, to investigate the laws of nature and the latent divine powers in man. It declares in its constitution that every member has a right to believe or disbelieve in any religious system or philosophy, each being required to show that tolerance for the opinions of others which he expects for his own.

Mr. J. H. Fussell, Secretary of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society, Point Loma, Cal., contributes the above statement.

The Vedanta Society.

The Vedanta Society of New York was established in 1894 by Swami Vivekananda of India and was regularly incorporated in 1898 by Swami Abhedananda, now at its head. The object of the Society is to explain through logic and reason the spiritual laws that govern our lives; to show that the True Religion of the Soul is not antagonistic to, but in harmony with, philosophy and science; to establish that Universal Religion which underlies all the various sects and creeds of special religions; to propagate the principles taught by great seers of Truth and religious leaders of different countries and illustrated by their lives; and to help mankind in the practical application of those principles in their spiritual, moral, intellectual and physical needs.

The present headquarters of the Society with its Circulating Library, Reading Room and Meditation Room are at 135 West Eightieth Street, New York City.

The officers of the Society are: President—Professor Herschel C. Parker. Vice-President—George A. Manwaring. Secretary—Mrs. Christina G. Kelley. Treasurer—Miss Alice Waldo.

The Society has a large publishing department and issues a catalogue containing nearly forty titles of works on the Philosophy and Religion of Vedanta. Within the last five years it has sent out from its headquarters 39,876 books and pamphlets written by Swamis of India. The Vedanta Society of New York has a Summer school called the "Vedanta Ashrama." It is situated in West Cornwall, Ct., on a farm of 370 acres. There are also centres in Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Washington, D. C., besides a Peace Retreat in the mountains of Santa Clara County, Cal. These organizations in America are affiliated with hundreds of Vedanta Societies throughout India and Ceylon.

The Latter-Day Saints.

The Mormons, or Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, were organized April 6, 1830, with six members, by Joseph Smith, at Fayette, Seneca County, N. Y. After being driven by mobs from various places in Missouri, Ohio, and Illinois, they settled at Great Salt Lake, Utah, under the leadership of Brigham Young, in 1847. The total church membership is 450,000, and the number of missionaries, 2,000. The present President of the Church is Joseph Fielding Smith.

The following are their articles of faith as formulated by their prophet Joseph Smith:

1. We believe in God, the Eternal Father, and in his Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.
2. We believe that men will be punished for their own sins, and not for Adam's transgression.
3. We believe that through the atonement of Christ all mankind may be saved, by obedience to the laws and ordinances of the Gospel.
4. We believe that these ordinances are: First, Faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; second, Repentance; third, Baptism by immersion for the remission of sins; fourth, Laying on of hands for the Gift of the Holy Ghost.
5. We believe that a man must be called of God, by "Prophecy, and by the laying on of hands," by those who are in authority to preach the Gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.
6. We believe in the same organization that existed in the Primitive Church, viz.: Apostles, prophets, pastors, teachers, evangelists, etc.
7. We believe in the gift of tongues, prophecy, revelation, visions, healing, interpretation of tongues, etc.
8. We believe the Bible to be the word of God, as far as it is translated correctly; we also believe the Book of Mormon to be the word of God.
9. We believe all that God has revealed, all that He does now reveal, and we believe that He will yet reveal many great and important things pertaining to the Kingdom of God.
10. We believe in the literal gathering of Israel and in the restoration of the Ten Tribes; that Zion will be built upon this continent; that Christ will reign personally upon the earth, and that the earth will be renewed and receive its paradisic glory.
11. We claim the privilege of worshiping Almighty God according to the dictates of our conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where or what they may.
12. We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers and magistrates, in obeying, honoring and sustaining the law.
13. We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men; indeed, we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul. "We believe all things, we hope all things." we have endured many things, and hope to be able to endure all things. If there is anything virtuous, lovely, or of good report, or praiseworthy, we seek after these things.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints is a separate body, having its headquarters at Lamoni, Iowa. It claims to be the church in true succession to the one founded by Joseph Smith, a claim which, it is said, has been sustained by the courts. The reorganization was effected in 1851, and is presided over by Joseph Smith, Independence, Mo., son of the Prophet. Membership 62,000. It has 1,600 active ministers and a Sunday-school membership of 27,500. The Brooklyn, N. Y., branch is at Park Place and Schenectady Avenue. B. R. McGuire, Pastor.

United Brethren Christian Endeavor Union.

The Union was organized June 5, 1890. It is a union of all forms of young people's societies within the Church, of the United Brethren in Christ. There are now 2,100 societies, with 86,000 members. Each conference is called a Branch and holds its annual conventions, when a review of the year's work is made and new plans are laid. The Watchword is the organ of the Union. Its circulation is nearly 47,000. H. F. Shupe, D. D., Dayton, Ohio, is editor. The principal officers are: President, Rev. J. G. Huber, D. D., Dayton, Ohio; General Secretary, Col. R. Cowden, Dayton, Ohio. Secretary of Brotherhood, Warren L. Bunger.

American Sunday-School Union.

The First Day Society, founded in Philadelphia in 1791, still active, led to the formation of the Philadelphia Sunday and Adult School Union in 1817. With other similar societies it was changed to the American Sunday-School Union, 1824. Its object twofold is: To establish and maintain Sunday-schools; to publish and circulate moral and religious publications. It is a voluntary union of Christians of different denominations, to teach the Truths of our common Christianity as they are taught in the Bible.

Its great field is the rural districts. The Philadelphia Union began with one juvenile book in 1817, and one missionary in 1821. The American Sunday-School Union now issues a thousand works and nine periodicals. In eighty-six years it has circulated $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 worth of Bibles, testaments and religious works. In ten years it founded 24,992 Sunday-schools, with 964,412 members; resulting in 98,659 hopeful conversions and 1,062 churches. In eighty-six years the Union has founded 121,038 Sunday-schools, with 5,423,222 members. It employs Sunday-school missionaries, who organize an average of four new Sunday-schools a day for the last eighty years. Its benevolent work costs $225,000 yearly. Officers: Vice-Presidents—William N. Ashman, Richard Ashhurst, Clarkson Clothier; Recording Secretary—J. M. Armstrong; Treasurer—John E. Stevenson; Editor—Edwin W. Rice. Headquarters, 1816 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip.

THIS organization, founded by Rev. Rufus W. Miller in Reading, Pa., in 1888, held its first federal convention in the city of New York in 1893. It is composed of members of twenty-four evangelical denominations—the Reformed Church in America, the Reformed Church in the United States, the Congregational, Presbyterian (North, South, Canadian, and United), Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Protestant, Baptist, United Brethren, Lutheran, Reformed Episcopal, Church of Christ, Progressive Brethren, Friends, United Evangelical, Free Baptist, Federal, African Methodist Episcopal, and Evangelical Association. It has chapters in Australia and Japan, China and England. Its objects are embodied in the statement that "Any man can belong to the Brotherhood who will promise to pray daily for the spread of the kingdom of Christ among men, and to make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one man within the hearing of the Gospel." The number of chapters of the Brotherhood in the United States is 1,267, and the membership 44,780; 102 boys' chapters enrolling 1,972 members. Wm. H. Ball of Philadelphia is President of the International Council. The office of the General Secretary is at N. W. cor. Fifteenth and Race Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons.

HEADQUARTERS, 156 5th Ave., New York City. Officers: President, Miss Kate Bond; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickinson.

The Order is an interdenominational, religious and philanthropic society, working locally in Circles, County and City Unions, Chapters, State and National organizations. Branches are established in twenty-nine States and in nine Canadian provinces.

The objects of the Order are "the development of spiritual life and the stimulation of Christian activities." Its membership is very large and extends all over the world. The Order has established or supported several hundred institutions of different kinds in different localities. The badge is a small silver cross, which is also the corporate seal of the society. A monthly magazine, The Silver Cross is the official organ of the Order.

Luther League of America.

President—Wm. C. Stoever, Philadelphia, Pa. General Secretary—Luther M. Kuhns, Omaha, Neb. Chairman National Executive Committee, Mr. E. F. Ellert, New York.

The first National Convention of the Luther League of America was held at Pittsburgh, Pa., October 30 and 31, 1895. The League is a Lutheran organization, linking together the Lutheran young people who are laboring for the good of the Church by means of many individual societies of various names and styles of organization, each within its own immediate church. The constitution declares that its objects shall be "to encourage the formation of the young people's societies in all Lutheran congregations in America, to urge their affiliation with their respective State or Territorial leagues, and with this league to stimulate the various young people's societies to greater Christian activity and to foster the spirit of loyalty to the Church." The fundamental principles are federation and co-operation. The membership of the various organizations is over 100,000. These are comprised in twenty-five States, fourteen of which already have permanent State organizations and four foreign countries. The first local organization adopting the title of "The Luther League" was organized by delegates of six Lutheran Church societies in the city of New York, April 19, 1888.

The Daughters of the King.

THE Order of the Daughters of the King was organized on Easter evening, 1885. It is desired by its promoters that a careful distinction shall be made between the Daughters of the King and the King's Daughters. This is the older society, and differs from the King's Daughters in many important particulars. In the first place, it is more of an order than a society, and is distinctively Episcopal. Its work is definite, and is "for the spread of Christ's kingdom among women," and the "active support of the rector's plans in the parish in which the particular chapter may be located." Its badge is a cross of silver, a Greek cross fleury, and its mottoes are "Magnanimeter Crucem Sustine" and "For His Sake." Its colors are white and blue—white, the old royal color of Israel, and blue, the color of the Virgin Mary, the "blessed daughter of Israel's King, the Mother of the King of Kings." Its constitution is framed, as far as is possible, in the terms of that of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the work of the two organizations being similar. The officers of the Council are: President, Mrs. Adam Denmead, Baltimore, Md.; General Secretary, Emma E. Behlendorff. Office of the Council, Church Missions House, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York.

The Epworth League.

OFFICERS OF THE EPWORTH LEAGUE OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—President—Bishop W. A. Quayle, Oklahoma City, Okla., General Secretary—Edwin M. Randall, D.D., 57 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill. Treasurer—Rev. Paul C. Curnick, D.D., South Bend, Ind. The Central Office of the Epworth League is located at 57 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

The Epworth League was organized at Cleveland, Ohio, May, 1889, by the union of five societies then existing in the Methodist Episcopal Church. These several societies held under their jurisdiction 1,500 local societies, with a membership of about 6,000. Its official organ, the Epworth Herald, has a circulation of 90,000.

OFFICERS OF THE EPWORTH LEAGUE OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.—President—Bishop J. H. McCoy, D.D. General Secretary—Rev. Fitzgerald S. Parker, D.D. Assistant Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. J. Marvin Culbreth, B.D., Nashville, Tenn. The general organ of the League is the Epworth Era, published weekly by the publishing agents of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Nashville, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex. The League in the Methodist Episcopal Church South was provided for by the General Conference of 1890, and in December of the same year its organization was effected. It came under the supervision of the Sunday-School Board. The General Conference of 1894 created it a separate connectional board and elected a General Secretary. It has now 4,067 chapters, with a total membership of 145,091.

Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

OFFICERS OF THE UNITED SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.—Office, Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass. President Rev Francis E. Clark, D. D., LL.D.; Treasurer Hiram N. Lathrop; General Secretary, William Shaw.

Each society is in some local church, and in no sense outside. It exists simply to make the young people loyal and efficient members of the Church of Christ. It is the Church training the young Its motto is, "For Christ and the Church." In October, 1910 there were 73,521 societies, with a membership of 3,676,050, chiefly in the United States and Canada, and in Australia Great Britain, China, India, Japan and in all missionary lands. It is found in about the same proportions in all the great evangelical denominations and in all their subdivisions.

National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

THE National W. C. T. U. was organized in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1874, and is the sober second thought of the great woman's crusade. It is now regularly organized in every State of the Union

There are about 12,000 local unions, with a membership and following, including the children's societies, of about half a million. The W. C. T. U. has forty distinct departments of work, presided over by as many women experts, in the National Society, and in nearly every State All the States in the Republic have laws requiring the study of scientific temperance in the public schools, and all these laws were secured by the W. C. T. U.; also the laws forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors. The first police matrons and most industrial homes for girls were secured through the efforts of this society as were the refuges for erring women. Laws raising the age of consent and providing for better protection for women and girls have been enacted by many legislatures through the influence of the Union.

The World's W. C. T. U. was founded through the influence of Frances E. Willard in 1883, and already has auxiliaries in more than fifty countries and provinces. The white ribbon is the badge of all the W. C. T. U. members, and is now a familiar emblem in every civilized country.

Seventh-Day Adventists.

(The following statement of the tenets of this body of Christians has been prepared for THE WORLD ALMANAC by one of its ministers):

The doctrine of the second coming of Christ, which was preached in the United States and Europe during the years 1840-1844, gathering hundreds of believers, many of whom after the passing of the time set for Christ's return in 1844 gave up the doctrine, while others, on reviewing the historical and prophetical evidences, saw that the mistake was in believing that the "sanctuary to be cleansed" was this earth. But, rather, it was the sanctuary in heaven, where Christ ministers pardon and forgiveness of sins to all who come to God through him. Further study showed that the standard of the judgment then beginning was the law written by God's own finger, embosomed in which was the commandment enjoining the observance of His Sabbath instituted in Eden, observed by Christ, the prophets and apostles, and to be enjoyed in the new earth forever, and concerning which a reformation in preparation for Christ's return was now plainly called for.

Thus there arose in New England in 1846 a small body who, while believing in the second coming of Christ, have never set a time for that event, yet hold to the Scripture statement that it is 'Near, even at the door," and also observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath. Steadily they have established churches and conferences in this and other countries, building up denominational schools, publishing houses and sanitariums, and are now taking a very active part in operating mission stations in foreign lands. Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

The Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army is a religious body organized on military principles, with a view to reaching the non-churchgoers of the world. It was started in July, 1865, in the East End of London, and was known as the Christian Mission. Thirteen years later, at Christmas, 1878, it received the name of the Salvation Army. Since then its growth throughout the world has been remarkable.

The father and founder, William Booth, was born in Nottingham, England, on April 10, 1829. In 1852 he entered the ministry of the Methodist Church and became a powerful evangelist, attracting immense crowds and witnessing thousands of conversions. Finding, however, that the churchless masses could not be reached by ordinary methods, he resigned his pastorate and established the Army.

As a temperance movement the Salvation Army has been the means of converting hundreds of thousands of confirmed drunkards. Total abstinence is a condition of membership.

The International Headquarters are at 101 Queen Victoria Street, London, England. Its world-wide operations are carried on in 54 countries and colonies, embracing 8,224 posts, under the direction of 21,186 officers and employees, with 52,789 local officers and 20,325 bandsmen. 71 periodicals are published with a weekly and monthly circulation of 1,100,920. There are 840 social relief institutions in the world, under the charge of 2,451 officers and employees. About 6,693 fallen women annually pass through the 118 rescue homes, and more than 80 per cent. of these are permanently restored to lives of virtue. Slum settlements and posts are established in the slum districts of great cities, the worst dives, saloons and tenements being regularly visited.

The real estate owned by the Salvation Army in the United States amounts to over $4,000,000, its personal property to $800,000, and its annual trade turnover to close upon $400,000. The Salvation Army is incorporated in the States of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

The Volunteers of America.

This statement of the inauguration, purposes and advance of the Volunteers of America has been prepared for The World Almanac in the office of Gen. Ballington Booth, its President.

The Volunteers of America is a philanthropic, social and christian movement. It was inaugurated in March, 1896, in response to a number of requests on the part of American citizens. It was subsequently incorporated on November 6, 1896, under the membership act of New York. It is organized in military style, having as its model the United States army, but in conjunction with military discipline and methods of work it possesses a thoroughly democratic form of government. Its constitution and by-laws are framed by a Grand Field Council, who represent the minor councils of officers throughout the country annually. Though only fourteen years old, the Volunteers have representatives and branches of their benevolent cause in almost all the principal centres of the United States.

The Volunteers have some 36 principal homes and institutions of benevolence, many of which are Volunteer property, and are open for poor and deserving people in different sections of the country.

During the past year no less than 87,159 beds have been provided for all classes of women in the Volunteer women's homes, and 6,396 have been received under the care of and permanently aided by the Volunteers.

The Volunteer commissioned workers in their visitation called upon and aided, in one form or another, no less than 33,338 families. This was primarily in the poorer sections of the large cities.

In the different permanent philanthropic homes and institutions no less than 455,108 lodgings have been given, while 394,034 free meals were given, and 301,951 meals were distributed to persons who paid for them, many doing so by work.

In their latest undertaking, which has proved a large responsibility, i. e., the Volunteer hospital work, which hospital is located at No. 93 Gold Street, New York City, in the shadow of the Brooklyn Bridge, there have been 1,235 ambulance calls, 242 major operations, 7,844 patients admitted to surgical and medical wards, 14,001 new cases treated, 17,767 old cases treated, and a total during the year of not less than 31,768 cases of all kinds, surgically and medically treated in the institution.

The Volunteer Prison League has embraced upward of 60,000 members since its inauguration. It has leagues in nearly twenty State prisons, and over 70 per cent. of those having left the prisons through our hope halls or halls of hope institutions are living reformed and honest lives.

Through the fresh air branch of the work many thousands of mothers and children have been taken from crowded cities for a change in the open air amid the scenes of hills and lakes, rivers and dales.

Through the regimental reports from Volunteer centres it is carefully calculated that 978,025 persons were gathered from Volunteer fields to our indoor services, while 2,132,582 persons were listeners in God's natural cathedral, our open air stands. Through these services nearly 5,279 persons were led to testify that they would lead a new life.

In addition to the Volunteer reading rooms thousands of copies of Christian literature are circulated in State prisons, jails, hospitals, soldiers' homes and children's homes. In connection with the Volunteers there are also sewing classes, hospital nursing, temporary financial relief departments, fresh air camps, Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, and many other worthy undertakings. The headquarters of the Volunteers of America are at No. 34 West Twenty-eighth Street, New York City.

Soldiers' Homes.

NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS.

President of the Board of Managers... Maj. James W. Wadsworth, 346 Broadway, New York City, N.Y.
Secretary..... .....John M. Holley, Esq., La Crosse, Wis.

There are branches of the National Home at Dayton, O.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Togus, Me; Hampton, Va.; Leavenworth, Kan.; Santa Monica, Cal.; Marion, Ind., Danville, Ill., Johnson City, Tenn., and Hot Springs, S. Dak. The aggregate number of members cared for is about 35,000.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

1. An honorable discharge from the United States service during a war in which it was engaged.
2. Disability which prevents the applicant from earning his living by labor.
3. Applicants for admission will be required to stipulate and agree to abide by all the rules and regulations made by the Board of Managers, or by its order; to perform all duties required of them, and to obey all the lawful orders of the officers of the Home. Attention is called to the fact that by the law establishing the Home the members are made subject to the Rules and Articles of War and will be governed thereby in the same manner as if they were in the Army of the United States.
4. A soldier or sailor must forward with his application for admission his Discharge Paper and when he is a pensioner, his Pension Certificate, which papers will be retained at the branch to which the applicant is admitted, to be kept there for him, and returned to him when he is discharged. This rule is adopted to prevent the loss of such papers and certificates, and to hinder fraudulent practices; and no application will be considered unless these papers are sent with it. If the original discharge does not exist, a copy of discharge, certified by the War or Navy Department, or by the Adjutant-General of the State, must accompany the application.

There are State Homes for disabled volunteer soldiers provided by the States of California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

UNITED STATES HOME FOR REGULAR ARMY SOLDIERS.

The United States Soldiers' Home in the District of Columbia receives and maintains discharged soldiers of the regular army. All soldiers who have served twenty years as enlisted men in the army (including volunteer service, if any), or who have served in any war, and all soldiers of less than twenty years' service who have incurred such disability, by wounds, disease, or injuries in the line of duty while in the regular army, as unfits them for further service, are entitled to the benefits of the Home.

A pensioner who enters the Home may assign his pension, or any part of it, to his child, wife, or parent, by filing written notice with the agent who pays him. If not so assigned, it is drawn by the treasurer of the Home and held in trust for the pensioner, to whom it is paid in such sums as the governor of the Home deems proper while he is an inmate of the Home, the balance being paid in full when he takes his discharge and leaves the Home.

Inmates are subject to the Rules and Articles of War, the same as soldiers in the army. They are comfortably lodged, fed, and clothed, and receive medical attendance and medicine, all without cost to them. There are 1,313 men now receiving the benefits of the Home.

Applications for admission to the Home may be addressed to the "Board of Commissioners, Soldiers' Home, War Department, Washington City, D. C.," and must give date of enlistment and date of discharge, with letter of company and number of regiment for each and every term of service, and rate of pension, if any, and must be accompanied by a medical certificate showing nature and degree of disability if any exists.

Society of the Cincinnati.

GENERAL OFFICERS.

President-General .....Hon Winslow Warren, Mass.
Vice-President General..... Hon. James Simons, LL D., S. C.
Secretary-General ..... Hon. Asa Bird Gardiner. LL D., L.H.D., R.I.
Assistant Secretary General ... .Mr. John Collins Daves, N. C.
Treasurer General..... Vacant.
Assistant Treasurer General. ...Mr. Charles Isham New York

The historic and patriotic Order of the Cincinnati was founded by the American and French officers at the cantonments of the Continental army on the Hudson at the close of hostilities in the War of the Revolution for American Independence, May 10, 1783.

In forming the society it was declared that, "To perpetuate, therefore, as well the remembrance of this vast event as the mutual friendships which have been formed under the pressure of common danger, and, in many instances, cemented by the blood of the parties, the officers of the American army do hereby, in the most solemn manner, associate, constitute, and combine themselves into one Society of Friends, to endure as long as they shall endure, or any of their eldest male posterity, and in failure thereof the collateral branches who may be judged worthy of becoming its supporters and members."

For convenience, thirteen State societies were formed and one in France, under the direct patronage of Louis XVI., which was dispersed at the Reign of Terror in 1793. Upon the roll of original members appeared the names of all the great historic military and naval characters of the Revolution and upon the roll of honorary members, elected for their own lives only, appeared many of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

THE RIGHT TO MEMBERSHIP.

All Continental officers who had served with honor and resigned after three years' service as officers or who had been rendered supernumerary and honorably discharged, in one of the several reductions of the American army, or who had continued to the end of the war, and all French officers who had served in the co-operating army under Count d'Estaing, or auxiliary army under Count de Rochambeau and held or attained the rank of colonel for such services, or who had commanded a French fleet or ship of war on the American coast, were entitled to become original members, and upon doing so were required to contribute a month's pay.

STATE SOCIETIES.

The Cincinnati is organically one society in membership, but for convenience in admission of members and in its charitable and patriotic objects is subdivided into State societies, there being thirteen. Four dormant societies were restored to membership at the triennial meeting of 1902

Membership descends to the eldest lineal male descendant, if judged worthy, and, in failure of direct male descent, to male descendants through intervening female descendants

The general society when legislating for the good of the Order is composed of the general officers and five delegates from each State society, and meets triennially. In 1854 it ruled that proper descendants of Revolutionary officers who were entitled to original membership, but who never could avail themselves of it, are qualified for hereditary membership, if found worthy, on due application.

THE VETERAN CORPS OF ARTILLERY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, CONSTITUTING THE MILITARY SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

THE Veteran Corps of Artillery of the State of New York was instituted in New York City, November 25, 1790, exclusively by officers and soldiers of the War of the Revolution, and was duly confirmed as a separate corps in the active militia of the State by Governor George Clinton, March 3, 1791. Congress, in its militia laws of 1792, 1874, 1903 and May 27, 1908, enacted that it should retain "accustomed privileges" as a component part of the active militia, supplemental to the National Guard and the status of the corps, as part of the active militia, has also been embodied in several State statutes.

When composed wholly of revolutionary veterans, it was in the military service of the United States, June 25 to July 2, 1812, and September 2, 1814, to March 2, 1815, and afterward recruited exclusively from veterans, War of 1812, until 1890, when the surviving veteran original members amended their regulations to admit male descendants of original members or male descendants of those who served honorably in the War of 1812, which limitation was fixed by law March 9, 1895.

On January 8, 1826, the Society of the War of 1812 was formed at New York City exclusively by officers of the Regular Army, Navy and Volunteer services of that war, and consolidated January 8, 1848, with the Veteran Corps of Artillery, and was constituted by law the Civic Association of the Corps. Its last Revolutionary member, Daniel Spencer, died March 4, 1854, aged 94; its last War of 1812 member, Hiram Cronk, died May 13, 1905, aged 105.

The officers are. Commandant—Asa Bird Gardiner, LL. D., L. H. Military Order of Foreign Wars.

THE Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States was instituted in the city of New York December 27 1894, by veterans and descendants of veterans of one or more of the five foreign wars which the United States had been engaged in, to wit: The war of the Revolution, the war with Tripoli, the war of 1812, the Mexican war, "to perpetuate the names and memory of brave and loyal men who took part in establishing and maintaining the principles of the Government" in said wars, and "to preserve records and documents relating to said wars, and to celebrate the anniversaries of historic events connected therewith. Since the institution of the order the United States has fought two foreign wars (war with Spain and China campaign). By an amendment to the constitution all American officers who participated in the war with Spain, or any future foreign campaign recognized by the United States Government as "war," are rendered eligible to membership as veteran companions.

Members are entitled "companions," and are either "veteran companions" or "hereditary companions." The former are commissioned officers of the army, navy, or marine corps of the United States who participated in any of the foreign wars of the United States. The latter are direct lineal descendants, in the male line only, of commissioned officers who served honorably in any of the said wars. State commanderies now exist in New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Illinois, California, Massachusetts, Maryland, Ohio, Missouri, Vermont, Virginia, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Texas, Georgia, Colorado, New Jersey, and the District of Columbia.

The National Commandery was instituted March 11, 1896, by the officers of the New York, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut commanderies. The following are the officers of the National Commandery: Commander-General—Major-Gen. Alexander S. Webb, U S A. Secretary-General—James H. Morgan, Bogota, N. J. Treasurer-General—Col. Oliver C. Bosbyshell. Registrar-General—Rev. Henry N. Wayne. Judge-Advocate-General—Col. Henry A. Axline, U. S V. Present membership, about 1,500 companions. There are Vice-Commanders General representing each State commandery.

General Society of Mayflower Descendants.

THE Society of Mayflower Descendants was organized in the city of New York December 22, 1894, by lineal descendants of the Mayflower pilgrims, "to preserve their memory, their records, their history, and all facts relating to them, their ancestors, and their posterity." Every lineal descendant over eighteen years of age, male or female, of any passenger of the voyage of the Mayflower which terminated at Plymouth, Mass., December, 1620, including all signers of "The Compact," are eligible to membership. The initiation fee is $10 and the annual dues are $5. The Triennial Congress is held in September at Plymouth, Mass. Societies have been organized in New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, District of Columbia, Ohio, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Maine, Colorado, and California. The officers of the General Society are: Governor-General, Howland Davis. Secretary-General, Edward S. Atwood, 44 E. 23d St., New York City. Treasurer General James M. Rhodes; Historian-General, Frank Rumrill. Captain-General, Miles Standish, M. D.; Surgeon-General, Dr. Abiel W. Nelson.

Order of Washington.

THIS Society is similar to the Orders of Chivalry, instituted in Europe. Its purposes are to promote the growth of the spirit of patriotism, to cultivate the study of history, to preserve family records and other documents relating to the rise of the Republic, to stimulate a national pride and to preserve the integrity, honor and Christian manhood of the members. Eligibility: The ancestor must have arrived in America prior to 1750, have been a landowner or founder of a town, and have held some official, military, naval or ministerial position and also had a descendant who assisted the Colonies in attaining their independence.

Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, Washington, D. C., Commander; Gen. Marcus J. Wright, Washington, D. C., Vice-Commander; Howard P. Wright, Washington, D. C., Secretary-General; Dr. Charles H. Bowker, Washington, D.C., Treasurer General; William M. Conrad, The Rochambeau, Washington, D. C.

There are twelve vice-presidents and an executive committee of seven members. The Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States in the State of Maryland was organized in 1871. "to collect and preserve the material for a truthful history of the late war between the Confederate States and the United States of America; to honor the memory of our comrades who have fallen, to cherish the ties of friendship among those who survive, and to fulfil the duties of sacred charity toward those who may stand in need of them." The membership is 925.

Order of Indian Wars of the United States.

Commander—General Anson Mills, 2 Dupont Circle, Washington, D. C. Recorder and Treasurer—Capt. A. W. Perry, Constitution Hill, N. J. Historian—Brig.-Gen. Charles King, U. S. A.

This order was organized at Chicago, Ill., June 10, 1896, and received its charter from the State of Illinois. The order consists of two classes of companions: First, commissioned officers of the army, navy and marine corps, and of State and Territorial organizations, which have been, or may hereafter be, engaged in conflicts, battles or actual field service against hostile Indians in the United States; second, sons of living members of the first class. The object of the Association is to perpetuate the history of the services rendered by the American military forces in their conflicts and wars within the territory of the United States, and to collect and secure for publication historical data relating to the instances of brave deeds and personal devotion by which Indian warfare has been illustrated.

Society of Tammany, or Columbian Order.

Grand Sachem—Daniel F. Cohalan. Sachems—Louis F. Haffen, George W. Loft, Thomas F. McAvoy, Thomas E. Rush, John J. Scannell, Charles F. Murphy, Julius Harburger, John F. Ahearn, Asa Bird Gardiner, George W. Plunkitt, Timothy D. Sullivan, John Fox, William Dalton. Secretary—Thomas F. Smith. Treasurer—William Sohmer. Sagamore—Bryan P. Henry. Wiskinkie—John A. Boyle.

This organization was formed in 1789, being the effect of a popular movement in New York having primarily in view a counterweight to the so called "aristocratic" Society of the Cincinnati. It was essentially anti-Federalist or democratic in its character, and its chief founder was William Mooney, an upholsterer and a native-born American of Irish extraction. It took its first title from a noted ancient, wise and friendly chief of the Delaware tribe of Indians, named Tammany, who had for the want of a better subject, been canonized by the soldiers of the Revolution as the American patron saint. The first meeting was held May 12, 1789. The act of incorporation was passed in 1805. The Grand Sachem and thirteen Sachems were designed to typify the President and the Governors of the thirteen original States. William Mooney was the first Grand Sachem. The Society is nominally a charitable and social organization, and is distinct from the General Committee of the Tammany Democracy, which is a political organization, and cannot use Tammany Hall without the consent of the Society.

Daughters of Holland Dames.

DESCENDANTS of the ancient and honorable families of New Netherlands.

The objects of the Society are to perpetuate the memory and to promote the principles and virtues of the Dutch ancestors of its members, to collect documents, genealogical and historical, relating to the Dutch in America, and to erect commemorative and durable memorials to be lasting tributes to the early Dutch settlers.

Darlington, William Mitchell, William D. Dutton. Chaplain—Rt. Rev. Bishop J. H. Darlington. Descent from Huguenot ancestors is the qualification necessary for membership.

Society of Colonial Wars.

Governor-General—Arthur J. C. Sowdon, Boston. Vice-Governor-General—Howland Pell, New York. Secretary General—Clarence Storm, Room 62, 45 William Street, N. Y. Treasurer-General—Wm. Macpherson Hornor, Philadelphia, Pa. Registrar General—George Norbury Mackenzie, Baltimore. Historian General—T. J. Oakley, Rhinelander, N. Y. Chaplain-General—Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, St. Louis. Surgeon General—Dr. Justin E. Emerson, Detroit. Chancellor General—Henry Stockbridge, Baltimore.

The Society of Colonial Wars was instituted in 1892 to "perpetuate the memory of these events and of the men who, in military, naval, and civil positions of high trust and responsibility, by their acts or counsel assisted in the establishment, defence, and preservation of the American Colonies, and were in truth the founders of this nation. With this end in view it seeks to collect and preserve manuscripts, rolls, and records; to provide suitable commemorations or memorials relating to the American Colonial period." Eligibility is confined to an adult male descendant of an ancestor who fought in battle under Colonial authority, from the settlement of Jamestown, Va., in 1607, to the battle of Lexington in 1775, or who served as Governor, Deputy-Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Member of the Council, or as a military, naval, or marine officer in the service of the Colonies, or under the banner of Great Britain.

The Order of the Founders and Patriots of America.

Governor-General—Maj.-Gen. Frederick Dent Grant. Deputy Governor General—Herman Vandenburg Ames. Chaplain-General—Rev. Henry Hallam Tweedy. Secretary General—Louis Annin Ames, 99 Fulton Street, New York City. Treasurer General—Arthur Julius Birdseye. Attorney-General—Edwin Jacquett Sellers. Registrar General—Clarence Ettienne Leonard. Genealogist-General—Col. George C. Treadwell. Historian-General—George Herbert Richards.

The Order was founded in 1896 its object being "to bring together and associate congenial men whose ancestors struggled together for life and liberty, home and happiness, in the land when it was a new and unknown country, and whose line of descent from them comes through patriots who sustained the Colonies in the struggle for independence in the Revolutionary War; to teach reverent regard for the names and history, character and perseverance, deeds and heroism of the founders of this country and their patriot descendants; to discover, collect, and preserve records, documents, manuscripts, monuments, and history relating to the first colonists and their ancestors and their descendants, and to commemorate and celebrate events in the history of the Colonies and the Republic." Eligibility—Any man above the age of twenty one years, of good moral character and reputation, and a citizen of the United States, who is lineally descended, in the male line of either parent, from an ancestor who settled in any of the Colonies now included in the United States of America prior to May 13, 1657, and whose intermediate ancestors in the same line during the Revolutionary period adhered as patriots to the cause of the Colonies. There are State Societies in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. The Governor of the New York Society is Edward Hagaman Hall, Tribune Building, New York. The Secretary is William E. Fitch, M. D., 320 Manhattan Avenue, New York City.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy was organized at Nashville, Tenn., September 10, 1894. It is composed of the widows, wives, mothers, sisters, and lineal female descendants of men who served honorably in the army and navy of the Confederate States, or who served in the civil service of the Confederate States or one of the Southern States, or who gave personal services to the Confederate cause. The objects of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, as stated in the constitution of the society, are "social, literary, historical, monumental, benevolent, and honorable in every degree, without any political signification whatever." (2) To cultivate ties of friendship among our women whose fathers, brothers, sons, and, in numberless cases, mothers, shared common dangers, sufferings, and privations; and to perpetuate honor, integrity, valor, and other noble attributes of true Southern character. (3) To instruct and instill into the descendants of the people of the South a proper respect for and pride in the glorious war history, with a veneration and love for the deeds of their forefathers which have created such a monument of military renown, and to perpetuate a truthful record of the noble and chivalric achievements of their ancestors. The organization now has 1,200 chapters in the United States, North and South, with 80,000 members.

Arlington Confederate Monument Association.

During the administration of President McKinley the Confederate dead buried in the city of Washington, D. C., and vicinity were removed to the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., the old home of Robert E. Lee, where they were reinterred in a plot of ground set apart by the President for that purpose, and designated "The Confederate Section."

The Arlington Confederate Monument Association was formed for the purpose of erecting in this section a suitable monument to the dead there buried, and to stand, in a larger sense, as a memorial to all those who lost their lives in defense of the Confederacy, as well as to the cause they represented.

The association is formed as a committee of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the President-General of which is the President of the association.

The officers of the association are: Recording Secretary, Mrs. Drury C. Ludlow, Washington, D. C.; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. William Oscar Roome, No. 1345 Wallach Place, Washington, D. C.; Treasurer, Wallace Streater.

The American Flag Association.

President—Col. Ralph E. Prime, Yonkers, N. Y. Secretary—Theodore Fitch, 120 Broadway, New York. Treasurer, Major A. Noel Blakeman, 140 Nassau St., New York. The American Flag Association was organized February 17, 1898, its motto being "One Flag, One Country, God Over All." Its object is to secure National and State legislation for the protection of the flag from degrading and desecrating uses, and to secure a general observance of June 14 as "Flag Day," because on that day in 1777 Congress adopted the United States flag. The Association is composed of individual members and also the members of the Flag Committees of patriotic societies for the purpose of fostering public sentiment in favor of honoring the flag of our country and preserving it from desecration. It aims to co-ordinate the efforts of all flag committees.

Naval Order of the United States.

THE Naval Order of the United States is composed of a General Commandery and Commanderies in the States of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, California and Illinois, and in the District of Columbia. The General Commandery meets triennially on October 5, and the State Commanderies meet annually in the month of November The Massachusetts Commandery is the parent Commandery, and was organized at Boston on July 4, 1890. The General Commandery was established three years later, on June 19, 1893. The Companions of the Order are officers and the descendants of officers who served in the navy and marine corps in any war or in any battle in which the said naval forces of the United States have participated. The membership clause, as adopted at the triennial congress held at Boston, October 5, 1895, provides for two classes of members: First, veteran officers and their male descendants; and, second, enlisted men who have received the United States naval medal of honor for bravery in the face of the enemy.

THE MARINE CORPS.

The Commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for the general efficiency and discipline of the corps; makes such distribution of officers and men for duty at the several shore stations as shall appear to him to be most advantageous for the interest of the service, furnishes guards for vessels of the Navy, according to the standard scale of allowance, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, issues orders for the movement of officers and troops, and such other orders and instructions for their guidance as may be necessary and has charge and exercises general supervision and control of the recruiting service of the corps and of the necessary expenses thereof, including the establishment of recruiting offices.

Principal Battleships of Naval Powers.

(Compiled from the latest authentic sources of official information. Only the principal and more modern battleships are given. Most of the principal powers possess powerful armored cruisers equal to or in greater number than battleships, and in addition many vessels of smaller and older types.)

Following Great Britain, the first naval power, the United States now ranks second, Germany third, France fourth, Japan fifth, Russia sixth, Italy seventh and Austria eighth.

When the ships now building are completed the United States becomes third, losing place to Germany which becomes second.

Reigning Families

OF THE PRINCIPAL EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

Francis Joseph I., the Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary, was born August 18, 1830, and was proclaimed Emperor of Austria after the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I., on December 2, 1848. He was crowned King of Hungary June 8, 1867. He married, in 1854, Elizabeth, a daughter of Duke Maximilian of Bavaria. She died by the hand of an Anarchist in Geneva, September 10, 1898. They had issue:

1. Archduchess Gisela, born 1856; married to Leopold, son of the Regent Luitpold of Bavaria. Issue, two daughters and two sons.

2. Archduke Rudolph, late heir apparent, born 1858; died by suicide, 1889. He married, 1881, Stephanie, daughter of the present King of the Belgians, and had issue one daughter, the Archduchess Elizabeth, born 1883; married, 1902, Prince Otto Windischgrätz. The widowed Crown Princess Stephanie married, March, 1900, Count Elémer Lonyay.

3. Archduchess Marie Valerie, born 1868; married, 1890, Archduke Francis-Salvator of Tuscany.

On the death of the Crown Prince, in 1889, the right of succession to the throne passed to the Emperor's eldest brother, the Archduke Charles Louis, who was born 1833, and died 1896; he married, 1862 (second marriage), the Princess Annunciata, daughter of King Ferdinand II. of Naples, and had issue the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, born 1863, who is the heir presumptive to the throne (married, morganatically, 1900, Countess Sophie Chotek, who had title Duchess of Hohenberg conferred upon her October, 1909, and renounced the claim of his issue by her to the throne); the Archduke Otto, born 1865, died 1906, married to the Princess Marie Josefa of Saxony, had two sons (Archdukes Charles, born 1887, and Maximilian, born 1895); the Archduke Ferdinand, born 1868, and unmarried, and the Archduchess Margaret Sophia, born 1870, died 1902; she married in 1893 Albert, Duke of Württemberg. By a third marriage, the Archduke Charles Louis had two daughters.

The Emperor has a second brother, the Archduke Louis Victor, born 1842, who is unmarried, and a sister-in-law, Empress Carlotta of Mexico, the widow of his brother Maximilian, executed at Queretaro in 1867. She is insane, and lives in Belgium with the King, her brother.

There are over seventy other archdukes and archduchesses of Austria, cousins of the Emperor, collateral relatives of the reigning house and members of the formerly reigning branches of Tuscany and Modena.

BAVARIA.

Otto, King of Bavaria, was born April 27, 1848, and succeeded his brother, Ludwig II., June 13, 1886, when that mad monarch committed suicide by drowning himself in the Starnberg Lake. Otto is also crazy, is shut up in one of his châteaux, and the kingdom is governed by Prince Luitpold, his uncle, as regent. The latter is also the heir apparent to the throne; was born in 1821; married, 1844, the Austrian Archduchess Augusta of Tuscany, who is dead, and has four children:

1. Prince Louis, born 1845; married the Austrian Archduchess Maria Theresa, and has six daughters and four sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Rupert, born 1869, and married, 1900, his cousin, Duchess Marie Gabrielle of Bavaria; has two sons, Luitpold and Albrecht.

2. Prince Leopold, born 1846, married to the Austrian Archduchess Gisela, daughter of the Emperor Francis Joseph I. There are two daughters and two sons.

3. Princess Theresa, born 1850; prioress of a convent in Munich.

4. Prince Arnulf, 1852, married the Princess Theresia of Lichtenstein, and died 1907, leaving a son, Prince Henry.

King Otto has five cousins who bear princely titles, children of his dead uncle, Adalbert.

The royal house of Bavaria comes from the Counts of Wittelsbach of the twelfth century, one of whose descendants was elevated to the rank of Elector, and a later one made King by Napoleon I.

BELGIUM.

Albert I., King of the Belgians, was born April 8, 1875, and was the nephew of the late King Leopold II., who died December 17, 1909. King Albert married, October 2, 1900, Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria, and has two sons, Prince Leopold, born 1901, and Prince Charles, born 1903, and a daughter, Princess Marie José, born 1906.

The King's father was Prince Philippe, Count of Flanders, born in 1837; married to the Hohenzollern Princess Maria, and died in 1905. Besides his son, Albert, he had two daughters, Princess Henriette, born 1870, married, 1896, the Duke of Vendome; and Princess Josephine, born 1872, married, 1894, Prince Charles of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen.

The late King Leopold was born in 1835 and was married, in 1853, to the Austrian Archduchess Marie Henriette (died 1902), and had the following children:

1. Princess Louise, born 1858; married to Prince Philippe of Saxe-Coburg Gotha and divorced in 1906. Issue, one son and one daughter.

2. Princess Stephanie, born 1864; married, 1881, to the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, and has one daughter. Princess Stephanie married, second, in 1900, Elemér, Count Lonyay of Nagy Lonya and Vásáros-Namény, Chamberlain to the Emperor of Austria.

3. Princess Clementine, born 1872.

The aunt of the King is the hapless ex-Empress Carlotta of Mexico, widow of Maximilian. She was born in 1840, widowed in 1867, has no children, and is now insane.

DENMARK.

Frederick VIII., King of Denmark, succeeded to the throne of Denmark by virtue of the law of the Danish succession on the death of his father, King Christian IX., in 1906. He was born 1843; married the Princess Louise of Sweden in 1869, and has three daughters and four sons, the eldest of the latter being Crown Prince Christian, born in 1870, and married 1898, Princess Alexandrina of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and has two sons, and the second, Prince Charles, born 1872, and married, 1896, Princess Maud, third daughter of King Edward VII., and elected King of Norway in 1905, as Haakon VII. The eldest daughter is married to Prince Charles of Sweden.

The King's brothers and sisters are:

1. The ex-Queen of Great Britain and Ireland (Alexandra), born 1844; married 1863, and has four living children.

2. The King of the Hellenes (George I.), born 1845, married to the Grand Duchess Olga of Russia, and has one daughter and five sons, the eldest of the latter being Prince Constantine.

3. The Dowager Empress of Russia (Dagmar), born 1847; married the late Czar Alexander III. in 1866, and has four children, one being the present Czar.

4. The Duchess of Cumberland (Thyra) born 1853; married the present Duke of Cumberland (English title), son of the ex-King of Hanover, in 1878, and has two sons and three daughters.

5 Prince Waldemar, born 1858; married, 1885, the Princess Marie of Orleans (died 1909), daughter of the Duke of Chartres, and has four sons and a daughter. He was offered the crown of Bulgaria in 1886, but declined.

GERMANY.

William II., German Emperor and King of Prussia, was born January 27, 1859; succeeded his father, the Emperor Frederick III., June 15, 1888. He married the Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg (born 1858) and has had issue.

1. Frederick William, Crown Prince, born 1882, married, June 6, 1905, to Duchess Cecilie of Mecklenburg Schwerin, and has two sons, William Frederick, born July 4 1906, and Louis Ferdinand, born November 9, 1907. 2. William Eitel Frederick, born 1883, married, February 27, 1906, Princess Sophie Charlotte of Oldenburg; 3. Adalbert, born 1884; 4. August, born 1887, married his cousin, Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Sonderburg 1908, 5. Oscar, born 1888; 6. Joachim, born 1890, 7. Victoria Louise, born 1892.

The Emperor's brother is Prince Henry, born 1862, and married, 1888, to his cousin, Princess Irene of Hesse, daughter of the late Princess Alice of England, and has two sons; and the Emperor has four sisters, all the children of the late Emperor Frederick and the Princess Victoria of England (the Dowager Empress Frederick, who died in 1901). The sisters are

1. Princess Charlotte, born 1860; married, 1878, to George hereditary Prince of Saxe-Meiningen, and has one daughter.

2. Princess Victoria, born 1866; married, 1890 to Prince Adolph of Schaumburg-Lippe.

3. Princess Sophia, born 1870; married, 1889, to Constantine Crown Prince of Greece, and has three sons and a daughter.

4. Princess Margaret, born 1872; married, 1893, to Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse, and has five sons.

The Emperor has an aunt, the Princess Louise born 1838, widow of the late Grand Duke of Baden; and he has a number of cousins, descendants of the brothers and sisters of the Emperor William I. One of these is Princess Louise, daughter of the late Prince Frederick Charles and wife of the British Duke of Connaught, son of Queen Victoria. The reigning family is descended from Frederick of Hohenzollern, a German count in 980, and Frederick William, the Elector of Brandenburg, 1640-88, whose son became King of Prussia.

GREECE.

George I., King of the Hellenes, born December 24, 1845, elected King in 1863. He is the brother of the present King of Denmark, Frederick VIII., and brother of the Dowager Queen of Great Britain and the Dowager Empress of Russia. He married, 1867, the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, grand uncle to the present Emperor. They have had six living children, five sons and one daughter. The eldest son is

Prince Constantine, born 1868; married, 1889, the Princess Sophia, sister of the present German Emperor, and has three sons—Prince George, born 1890; Prince Alexander, born 1893 and Prince Paul, born 1901—and a daughter, Princess Helen, born 1896. The other sons of the King are, Prince George, born 1869; Prince Nicholas, born 1872; Prince Andrew, born 1882; Prince Christopher, born 1888.

The King's eldest daughter, Alexandra, married, in 1889, the Grand Duke Paul, uncle of the present Emperor of Russia, and died September 24, 1891 leaving a daughter and a son.

ITALY.

Victor Emmanuel III., King of Italy, was born November 11, 1869, and is the only son of Humbert I., second King of United Italy, murdered by the Anarchist Bresci at Monza, July 29, 1900. He married, in 1896, Princess Helene, fourth daughter of Nicholas, King of Montenegro, and has four children—Princess Iolande, born June 1, 1901; Princess Mafalda, born November 19, 1902; Prince Humbert (heir apparent), born September 15, 1904, and Princess Giovanna, born November 13, 1907.

Emmanuel, Duke of Aosta, born 1869, is eldest son of the late Prince Amadeus, uncle of present King (and ex King of Spain); married, 1895, Princess Helene of Orleans, daughter of the late Count of Paris, and they have had issue two children—Amadeus, born 1898, and Aimone, born 1900. The three remaining sons of the late Prince Amadeus are Victor, Count of Turin, born 1870, Louis, Duke of Abruzzi, born 1873, and Humbert, Count of Salemi, born in 1889 of his second marriage with his niece, Princess Letitia, daughter of Prince Napoleon Bonaparte and the Princess Clotilde.

The mother of the King is Dowager Queen Margherita, daughter of the late Prince Ferdinand of Savoy. She was born 1851 and married the late King 1868.

The following are the aunts of the King:

1. Princess Clotilde, born 1843; married, 1859, to Prince Napoleon Jerome Bonaparte, the late head of the Bonaparte family, and has issue two sons and a daughter, Letitia. (See "Bonapartists.")

2. Dowager Queen Maria Pia of Portugal, born 1847, and married, 1862, to the late King Louis of Portugal, and had one son, the late King Charles of Portugal, assassinated in 1908.

The King's great aunt by marriage, the Princess Elizabeth, widow of the Duke of Genoa, has a son (Prince Thomas, Duke of Genoa, married, 1883, Princess Isabella, daughter of Prince Adelbert of Bavaria, and has three sons and two daughters) and a daughter, the latter being the late King Humbert's wife. The family is descended from the Counts of Savoy, who flourished in the Eleventh Century.

NETHERLANDS.

Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands and Princess of Orange-Nassau, born August 31, 1880, daughter of the late King William III. and Emma, daughter of Prince George Victor of Waldeck-Pyrmont. She married, February 7, 1901 Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin; issue, Juliana Wilhelmina, born April 30, 1909, Princess of Orange.

The Queen's mother is the late Regent Queen Emma, whose regency lasted from the death of the late King, her husband, November 23, 1890, until the end of the minority of her daughter, August 31, 1898. The Queen's aunt is the Princess Sophia, married to the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar. She has a son, Prince Charles, born 1844, and two daughters. This family, known as the House of Orange, is descended from the Princes of Orange, stadtholders during the Dutch Republic.

NORWAY.

Haakon VII., King of Norway, was before his election to the crown by the Norwegian people, in 1905, Prince Charles of Denmark. He is the second son of King Frederick VIII. of Denmark; was born 1872; married, 1896, Princess Maud, third daughter of King Edward VII. of Great Britain, and has one son, Olav Alexander Edward Christian Frederick, born July 2, 1903.

RUSSIA.

Nicholas II., Emperor of Russia, was born May 18, 1868, and succeeded his father, the late Emperor Alexander III., November 1, 1894. He is married to the Princess Alice (Alix) of Hesse-Darmstadt, daughter of the Princess Alice of Great Britain, and has four daughters and one son—Olga, born in 1895; Tatjana, born in 1897; Marie, born in 1899; Anastasia, born in 1901, and Alexis (the Czarevitch), born August 12, 1904.

The late Emperor Alexander III., born in 1845, married, in 1866, the Princess Dagmar, sister of the present King of Denmark, had issue three sons: 1. Nicholas, the present Emperor; 2. Grand Duke George (the late Czarevitch), born 1871, died 1899; 3. Grand Duke Michael, born December 4, 1878, and two daughters: 1. Grand Duchess Xenia, born April 6, 1875; married, August 6, 1894, her cousin, the Grand Duke Alexander, has six sons and one daughter; and, 2. Grand Duchess Olga, born June 13, 1882, married to Prince Peter of Oldenburg. The uncles and aunts of the Emperor are:

1. Grand Duke Vladimir, born 1847; died 1909. He married, 1874, the Princess Marie of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and had three sons and one daughter: Grand Duke Cyril, born in 1876; married, 1905, Melita, second daughter of the late Duke of Coburg and divorced wife of the Grand Duke of Hesse. Grand Duke Boris is the second son and was born in 1877.

2. Grand Duke Alexis, High Admiral, born 1850. He was unmarried. Died Paris, November 14, 1908.

3. Grand Duchess Marie, born 1853; married the late Duke of Edinburgh, and has had one son (deceased) and four daughters.

4. Grand Duke Sergius, born 1857; married, 1884, Princess Elizabeth of Hesse-Darmstadt, daughter of Princess Alice of England. Assassinated in 1905. He left no issue.

5. Grand Duke Paul, born 1860; married, 1889, Princess Alexandra, daughter of the King of the Hellenes. She died September 24, 1891, leaving a son, the Grand Duke Demetrius, and a daughter. In 1902 he contracted a morganatic marriage with Olga Pistolkohrs, now Countess Hohenfelsen.

A grand uncle, the Grand Duke Constantine, born 1827; died January 12, 1892; married, 1848, Princess Alexandra of Saxe-Altenburg, and had issue five children, the Grand Duke Nicholas, born 1850, being the eldest, and the Grand Duchess Olga, born 1851, the eldest daughter, being married to the King of the Hellenes.

A second grand uncle, the Grand Duke Nicholas, born 1831, field marshal in the Russian Army, died in 1891; married, in 1856, the Princess Alexandra of Oldenburg, and had issue two sons, Grand Duke Nicholas, born 1856, married, 1907, Anastasia, daughter of the present King of Montenegro, and sister of Queen Helene, of Italy, and Grand Duke Peter, married, in 1889, Militsa, sister of the preceding.

The last surviving grand uncle of the Emperor, Grand Duke Michael, born 1832, died in 1910. He married, 1857, Princess Cecilia of Baden, and had issue six children, the eldest daughter, Anastasia, born 1860, being the widow of the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and mother of the German Crown Princess Cecilia.

The Russian reigning family is descended from Michael Romanoff, elected Czar in 1613. The members of the family for over two centuries, however, have married so generally into the German royal houses that the present Romanoffs are practically, by blood, Germans; as much so as their kinsman, the head of the German Empire.

SAXONY.

Frederick August, King of Saxony, born May 25, 1865, succeeded his father, King George, October 15, 1904. He married in 1891 Archduchess Louise of Austria (from whom he was separated in 1903). The King has three daughters and three sons, the Crown Prince being George, born 1893.

The King has two sisters, Mathilde, born 1863, unmarried, and Maria Josepha, born 1867, married to the late Archduke Otto of Austria, and two brothers, Johann Georg, born 1869, married first to Duchess Isabella of Württemberg (died 1904), and in 1906 to Princess Maria Immaculata of Bourbon, and Max, born 1870, a priest in Holy Orders.

A great aunt of the King, Princess Elizabeth, born 1830, married Prince Ferdinand of Sardinia, and after his death in 1856 Marchese Rapallo, who died in 1882.

The royal house of Saxony is one of the oldest in Europe, having given an emperor to Germany as early as the beginning of the tenth century. The Elector of Saxony assumed the title of King in 1806, and was confirmed therein in 1815.

SPAIN.

Alphonso XIII., King of Spain, born May 17, 1886, nearly six months after the death of his father, Alphonso XII. His mother is Maria Christina, an Austrian princess. He married in 1906 the English Princess Victoria Eugenie, daughter of Princess Henry of Battenberg, youngest sister of King Edward VII. He has two sons, Alphonso, Prince of the Asturias, heir to the Spanish throne, born the 10th of May, 1907, and Prince Jaime, born at La Granja Palace, near Madrid, on the 22d of July, 1908, and one daughter, Princess Beatrice, born the 21st of July, 1909.

The King's only surviving sister, the Infanta Maria Teresa, born in 1882, is married to her cousin the Infante Ferdinand of Bavaria, son of Prince Louis of Bavaria. They have two sons, the Infante Alfonso Luis Fernando, born in 1906, and Infante Jose Carlos, born in 1909.

The King's aunts are the Infantas Isabella, widow of the Count de Girgenti; Maria, wife of Prince Louis of Bavaria, and Eulalie, wife of Prince Antonio of Orleans (separated from him by deed of separation), who visited the United States and the World's Fair in 1893.

The King's grandmother, ex-Queen Isabella, born in 1830, crowned 1833, abdicated 1870, died April 9, 1904. Her husband, the Infante Francis d'Assisi, born 1822, died in 1902.

The King's grand aunt, the Infanta Lonisa, widow of the Duke of Montpensier (son of King Louis Philippe of France), now dead, was the mother of a son and three daughters: 1. The wife of the late Count of Paris and mother of the French pretender, the Duke of Orleans; 2. The late Queen Mercedes, wife of Alphonso XII., deceased; 3. The Infanta Christina, also deceased.

A second cousin of the King was Don Carlos, born 1848, the pretender to the Spanish throne, who died July 18, 1909, leaving a son, Prince Jaime, born 1870, the present pretender, and four daughters.

The Spanish reigning family are Bourbons, descendants of King Louis XIV. of France.

SERVIA.

Peter I., King of Servia, born in Belgrade, 1846, son of Alexander Karageorgevic, Prince of Servia from 1842 to 1858. Was proclaimed King on the night of June 10-11, 1903, by the officers of the Servian Army after they had murdered King Alexander and Queen Draga, and was crowned in October, 1904. King Peter I. was married in 1883 to Princess Zorka of Montenegro, who died in 1890. He has two sons and a daughter—George (who renounced his right to the throne in 1909), Alexander and Helen.

King Peter is descended from Karageorge, a peasant, who was the leader of the insurrection against Turkey in 1804. He reigned as Prince of Servia from 1804 to 1813, when he was supplanted by the Obrenovic during a second insurrection.

SWEDEN.

Gustaf V., King of Sweden, born June 16, 1858; son of Oscar II., and great-grandson of Marshal Bernadotte. He married, 1881, the Princess Victoria of Baden, and has had three sons, the eldest of whom is the Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus, who married in 1905 Princess Margaret of Connaught, and has two sons, born 1906 and 1907. The King's other sons are Prince Wilhelm, born 1884, and married, 1908, the Grand Duchess Maria Pawlowna of Russia, and Prince Eric, born 1889. The King has three brothers. Prince Oscar, born 1859, married Lady Ebba Munck, one of his mother's maids of honor, and relinquished his rights to the throne; Prince Carl, born 1861, and married, 1897, Princess Ingeborg, eldest daughter of the King of Denmark and Prince Eugene, born 1865. The King has a cousin, Louise, married to the King of Denmark. The royal family comes from Napoleon's Marshal Bernadotte, a Frenchman, who was elected heir-apparent to the crown of Sweden in 1810 and became King in 1818.

WÜRTTEMBERG.

William II., King of Württemberg, born February 25, 1848, succeeded his uncle, King Charles I., October 6, 1891. He married, 1877, Princess Marie of Waldeck, who died leaving a daughter, Pauline, born 1877, and married, 1898, Prince Frederick of Wied. The King married, second, Princess Charlotte of Schaumburg-Lippe, by whom he has no children. As the King has no male descendants, the heir presumptive is his distant kinsman, Duke Albert, born 1865, married to the Archduchess Margareta, niece of the Emperor of Austria, who died in 1902, and has three sons and three daughters.

The French Pretenders.

BONAPARTIST.

Of the Emperor Napoleon I. and his brothers Joseph and Louis, male issue is now extinct. The Emperor's brothers Lucien and Jerôme are represented by the following living descendants, and they constitute the present Imperialist house of France.

Prince Victor Napoleon (of the house of Jerôme), born July 18, 1862, is the son of the late Prince Napoleon (who died March 18, 1891) and the Princess Clotilde, sister of the late King Humbert of Italy. The Prince has been recognized by his party as the undisputed head of the Bonaparte family. He lives in Brussels and in 1910 married Clementine, third daughter of Leopold I., King of Belgium. His only brother, Prince Louis Napoleon, born 1864, is a General in the Russian Army, and is unmarried. His sister, Princess Letitia, born 1866, is the widow of Prince Amadeus of Italy, her own uncle, by whom she had a son, Prince Humbert, born 1889.

The late aunt of Prince Victor Napoleon, the Princess Mathilde, born 1820; married, 1840, Prince Demidoff of Russia; died in 1904 without children.

Prince Charles Napoleon, brother of the late Cardinal Bonaparte, who died February 12, 1899, was the last representative of the eldest son of Napoleon's brother Lucien in the male line. He was born 1839; was married and had two daughters—Marie, wife of Lieutenant Gotti, of the Italian Army, and Eugénie, unmarried. He had three sisters, married respectively to the Marquis of Roccagivoine, Count Primoli and Prince Gabrelli, who have descendants.

Prince Roland Bonaparte is the only living male cousin of Prince Charles Napoleon. He is a son of the late Prince Pierre Napoleon Bonaparte; was born 1858; married, 1880, the daughter of Blanc, one of the proprietors of the Monte Carlo gambling hell. His wife died in 1882, leaving him a daughter, who is married to Prince George of Greece. He has one sister, Jeanne, born 1861, and married to the Marquis de Villeneuve, who died in 1910.

Ex-Empress Eugénie, widow of Emperor Napoleon III., was a daughter of Count Cyprien de Montijo, a Spanish grandee, and was born May 5, 1826. She married 1853. Became a widow, 1873. Her only son, Prince Louis Napoleon, was killed in Zululand in 1879.

BOURBON—ORLEANIST.

Philippe, Duke of Orleans, born 1869, succeeded his father the late Count of Paris, in 1894, as the head of the royal family of France. He married, in 1896, the Archduchess Marie-Dorothea daughter of the Archduke Joseph, cousin of the Emperor of Austria. His mother (still living) was the Spanish Infanta Louise of Montpensier, and he has one brother, the Duke of Montpensier, and four sisters—Princess Amelie, married the late King Charles of Portugal; Helena, married to the Duke of Aosta, nephew of the late King Humbert of Italy; Isabel married to the Duke of Guise, son of the Duke of Chartres, and Louise, married to Prince Charles of Bourbon, grandson of King Ferdinand II., of Naples.

The only uncle of the Duke of Orleans is the Duke of Chartres, born 1840, and married to a daughter of the Prince of Joinville. The issue are two daughters and two sons, the eldest son being Prince Henry, born 1867 (died at Saigon, Cochin-China, in 1901); the second, the Duke of Guise; the eldest daughter, Princess Marie, being married to Prince Waldemar of Denmark, and the second daughter Princess Marguerite, being married (in 1896) to Patrice MacMahon, Duke of Magenta.

The grand uncles of the Duke of Orleans (who were the sons of King Louis Philippe) are all dead. They were the Prince of Joinville, born 1818, died 1900, married to a daughter of Pedro I. of Brazil, and had one daughter, who married the Duke of Chartres, and had one son, the Duke of Penthièvre, born 1845; Henry, Duke of Aumale, born 1822, died (childless) 1897; Anthony, Duke of Montpensier, born 1824, died 1890 (married, 1852, a sister of Queen Isabella of Spain, and had a daughter, the wife of the Count of Paris, and a son, Prince Anthony, born 1866, who married, 1888, his cousin, the Infanta Eulalie of Spain), and Louis, Duke of Nemours, born 1814, died 1896. He was the father of two daughters, the Princess Czartoryska, deceased, and Princess Blanche of Orleans, and two sons, the eldest being the Count of Eu, born 1842, married to a daughter of Pedro II. of Brazil, and having three children, and the second the Duke of Alençon, born 1844, and married to a Bavarian princess (who was burned in the Paris bazaar fire in 1897), and having two children.

By the death of the Count of Chambord in 1883, the elder line of the Bourbons of France became extinct, and the right of succession merged in the Count of Paris, grandson of King Louis Philippe, representative of the younger, or Orleans, line.

Estimates of area and present population are by Whitaker and in some cases by the Statesman's Year-Book," except for British Africa and the late accessions there, which are corrected by Ravenstein's figures. The entire population of the empire, according to the estimates of the "Statesman's Year-Book," is 396,294,752 and the total area, 11,467,294. The East Indian possessions extend over a territory larger than the continent of Europe without Russia; but the North American possessions are greater still, and, inclusive of Hudson's Bay and the great lakes, have a larger area than the whole of Europe. British Africa and Australasia are the next possessions in size.

THE supreme legislative power of the British Empire is, by its constitution, vested in Parliament. This body consists of two houses, the Lords and the Commons.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The House of Lords is composed of the whole Peerage of England and of the United Kingdom, and of certain representatives of the peerages of Scotland and Ireland, but many members of these latter have also English titles which give them seats in the House. The Duke of Buccleuch sits as Earl of Doncaster, and the Duke of Leinster as Viscount Leinster. The House at present consists of 3 Princes of the Blood, 2 Archbishops, 22 Dukes, 23 Marquises, 123 Earls, 42 Viscounts, 24 Bishops, 348 Barons, 16 Scottish Representative Peers elected for each Parliament, and 28 Irish Representative Peers elected for life—in all, 631 members.

The Lord Chancellor of England is the Speaker of the House of Lords.

The constitution of this Ministry may be modified or altered as soon as the Cortes is opened, the date of which is uncertain. New elections will be held in January, 1911.

Manuel, the ex-King, was born November 15, 1889, son of King Charles and Queen Amelie of Orleans. He ascended the throne February 1, 1908, after the assassination that day in Lisbon of his father and elder brother, Prince Louis Philippe. He is unmarried. He has an uncle, Prince Alfonso, Duke of Oporto, born 1865, and unmarried. The ex-reigning family belongs to the House of Braganza, whose founder was an illegitimate son of King John (A. D. 1400) of the old line of Portuguese kings.

* Egypt and the Egyptian Soudan, although nominally under the suzerainty of Turkey are really controlled by Great Britain and it is only a matter of time as to when they will be incorporated into the British Empire. Adding Egypt and the Soudan to the Empire would increase the figures above given to 2,603,857 square miles and 40,428 070 population.

The remaining territory of Africa unoccupied is a part of the great Desert of Sahara and the Independent States of Abyssinia and Liberia. Even this territory except the last is destined to pass under the power of the Europeans. The tabular figures are from "The Statesman's Year-Book."

The Union of South Africa.

A FEDERATION of four British Colonies in South Africa namely the Cape of Good Hope Natal the Transvaal and Orange Free State, was formed provisionally in 1909 by a convention held at Capetown. The federation was confirmed by an act passed by the British Parliament August 16 1909 and the date appointed for the establishment of the Union was fixed for May 31, 1910. Herbert John Gladstone was appointed Governor-General and assumed office on that date.

The act of Union vested the executive government in the King and his successors a Governor-General advised by an executive council and ministers of state. Legislative power was vested in a Parliament composed of the King, a Senate of eight members, nominated for ten years by the Governor General in council and eight members for each original province elected for ten years by the two houses of the Colonial legislature sitting together and a House of Assembly consisting of members chosen as follows From the Cape of Good Hope, 51; Natal, 17; Transvaal, 36, Orange Free State, 17 The Governor-General has the power to summon prorogue and dissolve Parliament, and that body shall sit annually

Provision is made for an Administrator for each province for five years appointed by the Governor-General, and a provincial council elected for three years

Pretoria in the Transvaal, is the seat of Government of the Union and Cape Town the meeting place of Parliament The English and Dutch languages are both official. It is provided that the British South African Company's territories may be received into the Union and the government of native territories may be transferred to the Union Government.

The area of the Union of South Africa is as follows, in square miles: Cape of Good Hope 276 995; Natal, 35 37*; Transvaal, 110,139; Orange Free State 50 392. Total Union, 472,897

The population is as follows: Cape of Good Hope, 2 507,500; Natal 1,206,386; Transvaal, 1,269,951; Orange Free State, 466 380. Total Union, 5,450,217.

The Parliament of China in 1913.

AN official decree was issued November 4. 1910 by the Grand Council, announcing that an Imperial Parliament, the first in the history of China, would be convoked in 1913 This was a concession by the throne to the demand of the recently constituted Senate and delegations of the Provincial Assemblies which had memorialized the Government for an early gathering of the representative legislative body

The programme fixed by the late Empress Dowager provided for the assembling of an Imperial Parliament in 1915. Notwithstanding the indisposition of the throne to advance the date the Grand Council was finally ordered to consider the petitions, and finally Prince Yu Lang of the Grand Council announced the change of date.

The importance of the concession by the throne will be appreciated when it is recalled that the Provincial Assemblies, the first step toward modern and popular government in China are still in their infancy and that the Senate, the first general body approaching anything like popular representation met for the first time on October 3, 1910. As constituted the Senate did not promise much in the way of popular legislation, one-half of its 200 members being appointed by the throne Nevertheless it early took a stand in favor of an Imperial Parliament at an early date and met with success

High Commissioner in London, England, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G. C. M. G. Salary, $10,000.

The Dominion of Canada has an area of 3,729,665 square miles (excluding the Hudson Bay, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and all tidal waters) and comprises one-sixteenth of the land surface of the globe. It is the largest of all the British possessions, Australia the next in size, containing 2,946,691 square miles. The Government of Canada is federal, centred at Ottawa, which city is the capital of the Dominion, while the provinces have their respective local Legislatures. The head of the Federal Government is the Governor-General appointed by the King of Great Britain, and holding office for five years, his salary being paid by the Dominion Government.

The Lieutenant-Governors of the several provinces are appointed by the Federal Government for a term of five years. The Legislatures are elected by the people of each province. The highest Court in the Dominion is the Supreme Court, composed of a Chief Justice and five Judges, each of whom receives a salary of $9,000 per annum, except the Chief Justice, who is paid an additional $1,000. From the decisions of this Court the only tribunal to which appeal can be made is to the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council of Great Britain. The only other Federal Court is the Exchequer Court, presided over by a single Judge, for trying cases connected with the revenue. Salary $8 000. All others are of a provincial character, limited to jurisdiction in their respective provinces only.

*The area and population of the newly created Territory of Quintana Roo is included in Yucatan in the table.

†According to the census taken in 1910 the population is as follows: Mexico City, 470,659; the Federal District, 719,062, and, though the total for the Republic has not yet been given out, it is estimated at 16,000,000, approximately.

The present Constitution of Mexico bears date February 5, 1857, with subsequent amendments. By its terms Mexico is considered a Federative Republic, divided into States, nineteen at the outset, but at present twenty-seven in number, with three Territories and one Federal District, each having a right to manage its own local affairs, while the whole are bound together in one body politic by fundamental and constitutional laws. The powers of the Federal Government are divided into three branches—the legislative, executive, and judicial. The legislative power is vested in a Congress, consisting of a House of Representatives and a Senate; the executive in a President, and the judicial in Federal Courts. Representatives elected by the suffrage of all male adults, at the rate of one member for 40,000 inhabitants, hold their places for two years. The qualifications requisite are to be twenty-five years of age and a resident in the State. The Senate consists of two members from each State, of at least thirty years of age, who hold their places for four years. Senators are elected indirectly, half of them being renewed every two years. The members of both Houses receive salaries of $3,000 each a year.

The President is elected by electors popularly chosen in a general election and holds office for six years. According to the last Amendment of the Constitution, it does not prohibit his re-election. In case of his sudden disability, the Vice-President, who is also permanent President of the Senate, officiates in his place. Congress has to meet annually, from September 16 to December 15, and from April 1 to May 31, and a permanent committee of both Houses sits during the recesses.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

The Federal revenues estimated for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, were $98,034,000.00; disbursements, $97,871,751.00. Value of imports year ended June 30, 1910, were $194,865,781.37, an increase of $38,332,754.40 over the previous year. Value of exports, year ended June 30, 1910, were $260,046,269.78, an increase of $28,945,651.26 over the previous year, 1908-9.

ARMY AND NAVY.

The army consists of infantry, 26,000; engineers, 766; artillery, 2,304; cavalry, 8,454 rural guards of police, 2,365; gendarmerie, 250; total, 37,103. There are over 3,000 officers.

There are six gunboats of from 1,000 to 1,300 tons, armed with rapid-firing four-inch guns and with rapid-firing six pounders; a transport of 1,600 tons, armed with 57 mm. guns; another transport of 900 tons; two training ships, one of steam, 1,300 tons, armed with 12 cm. and 57 mm., and the other, a sailing ship of 700 tons. There are, also, several small revenue cutters watching the coast on both oceans; a naval school, a navy-yard, and a floating dock at Vera Cruz, and a shipyard at Guaymas. The Military School is at Chapultepec.

NATIONAL DEBT.

The national debt is $138,838,900 gold, and $142,116,950 payable in silver.

Brazil.

President.....HERMES DA FONSECA

The Republic of the United States of Brazil is the largest of the South American countries and the second largest of the American Republics, extending over an area of 3,218,130 square miles, or about 400,000 square miles less than the United States of America with Alaska. It is situated between latitude 4° 22′ north and 33° 45′ south and longitude 34° 40′ and 73° 15′ west, and has a population of 20,515,000, equal to 6.4 per square mile, or about one-fifth the population per square mile of the United States of America proper (29.6). A new census was taken in December, 1910. The language of the country is Portuguese.

Under its constitution Brazil is a federal union of States, republican and representative. The Union is composed of twenty States, one national territory and the Federal district. The peace strength of the regular army is 30,000, but as every Brazilian citizen between twenty-one and forty-five years of age is liable to military service the war strength of the Republic probably exceeds 300,000 men. The navy consists of thirty-one vessels, among which are three battleships, four protected cruisers and five torpedo gunboats.

The gross receipts of the Government from all sources in 1909 were $165,508,766, and the expenditures $177,812,425. The foreign debt amounts to $440,000,000. The total length of railroads in operation in Brazil at the close of 1909 was approximately 12,209 miles. There are 3,246 post-offices, 2,000 telegraph offices and 18,874 miles of telegraph lines. The primary schools of the Republic number 11,147 with 565,922 pupils and the secondary schools 327 with 30,258 pupils.

Argentine Republic.

President..... DR. ROQUE SAENZ PENA

The Argentine Republic, the third largest of the American Republics, is situated between latitude 22° and 56° south and longitude west of Greenwich 53° and 57°, being bounded by the Republics of Chile, Bolivia, Paraguay, Brazil, Uruguay, and the Atlantic Ocean. It has an area of 1,135,840 square miles, equal to about two-fifths the total area of the United States of America proper, and a population of 6,489,023, or 5.7 per square mile, as against 29.6 in the United States of America.

It is a Federal Republic of fourteen provinces, ten Territories and one Federal district. The provinces and Federal district are represented in the National Congress, composed of a Senate and Chamber of Deputies. The permanent army numbers about 20,000 men, and there is a reserve army of trained men of about 150,000. The navy aggregates over thirty vessels, of which three are battleships, four armored cruisers and three protected cruisers.

The government revenue in 1909 was $120,791,694 gold, and the expenditures $112,101,733 gold. The public debt was $447,000,000 gold. The total length of railroads in operation at the close of 1909 was 15,849 miles, representing a capitalization of $900,000,000. There are 1,806 post-offices, 613 telegraph offices and 36,716 miles of wire. There were in 1909 4,744 public schools for primary instruction, with an enrolment of 668,434 pupils, aside from the numerous schools supported by the provinces.

Chile.

President.....RAMON BARROS LUCE

The Republic of Chile extends over more than thirty-eight degrees of latitude, from 17° 57′ to 55° 59′ south, stretching from the Samu River to Cape Horn, and occupying a long, narrow strip of land between the Andean mountain range and the Pacific Ocean, with a coast line of 2,625 miles, and an average width of only ninety miles. The Republic has a total area of 291,500 square miles, with a population, according to the census of 1907, of 3,249,279.

Chile has a single republican form of government, with the customary division into legislative, executive and judicial branches. There are twenty-three provinces and one territory. The army consists of 17,132 men, and the war strength of the Republic is 150,000 men. The navy is composed of thirty vessels, of which three are armored battleships and five are cruisers. The government revenue in 1909 was $51,735,500 gold, and the expenditures $63,478,262 gold. The external debt of the Republic was $115,183,680. At the end of 1909 there were 2,244 miles of railroad in operation, the post-offices numbered 1,090, miles of telegraph wire were 17,388 and there were 2,215 elementary schools with 172,000 pupils.

*Returns of 1908.

For trade with the United States see Index. For population of Latin-American Republics see Index. The above returns were compiled from the reports of the Pan-American Union (International Union of American Republics).

The institution was established at Washington under the recommendation of the Pan-American Conference of 1890, for the purpose of maintaining closer relations of commerce and friendship between the American Republics. At the Pan-American Conference at Mexico in 1901, its scope was enlarged, while at the Third Pan-American Conference held at Rio de Janeiro in 1906 a resolution was passed for its reorganization upon broader lines, so that it should become a world-recognized and practical institution for the development of Pan-American commerce and comity. The Governing Board consists of the Secretary of State of the United States, chairman ex-officio, and the chief diplomatic representatives in the United States of the other American Republics.

* Population of Registration London in 1901, was: 4,536,541, and with metropolitan and city police districts, 6,581,372, estimate to the middle of 1909 was 7,429,740. † Estimated population with suburbs by provisional count 1910 was 3,400,000 ‡ With suburbs.

NOTE.—The population of Chinese cities other than Canton, Peking, and Shanghai is omitted, because reports respecting it are utterly untrustworthy. There are forty or more Chinese cities whose inhabitants are numbered by rumor at from 200,000 to 1,000,000 each, but no official censuses have ever been taken; and setting aside consideration of the Oriental tendency to exaggeration, there is reason to believe that the estimates of population in many instances covered districts of country bearing the same names as the cities, instead of definite municipalities.

In 1610 the total white population in the original area of the United States was located in the single colony of Virginia; but in 1650 more than half of all the colonists were located in New England, and most of the remainder in Virginia. From that date the proportion in the New England colonies steadily declined and the proportion in the Southern colonies steadily increased. The remarkable increase in the proportion in the middle colonies during the period from 1650 to 1700 was due to the settlement of Pennsylvania and extensive immigration into that colony

POPULATION OF CITIES

Three cities which have continued to the present time to be leaders in population were pre-eminent during the Colonial and Continental periods, not only in the number of their inhabitants, but also in prosperity and influence These cities were New York Philadelphia and Boston From its foundation, in 1630, until the middle of the eighteen century, Boston was the most populous town in the American colonies Philadelphia (including suburbs) then took the lead, which it retained until it in turn was passed by New York, in 1810. Hence, each of these three cities has been the leader in population at some period

The two tables which follow present the population, from the earliest records up to 1790, of the seven cities which had acquired a population of 8.000 inhabitants prior to the Federal Census of 1790 or which reported a population of approximately that figure in that year The first table gives the results of censuses, contemporary estimates, and modern estimates based on contemporary data—as poll lists or counts of dwellings. The second table gives, for each decennial year from 1710 to 1790, the population of all cities which had reached, or practically reached, the minimum of 8 000 inhabitants Figures given in the second table, but not in the first, are estimates based on the most reliable sources of information.

The most significant facts reflected by the following tables are the continual uncertainty concerning increase or decrease of population during the whole of the eighteenth century and the insignificant increase recorded in each of the seven cities during the entire period from 1710 to 1790 The variations in population which are shown during different periods for each of these cities are frequently violent.

NEGRO POPULATION IN THE UNITED STATES IN 1900.

The ten counties in the United States having the largest negro population in 1900 were, in percentages, Issaquena, Miss., 94.0; Tensas, La., 93.5; Madison, La., 92.7; East Carroll, La., 91.6; Beaufort, S. C., 90.5; Tunica, Miss., 90.5; Washington, Miss., 89.7; Coahoma, Miss., 88.2; Leflore, Miss., 88.2; Bolivar, Miss., 88.1.

The negro population of cities having the largest number of negroes in 1900 was: Washington, D. C., 86,702; Baltimore, Md., 79,258; New Orleans, La., 77,714; Philadelphia, Pa., 62,613; New York City, 60,666; Memphis, Tenn., 49,910; Louisville, Ky., 39,139; Atlanta, Ga., 35,727; St. Louis, Mo., 35,516; Richmond, Va., 32,230; Charleston, S. C., 31,522; Chicago, Ill., 30,150; Nashville, Tenn., 30,044; Savannah, Ga., 28,090.

More than three-fourths (77.3 per cent.) of the negroes lived in the country districts.

Illiteracy among negroes was about seven times as common as among whites.

There were 3,992,337 negroes in continental United States engaged in gainful occupations.

The proportion of negro children to negro women 15 to 49 years of age was largest in 1880 and smallest in 1900. There has been uniformly a larger proportion of negro children than of white children. That difference more than doubled between 1860 and 1880, but in 1900 it was less than half what it was in 1880 and less than at any other census except 1860.

Though the negroes had a larger proportion of children than the whites, it was noticed that the whites of the South had a larger proportion than the whites in other sections of the country.

At the two censuses preceding the civil war, the proportion of children for the two races at the South was substantially the same. The immediate effect of the civil war and Reconstruction, if the figures of 1870 may be trusted to that extent, was to reduce the proportion of children among Southern whites by about one-eighth, and among negroes by about one twenty-fifth. The following decade saw an increase in the proportion for each race, but as the decrease among the negroes, 1860 to 1870, has been less, so was the increase, 1870 to 1880, greater. But between 1880 and 1900 there was a decrease of 160 in the number of negro children at the South to 1,000 negro women, and a decrease of only 75 white children to 1,000 white women. As a result, in 1900 there were for the first time more white children than negro children at the South to 1,000 women.

NEGRO SLAVES IN THE UNITED STATES IN 1790.

New Hampshire, 158; Vermont, 17; Rhode Island, 952; Connecticut, 2,759; New York, 21,324; New Jersey, 11,423; Pennsylvania, 3,737; Delaware, 8,887; Maryland, 103,036; Virginia, 293,427; North Carolina, 100,572; South Carolina, 107,097; Georgia, 29,264; Tennessee, 3,417; Kentucky, 11,830. Total slaves, 697,897. Total population, 3,929,214.

Statistics of City Governments

IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE Bureau of the Census reported in July, 1910, the following statistics of city governments in the United States, the figures being for the calendar year 1908:

The total municipal receipts in 1908 by the 158 largest cities in the United States, each having an estimated population of 30,000 or more in 1908, amounted to $1,288,635,496.

Of the 158 largest cities in 1908, 24 were "no license" or prohibition cities. Of the 151 cities for which complete returns were available for 1905, 1907, and 1908, there were 10 "no license" cities in 1905; 11 in 1907; and 21 in 1908.

The number of places licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquors by the drink was 71,366 in 1905, 67,131 in 1907, and 63,874 in 1908. This decrease was not confined to any section of the country, but is apparent in every group of States except in certain of the Rocky Mountain States. The decrease has been most marked in the cities of the South Atlantic States.

The increase in the number of places selling by the drink from 1907 to 1908 was 100 per cent. in Chelsea and Fitchburg, Mass., as these cities changed from "no license" to license. The only other cities showing an increase of as much as 10 per cent. were Yonkers, 27.2 per cent.; Wilmington, 25.7 per cent.; Newcastle 16.7 per cent., and Spokane, 14.6 per cent.

LIQUOR LICENSE RECEIPTS.

Despite a large decrease in the number of licensed places, the receipts from liquor licenses and taxes by the 151 cities mentioned above increased from $30,810,883 in 1905 to $39,234,223 in 1907 and to $41,950,188 in 1908. The reason is a general increase in the amount of license fees.

The largest number of places licensed to sell by the drink in proportion to population is shown for the cities of Texas, Wisconsin and New York; and the smallest number for the cities of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Nebraska. The smallest and largest number of inhabitants to each place selling by the drink in cities of the different groups were as follows:

Three hundred thousand population and over—Milwaukee 142, Philadelphia 758; 100,000 to 300,000—Paterson 231, Fall River 1,042; 50,000 to 100,000—Hoboken 175, Lincoln 2,038; and 30,000 to 50,000—Galveston 138, and Chelsea 1,634.

To meet municipal payments the 158 cities mentioned collected $652,334,580 from taxes, licenses, special assessments, and other revenues, and borrowed $500,905,414. The balance of the municipal receipts, amounting to $135,395,502, was made up of refunds, investments disposed of by city funds, and general transfers. The total municipal receipts, therefore, amounted to $1,288,635,496, and were made up of the following items: 37.2 per cent. from taxes and other general revenues; 4 per cent. from special assessments; 5.4 per cent. from services performed by city departments; 38.9 per cent. from loans; and 14.5 per cent. from refunds, general transfers, and miscellaneous sources.

REVENUES OF THE BIG CITIES.

Taxes and other general revenues, including licenses and permits, fines and forfeits, and subventions, grants, and gifts, were the chief source of revenue for nearly every city. Receipts from the general property tax formed the chief item of general revenue, and for the cities of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Louisiana, Virginia, and Georgia, comprised more than 75 per cent. of the total.

Liquor licenses and taxes formed 13.4 per cent. of the general revenues in the cities of Ohio and 10.2 per cent. in the cities of California. New York City received $7,927,300; Chicago, $7,252,687; and Philadelphia, $1,969,459 from this source. The only other cities deriving more than $1,000,000 from liquor licenses were St. Louis, Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco, and Cincinnati.

Business licenses formed 29.9 per cent. of the general revenues in the cities of Alabama, while general property taxes formed only 53.1 per cent., an unusual condition among the cities of the United States. Business licenses also formed a large percentage, 14.5, of the general revenues of the cities of Georgia.

In most cities sewers, pavements, and similar public improvements are paid for in the main from the general property tax, but there is a marked variation from this practice in several cities, especially of the West. Oklahoma City received more money from special assessments than from taxes and other general revenues, and New York City received $10,029,153 and Chicago $4,765,393 from the same source.

The proportion of receipts from special assessments to receipts from taxes and other general revenues for specified cities was as follows: Oklahoma City, 164.1 per cent.; Seattle, Takoma, and Spokane, Wash., 75.8, 68.5, and 38, respectively; Oakland, 43.9 per cent.; Superior, Wis., 41.3 per cent.; Joplin, 36.2 per cent; and Kansas City, Mo., 26.7 per cent. Comparatively low tax rates for most of these cities are accounted for by large receipts from special assessments.

PUBLIC-SERVICE ENTERPRISES.

From revenues of public-service enterprises, such as water supply systems, toll bridges, etc., New York City realized $18,604,055; Chicago, $5,127,401; and Philadelphia, $4,368,213. The only cities of less than 300,000 inhabitants which received more than $1,000,000 from this source were Jersey City, Los Angeles, and Seattle. Chicago derived $2,386,275 from privileges or taxes for the use of the public highways; New York City derived a trifle over one-half as much money from the same source. A majority of the cities receive comparatively small amounts of revenue from public-service corporations for the privilege of using the public highways.

COST OF CITY GOVERNMENTS.

About $405,000,000 were spent in 1908 in maintaining and operating the city departments of the 158 largest cities in the United States having an estimated population of 30,000 or more in 1908.

The maintenance of schools represents 95 per cent. of the total expenses of cities for "education" and cost more than any other municipal function, while the protection of life and property by the police, fire, and associated departments was second in cost. These two functions of education and protection of life and property cost 55 per cent. of about $405,000,000, which was the total expense of maintaining and operating city departments. For the whole group of cities the average per capita expense for schools was $4.70; for police departments, $2.25; and for fire departments, $1.72. These per capita averages vary greatly among the several cities. Salt Lake City expended $8.18 per capita for schools; Newton, Mass., $8; and New York, Boston, Washington, Newark, Denver, Springfield, Mass., and Sacramento each expended over $6 for the same purpose, while Montgomery expended only $1.63; Charleston, $1.81; Norfolk, $2.15; St. Joseph, $2.17; Memphis, $2.19; Knoxville, $2.28; and Manchester and Galveston, each $2.34.

PER CAPITA COST INCREASES.

The increased costs of maintaining the government departments of cities in recent years is illustrated by the fact that in 147 cities of over 30,000 population in 1902 it was $13.36 per capita, while for the same cities in 1908 it was $16.81.

The costs of maintaining the police department during the same interval for the same cities have risen steadily from $1.90 to $2.26 per capita; the fire department, from $1.33 to $1.72; health conservation, from $0.22 to $0.30; sanitation, from $0.91 to $1.38; highways, from $1.72 to $1.83; and schools, from $3.69 to $4.70.

The financial transactions of these 158 largest cities involved the receipt and expenditure of more than one and a quarter billions of dollars, the payments amounting to $1,284,000,000 and the receipts to $1,336,000,000. The excess of the receipts over the payments was due to large loans by the cities during the year and is reflected in cash on hand at the close of the year, $198,000,000, as compared with $145,000,000 on hand at the beginning of the year.

Gross payments and receipts are divided into "municipal" payments and receipts and "agency" payments and receipts, the latter forming only 3.7 per cent. of the payments and 3.6 per cent. of the receipts, and consisting of transactions in which the city acts as fiscal agent in collecting revenue for the State or county or as trustee for private parties.

THE DIVISION OF PAYMENTS.

Of $1,236,782,824, which was the total of the municipal payments, 32.7 per cent. was for the expenses of maintaining and operating the ordinary municipal departments and offices; 2.5 per cent. was paid for the expenses of the maintenance and operation of self-supporting public-service enterprises, such as water-supply systems, lighting systems, etc.; 6.7 per cent. was paid in interest on city debt; 22.2 per cent. was paid for outlays for new buildings, equipment, and public improvements; 23.3 per cent. represents payments in liquidation of debt; and 12.5 per cent. represents payments of refunds, purchases of investments by city funds, and general transfers.

The expenses of maintaining and operating the ordinary municipal departments and offices for the entire 158 cities amounted to $404,997,312, more than one-fourth of which was paid by New York City. The expenses of the government of Philadelphia were less than one-fourth of those of New York City.

The city of over 300,000 population with the smallest running expenses was New Orleans, with Milwaukee a close second.

Expressed in per capita averages, the cities of over 300,000 population with the highest expenses were: Boston, $27.58; New York, $24.71; and Washington, $24.63; and those with the lowest were New Orleans, $12.76, and Baltimore, $13.34. The cities of from 100,000 to 300,000 population, with the highest and lowest per capita payments for expenses, were Denver, $24.44, and St. Joseph, $5.65. Of the cities having from 50,000 to 100,000 inhabitants, the highest was Yonkers, $19.35, and the lowest, Savannah, $7.20. Of those having from 30,000 to 50,000 population, the highest was Sacramento, $20.34, and the lowest, Joplin, $5.83.

MUNICIPAL OUTLAYS.

Payments on account of outlays for new properties, or new work, by the 158 largest cities in the United States, each having an estimated population of 30,000 or more in 1908, amounted in the aggregate to $275,003,695 for 1908, compared with $244,117,298 for 1907.

Nearly one-third of the total, or $83,417,149, was paid by New York City; Chicago spent $18,093,986; and Philadelphia, $14,473,184. Cities of less than 300,000 inhabitants with the largest payments for outlays were: Los Angeles, $8,259,800; Seattle, $6,485,676; Portland, Me., $4,536,993; Denver, $2,760,902; and Portland, Ore., $2,644,727. Nearly one-third of all outlays, or $80 260,139, was spent on public-service enterprises, nearly one-half of the outlays by New York City being of this character. Nearly another third was spent for highways, and more than one-seventh went for schools and other educational objects. Most of the outlays reported for Portland, Me., were for the purchase by the water district of its water-supply system, and New York City spent more than $10,000,000 in the extension of its water system.

NET INDEBTEDNESS OF CITIES.

The indebtedness of cities is evidenced by such forms of debt obligations as general bonds, special assessment bonds, outstanding warrants, mortgages on real property, and outstanding judgments. The "net" debt is the same as the gross debt, less the sinking fund assets. For purposes of comparison the net indebtedness is of much more significance than the gross indebtedness.

The total net indebtedness of the 158 cities at the close of 1908 was $1,718,000,000, and of this amount, $684,000,000, or 39.8 per cent., is credited to New York City alone. That city had more than seven times the indebtedness of any other city, and more than one-half of the total of the 29 largest cities of the country. The per capita net debt of New York City was $157.74, and the only other cities having a per capita net indebtedness of over $100 were Cincinnati, $128.61; Boston, $119.48; Galveston, $113.07; Portland, Me., $107.41; Newton, Mass., $106.13; Pueblo, Col., $104.61; and Pawtucket, R. I., $103.78. Of the cities of over 300,000 estimated population, the city having the smallest per capita net debt was Detroit, $26.02. Of the cities having a population of from 100,000 to 300,000, those with the smallest per capita net debt were Indianapolis, $17.43, and Scranton, $19.82. Of the cities having from 30,000 to 100,000 population, those having the smallest per capita net debt were Joplin, $8.89; Erie, $10.88; Johnstown, $11.10; Newcastle, $12.45; Terre Haute, $12.56; Davenport, $14.16; and Peoria, $14.59.

THE INCREASE IN NET DEBT.

The increase in the net debt for the fiscal year 1908 was $185,877,856, as compared with a similar increase for 1907 of $120,930,631, more than three-fourths of which increase is credited to the 16 largest cities, and nearly one-half of which is credited to New York City.

The only cities of less than 300,000 population increasing their net debt by more than $2,000,000 were Los Angeles, $6,395,254, and Portland, Me., $4,210,922. In the latter city most of this debt was incurred by the water district.

During the year 35 cities reduced their net indebtedness, compared with 42 cities for 1907.

The only cities of over 100,000 population reducing their net debt in 1908 were Washington, D. C.; Kansas City, Mo.; Paterson, N. J.; and Cambridge, Mass.

The report states that in any discussion of indebtedness it should be remembered that the value of public improvements, and especially the amounts expended on public-service enterprises, should be taken into consideration. Many cities own their waterworks, some their lighting plants, and a considerable proportion of the indebtedness of such cities may have been incurred in the purchase or construction of such plants. Thus in New York City 36.9 per cent. of the total debt, a much larger percentage than that for most cities, has been issued for the acquisition and extension of such public-service enterprises as the water-supply system, toll bridges, etc., which enterprises are self-supporting.

INTEREST ON CITY DEBTS.

The rates of interest cities are paying on their outstanding debt obligations are steadily rising in the 158 cities in the United States which had each an estimated population of 30,000 and more in 1908.

The rate for all the cities combined was 3.85 per cent. in 1906, 3.89 per cent. in 1907, and 3.92 per cent. in 1908. For cities of 300,000 population and over the rate for 1906 was 3.68 per cent., for 1907 it was 3.75 per cent., and for 1908 it was 3.79 per cent.

The highest average rates of interest for cities of different sizes were: 300,000 population and over, San Francisco, 4.5 per cent.; 100,000 to 300,000, Denver, 5.5 per cent.; 50,000 to 100,000, Tacoma, 5.6 per cent.; 30,000 to 50,000, Birmingham, 5.6 per cent.

The corresponding lowest rates were: 300,000 population and over, Washington, D. C., 3.2 per cent.;

100 000 to 300 000 Providence. Rochester. and Hartford. 3 6 per cent : 50,000 to 100 000. Springfield, Mass., Harrisburg and Holyoke. 3.8 per cent : and 30,000 to 50 000. Elmira 3 6 per cent.

The preceding rates are paid by the cities on the face value of their outstanding debt obligations and do not in any accurate manner measure the actual rates of interest that cities have to pay on their loans at the present time

NET INTEREST RATES

A new feature of the report is a table showing the net or actual rates of interest that cities had to pay or the use of money on their funded debt or long-term bonds issued during the fiscal year 1908. These ates have been computed from bond tables in a method familiar to all bankers. consideration being taken of the premiums or discounts received or paid by the cities and of the length of time that the bonds have to run. During the year 127 of the 158 cities of over 30 000 population sold to the public $187 083,286 bonds, on which they received $5,325 651 in premiums and paid $484 456 in discounts Only 11 cities are reported as having sold bonds at a discount, most of these being in the Southern States The net rates as determined from the bond tables differ materially for many cities from the average rates borne by the total amount of funded debt outstanding at the close of the year for those cities Thus the average rate borne by the outstanding bonds of Seattle is 4.5 per cent. but during the year 1908 that city sold to the public $1 000 000 bonds to run for twenty years at a net rate of 3.87 per cent. The average rate borne by the outstanding bonds of the city of New York is 3 6 per cent., but during the year New York City sold to the public $66 - 000,000 of bonds on which it will pay until maturity a net rate of 4.19 per cent.

CREDIT RATING OF THE CITIES

As indicated by the net interest rate column, the cities of over 300.000 population with the best credit rating were: Detroit, 3.37 per cent ; Boston 3 64 per cent.; and Philadelphia 3 79 per cent The cities of from 100,000 to 300.000. with a high credit rating were: Indianapolis. 3.49 per cent.; Cambridge. 3 56 per cent.; Worcester, 3 69 per cent.; and Fall River. 3 79 per cent. Cities of less than 100 000 population with a high credit rating were: Somerville 3.59 per cent ; Lawrence 3 61 per cent . Taunton 3 62 per cent ; Salem, 3.67 per cent.; Holyoke, 3.72 per cent.; Binghamton 3 72 per cent ; and Brockton and Newton each 3 73 per cent

Cities of over 300 000 with the highest average net rates were: San Francisco, 4 30 per cent ; and New York City, 4 19 per cent. Cities of from 100,000 to 300.000 population with the highest net rates were Los Angeles, 4 49 per cent.; Memphis, 4 34 per cent ; and Jersey City and Omaha 4 27 per cent. Cities of under 100 000 population which had to pay the highest rates for the use of money were: Little Rock. 5 29 per cent ; Knoxville 5.04 per cent.; Mobile. 5.02 per cent.; San Antonio. Birmingham. and Springfield. Ill . 5 per cent ; Bay City. 4.96 per cent.; and Wichita. 4 71 per cent.

WHY CREDIT TERMS DIFFER.

It is seen that Detroit. Indianapolis. and most of the Massachusetts cities can borrow money on extremely favorable terms while most of the Southern cities. New York City. and others have to pay materially higher rates The length of time that bonds have to run has some effect upon the rates of interest that cities have to pay for the use of money. Among other factors that determine that rate may be mentioned a small net debt Detroit had the smallest per capita net debt of any city of over 300.000 inhabitants, and Indianapolis had the smallest of cities of from 100.000 to 300.000 population Each of these cities sold their bonds on the most favorable terms of any cities of their respective groups

The report shows the net rate of interest that cities pay upon their long-term bonds sold to their sinking and other city funds New York City sold to its funds during the year more than $17.000 000 bonds on which it will pay a net interest rate of 3 01 per cent until maturity this rate comparing with a net rate of 4 19 per cent paid to the public Baltimore also borrowed from its funds at a net interest rate of 3 65 per cent compared with a rate of 3.94 per cent paid to the public These net rates paid city funds in the cities of Ohio and Massachusetts were considerably higher than those paid to the public

The cities with the largest per capita payments of interest on city debt are: Boston. $6 67; New York City. $6.36; Pueblo. $5.31; Montgomery. $4 97; and Cincinnati $4 76.

Cost of Maintaining Armies and Navies.

THE net cost of the British Army and its operations, according to estimates for 1910-11, will amount to $138 800 000. The estimates for the Navy for 1911 are placed at $203,018,500. The United States Army budget for 1909-10 amounted to $100,330,181, not including the expenditure by the several States on their National Guard or the enormous sums paid for pensions to ex-volunteers The Navy estimates for 1911 amount to $114,063,414 The military expenditure of the German Empire entered in the budget for 1910 amounts to $203 382 000 excluding expenditures on Colonial troops. The German Naval estimates for 1910 amount to $110.638 700, an increase of $22,000,000 over 1909. The military budget of France for 1910 shows an estimated expenditure of $174 430,000 for the military establishment. The Navy estimate for 1910 amounted to $75 115 000 Italy during 1910 expects to spend about $31,927 200 on her navy, and about $54 000 000 on her Army. The military budget of Russia. ordinary and extraordinary. amounted in 1908 to $253,750 000 and in 1909 to $210 137.30). The Russian Navy estimates for 1909 amounted to nearly $47,000 000 The Army estimate of Austro-Hungary for 1909 was $46 600 000 and for the Navy $13,295 650 The annual military expenditures of Japan since the augmentation of the Army following the war has been between $35 000.000 and $40,000.000 and this is increasing. The Naval estimates for 1909 10 amounted to $37,450 000.

DISTANCE PROJECTILES HAVE BEEN THROWN FROM WARSHIPS OR COAST-DEFENSE GUNS.

THE following table will show the range of guns on board warships at an elevation of 15 degrees, which is, on board ship, the highest projectile range

Size of Gun.	Distance projectile will be thrown.	Size of Gun.	Distance projectile will be thrown.
3 inch	4 80 miles	7 inch	7 70 miles
4 inch	6 00 miles	8 inch	10 00 miles
5 inch	6 25 miles	10 inch	10 80 miles
6 inch	6.80 miles	12 inch	12 00 miles

All these guns have been fired, and, in a number of instances, the projectile has gone slightly further than indicated above.

The 16-inch gun at Sandy Hook, which is the largest and, in fact, the only gun of this character in the Army, has a muzzle velocity of 2,150 feet per second. Computations indicate that, under the most favorable conditions as to elevation, it would throw a projectile weighing 2.400 pounds a distance of about 21 miles.

The 12-inch rifle of the Army has a muzzle velocity of 2,250 feet per second, and will throw a projectile weighing 1,046 pounds about 8.5 miles at the extreme elevation permitted by the carriage.

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The municipal government of the District of Columbia is vested by act of Congress approved June 11 1878 in three Commissioners, two of whom are appointed by the President from citizens of the District having had three years residence therein immediately preceding that appointment, and confirmed by the Senate. The other Commissioner is detailed by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army and must have lineal rank senior to Captain, or be a Captain who has served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army. The Commissioners appoint the subordinate official service of said government, except the Board of Education, which is appointed by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Commissioners Cuno H. Rudolph (Republican) and John A. Johnson (Democrat), whose terms expire December 31, 1913. Major W. V. Judson (non partisan), Corps of Engineers, United States Army, detailed during the pleasure of the President of the United States; Secretary, William Tindall. Offices of Commissioners, District Building Washington, D. C.

Examinations for the Consular Service.

In pursuance of the Executive order of June 27, 1906, whereby the President promulgated regulations governing appointments and promotions in the consular service, the following rules have been adopted by the Board of Examiners, who, under that order, have been designated to formulate rules for and hold examinations of applicants for admission to the consular service whom the President shall have designated for examination to determine their eligibility for appointment therein:

1 The examinations will be the same for all grades and will be to determine a candidate's eligibility for appointment in the consular service, irrespective of the grade for which he may have been designated for examination and without regard to any particular office for which he may be selected.

2 The examinations will consist of an oral and a written one, the two counting equally. The object of the oral examination will be to determine the candidate's business ability, alertness, general contemporary information, and natural fitness for the service including moral, mental and physical qualifications, character, address and general education and good command of English. In this part of the examination the applications previously filed will be given due weight by the Board of Examiners, especially as evidence of the applicant's business experience and ability. The written examination will include those subjects mentioned in the Executive order, to wit: French, German, or Spanish, or at least one modern language other than English; the natural, industrial and commercial resources and the commerce of the United States, especially with reference to possibilities of increasing and extending the foreign trade of the United States; political economy, and the elements of international, commercial and maritime law. It will likewise include American history, government, and institutions; political and commercial geography; arithmetic (as used in commercial statistics, tariff calculations, exchange, accounts, etc.); the modern history, since 1850 of Europe, Latin America, and the Far East, with particular attention to political, commercial and economic tendencies. In the written examination, composition, grammar, punctuation, spelling and writing will be given attention.

3 To become eligible for appointment, except as student interpreter, in a country where the United States exercises extra territorial jurisdiction, the applicant must pass the examination outlined above, but supplemented by questions to determine his knowledge of the fundamental principles of common law, the rules of evidence, and the trial of civil and criminal cases.

4. The examinations to be given candidates for appointment as student interpreters will follow the same course as in the case of other consular officers, provided, however, that no one will be examined for admission to the consular service as a student interpreter who is not between the ages of nineteen and twenty-six, inclusive, and unmarried; and, provided further, that upon appointment each student interpreter shall sign an agreement to continue in the service so long as his services may be required, within a period of five years.

5. Upon the conclusion of the examinations the names of the candidates who shall have attained upon the whole examination an average mark of at least eighty, as required by the Executive order, will be certified by the Board to the Secretary of State as eligible for appointment in the consular service, and the successful candidates will be informed that this has been done.

6 The names of candidates will remain on the eligible list for two years, except in the case of such candidates as shall within that period be appointed or shall withdraw their names. Names which have been on the eligible list for two years will be dropped therefrom, and the candidates concerned will not again be eligible for appointment unless upon fresh application, designation anew for examination, and the successful passing of such second examination.

DUTIES OF CONSULAR OFFICERS.

Consular officers are expected to endeavor to maintain and promote all the rightful interests of American citizens, and to protect them in all privileges provided for by treaty or conceded by usage; to visa and, when so authorized, to issue passports; when permitted by treaty, law or usage, to take charge of and settle the personal estates of Americans who may die abroad without legal or other representatives, and remit the proceeds to the Treasury in case they are not called for by a legal representative within one year; to ship, discharge and, under certain conditions, maintain and send American seamen to the United States; to settle disputes between masters and seamen of American vessels; to investigate charges of mutiny or insubordination on the high seas and send mutineers to the United States for trial; to render assistance in the case of wrecked or stranded American vessels, and, in the absence of the master or other qualified person, take charge of the wrecks and cargoes if permitted to do so by the laws of the country; to receive the papers of American vessels arriving at foreign ports and deliver them after the discharge of the obligations of the vessels toward the members of their crews, and upon the production of clearances from the proper foreign port officials; to certify to the correctness of the valuation of merchandise exported to the United States where the shipment amounts to more than $100; to act as official witnesses to marriages of American citizens abroad; to aid in the enforcement of the immigration laws, and to certify to the correctness of the certificates issued by Chinese and other officials to Chinese persons coming to the United States; to protect the health of our seaports by reporting weekly the sanitary and health conditions of the ports at which they reside, and by issuing to vessels clearing for the United States bills of health describing the condition of the ports, the vessels, crews, passengers, and cargoes; and to take depositions and perform other acts which notaries public in the United States are authorized or required to perform. A duty of prime importance is the promotion of American commerce by reporting available opportunities for the introduction of our products, aiding in the establishment of relations between American and foreign commercial houses, and lending assistance wherever practicable to the marketing of American merchandise abroad.

In addition to the foregoing duties consular officers in China, Turkey, Siam, Korea, Maskat, Morocco, and a few other so-called un-Christian countries are invested with judicial powers over American citizens in those countries. These powers are usually defined by treaty, but generally include the trial of civil cases to which Americans are parties, and in some instances extend to the trial of criminal cases.

United States Military Academy at West Point.

EACH Senator, Congressional District, and Territory—also the District of Columbia, Porto Rico, Alaska, and Hawaii—is entitled to have one cadet at the Academy. There are also forty appointments at large specially conferred by the President of the United States. The law, however, provides that for six years, from July 1, 1910, whenever any cadet shall have finished three years of his course at the Academy his successor may be admitted. The number of students is thus limited to 533.

Appointments are usually made one year in advance of date of admission, by the Secretary of War, upon the nomination of the Senator or Representative. These nominations may either be made after competitive examination or given direct, at the option of the Representative. The Representative may nominate two legally qualified second candidates, to be designated alternates. The alternates will receive from the War Department a letter of appointment and will be examined with the regular appointee, and the best qualified will be admitted to the Academy in the event of the failure of the principal to pass the prescribed preliminary examinations. Appointees to the Military Academy must be between seventeen and twenty-two years of age, free from any infirmity which may render them unfit for military service, and able to pass a careful examination in English grammar, English composition, English literature, algebra through quadratic equations, plane geometry, descriptive geography and the elements of physical geography, especially the geography of the United States, United States history, the outlines of general history. The Secretary of War is authorized to permit not exceeding four Filipinos, to be designated, one for each class, by the Philippine Commission to receive instruction at the United States Military Academy at West Point; Provided, That the Filipinos undergoing instruction, shall receive the same pay, allowances, and emoluments as are authorized by law for cadets at the Military Academy appointed from the United States, to be paid out of the same appropriations; And provided further, That said Filipinos undergoing instruction on graduation shall be eligible only to commissions in the Philippine Scouts. Serve for 8 years, unless sooner discharged.

The course of instruction, which is quite thorough, requires four years, and is largely mathematical and professional. The principal subjects taught are mathematics, English, French, drawing, drill regulations of all arms of the service, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, chemical physics, mineralogy, geology, electricity, history, international, constitutional, and military law, Spanish, civil and military engineering, art and science of war, and ordnance and gunnery. About one-fourth of those appointed usually fail to pass the preliminary examinations, and but little over one-half the remainder are finally graduated. The discipline is very strict—even more so than in the army—and the enforcement of penalties for offences is inflexible rather than severe. Academic duties begin September 1 and continue until June 4. Examinations are held in each December and June, and cadets found proficient in studies and correct in conduct are given the particular standing in their class to which their merits entitle them, while those cadets deficient in either conduct or studies are discharged.

From about the middle of June to the end of August cadets live in camp, engaged only in military duties and receiving practical military instruction. Cadets are allowed but one leave of absence during the four years' course, and this is granted at the expiration of the first two years. The pay of a cadet is $709 50 per year, and with proper economy, is sufficient for his support. The number of students at the Academy is usually about four hundred and fifty.

Upon graduating cadets are commissioned as second lieutenants in the United States Army. The whole number of graduates from 1802 to 1910, inclusive, has been 4,935. It is virtually absolutely necessary for a person seeking an appointment to apply to his Senator or Member of Congress. The appointments by the President are usually restricted to sons of officers of the army and navy who by reason of their shifting residence, due to the necessities of the service, find it next to impossible to obtain an appointment otherwise. The Superintendent is Major General Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., and the military and academic staff consists of 113 persons.

United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

THE students of the Naval Academy are called Midshipmen. Two Midshipmen are allowed for each Senator, Representative, and Delegate in Congress, two for the District of Columbia and five each year from the United States at large. The appointments from the District of Columbia and five each year at large are made by the President. One Midshipman is allowed from Porto Rico who must be a native of that island. The appointment is made by the President, on the recommendation of the Governor of Porto Rico. The Congressional appointments are equitably distributed, so that as soon as practicable each Senator, Representative, and Delegate in Congress may appoint one Midshipman during each Congress. The course for Midshipmen is six years—four years at the Academy when the succeeding appointment is made, and two years at sea, at the expiration of which time the examination for graduation takes place. Midshipmen who pass the examination for final graduation are appointed to fill vacancies in the lower grade of the Line of the Navy, in the order of merit as determined by the Academic Board of the Naval Academy. The act of June 29, 1906, prescribes that the Secretary of the Navy shall as soon as possible after June 1 of each year preceding the graduation of Midshipmen in the succeeding year, notify in writing each Senator, Representative, and Delegate in Congress of any vacancy that will exist at the Naval Academy because of such graduation, and which he shall be entitled to fill by nomination of a candidate and one or more alternates therefor. The nomination of a candidate and alternate or alternates to fill said vacancy shall be made upon the recommendation of the Senator, Representative, or Delegate, if such recommendation is made by March 4 of the year following that in which said notice in writing is given, but if it is not made by that time the Secretary of the Navy shall fill the vacancy by appointment of an actual resident of the State, Congressional District, or Territory, as the case may be, in which the vacancy will exist, who shall have been for at least two years immediately preceding the date of his appointment an actual and bona fide resident of the State, Congressional District, or Territory in which the vacancy will exist, and of the legal qualification under the law as now provided. Candidates allowed for Congressional Districts, for Territories, and for the District of Columbia must be actual residents. Candidates at the time of their examination must be physically sound, well formed and of robust constitution. Attention will also be paid to the stature of the candidate, and no one manifestly under size for his age will be received at the Academy. The height of candidates for admission shall not be less than 5 feet 2 inches between the ages of 16 and 18 years, and not less than 5 feet 4 inches between the ages of 18 and 20 years; and the minimum weight at 16 years of age shall be 100 pounds, with an increase of not less than 5 pounds for each additional year or fraction of a year over one-half. Any marked deviation in the relative height and weight to the age of a candidate will add materially to the consideration for rejection. Candidates must be unmarried, and any Midshipman who shall marry, or who shall be found to be married, before his graduation, shall be dismissed from the service, and no Midshipman may marry between the date of his graduation from the Naval Academy and his final graduation after two years' service at sea, except by permission of the Secretary of the Navy. All candidates must, at the time of their examination for admission, be between the ages of 16 and 20 years. The pay of a Midshipman is $600 beginning at the date of admission. The regulations regarding places and times of examinations and subjects of examinations may be obtained by addressing the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Dept., Washington, D. C.

(a) No organized militia.

Alaska has no militia, though provision is made for such if need arises. Guam and Samoa have each a small provisional force, used more for police purposes than for military. The Philippines have a constabulary force which can be used either for police or war purposes, provided the latter is on the islands. Porto Rico has a regiment of eight companies of infantry which is a part of the army. The enlisted men of this regiment are natives of Porto Rico. The reserve militia in the Southern States is assumed to include negroes capable of bearing arms.

UNITED STATES NAVAL ENLISTMENT.

The term of enlistment in the Navy is four years, except for boys under eighteen, who enlist for minority, with the consent of parents or guardian. Minors over eighteen are enlisted without the consent of parents or guardian, but they must furnish a birth certificate or verified written statement of parent or guardian as to their age. Only American citizens of good character who may reasonably be expected to remain in the service are enlisted, and every applicant must pass the required physical examination, be able to read and write English and take the oath of allegiance. No boy under seventeen can be enlisted except by special permission from the Department.

Information regarding rates, with pay, opportunities for advancement, allowances, etc., can be obtained by addressing: BUREAU OF NAVIGATION, NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Permanent Navy Recruiting Stations are located at: Boston, Mass., 66 Hanover St.; Providence, R. I., 23 Weybosset St.; Hartford, Ct., P. O. Building; New York, N. Enlistments are also made at all Navy Yards and Naval Stations; and in addition travelling or temporary offices are occasionally opened in cities throughout the country.

NAVY RECRUITING SERVICE.

On July 1, 1910, publicity offices were established at New York, N. Y. (24 E. 23d St.) for the Eastern district, Indianapolis, Ind. (P. O. Bldg.) for the Central district, and Cedar Rapids, Ia., (P. O. Bldg.) for the Western district, where full information regarding the pay, opportunities, etc., of service in the United States Navy may be obtained. Inquiries from the different States should be sent to the nearest of the three districts enumerated above. Address "Publicity Office, Navy Recruiting Service, 24 E. 23d St., N. Y.," "Indianapolis, Ind.," or "Cedar Rapids, Ia.," as the case may be. All inquiries will be promptly answered by an officer of the navy. Better still, if you are in a position to do so, call at the nearest station and get all information first hand from the enlisted men who have seen service in our navy.

The origin of the Navy Department may be said to date from October 13, 1775, when Congress authorized the equipment of two cruisers, mounting respectively 10 and 14 guns. Before the end of that year 15 more vessels of from 20 to 36 guns were authorized. The affairs of the Navy were at that time intrusted to a "Marine Committee." In 1798 the present department was formally created, and Benjamin Stoddart appointed the first Secretary.

NAVY-YARDS.

1. Brooklyn Navy-Yard, Brooklyn, N. Y.
2. Charlestown Navy-Yard, Boston, Mass.
3. Portsmouth Navy-Yard, near Norfolk, Va.
4. Kittery Navy-Yard, opposite Portsmouth, N. H.
5. Philadelphia Navy-Yard, Philadelphia, Pa.
6. Mare Island Navy-Yard, near San Francisco, Cal.

There are naval stations at New Orleans, La.; Port Royal, S. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Key West, Fla.; Pensacola, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Great Lakes, North Chicago, Ill.; a torpedo and training station at Newport, R. I., and a training station on Yerba Buena Island, Cal., and the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.

Naval stations have been established at Tutuila, Samoa; Island of Guam; San Juan, Porto Rico; Culebra, W. I.; Guantanamo, Cuba; Honolulu, H. I., Cavite, and Olongapo, Philippine Islands. The latter has become an important naval base for the Asiatic squadron.

OLD VESSELS.

There are in the Navy a small number of old vessels which are unserviceable for war purposes. A number of these vessels are in service as receiving ships at the principal navy yards.

TUGS.

There are 45 tugs in the Naval Service, of which the Potomac has a displacement of 785 tons, and the two smallest, the Chickasaw and Rapido, 100 and 148 tons respectively. These vessels are distributed among the various naval stations in the United States and the Philippine Islands. The new sea-going tugs, Patapsco and Patuxent, of 755 tons each, are in course of construction.

VESSELS USED BY NAVAL MILITIA.

The following vessels have been assigned to the various naval militia: Alvarado, Don Juan de Austria, Dorothea, Essex, Gopher, Gloucester, Hawk, Huntress, Isla de Cuba, Isla de Luzon, Machias, Marblehead, Nashville, Oneida, Portsmouth, Ozark, Sandoval, Sylvia, Vixen, Wasp, Yantic, Somers, Winslow, Elfrida, Stranger, Granite State, Chicago, Tonopah, Amphitrite, Tallahassee, and Chevenne.

UNITED STATES NAVY PAY ROLL.

Rank.	Base Pay.	Rank.	Base Pay.
Admiral	$13,500	Lieutenants	$2,400
Rear-Admirals, first nine	8,000	Lieutenants (Junior Grade)	2,000
Rear-Admirals, second nine	6,000	Ensigns	1,700
Captains	4,000	Midshipmen (At Nav. Acad)	600
Commanders	3,500	Midshipmen (After Grad'n)	1,400
Lieutenant-Commanders	3,000

All staff officers, such as medical directors, chaplains, naval constructors, pay directors, civil engineers, etc., receive the pay of their rank.

Chief boatswains, and other commissioned warrant officers receive the same pay as ensigns.

All officers paid under this table, below the rank of Rear-Admiral, are entitled to 10 per cent. increase upon the full yearly pay of their grades for each and every period of five years' service as "longevity pay," computed upon their total actual service in the Navy or Marine Corps, provided that the total amount of such increase shall not exceed 40 per cent. upon the full yearly pay of their grade.

Officers of the line, medical and pay corps, commissioned prior to July 1, 1899, are entitled to receive pay according to the then existing law whenever it is in excess of the pay of officers of corresponding rank in the Army.

All officers on sea duty and all officers on shore duty beyond the continental limits of the United States shall while so serving receive ten per centum additional of their salaries and increase as above provided, and such increase shall commence from reporting for duty on board ship or the date of sailing from the United States for shore duty beyond seas or to join a ship in foreign waters.

Warrant officers (boatswains, gunners, carpenters, sailmakers, pharmacists, machinists and pay clerks) are paid from $1,125 to $2,250 a year.

Commandants' clerks receive from $1,000 to $1,800 a year.

Petty officers (masters-at-arms, boatswains' mates, gunners' mates, gun captains, quartermasters, machinists, hospital stewards, yeomen, bandmasters, first musicians, coxswains, electricians, boiler-makers, coppersmiths, blacksmiths, plumbers and fitters, sailmakers' mates, carpenters' mates, oilers, printers, painters, water tenders, and hospital apprentices (first class) receive from $396 to $924 a year.

The pay of first-class seamen per month is $26; seamen gunners, $28; firemen, first class, $38; musicians, first class, $34.

The pay of second-class seamen per month is: Ordinary seamen, $21; firemen, second class, $33; shipwrights, $27; musicians, second class, $33.

The pay of third-class seamen per month is: Landsmen, for training, $17; coal passers, $24; apprentices, third class, $10.

By the Act of May 13, 1908, the pay of all active and retired enlisted men of the Navy was increased 10 per centum.

To provide for the welfare and comfort of the officers and enlisted men of the Navy during the fiscal year of 1912, it is going to cost Uncle Sam just $35,387,027. Of this amount $10,390,387 is required to pay the officers on the active list, while the retired officers receive the sum of $2,606,260.

The perquisites allowed officers of the Navy will aggregate nearly three-quarters of a million dollars in 1912. Of this amount $440,576 will be spent in providing quarters for those officers who cannot be accommodated in buildings or houses maintained by the Government, and $151,882 for the item of heat and light for officers using other than Government quarters and in Government quarters where no heating and lighting plant is maintained by the Government; also the item of rations, which figured at 30 cents a day, amounts to nearly a hundred thousand dollars. The sum of $540,000 is required to pay the midshipmen under instruction at the Naval Academy.

The pay of the enlisted men of the Navy is divided into the following items. Pay of 44,000 petty officers, seamen, etc., $18,757,660; 3,500 apprentices under training, $741,650; 300 retired enlisted men, $297,000, and 1,185 enlisted men in prisons undergoing sentences of court-martial, etc., $406,692.

Each man in the navy holding an honorable discharge receives a bounty. This item will cost the Government $529,720 in 1912. There is also required the sum of $57,267 for interest on the deposits held by Uncle Sam for the enlisted men of the Navy. Seventy-one thousand, four hundred dollars is required to pay the Female Nurse Corps of the Navy and $13,000 is allowed them for commutation of quarters.

Each officer or enlisted man in the Navy who dies from wounds or disease contracted in the line of duty is entitled to have paid to his beneficiary a sum equal to one-half of his annual pay. For this purpose the sum of $65,532 will be required for the fiscal year 1912.

The Tariff Board.

Section 2 of the Tariff act of 1909 provides that "from and after March 31, 1910, except as otherwise specially provided for in this section, there shall be levied, collected and paid on all articles when imported from any foreign country into the United States or into any of its possessions (except the Philippine Islands, Guam and Tutuila") the rates of duty prescribed by the schedules and paragraphs of the dutiable list of Section 1 of this act, and in addition thereto 25 per centum ad valorem, which rates shall constitute the maximum tariff of the United States. * * * To secure information to assist the President in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him by this section, and the officers of the Government in the administration of the customs laws, the President is hereby authorized to employ such persons as may be required."

Under this authorization President Taft on September 15 appointed the following persons to be members of the Tariff Board and to perform the duties required by the act:

HENRY CROSBY EMERY, professor of political economy at Yale University, chairman.
JAMES BURTON REYNOLDS Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.
ALVIN H. SANDERS, editor of the Breeders' Gazette, of Chicago

The Board met for organization in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington on September 24, 1909. It has since been actively engaged in the work assigned to it. The main investigation of the industrial effects of the tariff has been divided into three main parts, requiring three sets of investigators of different types. The first part is the collection of facts regarding each dutiable article, showing the character and localization of its production at home and abroad statistics of output imports and exports, rates of duty reduced to ad valorem terms, and the like. The second part is the collection of data regarding costs of production at the mill The third consists of obtaining information from the best experts available regarding home and foreign prices, local variations in each industry, and the general conditions of competition at home and abroad.

The force engaged in the investigations besides the members of the Board, the statistician and the strictly administrative employés consists of four chiefs of investigation eight trained investigators employed on the first part of the work and about an equal number of clerks to assist them about a dozen consulting or technical experts devoting a part of their time to the third part of the work or to reports on special topics. and twelve men in the field getting actual cost figures from the books of individual producers.

Mayors of the City of New York.

Before the Revolution the Mayor was appointed by the Governor of the Province; and from 1784 to 1820 by the Appointing Board of the State of New York, of which the Governor was the chief member. From 1820 to the amendment of the Charter, in 1830, the Mayor was appointed by the Common Council. In 1898 the term of the first Mayor of Greater New York (Van Wyck) began.

Electoral votes necessary to a choice 242

Under the Federal census of population to be taken in 1910 there will be a new apportionment of electoral votes, which will be in force at the Presidential election of 1912. Arizona having at the election of 1906 rejected joint Statehood with New Mexico under the permissory act of Congress, neither will attain Statehood before the next Presidential election unless Congress admits them separately in the meanwhile.

PORTO RICO.

Governor, G. R. Colton; Acting Secretary, M. Drew Carrel; Treasurer, S. D. Gromer; Auditor, ——; Attorney-General, F. V. Brown; Commissioner of Education, E. C. Dexter; Commissioner of the Interior, John A. Wilson; Resident Commissioner of Territory at Washington, Louis Munos Rivera.

Judiciary—Chief Justice, Jose C. Hernandez; Justices, Emilio del Toro, James H. McLeary, Adolph G. Wolf and one vacancy; U. S. District Judge, John J. Jenkins; U. S. District-Attorney, Jose R. F. Savage.

The Insular Legislature consists of an upper and lower house. The lower house is the elective branch and has 35 members, five from each of seven districts. All belong to the Unionist party. The Legislature sits for sixty days each year, the sessions beginning on the second Monday in January.

At the first session of the Sixty-first Congress a new Organic act for Porto Rico was passed by the House of Representatives, and will probably be taken up by the Senate at the present session of Congress. The main features of the bill are the granting of American citizenship to the Porto Ricans and the change introduced in the Senate, which, instead of being formed of eleven members appointed by the President, will consist of thirteen members; eight appointive and five elective, with an automatic increase of one more elected instead of appointed at every succeeding election, every four years.

THEATRES PROJECTED OR IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION ON JANUARY 1, 1911.

The Playhouse, 48th St., near 6th Ave., Wm. A. Brady; two theatres in same building at Broadway and 47th St., being built by the Atlas Development Company; Lew Fields' Winter Garden, Broadway and 53d St.; Sam S. Shubert Theatre, near Longacre Sq., location not definitely announced, Sam S. and Lee Shubert (Inc.)

The hour for beginning theatrical performances in New York varies, being dictated by the length of the plays. Curtains rise between 8 and 8.30 P. M.; doors at all theatres open at 7.30 P. M. Saturday matinees are given at all theatres; mid-week matinees are given on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays, the days varying at different theatres and attractions. A few popular-price theatres and all vaudeville houses give daily matinees. Such afternoon performances begin at 2 P. M.

The standard price for the best seats in New York theatres of the first class is $2, the scale grading down to fifty cents, according to location. In cases of the appearance of great celebrities, an additional charge is sometimes, but not often, made. The regular price of best seats at the New Theatre was raised on October 1, 1910, to $2.50.

The standard price for the best seats at the so-called popular-price theatres is $1, the scale grading down to twenty-five cents, according to location. At these theatres matinee seats are usually sold at reduced rates.

A number of theatres of both the first and second classes in New York are being temporarily used as mixed moving-picture and vaudeville houses. Among such theatres are the Savoy, Lincoln Square, Third Avenue, New Star, Grand Street Theatre, Keith and Proctor's Twenty-third and Fifty-eighth Street Theatres (now designated as Bijou Dream) and Hammerstein's Roof Garden. The prices of admission at these houses, when used for moving-picture entertainments, range from 25 to 5 cents, according to location of seats.

The standard price for the best seats at the Metropolitan Opera House is $5, the scale grading down to $1, according to location. At this house seats and boxes are sold by annual subscription also. Some of the boxes are leased or owned outright; such boxes are valued as high as $100,000.

In the number, beauty and convenience of its theatres New York now leads all other cities of the world. Architecturally and in art treasures, however, some of the municipal and State endowed theatres of Continental Europe still excel. The New York Hippodrome, seating 5,600 people, is the largest and finest place of amusement of its kind in the world.

The Court of Appeals of the State of New York has decided that a theatre ticket is a personal contract which may be cancelled at the will of the management of the theatre. But the holder of a ticket which entitles him to a seat at a given time and place of amusement, upon being refused admission, must be refunded the full price of such ticket at the box office.

The Stage in New York City During 1910.

A RECORD OF DRAMATIC EVENTS FROM DECEMBER 1, 1909, TO NOVEMBER 30, 1910.

THERE are in New York City about eighty-two theatres devoted to drama, opera, spectacles, concerts, circuses and other forms of stage and arena entertainment (see WORLD ALMANAC, 1911). The total number of events, productions of new dramas and operas, revivals of successes of other years, trials of plays, benefit performances, testimonials, etc., in all these theatres during the regular dramatic season, which ordinarily is about forty weeks in duration, would probably approximate 1,000. Of the above-mentioned number of theatres, thirty-four are producing houses, devoted to productions and runs of their own plays or to those of producing managers who are not theatre proprietors or lessees and to the revivals of standard plays and musical entertainments. The following summary of dramatic events includes all the productions and revivals in these producing theatres and a few other events that have an important bearing on the theatrical life of New York, but excludes the Irving Place Treatre, in which a German stock company maintains a season of forty weeks, producing during that time about fifty dramas and operettas in German. The record of the grand opera season in New York will be found in THE WORLD ALMANAC under "Music." (See Index.)

Season is reckoned in this summary from the general opening of the theatres in the Autumn of 1909 to their closing in the late Spring of 1910, or, in the cases of runs that continued into the Summer, until June 1.

Owing to the great number of theatres in New York (Manhattan) and the experimental character of some of the productions, a considerable percentage of which prove either to be failures or are of only insignificant interest, no attempt has been made in the following lists to include every play presented between November 30, 1909, and December 1, 1910. Care has been observed, however, to enumerate the new dramas and musical comedies, the revivals of classic plays and the reappearances of successful plays of other seasons, which, in their successes or failures, were conspicuous during the year in the theatrical affairs of New York.

Of the important dramas and musical comedies produced between August 1 and December 1, 1909, the runs of which extended into 1910, "Seven Days," a farce, lasted 50 weeks at the Astor; "The Fortune Hunter," a light comedy, with John Barrymore, 38½ weeks at the Gaiety; the Hippodrome's spectacles, "A Trip to Japan," "The Centre of the Earth" and "The Ballet of the Jewels," 38½ weeks; "Is Matrimony a Failure?" a farce, 23 weeks at the Belasco; "The Dollar Princess," with Donald Brian, a musical comedy, 36 weeks at the Knickerbocker; "The Awakening of Helene Ritchie," an emotional drama, with Margaret Anglin, 14 weeks at the Savoy; "Arsene Lupin," a brief comedy, 15½ weeks at the Lyceum; "The Melting Pot," a drama, with Walker Whiteside, 17 weeks at the Comedy; "The Harvest Moon," a psychological drama, 11 weeks at the Garrick; "The Silver Star," a musical comedy, with Adeline Genee, 10 weeks at the New Amsterdam; "Such a Little Queen," a romantic comedy, with Elsie Ferguson, 11½ weeks at the Hackett; "Israel," a drama from the French, 9 weeks at the Criterion; "Springtime," a sentimental comedy, with Mabel Taliaferro, 10 weeks at the Liberty; "The Love Cure," a comic opera, with Charles Ross, 8½ weeks at the New Amsterdam, and "The Girl and The Wizard," a musical comedy, with Sam Bernard, 12 weeks at the Casino.

Banks in Manhattan and Bronx.

THE Clearing-House is at 77 Cedar Street, Manhattan Borough. Wm. Sherer is manager, Wm. J. Gilpin, assistant manager. Fifty banks are associated for the purpose of exchanging the checks and bills they hold against each other. Other banks, not members of the association, clear through members. The representatives of the members appear at the Clearing-House at 10 o'clock A. M every business day, with the checks and bills to be exchanged. The resulting balances are ascertained in about an hour, and before half-past one o'clock those indebted pay their balances, and after that hour the other banks receive the amounts due them. The Clearing-House has been in operation since 1853.

Following are extracts from the Manager's annual report for year ending September 30, 1910: The Clearing-House transactions for the year have been as follows: Exchanges, $102,553,959,000; balances, $4,195 293,900; total transactions, $106,749,253,000. The average daily transactions: Exchanges, $338,481,900; balances, $13,845,800; total, $352,307,700. Total transactions since organization of Clearing-House (57 years): Exchanges, $2,132,059,754,800; balances, $98,084,537,100; total, $2,230,144,292,000.

Banks are open from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M., and on Saturdays from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. Commercial paper, except sight or demand bills, falling due on Saturday is payable on the following business day.

Hack and Cab Fares in Manhattan Borough.

THE legal rate of fare of which an official copy shall be furnished by the Bureau of Licenses, and carried by every licensed hackman shall be as follows:
Mileage rates charged for general driving.

Cabs—

For one mile or any part thereof	$0 50
For each additional half mile or part thereof	0 25
For any stop over five minutes in a trip, for every fifteen minutes or fraction thereof	.25

Coaches—

For one mile or any part thereof	$1.00
For each additional half mile or part thereof	.50
For any stop over five minutes in a trip, for every fifteen minutes or fraction thereof	.40

Hourly Rates.—These hourly rates, except by special agreement are to apply only to shopping or calling, and shall not include park or road driving, nor driving for more than three miles from the starting point.

Cabs—For one hour or any part thereof, $1.00; For each additional half hour or part thereof, 50c.

Coaches—For one hour or any part thereof, $1.50; For each additional half hour or any part thereof, 75c.

[At time ALMANAC went to press new rates and regulations were being considered by the Board of Aldermen.]

REGULATIONS.

Any vehicle kept for hire shall be deemed a public hack, and a vehicle intended to seat two persons inside shall be deemed a cab, and a vehicle intended to seat more than two persons inside shall be deemed a coach, and the term hackman shall be deemed to include owner or driver, or both

Every hack shall be provided with a suitable lamp on each side, and shall have securely fastened across the middle of the outside of each lamp a metal band not less than two inches in width, out of which the official number of the license shall be cut after the manner of a stencil plate, the component figures of such numbers to be not less than one and one-half inches in height, and the style of the whole to be approved by the Mayor or Chief of the Bureau of Licenses. Every licensed hack shall have the official number of the license legibly engraved or embossed upon a metal plate and affixed inside, as designated and approved by the Mayor or Chief of the Bureau of Licenses, and no licensed hack shall carry or have affixed to it inside or outside, any number except the official number as aforesaid.

Every licensed hackman, immediately after the termination of any hiring or employment, must carefully search such hack for any property lost or left therein, and any such property, unless sooner claimed or delivered to the owner, must be taken to the nearest police station and deposited with the officer in charge within twenty-four hours after the finding thereof; and in addition a written notice, with brief particulars and description of the property, must be forwarded at once to the Bureau of Licenses.

Every licensed hackman shall have the right to demand payment of the legal fare in advance, and may refuse employment unless so prepaid but no licensed hackman shall otherwise refuse or neglect to convey any orderly person or persons, upon request, anywhere in the city, unless previously engaged or unable so to do No licensed hackman shall carry any other person than the passenger first employing a hack without the consent of said passenger.

Twenty blocks north and south to constitute a mile, seven blocks between the numbered and lettered avenues will be deemed a mile, as from Avenue B to Sixth Avenue or from Second Avenue to Ninth Avenue.

TAXICAB SERVICE.—For each taxicab intended to seat two persons inside and driven by motive power, for one-half mile or any part thereof, 30 cents. For each additional quarter mile or any part thereof, 10 cents. For waiting time at the rate of $1 per hour. For each taxicab intended to seat four persons inside and driven by motive power, for one-half mile or any part thereof, 40 cents. For each additional quarter mile or part thereof, 10 cents. For waiting time at the rate of $1 50 per hour. For one piece of baggage, 20 cents. No charge shall be made for handbags, dress suit cases or child under five years of age by any taxicab. All rates of fare shall depend on the number of persons which each vehicle is intended to seat inside and not on the number of persons actually carried.

No owner or driver of any taxicab which seeks patrons on the streets, avenues or highways of the city of New York, or occupies space thereon by reason of a permit or license from the city of New York, shall exact any fare from a passenger greater than that set forth in the official schedule of rates above provided

Disputes as to rates and distances may be settled by the police, or complaints may be made to the Bureau of Licenses Boroughs of Manhattan and the Broux, City Hall, New York.

Bridges in and About the City of New York.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

THE bridge connecting Manhattan and Brooklyn over the East River from Park Row, Manhattan, to Sands and Washington Streets, Brooklyn, was begun January 3 1870 and opened to traffic May 24, 1883 Total cost of the bridge to date about $22,400,000

The tolls are: For foot passengers, free railway fare, 3 cents, or 2 tickets for 5 cents; one horse, 3 cents; one horse and vehicle 5 cents, two horses and vehicle, 10 cents, each extra horse above two attached to vehicle, 3 cents; bicycles free On August 23, 1897 the bridge railway was leased to the elevated railroad companies (now operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit), paying therefor 10 cents per car; trolley cars 5 cents per round trip. About 125 000 surface cars cross the bridge each month The carriageways are under control of the Bridge Commissioner and about $75,000 per annum is derived from this source.

The following are the statistics of the structure Width of bridge, 85 feet. Length of river span 1,595 feet 6 inches Length of each land span, 930 feet. Length of Brooklyn approach 983 feet Length of New York approach, 1 577 feet 6 inches. Total length of carriageway, 6,016 feet. Total length of the bridge, with extensions, 7,580 feet.

Size of Manhattan caisson, 172 x 102 feet Size of Brooklyn caisson, 168 x 102 feet Timber and iron in caisson, 5,253 cubic yards. Concrete in well holes, chambers, etc., 5,669 cubic feet. Weight of Manhattan caisson, about 7,000 tons. Weight of concrete filling about 8,000 tons.

Manhattan tower contains 46,945 cubic yards masonry. Brooklyn tower contains 38,214 cubic yards masonry Depth of tower foundation below high water, Brooklyn, 45 feet. Depth of tower foundation below high water, Manhattan, 78 feet. Size of towers at high water line, 140 x 59 feet Size of towers at roof course, 136 x 53 feet. Total height of towers above high water, 272 feet

Clear height of bridge in centre of river span above high water at 90° F., 135 feet. Height of floor at towers above high water, 119 feet 3 inches

Grade of roadway, 3¼ feet in 100 feet. Height of towers above roadway, 153 feet. Size of anchorage at base, 129 x 119 feet. Size of anchorage at top, 117 x 104 feet. Height of anchorages, 89 feet front, 85 feet rear. Weight of each anchor plate, 23 tons.

Number of cables, 4. Diameter of each cable, 15¾ inches Length of each single wire in cables, 3,578 feet 6 inches. Ultimate strength of each cable, 12,000 tons. Weight of wire, 12 feet per pound Each cable contains 5,296 parallel (not twisted) galvanized steel, oil-coated wires, closely wrapped to a solid cylinder, 15¾ inches in diameter. Permanent weight suspended from cables, 14,680 tons.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE.

Manhattan terminal Bowery and Canal St.; Brooklyn terminal, Nassau, near Bridge St. Estimated cost, $26,000,000; of which $14,000,000 is for structure, $8,000,000 for land in Manhattan and $4,000 000 for land in Brooklyn.

Width of bridge, 122 ft 6 in. Length of river span, 1,470 ft. Length of each land span, 725 ft Length of Manhattan approach 2,067 ft. Length of Brooklyn approach, 1 868 ft Total length of roadway, 6,855 ft Bridge is of double-deck design, first deck to have one 35-foot roadway in centre and two subway tracks on each side and one 11 foot footwalk on each side, top deck to have four trolley tracks. Approximately 40,000 cu yds excavation for each anchor pier; approximately 115,000 cu. yds. masonry and concrete in each anchor pier.

Height of cables at top of tower above mean high water mark 321 ft. 4 in Height of roadway at centre of bridge above mean high water mark 149 ft. Grade of roadway 3½ ft. in 100 ft. Number of cables four, 37 strands in each cable; 256 wires in each strand; 9,472 wires in each cable; 37 888 wires in four cables Size of wire 0.192 inches in diameter Size of cable completed 21¼ inches in diameter Length of each wire 3,223 ft. 6 in. (anchor to anchor) Ultimate strength of each cable, 30 000 tons.

Weight (in steel only) of cables and suspenders, 8,000 tons. Weight of each tower, 6,300 tons. Weight of main span, 9,000 tons Weight of each side span, 5,000 tons Weight of steel in each anchorage, 1 300 tons. Weight of Manhattan approach, 8,500 tons. Weight of Brooklyn approach 8,000 tons

Work of construction of tower foundation in Brooklyn commenced August 29, 1901 Roadway opened for traffic December 31, 1909. East footwalk opened to pedestrians July 18, 1910.

WILLIAMSBURG BRIDGE.

The tower foundations for the bridge in Manhattan are at the foot of Delancey Street, and in Brooklyn at a point between South Fifth and South Sixth Streets. The bridge ends at Clinton Street in Manhattan, and at Havemeyer Street in Brooklyn. Construction commenced November 7, 1896. Size of Manhattan caissons (2), 76 x 60 feet; Brooklyn caissons (2), 79 x 63 feet. New York Chamber of Commerce.

ORGANIZED April 5, 1768. Incorporated by George III. March 13, 1770. Reincorporated by the State of New York April 13, 1784. Its object is indicated in the following words of the original charter: "Sensible that numberless inestimable benefits have accrued to mankind from commerce, that they are, in proportion to their greater or lesser application to it, more or less opulent and potent in all countries; and that the enlargement of trade will vastly increase the value of real estates as well as the general opulence of our said colony . . . and . . . to carry into execution, encourage, and promote, by just and lawful ways and means, such measures as will tend to promote and extend just and lawful commerce."

During the decade 1760–1770, according to Lord Sheffield's Observations, the average yearly value of American Colonial imports from Great Britain was £1,763,409, and of exports to the same country £1,044,591. Up to the evacuation of the city by the British and its occupation by the Americans on the 25th of November 1783 the New York Chamber of Commerce had had seven presidents, thirteen vice presidents, eight treasurers, one secretary, and 135 members. In May, 1763, the Sandy Hook Lighthouse was lighted up for the first time. In 1786 the Chamber of Commerce first suggested the construction of the Erie Canal, and in 1784 petitioned the New York Legislature (which so ordered) that duties should be levied under a specific instead of an ad valorem tariff—a system of which the Chamber of Commerce has ever since been the constant advocate.

As a society the Chamber of Commerce is limited to fifteen hundred resident and two hundred and fifty non-resident members. Initiation fee, $50. Annual dues $50 per annum. Non-resident members $25 per annum.

The building of the Chamber is at 65 Liberty Street, New York. Officers: President, A. Barton Hepburn; Secretary, Sereno S. Pratt; Treasurer, William H. Porter.

CENTRAL PARK.

The great park of New York extends from 59th St. to 110th St., being over 2½ miles long, and from 5th Ave to 8th Ave., being over half a mile wide. It covers 843 acres, of which 185 are in lakes and reservoirs and 400 in forest, wherein over half a million trees and shrubs have been planted. There are 9 miles of roads, 5¼ of bridle paths, and 31 of walks. The landscape architects of the Park were Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux. Public park carriages can be found (except in Winter) at the entrances on 5th Ave. and 8th Ave. The fare for an extended ride through the Park is 25 cents. Work was begun on the Park in 1857. The following fanciful names have been officially applied to the several entrances to the Park: 5th Ave. and 59th St., Scholar's Gate; 6th Ave and 59th St., Artist's Gate, 7th Ave and 59th St., Artisan's Gate; 8th Ave. and 59th St., Merchant's Gate; 8th Ave. and 72d St., Woman's Gate; 8th Ave and 81st St., Hunter's Gate; 8th Ave. and 85th St., Mariner's Gate; 8th Ave and 96th St., Gate of All Saints; 8th Ave. and 100th St., Boy's Gate; 8th Ave and 110th St., Stranger's Gate, 5th Ave and 67th St., Student's Gate; 5th Ave and 72d St., Children's Gate, 5th Ave and 79th St., Miner's Gate; 5th Ave. and 90th St., Engineer's Gate.; 5th Ave and 96th St., Woodman's Gate; 5th Ave and 102d St., Girl's Gate; 5th Ave. and 110th St., Pioneer's Gate. 6th Ave and 110th St., Farmer's Gate; 7th Ave and 110th St., Warrior's Gate.

FACTS ABOUT PUBLIC PARKS.

Union Square was purchased by the city in 1833 for $116,051; Madison Square, in 1847, for $65,952; Tompkins Square in 1834, for $93 358; Washington Square, in 1827, for $77,970, and Manhattan Square, in 1839, for $54,657. The latter is assessed as a part of Central Park. The other four are assessed at over $16,000,000, and are easily worth $20,000,000, while their original cost to the city was only $353,331. Prospect Park, Brooklyn, contains 526 1-6 acres. In woodland, 110 acres, in lakes and watercourses, 77 acres; in meadows, 70 acres, in plantations, 259 1 6 acres; in drives, 9 miles; in bridle roads, 3 1 10 miles, in walks 12 miles. Ocean Parkway is 5 1 2 miles long and 210 feet wide. Eastern Parkway is 2 1-2 miles long and 210 feet wide. London has 271 public parks, containing 17,876 acres of ground. The largest European city park is in Denmark; it contains 4,200 acres. The great forest of Northern New York covers an area of 3 588,803 acres.

The Public Schools of New York City.

(By A. Emerson Palmer, Secretary, Board of Education, New York City.)

Public education in New York City began with the founding of the Free School Society (after 1826 the Public School Society) in 1805. The society started in a small way, depending upon private subscriptions, but soon received aid from the city. It gradually expanded, and until 1842 had control of the moneys supplied for educational purposes by the city and the common school fund of the State. This condition of affairs was unique. The society, being under the direction of high-minded citizens, enjoyed a large degree of public confidence. So anomalous a system could not last, however, and by an act of the Legislature, passed in 1842, the Board of Education was established. The Public School Society continued to conduct its schools until 1853, when, by mutual consent, they were all taken over by the Board. The society at that time had more than a hundred schools; the value of the property it transferred to the city was estimated at $450,000, and during its existence it educated some 600,000 children. The Board of Education was an elective body from 1842 to 1871, the members being chosen first by wards, and from 1863 by school districts; since 1871, they have been appointed by the Mayor. In Brooklyn a Board of Education was created in 1843; the members were chosen by the Common Council until 1862, in which year the appointing power was vested in the Mayor. When consolidation took effect, in 1898, separate school boards were provided for the several boroughs (Manhattan and the Bronx being united), with a central Board of Education (a delegated body) having charge of the finances, the erection and repair of buildings, the acquiring of sites, the purchase and distribution of supplies, etc. This system was dropped on the revision of the Charter in 1901, and since 1902 there has been one Board of Education for the city. It consists of forty-six members—twenty-two for Manhattan, fourteen for Brooklyn, four each for the Bronx and Queens, and two for Richmond. Their term of office is five years.

The Board of Superintendents, consisting of the city superintendent of schools and eight associate superintendents, has large powers in the nomination, promotion, and transfer of teachers, the recommendation of text-books and scholastic supplies, the determination of courses of study, the fixing of qualifications for teachers' licenses, etc. Its important acts require the approval of the Board of Education. There are twenty-six district superintendents, whose duties are to visit schools and observe the work of teachers. The Board of Examiners (consisting of the city superintendent and four examiners) conducts all examinations for would-be teachers, and prepares eligible lists. The school superintendents and examiners, as well as the supervisor of free lectures, the superintendent of school buildings, and the superintendent of school supplies (whose duties are indicated by their titles), have terms of six years each. The Board of Education appoints all these officials, and also a secretary and auditor, having no fixed term. Principals and teachers are appointed by the Board of Education on the nomination of the Board of Superintendents. The merit system is in full operation, and teachers are appointed in order of standing. Beginners are on probation for three years, their licenses being renewable from year to year; when permanently licensed, their tenure is assured, and they cannot be removed except on charges. New teachers are appointed only after pursuing a training school course.

The budget appropriation of the Department of Education for 1910 was $28,578,432.43, of which $23,130,014.40 constituted the general school fund (for teachers' salaries). For 1911 the appropriation is $29,007,747.14, the general school fund being $23,990,655.92. A woman teacher now enters the system at $600 a year and advances, with yearly increments of $40, to $1,240. This applies to the great majority of teachers in the elementary schools. In the upper grades the maximum salaries are $1,320 and $1,440. Men teachers in these schools now start at $900 and go up to $2,400. Men principals of elementary schools receive $3,500 and women principals $2,500. In high schools and training schools the salaries for women range from $700 to $2,500, and for men from $900 to $3,000. Principals of high schools are paid $5,000, and $5,000 is the salary of district superintendents. Examiners receive $6,000. Associate superintendents receive $6,500. The salary of the city superintendent is $10,000. The number of elementary schools is 499—170 in Manhattan, 166 in Brooklyn, 44 in The Bronx, 85 in Queens and 34 in Richmond. The number of high schools is 20. There are also three training schools for teachers, two vocational schools, three truant schools and one nautical school. In the elementary schools there are 1,303 men and 14,246 women teachers: in the high schools 700 men and 754 women. In the evening schools (high and elementary) there are 1,920 teachers. Ninety-one attendance officers enforce the Compulsory Education law. The latest available figures show the attendance as follows:

	Elementary Schools. (Kindergarten, Primary, Grammar).	High Schools.		Elementary Schools. (Kindergarten, Primary, Grammar).	High Schools.

Queens	53,553	5,126

The number of new sittings supplied since September, 1909, has been 28,675, and the increase in the number of part-time pupils has been 6,556.

Teachers incapacitated after thirty years' service are retired on pensions (half pay); the number of retired teachers is 1,174.

School buildings and sites are paid for with the proceeds of city bonds (corporate stock); the amount issued since consolidation has been $89,164,538.05.

Subway Systems in New York City.

EXISTING SUBWAYS.

THE subway operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company comprises:

A four-track trunk line from City Hall Park through Lafayette Street Fourth Avenue Forty-second Street and Broadway to Ninety-sixth Street

A two-track southern extension from City Hall, down Broadway to the Battery there connected by the Rapid Transit tunnel under the East River to the Brooklyn subway which extends along Joralemon and Fulton Streets to Atlantic Avenue.

Two northern branches from Ninety-sixth Street, viz (a) the Broadway and (b) the Lenox Avenue.

(a) The Broadway or West Side branch extends along Broadway, St. Nicholas and Amsterdam Avenues, and Broadway to 242d Street (Van Cortlandt Park). It has three tracks from Ninety-sixth Street to 137th Street and two beyond Part of it is an elevated structure

Total length of all the above routes 25 7 miles, having 81.9 miles of track. Standard four-track cross section (two for express trains and two for local) 54 feet 8½ inches wide over all and 16 feet 7 inches high with roof supported by steel columns 97.500 tons of structural steel and 725.000 cubic yards of concrete used. The contract for the subway in New York north of City Hall was awarded January 15 1900, to John B McDonald and completed by him October 27 1904 The contract for subways south of City Hall and in Brooklyn were awarded after the one in New York to the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Co., who completed them in 1908 Total cost about $75.000 000 of which $50 000.000 was expended on the construction of the subway, and $25.000,000 on the equipment, viz., power house, rolling stock, signals, etc.

McAdoo uptown tunnels and subway. Part of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad system. Connect with north tunnels under the Hudson River at Morton Street and extend to Christopher Street, then to Sixth Avenue and up Sixth Avenue to Thirty-third Street Shield construction (outside diameter 16 feet 7 inches) was used as far as Twelfth Street, where it changes to a reinforced concrete section the two circular sections becoming two rectangular single-track compartments, each 13 feet wide by 14 feet 6 inches high inside, separated by a 15-inch wall.

SUBWAYS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

Fourth Avenue subway, beginning at the Brooklyn end of the Manhattan Bridge and running with four tracks (two express and two local) under Flatbush Avenue extension to Fulton Street, through Ashland Place and under Fourth Avenue to Forty-third Street. Cross section over all approximately 60 feet wide by 20 feet high with concrete partitions between the tracks Work started November 13, 1909 Will cost about $16.000.000.

Brooklyn loop subway connects the East River bridges by a loop line running from the Williamsburg Bridge through Delancey and Centre Streets to Park Row and the Brooklyn Bridge terminal in Manhattan and across the Manhattan Bridge and around through Brooklyn to the Williamsburg Bridge by way of Flatbush Avenue extension, Lafayette Avenue and Broadway The Manhattan portion from Williamsburg Bridge to the Brooklyn Bridge terminal has four tracks with a section 62 feet wide by 23 feet high over all, and a two-track branch 32 feet wide by 23 feet high over all with a continuous wall extending to Manhattan Bridge The subway in December, 1910, was practically ready for operation except a portion under Chambers Street, which had been delayed by the new municipal building at Chambers Street and Park Row, in the basement of which will be the terminal station.

PROJECTED SUBWAYS.

Tri-borough system Public Service Commission called for bids October 20 and 27 1910 The system embraces the following routes: (a) the Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway; (b) Jerome Avenue branch; (c) Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue branch, (d) Canal Street subway; (e) Broadway-Lafayette Avenue subway; (f) Fourth Avenue subway; (g) Fort Hamilton branch and (h) Coney Island branch.

(a) Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway begins at the Battery with two tracks and extends through Church and Vesey Streets to Broadway It runs north under Broadway as a four track subway to a point near Ninth Street, where it continues under private property and Irving Place to Lexington Avenue, then up Lexington Avenue to and under the Harlem River. Through the greater part of Lexington Avenue it will be double decked with local tracks on the upper level and express on the lower North of the Harlem River at 135th Street and Park Avenue the subway divides into two three-track branches, viz the Jerome Avenue running northwest and the other the Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue, running east and northeast.

(b) Jerome Avenue branch will continue as a subway to River Avenue and 157th Street, and from there to Woodlawn as an elevated road.

(c) Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue branch will be a subway through 138th Street, Southern Boulevard and Whitlock Avenue to a point south of Westchester Avenue, beyond which it will continue as an elevated road to Pelham Bay Park.

(d) Canal Street subway This will connect the lower portion of the Broadway-Lexington Avenue line with the Manhattan Bridge.

(f) Fourth Avenue Brooklyn subway from Manhattan Bridge to Forty-third Street. Under construction, see above

(g) Fort Hamilton branch of the Fourth Avenue subway from Forty-third Street will have two tracks and extend to Fort Hamilton

(h) Coney Island branch from Fourth Avenue and Fortieth Street will have three tracks, following Fortieth Street, New Utrecht Avenue Eighty-sixth Street and Stillwell Avenue to Coney Island Just beyond Twenty-fourth Avenue it will change to an elevated road and so continue to Coney Island

Summary—Four-track construction	13 9 miles
Three-track construction	17 4 miles
Two-track construction	12 9 miles
Total	44.2 miles

Estimated cost of the Tri-borough system for construction alone, $120 000.000, excluding equipment, power houses and sub-stations. It will be larger than any of the existing subways, is planned to carry

1,000,000 passengers per day and will accommodate standard railroad cars In the underground portion concrete partitions will be built between the tracks. The station platforms will be large enough for ten car express trains and six car locals.

The Public Service Commission is considering a new subway from the lower part of Manhattan north, through Seventh Avenue, past the new Pennsylvania Railroad station and eastward along Fifty-ninth Street, connecting with the Queensboro Bridge and a projected line in the Borough of Queens

There have been drawn plans for a subway out Eastern Parkway (Brooklyn), from which three branches have been proposed viz., the Livonia Avenue extension leaving the subway at Buffalo Avenue the Utica Avenue and the Nostrand Avenue. Owners of a majority of the frontage along these branches are willing to have them built on the assessment plan, that is the cost of construction may be assessed upon the property benefited.

Forty-second Street subway extension. Part of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad system. Extending the Sixth Avenue subway from Thirty-third Street to the Grand Central Station on Forty-second Street. Franchise granted May 4, 1909.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company requested permission to add a third track to its Second and Third Avenue elevated lines and to make extensions to both the elevated and subway systems. Moreover the company proposed a West Side addition to the present subway from Times Square south through Seventh Avenue, connecting with it at the Battery, and another line north on the East Side from Forty-second Street under Lexington Avenue to the Bronx.

Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company proposed to the Public Service Commission the building of a West Side subway. This would start from their station at Thirty-third Street and Broadway, extend southward under Broadway to Union Square, thence to University Place Wooster and Church Streets to the Hudson Terminal station at Cortlandt, Church and Fulton Streets.

On October 20 1910, bids called for on September 1 by the Public Service Commission for the construction, maintenance equipment and operation by private capital of the Triborough Subway were to be opened No bids were received On October 27 bids (asked September 1 for the construction alone), were opened and every section was bid on.

About three weeks later (November 17) W G. McAdoo of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, wrote to the Public Service Commission, offering to equip and operate the Triborough Subway, if certain portions of the route were modified and connections made with the Hudson tubes. This offer has somewhat changed the subway situation, and up to the time of going to press no action had been taken by the Commission in awarding the contracts called for on October 27.

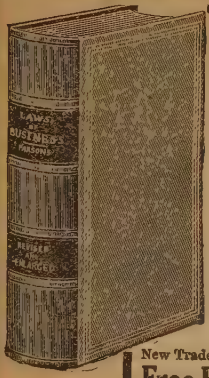
Business Law for the Busy Man

Mail the Coupon for FREE Examination



A complete authoritative book of business for all the States and Territories of the Union—an encyclopedia of legal knowledge to which the business man or the corporation official can continually refer. It saves the time and annoyance of a lawyer's conference—it saves the expense of a lawyer's fees. You can base your every transaction on exact legal knowledge—no matter what your problem, you can get expert legal advice instantly. The success and national reputation of the author as a lawyer stand back of every bit of advice or information you take from his book.

Parsons "Laws of Business" treats in untechnical, understandable business English of rights and duties under Contracts, Sales, Notes, Agency, Agreement, Consideration, Limitations, Leases, Partnership, Executors, Interest, Insurance, Collections, Bonds, Receipts, Patents, Deeds, Mortgages, Liens, Assignments, Minors, Married Women, Arbitration, Guardians, Wills, and much besides.

The book contains also abstracts of ALL STATE LAWS relating to Collection of Debts, Interest, Usury, Deeds, Holidays, Days of Grace, Limitations, Liens, etc. Likewise nearly 300 APPROVED FORMS for Contracts of all kinds, Assignments, Guaranty, Powers of Attorney, Wills, etc.

THE 1911 EDITION contains up-to-date chapters on Employers' Liability, Powers and Liabilities of Stockholders, Officers and Directors of Corporations, Food and Drug Law, New Trade Mark Law, Bailment, New Copyright Law, etc. Also a full Glossary of Law Terms.

WHY DO MEN FAIL?

¶ THE SUPREME PROBLEM OF LIFE for you is, how to get money in sufficient quantity to make you independent before your hair turns gray and your eyes grow dim.

¶ The struggle for money is "the struggle for existence" and a man can scarcely hope to be victorious therein except in the days of his strength and prime.

¶ We are all fighting for money (because money means nearly all that's worth while), but few there be who attain it.

¶ Now why should that be so? Why are there so many failures? The answer is simple: The majority are failures because they do not think right! They are in a state of discord rather than harmony with the natural Laws that govern money-making and the creation of wealth.

¶ Is that your case? Is your mind negative? If so, you must seek immediate remedy. You must remove the blight of wrong thinking; and for that purpose we strongly recommend to your attention a splendid little book, entitled

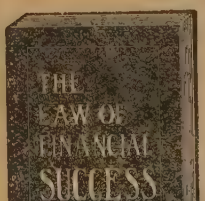
"THE LAW OF FINANCIAL SUCCESS"

¶ It is as full of good things as an egg is full of nutriment. It is the essence of money-making boiled down for busy people.

¶ Send for it at once. It only costs ten cents and it will make a new man of you. It will teach you how to be a winner—how to escape the hell of poverty—the worst of all hells.

¶ We honestly declare it is worth no end of money to any man who is desirous of properly directing the forces within him for his own enrichment.

¶ If you have the strength and determination to be a winner, get this book. Get it at once. Follow our advice. Don't put off till to-morrow what you should do to-day. Fill in the coupon and the book is yours by the next mail, and it may be the making of you. If you don't like it your money will be returned; you run no risk. Special Paper Bound Edition of 16 chapters, 104 pages, only 10 cents. Over 150,000 copies sold.



¶ Don't miss the tide that leads to Fortune.

SHORTHAND IN 30 DAYS

You can learn in spare time in your own home, no matter where you live. No need to spend months in study, as was formerly necessary. The Boyd Syllabic System is easy to learn—easy to write easy to read. Simple, Practical, Speedy, Sure. No ruled lines—no positions—no shading, as in other systems. No long list of word signs to confuse. Only nine characters to learn and you have the entire English language at your absolute command. This system is now widely used by stenographers, private secretaries, newspaper reporters. Lawyers, ministers, teachers, physicians, literary folk and business men and women may now learn shorthand for their own use through home study. A perfect shorthand system for any purpose—and does not require continual daily practice. Our graduates hold high-grade positions in all sections of the country. A School Within Itself

There are XX chapters in all, XIX carrying you from the fundamental principles of electricity on through the various branches to a point where the careful student comprehends the complete designing, care and operation of a dynamo or motor, and one chapter on electric automobiles, outlining their construction, care and operation, and all about storage batteries and how to handle them. Each subject is carefully written and to the point. After a student studies a subject, he is questioned on that subject in such a manner as to bring clearly to his mind the points he needs to know regarding same. A DICTIONARY in back of book will enable him to learn the meaning of any electrical word, term or phrase used in this book, as well as hundreds of others in common use. All required tables necessary in the study are in it.

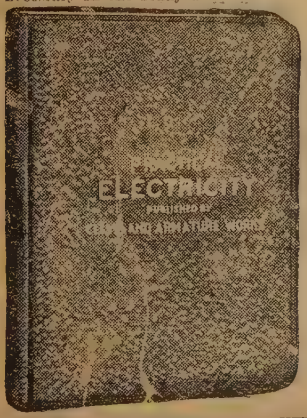

TABLE OF SUBJECTS:

I Can Make You a Convincing Speaker

says this man, Grenville Kleiser. Will you give him the opportunity?

People always listen to a man who has something to say—if he knows how to say it.

"Ninety-nine men in every hundred in the crowded professions will probably never rise above mediocrity because the training of the voice is entirely neglected and considered of no importance," wrote Gladstone.

Haven't there been occasions when YOU have noted the tremendous advantage possessed by the man who can clearly express himself before one or a thousand people?

If you can't talk to the point, you can't carry conviction—you can't WIN.

Don't you want to be a winner? Then

Let Grenville Kleiser (lately of Yale Faculty) teach you by mail

CONFIDENTLY—FLUENTLY—POWERFULLY

—In SALESMANSHIP —at PUBLIC MEETINGS
—In POLITICS —at DINNERS
—In SOCIETY —ANYWHERE

Let Him Teach You
How to Develop Self-Confidence, Power and Personality.

"It is the best investment I ever made."—Clinton A. Small, Dist.-Att., Col. Co. Bloomsburg, Pa.

I like your Course. Have read a great many books on public speaking, etc., but the brown covered Booklets that come to my desk are worth more than all the others put together. They teem with valuable suggestions and practical ideas.—Wm. P. Boynton, City Comptroller, Alton, Ill.

It will take only fifteen minutes of your time daily for a short time, and the results are assured. Mr. Kleiser's successful students number thousands of men in every profession and business—Lawyers, physicians, bankers, clergymen, teachers, salesmen, and other ambitious men who desire to win recognition in politics, business, society and fraternal orders and clubs. Write to-day for full information—a postal will do.

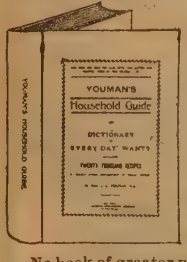
PALLISER'S UP-TO-DATE HOUSE PLANS.

We have just published a new book, with above title, containing 150 up-to-date plans of houses costing from $500 to $18,000, which anyone thinking of building a house should have if they wish to save money and also get the latest and best ideas of a practical architect. It also gives prices of working plans at about one-half the regular prices, and many hints and helps to all who desire to build. 160 large octavo pages. Price, paper cover, $1.00; bound in cloth, $1.50. Sent by mail, postpaid, to any address on receipt of price.



DO YOU WONDER

How your neighbors and friends can afford to buy the things, do the things, and wear the clothes that they do? Have you ever thought that it might just possibly be that they know more than you do? Don't imagine for an instant that because you are doing pretty well that you can't do better still, for you can; but in order to accomplish this you have got to know more than you do now.

We therefore desire to call your attention to the following book, filled with information you can utilize every day in the week, no matter what your occupation, trade or profession:

No books in existence contain in so small space as much knowledge about the trades and professions of which they treat as do these Handbooks. They are little giant encyclopedias of practical knowledge giving data and information that is needed in every-day work and that is hard to find in ordinary books. As they have been written by the best authorities in the country they are consulting experts of the highest rank for Carpenters, Builders, Contractors. Bookkeepers, Business Men, Advertisers, Clerks, Stenographers Plumbers. Telegraph or Telephone Workers, Mariners, Machinists, Mechanics, Electricians, Linemen, Wiremen, Lawyers, or Bankers. Whether you want to know in a few seconds how to obtain the strength of a cast-iron column or obtain an authoritative ruling on some point on patents or trade marks, you can have it in these Handbooks. As they are compiled from the Courses of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa., everywhere famous as the most powerful force in the world for the promotion of ambitious men, their value to employes in subordinate positions may be quickly realized. They are an indispensable help to quicker and better work that will command advancement. They are printed on a high-grade book paper in clear type, and durably and handsomely bound in cloth with gilt titles; contain on an average 364 pages and 175 illustrations and are regularly sold for $1.25 each.

The Springfield Metallic Casket

TRADE MARK.

This plate is on the end of every Springfield Metallic Casket.

Copyright—C. Deuble, Canton, O.

The McKinley Monument at Canton, Ohio. In this tomb lie the remains of the late President McKinley and his wife in Springfield Metallic Caskets of bronze.

SPRINGFIELD Metallic Caskets are indestructible. They are made of bronze, of cast metal or of steel.

They protect the bodies of your dead from the hideous violations of the earth. They keep the remains sacred forever. They place within the reach of everyone the protection which, formerly, only entire nations could yield to their saints and kings.

Their simple beauty is impressive and lends dignity to the last rites.

MARMOLA

PRESCRIPTION TABLETS

Take Off the Fat Where It Shows

WORK RAPIDLY AND HARMLESSLY—IMPROVE BODILY HEALTH—NO DIETING OR EXERCISE—NO WRINKLES OR FLABBINESS

Few there are who have not heard or read of the now Famous Marmola Prescription by means of which thousands of people have cured themselves of overfatness.

This remarkably successful remedy, given to the world by an eminent physician, involves a little trouble in its preparation at home. It is therefore grand news for fat people to learn that all the essentials and special ingredients of this famous prescription have been scientifically condensed into what will henceforth be known as Marmola Prescription Tablets. In this delightfully convenient form the wonderful curative value of this harmless combination is, if anything, enhanced.

The dose is one tablet after each meal and at bedtime, and a weight reduction of from one to thirty pounds in as many days is now assured without dieting, exercise or the least interference with one's ordinary mode of living. Though you may eat and enjoy what you like, the daily decrease of weight will be marked by increase of strength. The gradual dispelling of digestive troubles and marked improvement of bodily health are other splendid results of taking the harmless Marmola Prescription Tablets. The even, natural reduction of weight leaves no wrinkles or flabbiness of skin and the clear, healthy complexion is no less satisfaction than the recovery of a slim, well proportioned figure.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be sent post free by the Marmola Company, 1354 Monroe Ave., Detroit, Mich. The price, from either source, is 75c for a large case—sufficient to start you well on your way to normal weight and health.

DILAXIN

FOR CONSTIPATION

Safer and Better Than Salts, Comp. Cathartic Pills, Mineral Waters, Castor Oil or Any of the Advertised Remedies for Constipation and Bowel Troubles. They Invigorate the Entire Digestive System and Assist Nature in Re-establishing Normal, Healthy Conditions.

Dilaxin, cheap and common as Epsom Salts though it may be, is far superior to all cathartics because it cleans the bowels thoroughly. That is something no cathartic ever did.

But Dilaxin, though positive, is not violent in its action. Not a moment of uneasiness or griping pain precedes the very complete and satisfactory bowel movement it produces. This is another great advantage over cathartics and other harsh bowel regulators, which invariably cause distress, colicky spasms and more or less griping.

But by far the most astonishing and agreeable thing about Dilaxin is its final effect. Where cathartics are concerned, the more they are used the greater is the necessity for their use. They are habit-forming. If they are discontinued, the old trouble returns two-fold. Even if continued, the dose of any cathartic must be gradually increased, which shows that their action is against, not with, nature.

Dilaxin's action is the reverse of cathartics. The more you take Dilaxin, the less need you will have for it. For this reason, when all the bowel has been gently cleaned by Dilaxin, the bowel begins to recover, to revive; it assumes again its normal and natural function, and if it be kept clean and clear by the occasional aid of Dilaxin, the bowel grows progressively stronger until, in time, it becomes vigorous enough to act alone. That is the Dilaxin way of curing Constipation—by keeping the bowels clean; the digestive system free from obstruction.

Dilaxin is sold at all drug stores at 25c for a generous supply of these pure, effective tablets, or may be obtained by sending direct to the Marmola Company, 1355 Monroe Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Those who have become prematurely gray or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases such as failing hair, dandruff, baldness itching scalp etc. know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions These troubles can be quickly overcome by Crystolis the new drug recently discovered at the Creslo Laboratories at Scranton, Pa Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, Crystolis has been found to contain marvellous properties for producing a new growth of hair In subjecting it to various tests in the worst cases of baldness, dandruff itching scalp, etc., the results obtained by the experimenting chemists were considered almost miraculous In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time Gray or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time In minor cases of scalp and hair diseases, such as dandruff, failing hair itching scalp, etc, it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Crystolis will, without doubt, put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Women who have been forced into wearing false hair will greatly welcome this marvellous product as, aside from its many other virtues, it adds a beautiful gloss and lustre to the old hair. Besides, it contains no oil and has a tendency to make the hair light and fluffy.

The managers of the Creslo Laboratories make the following remarkable offer: We will forfeit $1,000 in gold if we fail to prove that Crystolis actually grows hair. We will forfeit $1,000 in gold if any one can prove that we were not the first discoverers of Crystolis We will forfeit $1,000 in gold if it can be proved that it contains any oil, dye or coloring matter of any kind We will forfeit $1,000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which we publish is not absolutely genuine. Free information in regard to this new process will be furnished to all World Almanac readers Merely cut out and send in the coupon below, and you will receive free particulars of this marvellous new product by return mail

I WAS A HEAVY DRINKER

Consumed Quart of Whiskey Every 24 Hours.

CURED IN 3 DAYS

If you know any one who drinks alcohol in any form, regularly or periodically, let me send my FREE book, "Confessions of an Alcohol Slave."

I drank beer at first, then gradually developed into a drinker of strong liquors. When drinking heavily I wouldn't hesitate to pawn my coat or break a saloon window to get spirits. For long periods I would drink over a quart of whiskey, rum or gin daily. And some mixed drinks and beer additionally!

I damaged business, health and social opportunities, made family miserable, lost real friends and became an unworthy, unwelcome burden upon all except the saloonkeepers, who cheerfully took my money for the poison they gave me.

For 16 years I kept it up, and I was regarded as a hopeless case. Various "cures" did me no good. But now I have a joyful message for drinkers and

Mothers, Wives, Sisters

While drifting from bad to worse as all slaves of King Alcohol do, I unexpectedly found a true cure. It was (and is) genuine. It saved my life. My health was quickly restored. I became and am a respectable man, enjoying every benefit of freedom from the accursed alcohol. I speedily and naturally lost all desire for drink. I took less and less. I began to prefer tea, coffee and other non-alcoholic liquids; the craving for liquor ceased, I could sleep perfectly, my stomach became well and I recovered from other ailments which I now know were due to my indulgence in strong drink.

WONDERFUL CURE FOR DRINK HABIT

My cure lasted 3 days; if I had relied upon will power or faith I would still be a drunkard, because an alcohol slave has no will power while drinking. I rejoiced so greatly at having found a true cure that I decided to devote my life to removing the curse from others. My success has been marvelous. During eight years I have personally attended to over 6,000 men and women who were addicted to drink; the list includes very many persons notable in all walks of life, including those of brains and those of physical energy. If I were permitted to mention names of those who have been saved through this quick, permanent cure the public would be astonished. They include senators, congressmen, public officials, great lawyers, bankers, clergymen, noted merchants, skilled mechanics, trusted managers and clerks, farmers and others in all vocations.

I tell about the secret in my book, which I send FREE to every person (or relative or friend) who takes alcohol in any form to excess. My one purpose in life is to cure the drunkard. I rejoice in every cure, each victim has my sympathy. What I promise is absolutely guaranteed. My remedy is for either steady or periodical drinkers. Think of it—a complete and permanent home cure between Friday night and Monday night—or any other 72 hours!

Men or Women, Any Age Quickly Cured, Secretly or with Their Own Consent.

To relatives, friends or employers I say—If you want to cure a drinker in the quickest time and permanently, with or without his knowledge and with absolute safety, read my book—changes despair to joy.

ABSOLUTELY FREE

I will send you my book, in plain wrapper, promptly, postpaid. It tells of my own career and the wonderful discovery and gives valuable advice. No other book like it. I especially appeal to those who had wasted money on treatments or remedies which have no lasting effect. Remember, it costs nothing and you will always be glad that you wrote. Correspondence strictly confidential. Cut this out if you cannot write today. Address:

Rupture

Rev. John Mitchell, Bethel, Minn., declares under oath:

"I am cured perfectly after 20 years of anxiety and suffering, and I wear no support of any kind. I tried treatments from two specialists in N. Y., one in Mich., and one in Anoka.

"Your Plas-tr-pads are so effective that it don't take long to find out that you are getting better, and they are far easier to wear than any truss.

Rev John Mitchell

"The fact that I am over 76 years old surely makes this cure a marvellous one. I will always recommend your Plas-tr-pads, for they are better than gold to any one who has a rupture." Respectfully,

Mr. S. A. Fish, 750 Foster St., North Andover, Mass., states under oath:

"I regard my cure little short of a miracle, for I am over 71 years old, and was so bad that I came pretty near answering to the last roll call. I only used the Plas-tr-pads for 90 days to effect a complete cure.

S. A. Fish

"I am an old soldier and ex-railroad engineer, and am well known all over the U. S. I hope my testimonial will convince others, for I want to help the suffering all I can." Gratefully yours.

TRIAL OF PLAPAO

The above letters, selected from hundreds which we have on file and which have been sworn to, prove positively that STUART'S PLAS-TR-PADS are a successful treatment for Rupture.

Your own experience has proven that the truss is in every way unsatisfactory. Then why continue to wear it? STUART'S PLAS-TR-PADS are different from the painful truss, being made self-adhesive purposely to hold the rupture in place without straps, buckles or springs—cannot slip, so cannot chafe or compress against the pelvic bone. The most obstinate cases cured in the privacy of the home. Thousands have successfully treated themselves without hindrance from work. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. Process of cure is natural, so no further use for trusses. Awarded Medal and Diploma as Meritorious Invention. We prove what we say by sending you Trial of Plapao absolutely FREE. Write name on coupon and mail TODAY. Address—

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH

SUCCESSFULLY TREATED BY "ACTINA"

WONDERS OF THE EAR. A DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN ANATOMY THAT DEFIES SURGERY

E. D. The Drum; H. Hammer; A. Anvil; S. Stirrup; S. C. Semicircular Canals; C. Cochlea.

The human Ear is an organ, the interior of which specialists have never been able to get at, hence their inability to remove the causes of deafness.

CAUSES OF DEAFNESS

NINETY-FIVE PER CENT. of deafness cases brought to our attention are the result of chronic catarrh of the throat and middle ear. The air passages become clogged by catarrhal deposits stopping the action of the vibratory bones (hammer, anvil and stirrup). Until these deposits are removed relief is impossible. The inner ear cannot be reached by probing or spraying, therefore cures cannot be effected in that manner. EAR DRUMS never cure deafness. It is folly, therefore, for deaf persons to hope for relief by the old methods, and instead of wasting time and money on methods that never have cured DEAFNESS OR CATARRH, they should awake to the time and apply a successful treatment. That there is a successful treatment for deafness and catarrh is demonstrated every day by the use of ACTINA. The vapor currents generated in the ACTINA pass through the Eustachian tubes into the middle ear, removing the catarrhal obstructions as they pass through the tubes and loosen up the bones (hammer, anvil and stirrup) in the inner ear, making them respond to the slightest vibration of sound.

RINGING NOISES IN THE HEAD.

ACTINA is very successful in relieving this distressing symptom. The vapor currents pass quickly and freely through the Eustachian tube, removing the catarrhal substances that obstruct the easy exit of the wave sounds. We have known people troubled with this symptom for years to be completely relieved in a few weeks by use of the ACTINA.

As deafness and ringing noises are caused from Catarrh, hearing cannot be restored and noises stopped till the catarrh is cured, and as catarrh is curable by ACTINA, few persons need be deaf or have ringing noises in the head if they will use ACTINA properly.

ACTINA is also very successful in the treatment of La Grippe, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Weak Lungs, Colds, Headache and all other troubles that are directly or indirectly due to catarrh.

ACTINA IS SENT ON TRIAL POSTPAID. Write us about your case. We give advice FREE, and positive PROOF OF CURES. A VALUABLE BOOK FREE.—Prof. Wilson's Treatise on Disease—a book that will instruct and interest you. Send for it.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Easily Made at Home.

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded If It Fails.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup and saves you about $2 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs — even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guiaicol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. The plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equalled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., 246 Main St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DEVELOP YOUR BUST

50c Package FREE to Any Woman Who Wants a Beautiful Figure.

Women need no longer be humiliated and embarrassed because they are thin, flat chested and not developed, for science has found a simple way to give the beautiful curves of a perfect figure. To prove this, let us send you free of charge a 50c. package that will show you how easily the bust can be developed from two to seven inches, and become full, plump and firm. This discovery, that is of such vital interest to all thin women, is the result of long study and investigation by one of the leading women physicians in New York State, who, in seeking to overcome the defects in her own figure without the use of "pads" or forms, discovered a happy combination of tissue-building elements that increased her bust some four inches, made her arms round and shapely and her neck and shoulders plump and symmetrical.

This prescription of Dr. Catherine Kelly's is a real discovery on far different lines from the ordinary figure developing treatment, and this explains its almost uniform success.

Dr. Kelly not only gained a beautiful form by her own prescription, but used it successfully with many of her patients. Women, this is a personal message from a physician of your own sex, and all we ask is the opportunity to show you, without any expense on your part, that Dr. Kelly's Form Developer will give you a perfect figure, beautiful complexion and improve the general health. Send 10c. for expenses, and a 50c. treatment will be mailed at once in plain package. Write us today. Dr. KELLY MEDICAL CO., Dept. 408, Buffalo, N. Y.

I Guarantee to Cure

ECZEMA

TO STAY CURED!

It is also called SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, TETTER, ITCH, WEEPING SKIN, MILK CRUST, PRURITUS—these are different names, but all mean one thing—ECZEMA.

DR. J. E. CANNADAY, THE DOCTOR WHO TREATS NOTHING BUT ECZEMA.

I prove every word that I have said—I give to every sufferer

A FREE TRIAL

Just to show you that you need my treatment. It is yours for the asking. If you have been to other Doctors, if you have taken patent medicine and used lotions and salves till you are disgusted, write to me—I will send you ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, A TRIAL TREATMENT. There are no strings to this statement. There is not one cent to pay—not a penny accepted. I know what my trial treatment will do; I know that it will convince you more than anything else on earth that you need my treatment.

Don't Miss This Chance for a Cure

If you are SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA you can only be cured one way—REMOVE THE CAUSE. What is the cause? ACID IN THE BLOOD. How do you remove it? By cleansing the blood of the ACID.

My treatment is soothing—relieves the dreadful itching at once and cures the disease quickly. You don't have to take treatment for months and months. ONLY ONE CASE IN TEN needs the second treatment—ONE IN FIFTY needs the third—Think of that!

What Eczema Is

Eczema is a disease of the blood and affects all parts of the body—the face, lips, ears, hands, feet, genital organ, etc.

SYMPTOMS.—Yellowish red eruption; the pimples or patches may swell and the itching is so great the person will scratch the top off; then they bleed and dark scales form; there is an oozing of matter. In some the skin cracks and bleeds. Itching is terrible; a person suffering will scratch till they bleed. Scales form on parts of the body where the clothing comes in contact.

Ten Years Guarantee

I positively Guarantee that every case cured by me will stay cured 10 YEARS! IT MUST BE GOOD or it could not be sold this way.

Strong as Rock of Gibraltar

I am a graduate from two leading medical schools. I am the holder of a GOLD MEDAL taken in Competitive Examination. Does this not show that I am fully qualified? I will send you my book, showing endorsements of business men of all classes. Also testimonials and pictures from cured patients everywhere. Some of them may be YOUR NEIGHBORS.

MY BOOK

Is the most complete book ever sent out. I explain every form of the disease plainly and fully. I show pictures of many severe cases, which are extremely interesting. I send you names of thousands who have been cured and are grateful.

Reliable Beyond Question

This is a statement from the bank of my home town, where I have done business for years.

THIRD NATIONAL BANK

SEDALIA MO Jan.-1-1910.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:-

Dr. Cannaday, of our city is a physician, making a specialty of ECZEMA. We have handled his business exclusively for one year and eighty four days. His patients deposit their money with us, in their OWN NAME, to be paid to the doctor, if his treatment is satisfactory. If we remember correctly, we have been called upon by only FOUR of his patients for their money, and it seemed then, that the fault was more with the Express Companies than with the treatment failing.

Considering the number of cases he treats, we regard his success as remarkable. We consider him perfectly reliable, and assure those placing their money with us a fair, square, business deal.

HOW TO HAVE A CAPTIVATING FIGURE AND BE RID OF WRINKLES.

FREE TO ANYONE.

An American business woman of Providence recently obtained possession of a Japanese secret for form development and wrinkle removing, which she tried on herself with astounding results. All hollows in the neck and chest were quickly filled in, and the bones were soon covered with firm, but soft, yielding flesh.

The angles in the shoulders disappeared, her bust increased in size several inches, and was made firm, shapely and symmetrical, instead of small and undeveloped. The wrinkles in her face went away as if by magic and her complexion became clear and beautiful. Now, she is the admiration of everybody.

She now offers to send absolutely free to any woman whose figure is undeveloped or whose face is marred by lines and wrinkles full particulars of this simple method which will enable you in the privacy of your own home to add inches to your bust, to secure a captivating figure like the patron whose picture is shown herewith, and to make your face clear and radiant.

All our lady subscribers who wish to be handsome and well-formed will receive full particulars absolutely free of charge (provided they send two-cent stamp or stamped envelope for return postage), by writing to Miss Janet Gilbert, 101 G. H. Jic Bldg., Providence, R. I.

HOW MAE EDNA WILDER GOT RID OF A DOUBLE CHIN

AN INTERESTING STORY FOR FLESHY PEOPLE

"I removed my double chin and reduced thirty pounds in less than six weeks," says Mae Edna Wilder, who stands five feet high, weighs 120 pounds, and is a picture of perfect health. "I did this by a process which is my own discovery—a process of external application. I simply apply the treatment to any part of the body where superfluous flesh exists and it vanishes as if by magic. Five minutes every other day for two weeks is all the time needed, and one's most intimate friends need not know anything about it. I am so grateful for my own relief that I will give free advice to anyone who suffers as I did. I consider a double chin one of the most unsightly physical defects, and superfluous flesh is just extra weight that one must carry with them everywhere and all the time. I feel ten years younger and a hundredfold more active since I lost mine." Any interested person who will write to MAE EDNA WILDER, Dept. 159, Rochester, N. Y., will be told how to find relief within two weeks.

Eyeglasses Not Necessary

Eyesight Can Be Strengthened, and Most Forms of Diseased Eyes Successfully Treated Without Cutting or Drugging.

That the eyes can be strengthened so that eyeglasses can be dispensed with in many cases has been proven beyond a doubt by the testimony of hundreds of people who publicly claim that their eyesight has been restored by that wonderful little instrument called "Actina." "Actina" also relieves Sore and Granulated Lids, Iritis, etc., and removes Cataracts without cutting or drugging. Over eighty-four thousand "Actinas" have been sold; therefore the Actina treatment is not an experiment, but is reliable. The following letters are but samples of hundreds we receive:

J. J. Pope, P. O. Box No. 43, Mineral Wells, Texas, writes:—"I have spent thousands of dollars on my eyes, consulted the best doctors in the United States, dropped medicine in my eyes for years and 'Actina' is the only thing that has ever done me any good. Before using 'Actina' I gave up all hope of ever being able to read again. Had not read a newspaper for seven years. Now I can read all day with little or no inconvenience."

Kathryn Bird, 112 Lincoln St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:—"I was troubled with astigmatism and had worn glasses from ten years of age. I could not read or write without them; in a surprisingly short time, after using 'Actina,' I laid aside my glasses and I will never use them again."

E. R. Holbrook, Deputy County Clerk, Fairfax, Va., writes:—" 'Actina,' has cured my eyes so that I can do without glasses. I very seldom have headache now, and can study up to eleven o'clock after a hard day's work at the office."

"Actina" can be used by old and young with perfect safety. Every member of the family can use the one "Actina" for any form of disease of the Eye, Ear, Throat or Head. One will last for years and is always ready for use. "Actina" will be sent on trial, postpaid.

If you will send your name and address to the Actina Appliance Co., Dept. 31 N. 811 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo., you will receive absolutely FREE a valuable book—Prof. Wilson's Treatise on Disease.

DR. JAMES M. RAINEY.

Best Known Remedies for Stomach, Blood, Nerves, Heart, Bowels, Catarrh, Thinness, Debility.

I consider Vitality Tablets my greatest achievement. I believe they will cure more quickly the diseases and weaknesses mentioned below than any medicine I have ever put upon the market. And those who know me know my word is as good as gold.

I have been in business 20 years: have the endorsement of Bankers, Business Men and Patients everywhere; you've never read such endorsements in your life—no Doctor or Medicine Company in the world has such strong backing.

IF YOU ARE WEAK, TIRED,

Lack Strength and Vigor, these are the Remedies for you.

STOMACH TROUBLES—Have you Stomach Pain, Belching, Lost Appetite, Bad Taste or Breath, Headache, Heartburn, Bloating, Gas, Spitting of Mucus, Gnawing, Empty Feeling, Lump in Stomach, Food Disagree, Pain Before or After Eating, Coated Tongue, Sore Mouth, Indigestion? Then you need Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets, and at once. They will relieve you quickly and permanently, improve appetite, digestion and general health.

THE BLOOD—Pimples, Blackheads, Sores, Blotches, Pale, Sallow Complexion, Lips Blue, Specific Blood Poison, Eczema, Malaria, Enlarged Joints or Glands, Chilly, Feverish, Run down, Debilitated, Weak, Emaciated? You surely need Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets. They restore strength and fibre to the blood, so it will furnish nourishment to the whole body.

THE NERVES—Nervous Debility, Weakness, Jerking, Jumping, Excitable, Tired, Worn Out, Feel Like Falling When Eyes Closed and Feet Together, Restless at Night, Poor Memory, Melancholy, Despondent, Wake Up Unrefreshed, Weak Trembles, Dizzy, Fainting Spells, Hands or Feet Numb, Neuralgia, Lack Energy, Strength, Ambition? You need Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets. They restore nerve tissue to normal condition, steady the nerves, banish the blues, make you feel full of life, vigor, ambition, and many years younger.

HEART—Weakness, Skipping of Beats, Fluttering, Palpitation, Pain in left side, Pains under shoulder blades, Shortness of breath, Dizzy Sinking Sensations, Cold Extremities, Swollen Feet, Throbbing or Hammering Sensation, Can't Lie on Right Side or Back, Rheumatism, Asthma? Get Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets.

CATARRH—Hawking, Spitting, Accumulation of Mucus, Watery Discharge from Stomach, Spit up Slime, Nose Runs, Sneeze, Bad Odor, Dull Headaches, Catarrhal Deafness, Pains in Kidneys, Bladder, Lungs or over entire Body, Slimy Discharge from Bowels? Get Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets at once! They remove the cause.

THINNESS—Under Weight, Hollow Cheeks, Flat Chest, Scrawny Neck, Dyspepsia, Thin Blood? Dr. Rainey's Vitality Tablets build you up in every way. Guaranteed to make you gain 5 to 25 lbs. Will greatly improve your appearance.

NO SECRET MEDICINE

Vitality Tablets are not a secret medicine. The formula is in English on every bottle. You know just what you are taking into your stomach. I say the days of secret medicine are numbered. People want to know what they are taking. Why should any doctor object to telling what his medicine is? I want you to know—I want you to ask any Doctor or any Druggist or Chemist in the U. S. whether Vitality Tablets are good or not. Do this before you take a single dose, if you please. I am willing to take your judgment then.

When I say these Great Medicines are Free I mean FREE. I don't mean I am going to ask pay after you take half of them. I am not going to send more medicine with the free treatment and ask you to buy it. Remember, it is Free; not a cent to pay for it now or any other time, and remember it's a regular full dollar bottle and box worth more than a dollar of anybody's money—some say it is worth its weight in gold—and it's free to you. Vitality Tablets have restored thousands to health—why not you? Send the Free Coupon today.

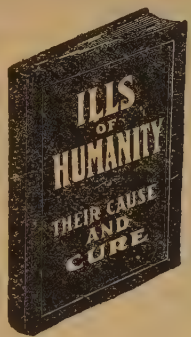
DOLLAR BOOK FREE

10,000 MEDICAL BOOKS FREE

if you write at once. The price of this Book is One Dollar, but as long as the free issue of 10,000 copies lasts I will send them FREE, postage paid, to those who are sick or afflicted in any way; 192 pages of practical information and professional advice that every man and woman should know. It describes all diseases—explains all symptoms—gives the causes of disease—tells how to prevent sickness and explains how a great many diseases can be cured in your own home. If you want to be well and remain well, this is the book for you, and it is FREE. Simply send me the coupon printed below and I will send you absolutely FREE, postage paid, this valuable Medical Book for the home—a One Dollar Book Free. Write at once before it is too late to accept this generous offer.



My Success Is Your Gain

My professional and financial success has been wonderful. I have succeeded beyond my fondest ambition in doing good in the world—in benefiting humanity. I have acquired a liberal share of worldly goods. For all this I am grateful—I am thankful. To show gratitude I propose to do this kindness to humanity. I propose to help the sick and suffering free of charge. I will positively give away 10,000 HOME MEDICAL OOKS and 10,000 PROOF TREATMENTS to the first 10,000 people who write to me. I don't care who you are, where you live or whether you are rich or poor, if you need a practical medical book to guide you year after year—if you need medical attention for any disease curable by modern medical science—if you are sick or afflicted, I want to help you free. I can afford to send these 10,000 Books and Free Proof Treatments, postage paid. Sit down right now and mail the coupon below. Be one of the fortunate 10,000.

A FREE PROOF TREATMENT

To each of the first 10,000 who apply I will send a free proof treatment. Not a patent medicine—not one remedy, but as many kinds of medical remedies as I find advisable in your case—remedies to strike straight at your disease—constitutional remedies—remedies to tone up your general system—pure, effective and curative remedies that are the result of the most modern medical skill and science, combined with years of successful experience in thousands of cases. I have cured thousands of others. I WANT TO PROVE THAT I CAN CURE YOU.

DISEASES I TREAT

I don't claim to cure cancer, leprosy and other incurable diseases, but I DO CLAIM TO CURE, AND ACTUALLY, POSITIVELY DO CURE many diseases that others consider incurable. I have cured thousands of serious, chronic cases—many cases that others failed to cure. I want to prove what my treatment will do for you. A free proof treatment is the best possible test, it is the one convincing proof. I will send it without cost to you, I pay all charges. Will you be one of the 10,000 to accept this generous offer?

I ASK NOTHING

I will accept no pay, not one cent for the Book and Trial Treatment I have decided to give away. I want to prove that my treatment will do in your case what it has done in thousands of cases. By proving my skill to you, I hope to prove it to your friends and neighbors. If my treatment helps you—if it cures you, I want your good will—I want your gratitude—I want you to speak a kindly word for me to your sick friends when convenient to do so. This is all I ask. When I say Free I mean FREE.

Kiro Cures Fits

Do You Want To Be Cured?

Two Weeks' Full Treatment Sent Absolutely Free.

Are you an epileptic? Do you have fits? Does any member of your family suffer this terrible affliction? Do you want to be cured, positively cured forever? Write to us.

Don't give up hope. Don't say there is no cure. There is a cure. Kiro has cured many, many of the worst cases. Many of these cases were no doubt as bad as your case or worse. But they have been cured. And there is the same hope for you, or your loved one.

Kiro is a safe, harmless treatment, made from a formula which has been in possession of one of the best known families of Michigan for generations. Kiro contains no alcohol, or any harmful drug. It cannot be injurious, even to very young children. It prevents all epileptic attacks, from the very beginning of treatment, builds the patient up, makes him strong and self-reliant both in body and mind, and ultimately brings about a perfect cure.

Kiro has the indorsement of many persons of unquestioned standing and honor. We have so much faith in Kiro that we will send to any sufferer, absolutely free, a two-weeks' treatment, postpaid. In writing, please give age of the patient, how often the attacks occur, how long patient has been sick, etc. Immediately upon receipt of your letter, we will send the two-weeks' treatment, in a plain package, postpaid, to your address. Backache and Piles

Bottle FREE

I want you to try at my expense this famous external remedy for Rheumatism, Backache and Piles.

Z. M. O. has made many wonderful cures of these ailments, and I am so positive it will greatly benefit you that I am willing to send you a bottle absolutely free. If I were not sure Z. M. O. would cure, I could not afford to make this offer.

Z. M. O. is the discovery of Max Zaegel, a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. Z. M. O. is an external liquid remedy that gets right down to the bone, through skin and muscles, and drives away the sharp uric acid crystals which get into the nerve centres and cause excruciating pains.

Z. M. O., owing to its penetrating and antiseptic properties, is better than any remedy for Piles. It is guaranteed by me under the Pure Food Law to be free from morphine, opium, cocaine, or other harmful drugs.

If you suffer from Rheumatism, Backache or Piles, or know of a friend that will not heal, send at once for this free bottle. There is no expensive monthly treatment connected with this offer. I am doing this simply to show you what a great remedy Z. M. O. is. Write a letter to-day to M. R. Zaegel & Co., 908 Main Street, Sheboygan, Wis., and I receive bottle Z. M. O. FREE.

ASTHMA CATARRH CURED

Write me for

50c PACKAGE

FREE

If you suffer with Catarrh or Asthma, I want you to try free, at my expense, my "Home Treatment," which is making so many wonderful cures of chronic and acute cases. I know what it will do and am therefore willing to stand the expense of proving my claims. You know I could not afford this otherwise.

No matter what you have tried, don't despair, but send me your name AT ONCE. Other so-called remedies for Catarrh and Asthma only give relief for a few hours or a few days, while the disease steadily grows worse and more difficult to cure permanently. In the foul slimes of Catarrh and Asthma the germs of Consumption breed rapidly and the whole system is impaired and left open to the attacks of dangerous disease. Horrible suffering results—days are one long torture and nights sleepless agony.

My remedy cleanses the system of all impurities and stops the dripping in the throat, hawking and spitting, foul breath, head noises, loss of taste and smell, hoarseness, watery eyes, heals the scabs in nose, prevents gasping for breath and sleepless nights.

Cut out the coupon below, sign and send it or write me a letter and I will mail you FREE a 50c. package and book, both in plain wrapper. Mention your disease.

French Method of Developing the Bust

Mdme. Du Barrie Explains How the Bust May Be Developed 2 to 8 Inches in 30 Days.

"I am explaining for the first time to the ladies of America," says Madame Du Barrie, "the French method of developing the bust. It is much more effective, the results appear much more quickly, the breasts become more firm, plump and symmetrical, the method is more simple, the effects more lasting, and altogether beyond comparison with results produced here.

"You know the French people have the development of the bust and form down to a fine point.

"By this French method the breasts may be developed from 2 to 8 inches in 30 days. This applies to women of almost any age, from young girls to elderly matrons, whether the bust is absolutely not developed at all or has grown weak and flabby, and hangs, no matter from what cause.

"It is beauty of form that attracts much more than the features. You will always find it so with both sexes.

"I will be only too glad to tell any woman who is interested what this simple French method is, if she will enclose a 2-cent stamp to pay for the postage. I will send an illustrated booklet in plain, sealed wrapper that will explain it all."

We suggest to our lady readers that they write to Madame Du Barrie for particulars of this remarkable French method, enclose 2 cents in stamps for the illustrated booklet and address it to Mdme. Du Barrie, Suite 2247, Quinlan Building, Chicago, Ill.

FREE TO ASTHMA SUFFERERS

A New Home Cure That Anyone Can Use Without Discomfort and Loss of Time.

We have a New Method that cures Asthma, and we want you to try it at our expense. GOOD-BYE TO SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

How I Cured My Growth of Superfluous Hair by a New, Simple Method After All Else Failed.

FREE TO ANYONE.

I Will Send Free to Any Sufferer Full Particulars to Achieve the Same Happy Results.

From childhood I was distressed and humiliated by an unwelcome growth of hair on my face and arms. I tried all the depilatories, powders, liquids, creams and other rub-on preparations I ever heard of, only to make it worse. For weeks I suffered the electric needle without being rid of my blemish. I spent a great deal of money on various things in vain, until a friend recommended a simple preparation which succeeded for me where all else failed and has won universal praise from hosts of others as well.

This simple remedy (a harmless, soluble liquid that your own doctor would indorse), enabled me permanently to find entire relief from all trace of unwelcome hair, and forever end all embarrassment. It is simple, safe, sure and can be used privately at home, without fear of pain or blemish. It makes the electric needle entirely unnecessary.

I will tell in detail full particulars to enable any other sufferer to achieve the same happy results as I did. All I ask is a two-cent stamp for reply. Address Caroline Osgood, 101 S., Vaughan Bldg., Providence, R. I.

D.'s to pay, and you are not obligated to spend a penny.

I have helped thousands to regain their health. Those with tired, lame, aching backs, with unbearable bladder and urinary troubles, others stiff and bent with rheumatism—and I have made them well, the most chronic, severe, long standing obstinate cases, after all else had failed to cure them. I offer my wonderful treatment to you—FREE TRY—TAKE IT—USE IT—AND GET WELL.

If you have backache, KIDNEY, BLADDER TROUBLE or RHEUMATISM, dizziness, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, nervousness, tired and worn out feeling, if the urine is light and pale, dark colored or cloudy, if you make water often, getting up during the night, if it smarts and burns in passing, if there is sediment or brick dust when it stands, YOU NEED MY TREATMENT WITHOUT A MINUTE'S DELAY.

I want you to have my regular FULL COMPLETE TREATMENT. My new scientific course, of the best remedies in the world for such diseases. Harmless, soothing, healing, penetrating remedies, that REACH THE SPOT, DRIVES AWAY URIC ACID, CLEANSES, PURIFIES, STRENGTHENS, INVIGORATES, AND ENCOURAGES THE KIDNEYS TO PROPERLY FILTER THE BLOOD. THAT STOPS THE PAIN, GIVES STRENGTH TO THE NERVES, NEW LIFE AND AMBITION TO THE MIND AND BODY, AND DOES IT QUICKLY, QUIETLY, WITHOUT LOSS OF TIME.

STOPS BACKACHE

MY UNEQUALLED OFFER

Now here is my offer—I will send you A REGULAR, FULL, COMPLETE, THREE-FOLD LEXOID IN ADVANCE—CHARGES PAID—READY TO USE COURSE OF TREATMENT, WITHOUT A PENNY—FREE TO TRY. I don't mean a SAMPLE, or a TRIAL, or a TEST, such as others call PROOF TREATMENTS. I MEAN A REGULAR, FULL, COMPLETE, COURSE OF REMEDIES—SO YOU CAN START YOUR CURE AT ONCE.

Take it when it comes. Use half of it, AND SEE JUST WHAT IT DOES. Then when you know it has helped you, WHEN YOU KNOW YOU ARE GETTING BETTER, just send me a small amount, an amount within your easy reach—an amount you can easily afford to spare—that is all I ask. I know you'll be willing to do your part and send me some money. WHEN IT HELPS YOU—AND YOUR WORD IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR ME. It will help you quickly. But you are to pay nothing UNTIL IT DOES. Use it first, pay afterward when you know. NOT BEFORE. When you have used half of it, if you are not satisfied, return what's left, AND PAY NOTHING. IT DON'T COST YOU A PENNY TO TRY MY TREATMENT—I will send it to you charges paid. TAKE IT, TRY IT FREE, AND FIND OUT.

I am the only one to-day making this offer, sending a full treatment, for such diseases, FREE TO TRY. I could not afford to do it, if I was not sure it would help you—if I did not know it would cure—if I wasn't sure. That's why I can afford to send it first—BUT YOU ARE THE ONE TO DECIDE, you are the one to be the judge. It must help you, it must satisfy you—BEFORE YOU SEND A PENNY. And you are the one to say. I WILL TAKE YOUR WORD. It's all left right with you yourself. What you say goes. That's all I care for. I don't want a penny until it helps you. I would not take a cent that I am not entitled to. I believe in giving every one a square deal—in being honest—it's my religion—I want to do what's right—that's why I am making you the BROADEST, MOST STRAIGHTFORWARD, FAIREST, MOST LIBERAL ONE-SIDED OFFER EVER MADE. When I have confidence enough in my treatment to send it to you this way, I know you'll BE WILLING TO TRY IT FREE. Don't send a penny in your letter. NOT EVEN A POSTAGE STAMP. Just your name and address and where to send the treatment. Address your letter to me personally, like this: DR. H. MICHELL DeWERTH, 165 Lexoid Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

DON'T SEND ANY MONEY—JUST SEND THIS COUPON.

Doctor H. Michell DeWerth,
165 Lexoid Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

Please send me your regular, full, complete three-fold Lexoid Course of Treatment as you promise above, all charges paid Free to try. Also your Free book about Uric Acid, Kidney, Bladder Trouble and Rheumatism.

THERE ARE MANY REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD USE THE ONLY ELECTRICALLY WELDED FENCE MADE.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

FOR FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN and POULTRY PURPOSES

Scientifically constructed and unlike any other; no wraps, clamps, ties or twists. All wires electrically welded makes our fence as strong at the joint as at any other point, which adds years of life to the fence and it makes it superior to any other. Stay same gauge as intermediate line wires, the point that counts for lasting strength and service.

Made of OPEN HEARTH WIRE, near like old time iron wire, conceded far superior to Bessemer Steel, and galvanized by our own improved process.

Do not accept any other fence, nails, wire or barb wire. Call for and insist upon being supplied with "PITTSBURGH PERFECT" brands.

Vitality is Youth and Power

Vitality is the thing which makes success; it gives men that compelling power which sends them forth eager and equipped to meet and overcome all obstacles; it is the thing which gives the young soldier courage to face death; it is the thing which inspires and holds his sweetheart's love and faith. No matter what your age, I can give you this same vital power. I can restore the vigor you lost, no matter what early or later indiscretion may have sapped your strength I can make you "young" and keep you "young." From an intimate and studious observation of possibly 100,000 weakened men I say to you that VITALITY or the lack of it means all the difference between a manly man and a half man. The man who bubbles with vital power will exert a pleasing influence upon all with whom he comes in contact; women are naturally attracted to him, as are men. Lack of vitality is a negative condition, and it even repels. You wear my HEALTH BELT all night; it sends a great, glowing, health-giving current of electro-vitality into your nerves, blood and organs; it takes all the "kink" out of your back and all the coward out of your makeup; it puts you right up in the "feeling fine" class and keeps you there. No stimulation, no false results; just a sure return to manhood and courage. Recommended also for rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, stomach and bladder disorders. It makes you feel young and keeps you feeling young forever.

Let Me Send You This Book FREE

It fully describes my Health Belt, and contains much valuable information. One part deals with various ailments common to both men and women, such as rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, &c. The other part is a private treatise for men only. Both sent upon application, free, sealed, by mail.

If in or near the city, take the time to drop in at my office, that you may see, examine and try the Belt. No charge for professional advice, either at my office or by mail. If you cannot call, write and get the free book by return mail. It is better than a fortune for any one needing new vigor. Office hours, 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

AMERICAN FENCE

To get the most out of a farm, every square foot must be either tilled or else made to produce feed for live stock. A fence all around the farm, then cross fences, making more and smaller fields—permitting rotation of crops and change of pasture—are first essentials in making possible maximum earnings.

Here are two great fences—the best square mesh and the best diamond mesh. We selected these two styles years ago, after careful study and advice from many of the most experienced and successful farmers, the correctness of which has been verified by actual results in the field. These fences are the simplest in construction; are made of any size or weight of wire desired, and perfectly adapted to all uses and conditions.

If you want square mesh, buy American; if you like diamond, buy Ellwood. You can safely take the verdict of the millions of farmers who have tested and tried out these two great fences. Dealers everywhere, carrying styles adapted to every purpose. See them. Catalogue for the asking.
